LABOR WAS DISCUSSED

Rev. W. D. Grant Hollingworth Has Timely Subject at Evening Service

Preaching Sunday evening to a large congregation, Rev. W. D. Grant Hollingworth of First Presbyterian Church spoke on the subject of "Jesus and the Labor Problem."

Tracing the progress of the church through the years, Mr. Hollingworth stated that the greatest reproach of the church lay in the fact that, at times, the church was never really quite convinced that Jesus was practical. Especially was this true regarding the meaning and purpose of life. The highest life was supposed to be one of separation from the world. Manual labor was only tolerated as an unfortunate necessity. This had led in the field of industry to many an unchristian situation. To such an extent has this developed that it could be said that, when the Kingdom of God came on earth, it would bear very little resemblance to the present industrial and financial system.

The wage earner today, with a life of dull mechanical routine, was a mere convenience in the world of industry. This was doubtless the reason why, in all parts of the world, labor had risen in revolt.

Though their demands and methods had at times been unreasonable and illogical, what really was happening was that men were in revolt against a system which denied them a full human life. Industry was sadly in need of redemption. Class rule, however, was not the solution. Even the rule of labor would be no guarantee of progress.

Justice did not consist in securing benefits for any one section of society at the expense of another. Until every class realized that the common good was the true aim and that the happiness of the whole depended on the happiness of all the parts, there would be no progress.

The church would never enter into economic details. It was the moral and spiritual angle which was first. To what extent did the social order help or prevent the individual becoming perfect as the father in heaven was perfect? The great need is common vision. Jesus gave to the world a new value to human life and a new conception of God. Any endeavor to work out the problems of society apart from a vital religion was as futile as trying to make bricks without straw.

Premier Bennett Explains Why He Cannot Meet Wishes of Some of the Provinces Regarding Unemployment

CALGARY, Sept. 6.—The Dominion Government has treated unemployment as a national emergency but it cannot change the constitution of the country to meet the demands for unemployment relief outlined in resolutions presented by certain provinces, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett told representatives of the western provinces and cities today.

PAUL BERN IS SUICIDE

Husband of Screen Actress Takes Own Life Under Dramatic Circumstances

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—With a bullet wound in his head and a 32-calibre pistol clutched tightly in his hand, the body of Paul Bern, moving picture official, who was married to Jean Harlow, blonde screen star, on July 2 last, was found in his home here yesterday. Bern had removed all his clothes before committing suicide and his body was found lying in front of a mirror. In addition to the pistol in his hand, another loaded revolver was found nearby.

Bern's valet, Carmichael, insisted that Bern and Miss Harlow had quarreled violently at the week-end and that Miss Harlow had left the house on Sunday night.

Miss Harlow, in a statement last night, denied that she had quarreled with Bern and declared that she left the house on Saturday night in order to stay with her mother while her stepfather went on a fishing trip.

It was stated by friends of Bern that he had frequently talked of committing suicide. It was better that he should be dead than leading a useless existence, he had said.

While the coroner intimated that he was satisfied that Bern's death was a case of suicide, he stated that an inquest would be held unless certain existing discrepancies were cleared up.

Neglect Suggested As Cause of Death

That baby Astor came to her death at or about 11:45 p.m. Thursday, September 1, at the Bayview Hotel from natural causes, possibly malnutrition superinduced by neglect on the part of the foster mother, Lizzie Moody, was the verdict of the coroner's jury which investigated the case today.

The remains of Mr. and Mrs. George Naysmith and William Mowatt of Premier, who lost their lives in an automobile fatality on the Stewart-Hyder road early last Sunday morning, were sent from here by the B. C. Undertakers this afternoon aboard the steamer Catala to Vancouver where interment will take place. Relatives of the deceased, who came north following the tragedy, were also going south aboard the same vessel.

Damage to building and contents which may amount to nearly $500 was done at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by fire which broke out at the house at 140 Eighth Avenue East owned by H. Rivett and occupied by Ernest Allistone.

