Queer Queries of a Political Agnostic

Respondent of Daily News
Anxious to Know a Good Many Things.

for Daily News;
Here are a few questions for Gen. Peck, based largely on the fact that he has been supporting the Meighen Government faithfully up to a month

What salaries do the directors of the Canadian National Railways draw?

Why was information in respect to the Canadian National Railways withheld from the people of Canada, and why did you support them in withholding information?

Why is it the Canadian National Railways advertises for orders on small things, but not on building railway cars or a hundred other commodities they let the market without competition?

Why is it the Canadian National Railways let most of its supply contracts to companies in which directors of the company are interested?

Is it fair for the directors of the Canadian National Railway to sell their cows with our hay wagons, grain, meat, coalage and machinery to the value of well over a hundred millions a year and then take the milk and butter and leave themselves?

Why does the Meighen Government which you supported
so faithfully dictate to the Board of Railway Commissioners?

Why did you continue to ask that you could support the Meighen Government up to the moment and then think the people would return you as an independent candidate?

If you are independent, why will you be supported by leaders of the Conservative group in this city and that the only funds are being used in your support?

Did Dr. Tolmie, minister of securities in the Meighen Government which you supported,
travel with you through this country and talk experimental farm, in return for your support of him against a resident in Victoria at the election?

city police court the sum of $1400 was paid by two Chinamen who were found guilty on the charge of the illegal possession of cocaine, Mah Kim being assessed $1000 and Mah Jim $800. It was a good day, too, for the police victions, as according to the

WHOLE NORTH IS IN GRIP OF COLD SNAP

Strong North Wind Adds Further to Bitterness—Snowing in South.

Heating and plumbing systems are being severely tested by the cold weather that is prevailing here and which came to a snap last night and this morning. A strong north wind still further adds to the bitterness which does not seem to be much ameliorated by the bright sunshine. The whole north is gripped by the same cold wave while in the south the temperature is higher and there are snowstorms reported.

The plumbers are being kept busy thawing out many water pipes in local residences which froze up last night and the night before.

Up-river the wind has had a bad effect on the telegraph lines and both the Government and the Canadian National lines were down this morning, the former at Bole-in-the-Wall and the latter at Kwinisla.

The coldest thermometer reported here by H. O. Grewe, Dominion Government meteorologist, was 15 degrees above this morning at 4 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the reading was 17. Prince George is having zero and yesterday the temperature at Hazelton was reported to have been 10 degrees below.

for the last of his Saskatchewan meetings, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie the Regina meeting as one of the most inspiring of the campaign, with its audience of between five

PORT SIMPSON GREETS STORK WITH BAND AND HEARS GOOD SPEECH

Fred Stork had a great meeting

The Smithers Liberals are

A few of them have signed a been made of the convention at following is the declaration:

We, the members of the

Prosperity will Return If Liberals Elected says Leader of Party at Regina

REGINA, Nov. 21.—(By Canadian Press)—Addressing a large audience of Regina people, apparently including in the number many Conservative and Progressive supporters, at the Stadium rink, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, again warned of the danger of the Progressive movement bringing about isolation of the Middle West of Canada, and urged his hearers before it was too late to get together in their fight for what he termed were after all mainly Liberal principles.

Shortly after the outset there were indications that Mr. King was likely to have several interruptions in his speech. It was evident that there were many in the large audience who differed from him politically, but the outbursts were sporadic in their nature, and there was nothing which would justify the work "heckling." The Liberal leader replied to his questioners without hesitation, and apparently and much the better of the exchanges, since the attempt at heckling ended as suddenly as it had begun. The Liberal leader said he had considered the Progressive movement a Liberal movement, and had done his best in view of unity between it and his own party. The organized farmers, however, had made such advances and went into the field with the declaration that they had no use for either of the old parties.

What Canada Needs.

Canada, said Mr. King, needed government based on the needs of the whole Dominion, and any attempt to rule the country on the basis of the needs of any class, group or section could only lead to division in the state.

