Revised Standing of Political Parties

RAINS IN SOUTH CAUSE MORE FLOODS: DAMAGE TO RAILWAY

Liberals Lack One Member of Securing a Majority in The House of Commons

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—The Canadian Press summary of the standing of the parties in the Dominion election on the basis of dispatches received this morning show Liberals 117, Progressives 65, Conservatives 54, Labor 2.

Port Arthur, which was previously reported doubtful, has a Progressive, and the Yukon seat is given as Conservative. The Sound has been shifted from the Liberal to the Conservative column.

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—The resignation of the Meighen cabinet expected within the next week. Many members of the defeated government are arriving here for a cabinet meeting today.

Unless the Yukon returns a Liberal, Mackenzie King, the member-elect, will not have an absolute majority in the next House of Commons, the total Liberal seats being only 117, leaving 116 when the speaker is elected. The combined opposition numbers 118, or a minority for one for the government. If the Yukon returns a Liberal both sides will be equal after the election of the speaker. It is improbable, however, that the House will ever be divided. The situation is being keenly watched here.

Back country polls coming in, it is expected, will result in the Sound riding, which had been conceded to the Liberals, going to Colonel James Arthurs by a majority of 60. This leaves the Liberals with 117.

Patriotism and Internationalism.

Those who have attended public meetings have noticed that there are always a few men and sometimes women who refused to stand while the national anthem is being sung and who look on it rather as an insult to them that such an anthem should be sung. They are honest and sincere men, so sincere that they are willing to fly in the face of the opinion of the community in refusing to do that in which they do not believe. These men are loyal to their beliefs, often much more loyal than many of the rest of us who conform to general usage.

Looking back to the early ages of history we find that the governing group consisted of the family. The head of the family was the head of the group and loyalty consisted of political and moral support of the family group.

Later on the country was divided into small nations. Biblical history tells of the numerous nations in what is now Palestine. The whole country was small, yet it contained many nations. Members of each nation were patriots who supported that nation, and more particularly who fought for it in defence against enemies or in attacks on their neighbors. The patriot was not only a supporter of the family group but also of the national group. In that way the meaning of the word patriotism had changed. It had two meanings.

After a time nations were united into empires, and again the meaning of the word patriotism was enlarged. It now had a threefold meaning. A person was patriotic to his family, to his nation and to his empire. He was willing to defend either against the rest of the world.

Now we find internationalism growing up and men of a class in one nation uniting with men of the same class in another country for the defense of that class against the rest of the people of those countries. In fact it has almost reached a point where men of the working class are ready to unite with what is known as the working class of every country against the rest of mankind. It is possible that with most of the members of the working class the coolies of the Orient are excepted. The intelligent workingmen of Canada hardly care to associate on terms of equality with the coolies of China and other Oriental countries, who are almost as ignorant as the beasts of the field. On the whole, however, there is springing up spirit of internationalism that is gradually spreading. It has been encouraged by the internationalism of the labor unions and by the internationalism of capitalists, so that the walls of nationalism are to some extent breaking down and are being replaced by a broad internationalism.

Patriotism Is Still Needed.

Patriotism is needed just as much as it ever was. Because a man is patriotic to a country or a province is no reason why he should not also be patriotic to a family. Because he is patriotic to the British Empire is no reason why he should not be patriotic to Canada. To carry the reasoning one step farther, there is no reason why a man who believes in internationalism should not also be patriotic to the British Empire. The best patriots are those who today are keenest in support of a broad internationalism. It is only the petty politicians who would divide nations and set up barriers between them that make for permanent separation.

Need for New National Anthem.

Many people who are intensely patriotic and proud of being a member of the British Empire do not care about singing "God Save the King." They believe in the Empire but they do not care much about a monarchy, and while they have no particular objection to a monarchy as at present constituted, they believe in the reign of the sovereign people. To such people the anthem "My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty" appeals much more than the one the British people sing. It is only because we are, as a people, very conservative that we cling to the old national anthem.

