Roof of Stone Fell on Him
Breaking Neck and Crushing
Him Badly—Inquest.

Alec L. Fisher, aged 34, a barman's helper at the Belmont Mine, Surf Inlet, was killed last Friday in an accident in the mine. The remains were brought to the city last night and Coroner J. H. It appears from the report made to the Department of Mines that the deceased, accompanied by another miner, David J. O'Dell, had been going through a stope on the 200 foot level when Fisher noticed a small piece in the roof of the tunnel which he said would have to come down. He commenced to tap at it when O'Dell heard a crash and looking back saw the roof fall on his partner. His neck was broken and badly crushed.

Fisher was unmarried and was a native of Nova Scotia. The funeral arrangements are in the hands of the B. G. Undertakers.

Malabar Riots

May Not Be Important.

Too much importance must not be attached to the reports of rioting and possible rebellion at Malabar. In a country of 319,000,000 inhabitants a district or even a province is of little importance relatively. With a very superstitious people, most of whom are absolutely ignorant, it should be easy to arouse them and instill prejudices in their minds. That is what is often done by people who would use the villagers for their own ends or who have some spite against the British. With an enormous population like there is in that country, and with all the peculiarities of racial and religious differences, it is marvellous the way the country has been governed. It reflects great credit on the British Indian civil and military service that with so few troops they have been able to carry on the government without any serious troubles. Especially is that true during the late war, when the Mohammedans were restless because of the war against Turkey, and when German and Bolshevik influences were at work trying to turn the people against the British.

In thinking of the population of India it might be noted that if the population of Canada were added to it the increase of population would hardly be noticed, and if the same number were taken away there would still be 310,000,000 left.

Spain's Trouble
With the Moors.

Both in England and the United States men have been enlisting to fight in the foreign legions of Spain against the Moors in Morocco. On the Barbary Coast piracy has been common for many years and Europeans have been captured and sold into slavery or held for ransom. It has been the scene of intermittent fighting for centuries. Away back in the time of the Gunpowder Plot English people aided the Spaniards in their wars against the Moors. At one time the people from that country invaded Spain and captured part of it. The Sultan, Mulai el-Medhi, is supposed to have complete and absolute control of the country, but the control is only nominal, and the result is that strong chieftains with rabble hordes often invade outposts and murder the Europeans, most of whom are Spaniards.

Three Races
Inhabit Country.

Three races inhabit Morocco, the original Berbers, or mountaineers, who conquered Spain on three different occasions; the mixed race of Arabs and Berbers known as Moors, both of which races are generally Mohammedans; and the colonies of Jews which inhabit the coast cities and control the majority of the country's commerce.

The Spanish zone, where the fighting is now in progress, is a narrow strip of land along the northwestern coast fronting on the Mediterranean Sea. It is about 200 miles long, east and west, with an average breadth, north and south, of about 60 miles, and extends from Algeria, under control of the French, to the Atlantic Ocean on the west. It does not, however, include the extreme northwestern tip of land on which is located the city of Tangier. The French nominally control the territory further south. Spanish troops have fought the Moors for centuries, but it was only in 1912 that the northern littoral of Morocco was assigned to Spain under the terms of the Franco-Spanish treaty signed in that year. Since then Spain has been engaged at intervals in sporadic attempts to maintain her authority, with varying success and failure.

Both the French and Spanish governments decided in January, 1920, to make military demonstrations in their respective zones for the purpose of preparing the way to more orderly government. The French zone was soon pacified. The Spanish territory, which is administered by General Damaso Berenguer as high commissioner, was not so submissive. Spanish troops at first made their base on the Atlantic coast of Morocco at El-Arish, also known as Larache. From there they penetrated well into the interior and captured a number of Moorish strongholds, including the so-called secret city of Sheshawan. For some time little activity has been reported in that western district of Morocco.

The Spaniards, however, sent another expedition under the command of General Silvestre, who established a base at Melilla, midway on a promontory which extends from the eastern end of the Spanish zone forthward into the Mediterranean. From that point General Silvestre's troops attempted to penetrate southward into the interior. Early successes were reported, but last spring the Spaniards encountered strong native troops estimated to number 20,000, and said to be well armed and equipped with artillery.

Spanish Reverses
Began With Mutiny.