The fire, it is believed, started from hot ashes and cinders. By the time the blaze was noticed and the fire department called, the flames had taken quite a hold. Before they could be extinguished, the back porch, kitchen and a rear bedroom had been quite badly damaged. Contents of the kitchen and bedroom were partially destroyed.

There had been no one in the house since noon.

It is understood that there was insurance neither on the house or contents.

VISITOR IS OPTIMISTIC

L. F. Champion, Field Secretary of B. C. Products Bureau, Sees Improvement Coming

L. F. Champion, field secretary of the B. C. Products bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade, arrived in the city on the Catala Sunday night, and will spend a few days in the city trying to interest local people in the idea of loyalty to local industries.

Discussing the matter this morning, Mr. Champion said the idea was to remind people of the value of buying at home rather than of sending away for their goods. By doing so payrolls were kept going in the province and further development would take place.

Speaking of the business condition in Canada, Mr. Champion said there was already a much more optimistic feeling than had prevailed formerly and he felt confident that early in the new year there would be a general improvement in business.

Mr. Champion is, while in the city, addressing a number of gatherings, including the Gyro Club, Rotary Club and a gathering of women under arrangement with the I. O. D. E.

OUTSTANDING TODAY

T. D. Pattullo, leader of the Liberal party in British Columbia, is being much discussed especially by the Province newspaper in Vancouver. He has been abused, ridiculed, flouted and seriously criticized but he remains firm that the Tolmie Government must stand or fall on its record and that there is nothing in this record to justify him or the people of British Columbia continuing the present group in office.

It is now suggested that he might become Premier of a coalition. The Province says:

"If Mr. Pattullo, upon genuinely negotiating with the other side for the formation of a union government, should become head of such a non-party administration, we shall be very happy to give him the support his program deserves."

We have no idea what would be Mr. Pattullo's stand if he were asked to lead a coalition administration but we assume that he would not consider it unless he were given a majority of members in the cabinet favorable to liberal policies. To suggest anything else would be an insult to the Liberal leader.

Mr. Pattullo is now recognized as the legitimate successor to Premier Tolmie and he is the man who, with the consent of the people of the province, will dictate the terms of any coalition, should there be one.

It seems to be generally admitted that the Tolmie Government has failed. In view of that, why should the same cabinet be perpetuated, either as a unit or as anything approaching a controlling factor in a new cabinet? It can't be done. Mr. Pattullo will be responsible to the people who elect him and he cannot carry out his policies if he is to be hampered by men who have shown their inability to deal with the provincial situation during the past four years.

It must be remembered that T. D. Pattullo has never yet had an opportunity to prove himself. True he had charge of a department in the Brewster, Oliver and McLean administrations and no one ever said he administered it poorly. He was not then the controlling factor. Since that time he has been chosen by the Liberals of the province to be their leader with the implied understanding that, on the defeat of the present government, he would succeed to the premiership. The Tolmie government is tottering to its fall and Mr. Pattullo is ready to step in and rehabilitate the shattered affairs of the province. Fearing that their interests might suffer, a considerable group of southern businessmen, with the Province newspaper as their mouthpiece, step out and object to him and they have used every possible means to get rid of him. Failing in this they now suggest that he may be premier if he will tangle himself up with the men who have made a mess of things and who would be a millstone about his neck in the cleaning up process that is necessary.

Should Mr. Pattullo agree to a coalition with himself at the head, it will be for him to dictate the terms and to make sure that he is not going to be hampered in his work by any strings. He is today the strongest man in British Columbia and his opponents know it. That is why they fear him.

The New Flavor Takes

We have just received a letter from a lady who asks that her name not be mentioned. Pacific Milk has been her choice for years and this she has noticed: "Since Pacific Milk has been vacuum packed the children call for it oftener. The new flavor takes with them." This is good news. Here is one reason we like letters: They give information we would not otherwise get.