A person who objects to singing the national anthem is not necessarily unpatriotic. He may have unbounded faith in the British Empire and yet feel that the national anthem is petty and out of date. By common consent one verse has been eliminated, that one in which occur the words "Frustrate their knavish tricks, confound their policies." Soon we shall also eliminate the two remaining verses and substitute for them new words more in keeping with the spirit of the times.

While many refuse to sing the national anthem because they do not like the sentiment expressed in it, there are many more who sing it simply because it is the only way they have of expressing pride in their country and in the great commonwealth of nations of which this country is a part.

The Canadian anthem "O Canada" is much more appropriate than the British anthem, but it is restricted in its sentiment, and there is no song which has yet been written which conveys the feeling of the multitude toward the whole commonwealth.

Three Anthems Instead of One.

Possibly as time goes on we shall need a new "Marseillaise" that will express the international feeling of all nations towards each other, and the joy of the individual in feeling himself a member of a world league, not of a class but of the human family. As the movement toward internationalism grows, the suitable anthem will come from the heart of the movement and we shall be able to rise and sing three anthems, one showing our pride in our country, one of our commonwealth, and the other indicating our pride in the new internationalism which is to be in time all-embracing. The armaments conference is the first great step toward formal internationalism, although the feeling has been gradually growing among the working class of the world and among the extreme capitalistic class. The middle class is the conservative class in this regard. It would tie itself down to the old nationalism, refusing to become a part of the great world of people, each nation with its rights and privileges and also with its obligations to the rest of the world.

WINNIPEG POLICE HAD VERY BUSY TIME

SEVERAL GANGS OF CROOKS BROKEN UP AND STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—Something of the violent epidemic of crime in Winnipeg in November is reflected in the monthly report of the police court, issued by Chief Constable Chris. Newton.

In November there were 18 prosecutions for housebreaking and theft, 47 for theft, five for shopbreaking and theft, four for robbery, four for recovering stolen goods, two for burglary, one for attempted robbery, one for attempted murder, and one for arson.

The prosecutions for major offenses largely originated from the activities of police in cleaning up several gangs which operated extensively and stole goods running into many thousands.

TREED BY WOLVES MORE SETTLERS ALASKAN WOODS FOR AUSTRALIA

Lost Hunter Did Not Like Sound of Snarling Close to Camp Fire.

PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—Treed by hundreds of wolves and forced to spend the night in the top of the tree in almost zero weather after having been lost for two days, was the experience of Magnus Johansen of Petersburg. He was rescued by searching party at the head of Duncan Canal. Johansen and Johnny Grafstad went hunting in Portage Bay and became separated. Grafstad returned to the boat late in the afternoon and waited for his partner. At dark he started in the woods and searched until midnight, and not finding any trace of the missing man and the weather being very cold he came to town and gave the alarm.

Searching parties were organized at once and left for the scene, two boat loads going to the head of Duncan Canal. The latter party found Johansen on the beach at the head of the canal and brought him to town none the worse for his experience.

Johansen says that he became confused and finding a cabin in the woods spent the first night there. The next day he continued on his way and nearly reached the beach at Duncan, but being overcome by darkness, built a fire against a tree. When the moon came up he continued his trip, but after going a short ways, heard the wolves and returned to the fire, but they kept sneaking in closer and closer, until fearing for his safety, Johansen took to a tree. He says that he could hear what seemed like hundreds of the animals in the brush under the tree snarling and fighting all night. With the coming of daylight they disappeared and he was able to make his way to the beach where he was found.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN NIGHTMARE SCENE

Has to Walk Through New England Village in Wet Bathing Togs.

PERSONS BUILDING MUST LIVE UP TO BUILDING BYLAWS

Constance Talmadge has a perfect horror of nightmares and consequently is very careful about eating such detectable and sleep-destroying things as Welsh rabbit before going to bed, but nevertheless she thought it was a great joke when she was called upon to enact a scene from one of her most dreaded dreams, that of finding herself walking around town not completely dressed.