The recent reverses of the Spanish forces had their beginning early in June, when six companies of auxiliary or native troops mutinied, killed their Spanish officers and then joined the rebels. Since then the Spaniards have suffered several other disasters and have been thrown back upon Melilla. General Silvestre was either killed or committed suicide while endeavoring to maintain one of his outposts. The Moors in that section are headed by Abd-el-Krim, who is about 35 years old, was educated in France and Spain, and is an accomplished linguist. His aim is said to be the civilization of Morocco in accordance with European ideals, but without losing the essentials of Moorish culture. He was once a judge of a native court in Melilla and loyal to Spain. During the world war he became actively pro-German, and Spain, acting on the protest of France, interned him, but he escaped and was said to have sworn vengeance upon the Spaniards and particularly upon General Silvestre.

Quotes Anatole France.

"Anatole France, one of the wisest men alive, has said that two things were necessary to render women the terrible force they are today; civilization, which gave them draperies, and religion, which gave men scruples. Well in this picture the woman surrenders the protection of the first and Anatole France says, further that with the departure of the draperies go the scruples of men."

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McMan

JUDGMENT DAY ALREADY HERE

I. S. B. A. Pastor Declared Kingdom of God Commenced in 1914.

"The Judgment Day has come and began in 1914 when the Gentile dominion came to an end," declared W. A. Thrushley, of Toronto, International Bible Students' pastor in the Empress Theatre last night before a large gathering which nearly filled the hall. "Kings are tottering and the politicians, financiers and the clergy who have supported selfishness, graft and big business will disappear. Conditions are being burnt up in the fire of God's jealousy and the nations are tottering, for His time has come. He is not destroying the people but they are unconsciously undergoing trial. Death will gradually cease and paradise will gradually be restored until the earth will be filled with happy and perfect people and every family will be reunited."

The pastor, who spoke for nearly two hours, had innumerable scriptural authorities on which he based his various declarations and reasonings. He spoke in clear, fluent voice and many of his theories seemed quite convincing. L. Dutton was the chairman.

Three Periods.

Pastor Thrushley declared the earth would never come to an end but the present world, the present arrangement of things, would. There were three periods in the world's history. First the time before the flood, second the time since and third the last period which would be without end. The first 1000 years of this period would be the time in which all would be restored to righteousness. After this the devil would be destroyed and there would be no more tears and no more deaths. God had been the king of the first period and the Devil of the second but Jesus would be king in the third. The government of the kingdom of God would be the church and the people would be those who receive everlasting life through resurrection.

The teaching that the worthy would be changed in a moment into angels and the remaining millions of souls would be forever tormented and destroyed was not honorable to God. Those who were not chosen would be given the opportunity to seek after the Lord instead.

Life and Dominion.

Adam, in the beginning, had sinned and had lost the perfection of life and dominion for himself and all people. Jesus, the second Adam, had come, had kept the law and had given his flesh for the life of the world so that the people might regain perfection of life and dominion.

Men now were not condemned and not a single soul had been sentenced to heaven or to hell nor would they be until the Judgment Day. The living, so far, had been like a prisoner under arrest hemmed into a prison of three score and ten years. They were dressed in the garb of death, sorrow, sickness and disease. In the Second Coming and in the Judgment Day, which had already commenced, the angels would do the judging and Jesus would pass the sentence. Men would either gain everlasting life through believing or would lose it and die through not doing so.

Max Lepovatz arrived from Stewart on the Prince George last night.

INDIAN CASE BURNS LAKE

Death of Alex. Michel Being Investigated by Mounted Police.

BURNS LAKE, Aug. 29.—Following the death of a well known Burns Lake Indian trapper named Alec Michel some months ago, a rumor is gaining ground among some of the local Indians that Michel's death was not due to natural causes, and it is likely that the R.N.W.M.P. will re-open the investigation in connection with the circumstances attending his death, at the time of which the band of hunters to which he belonged were camped south of Francois Lake.

In the party was one Patrick Michel, son of the deceased, locally known as Cultus Pat, who has figured prominently in the criminal annals of the central interior and who is said to be mixed up with this case.

Cultus Pat is at present incarcerated in the Fort George jail on a minor charge, the conviction having been secured by Constable Carr of the Provincial Police.

ALASKANS COME HERE TO CATCH BOAT FOR SOUTH

Unable to Book First Class Passages on Steamers Sailing From Alaska Cities.