In this instance she had to depict the mental plight of a young girl who, wringing wet in her bathing suit, cringed from pillar to post in a stern New England countryside as the result of being deserted by a yachting party while in swimming in Long Island Sound. How she obtained more conventional attire and the scene that awaited her return to New York furnishes a chain of engaging humor that hasn't a weak link throughout Constance Talmadge's latest attraction, "Good Rerences," which will be shown at the Westholme Theatre tonight.

Husband, gently—"My dear, a man was shot by a burglar, and his life was saved by a button which the bullet struck."

Wife—"Well, what of it?" Husband, meekly—"Nothing. Only the button must have been broken."

Father—"I seriously doubt that young man's capacity to support a household."

Daughter—"Oh, papa! How can you talk so about him? Why he doesn't doubt yours!"

In Order to Secure White Country Sir Joseph Carruthers Would Populate It.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—By Canadian Press)—Aiming at a population of 20,000,000 people through the construction of 2000 miles of railway and the opening up of 50,000,000 acres of land to provide for 100,000 farmers in Australia, Sir Joseph Carruthers, of Sydney, has prepared a policy or plan which has been submitted in detail to the Australian people for their approval or otherwise. He has contributed to the London Times an outline thereof. In his appeal for "A White Australia" Sir Joseph points out that the Commonwealth, with only 5,500,000 population, has an area equal to that of the United States, and "quite as rich and fertile," though the United States' population is 105,000,000. Sir Joseph Carruthers is an ex-Premier of New South Wales and a life member of its Legislative Council.

"We are very unsafe with so vast a territory and with so few people," Sir Joseph states in his letter to the Times, and adds: "We know that fact too well, although we hesitate to talk openly of it." That there is a feeling against indiscriminate immigration, and that "the workingman is against any policy that does not provide for the absorption of the immigrants' labor without imperiling existing conditions," is referred to; also the statement is made that these views are not confined to one political party, but are more or less shared by all. "The main thing, however," Sir Joseph says, "is that deep down in the hearts of Australians exists the desire that their country may be made safer and happier by having more and more men of the Anglo-Saxon race to work for it, and if needs be, fight for it. With that there is an intense love of what the British Empire stands for, and an abiding desire for a continuance of its supremacy. The lessons of the war have proved this fact up to the hilt."

INDIAN HANGED IN FAR NORTH

Executioner Wakelen Returned to Edmonton After Carrying Out Law.

EDMONTON, Dec. 10.—J. J. Wakelen, government executioner, has returned to the city over the Great Waterways, and reports that the execution of the Indian murderer, Le Beau, was duly carried out without trouble of any kind. The executioner left for the north by the fast gas boat of the season—the NICHENAM of the H. B. G. Regt., and duly arrived at Fitzgerald, where the prisoner was held in the R. C. M. P. cell by the frontier police force. The executioner left for Fort Smith, where the Indian was sentenced to be hanged, on October 17, being followed two days later by the prisoner. Both at Fitzgerald and Smith the prisoner kept his nerve and appeared to be "jolly enough," says Wakelen, this attitude being maintained until the end.

The arrangements made by the R. C. M. P. were perfect, says the executioner, and prior to his death the prisoner was very well looked after. The execution took place in the Mounted Police premises at Fort Smith, a special scaffold being erected in one of the buildings attached to the police post.

Everything Quiet.

Contrary to reports which had reached the "outside," there was no feeling in the north against the execution; the prisoner's Indian friends were allowed to visit him, and when the end came he was ministered to by a priest of his own faith. Le Beau kept his nerve to the last, says the executioner. He appeared to take things as a matter of course, and when the trap was sprung death was instantaneous.