The Princess Royal brought a number of Alaskans to the city on Saturday afternoon who have been unable to make bookings south on any of the steamers calling at the various ports on account of the rush of travel which the present steamship services seem unable to handle. Many of these are coming south as far as Prince Rupert making shift with the short accommodations. Here they transfer to other southbound steamers and continue their journeys to Seattle and other destinations stopping over a day here between steamers.

Among those who were here over the past week-end and stopped at the Hotel Prince Rupert were H. M. Ellingson, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Gillis, C. Goldstein, Mrs. M. E. Allen, William E. Conradi, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Anderson, Mrs. T. J. Penell, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jones and family, Adam Wilson and W. G. Trenell, Ketchikan, Patrick Strong, Juneau, and Mrs. Couture, Skagway. Most of them went south on the Prince George last night.

The first consignment of salmon to pass over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway arrived yesterday morning from Inverness and was transferred to the Prince George for shipment south. There were 200 cases handled.

Mrs. David Stephens and her son, David, are dead and Mrs. Star is not expected to live as a result of ptomaine poisoning following the eating of canned salmon eggs at Port Essington.

THERMOMETERS DROP CLOSE TO FREEZING POINT

EDMONTON, Aug. 29.—The nearest approach to frost in the city this season was between the hours of one and two o'clock Friday morning, when, according to the official registration of temperature at the meteorological station, the glass stood at 37 above zero. The ground temperatures was a little lower than that and stood two degrees above the freezing point or at 34 above zero. While it has been reported that frost was observed on the sidewalks at a very early hour in the morning, it has not been learned that frost actually touched any of the garden stuff anywhere in the city.

SWIMMING GALA AT LAKE PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS

Excellent Swimming and Diving Witnessed by Large Crowd; War Veterans' Band Music Much Enjoyed

The swimming gala yesterday at the Salt Lake was a great success. In spite of the somewhat threatening appearance of the day, hundreds of people crossed the harbor in private launches and the launches Twenty-three, Pachena, Narbethong, Dixie Rupert and Oh Baby gave an excellent service, getting the people to and from the lake in good time and without any lengthy delays.

On the other side of the harbor the weather was much warmer than on this side, and the water was comfortably warm, so that the swimmers were able to take part in several entries without feeling any bad effects.

The uncertain appearance of the weather deflated a great many people at home but the executive committee of the swimming club are very pleased at the result.

Everything went off without a hitch. The spectators were all kept off the floats and everyone had a chance to see what was going on. The little folks bathing in the shallow water caused much amusement as the competitors.

LIFE CONVICT WOUNDED GUARDS

Bear Cat Fight Follows Discovery of Man Who Escaped From Alberta Asylum.

EDMONTON, Aug. 29.—Living up to the letter of his past reputation as one of the most dangerous criminals in the annals of local police records, John Gundard Larsen, escaped life-term convict, took from his pocket a pair of ordinary scissors and made deep wounds in a couple of Ponoka Asylum guardians who took a part in Larsen's rearrest near Morningside. A bad wound in the face and shoulder was suffered by one of the wardens, while the scissors were buried deep in the shoulder and side of the other.

Made Daring Escape.

It is said that Larsen effected his temporary escape from the asylum by knotting a number of bed sheets and by the aid of these lowering himself from the window. He was a patient in the asylum hospital at the time.

His rearrest followed a close search of the countryside for the whole day, in which asylum wardens and posses of Alberta provincial police took part. Every nook and cranny came under close observation, but it was not until about 7 o'clock in the evening that the slightest clue was afforded as to the escaped man's whereabouts.

Caught in Wheat Field.

From the report reaching the city, the asylum guard, six in number, while searching the Morningside territory in a Ford car, came within near distance of the railway tracks and had a blow-out of one of the tires. While this was being repaired, it is said, a man was noticed on the tracks, and a chase immediately followed. The fugitive beat his way into a wheat field, where he was finally taken into custody by the guards.

His arrest, however, was not completed until Larsen had carried out what one guard described as a "bear cat" fight, in which two of the guards suffered the scissor wounds.

Planned Use Bloodhound.

It was the intention of the Alberta provincial police to use the services of a bloodhound in the chase. The animal, however, with Corporal Kirby of Edmonton in charge, and other local constables, arrived at the scene shortly after the recapture had been made. The weather and territory were particularly favorable for dog-work, and police officials expressed the opinion that had Larsen not been rearrested when he was it would have been a simple thing for the bloodhound to have picked up his trail.