Inspector Fletcher of the Mounted Police, as sheriff of the Northwest Territories, was in charge of the execution, four constables of the force being on duty also. After the carrying out of the sentence, the executioner left for the south on the following Saturday, the execution taking place on November 4, and from Fort Smith he travelled to Waterways by dog team. He was accompanied by Constable Macdonald of the police, an additional dog team for the baggage being hired from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Aged Executioner.

Mr. Wakelen is a man well over 50 years of age, grey-haired, and bearded. He is of the opinion that he is an important servant of the public and is by no means ashamed of his calling.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

The funeral of the late Mrs. E. Tingley will take place tomorrow, Tuesday, December 13, at 2:30 p.m. from the chapel of the B. C. Undertakers, Rev. Canon Rix, officiating.

WEDDING ON SATURDAY AT VALHALLA LODGE WITH MEMBERS PRESENT

Miss Laura Olsen Becomes Bride of Lars Larson, Rev. Dr. Grant Officiating.

The wedding of Miss Laura Olsen of Bergen, Norway, who has been in the city a short time, to Lars Larson of McBride Street on Saturday evening was the occasion of a big celebration of the members of Valhalla Lodge of whom the bridegroom was a member.

Rev. Dr. Grant performed the ceremony in the Metropole Hall in the presence of the members of the society and other friends of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Hallberg acted as best man and bridesmaid respectively while John Dyblagon gave the bride away, and presided at the supper table at the banquet which followed the ceremony.

Dr. Grant proposed the toast of the bride and spoke appropriately of her service in the Presbyterian church choir. Several others made speeches of a congratulatory nature, the speakers including John Dyblagon, A. Akerberg, and several members of the lodge, to which Mr. Larson replied on behalf of himself and the bride.

Following the supper there was a dance and at one o'clock formal presentation took place of a silver tea set and a fine set of glassware.

There were more speeches and Mrs. Larson sang several songs, accompanied by Mrs. Jack Anderson. Dancing was then resumed and was kept up until three o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson are living at Mr. Larson's residence on McBride Street.

Patient: "Doctor, how can I ever repay you for your kindness to me?"

Doctor: "By cheque, money-order, or cash."

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

JOIN EUROPE WITH AFRICA

Proposal to Tunnel beneath Straits of Gibraltar for London-Cape Town Railway.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(By Canadian Press)—To be able to travel or to send goods from London to Capetown, South Africa, without changing conveyances at any stage of the journey—to do this by means of a tunnel under the sea which would link up Europe with Africa at the Straits of Gibraltar—may strike the imagination as a conception impossible of realization, yet the construction of such a tunnel is an old project and regarded as practicable. In conjunction with a tunnel under the English Channel, which engineers regard as a trivial undertaking in comparison with the Gibraltar tunnel, the latter would make it possible for the Cape town passenger to go through in the car in which he started.

"The conception is audacious, but it is technically sound," writes a Paris correspondent of The Observer. The Gibraltar tunnel, he says, at its lowest level would be 1,254 feet below the surface of the sea, a much greater depth than would be required for the English Channel tunnel.

The shortest crossing which is possible at the Straits, having regard to the character of the sea bottom, is about twenty-four miles, but this is not the narrowest part of the Straits.

Single Line.

A tube of about six yards in diameter is proposed. There would be a single line with three stations at which the line would be doubled to permit the passage of trains in opposite directions. The entrance of the tunnel on the Spanish side should be ten or twelve yards above sea level, but it would be necessary to make the opening on the Moroccan side only seven yards above sea level. The slope is estimated at one in forty at the maximum. Some of the difficulties of the task will be understood when it is stated that the weight of the water on the tunnel would be tremendous, and the matter of ventilation would be a big problem. However, it is said the ventilation question has been solved. It is estimated that the temperature would be about 80 degrees Fahrenheit at the lowest level.

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs. Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts,

Loverne, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, filled 25 pounds in weight, became very nervous and shabby and in fact gave up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until it was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being assisted by Dr. Chase's Medicines and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and did not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."