Mr. King charged the prime minister with autocracy, in seeking to restrict the issue to that of protection versus free trade.

With this and the charge that he

Mr. King had trimmed off the tariff policies according to the districts he was speaking in, the Liberal leader declared there was no question of free trade in this election. His policy, he said, was one of downward revision, with the lightening of the tariff burden on implements of production in the basic industries and on the necessities of life.

The Borden tax payments and railway matters came in for considerable attention from Hon.

Mr. King. In respect to the former, he stated that the Borden company had become the owners of companies which were paying taxes to the United States government, while the parent company gave promissory notes in Canada. In regard to railways, Mr. King charged that an "autocratic policy of secrecy" had been pursued. Railwaymen, he promised, would be given representation on the Canadian National railways board if the Liberals were elected.

Ammunition Shipments.

Mr. King criticised naval and army expenditures during after-war years and declared that the recent shipments of munitions had something to do with the

DAILY EDITION

Dilatoriness
of Governments.

There is a good deal of indignation expressed around Prince Rupert at the dilatoriness of the city in repairing Morse Creek dam so that the pond might have been used for skating. We know nothing about why there was delay. It may have been that the delay was necessary. All we do know is that last year the work was asked for and it was left until too late, and the result was the pond was useless. Now there is good ice at the lakes and the possibility is there will be no more this season, but Morse Creek is useless. There is at least an explanation due the citizens as to why no attention was paid to the request until the skating season why no attention was paid to the request, beyond sanctioning the work, until the skating season was upon us. This is not the first time we have had skating before Christmas.

The apparent dilatoriness of the civic government is typical of all governments. It is difficult to get them to move promptly and efficiently. The public service seems to be a secondary matter.

Read Main Street
in This City.

A good many Prince Rupert people have read "Main Street." It is a book that deals with the petty life of a small town. It is wonderfully true, hence the popularity of the book. It has been the most widely read and most talked about book of the season, and it is still being read. Just now it is being published in a number of newspapers throughout the country.

While Prince Rupert is not as bad as the town depicted in the narrative of "Main Street," in that it is larger and also that it is western, yet it has many of the characters mentioned in the book. It has its social leaders, with their wonderful ignorance of affairs in general, and all the other organizations and groups and individuals. There is much less crudity here than in the average prairie town, but we also have similar foibles although in some respects in a lesser degree.

Those who have not read "Main Street" are losing a good deal. There is no book that has provoked discussion like it. Sinclair Lewis has hit us hard all over the continent, and we rather like being hit.

General Conditions Are Improving.

The receipts of grain at western elevators continue to be greatly in excess of those of last year, or of any prior year with the exception of 1915, says the Bank of Commerce Report. To some extent the grade has been deteriorated by inclement weather and this, with low prices, has been disappointing to the growers. As a whole, however, the proceeds of the harvest, even at the lower prices, should enable the growers to liquidate current indebtedness to a satisfactory extent. Crop sales have already stimulated business, many lines of which show a distinct improvement over their condition in September. The extent of unemployment, the number of business failures and the inadequacy of the return from agricultural enterprises are not nearly as pronounced in Canada as in other countries. Among the factors disturbing the business of the world at the moment are the unemployment which prevails in the United States and in Great Britain, necessitating in the latter country extraordinary measures of relief, and the extravagant government expenditures reported from many countries, notably Australia, in spite of continued business depression. These constitute decisive evidence that a return to stable conditions is still some distance away. Conditions in Canada are undoubtedly favorable as compared with those prevailing elsewhere, and serious as are the problems confronting her people, it does not appear that their solution is beset with difficulties as grave as those confronting other countries.

Put Something by
for a Frosty Day.

The old saying is "Put something by for a rainy day." There is no need to do that here. What we have to do, however, is to put something by for a frosty day, when the water pipes may burst, when warm clothes are needed and when great strains are being made on the coal bin. The present weather is an annual reminder. Many of us like it, but there must be others who suffer as a result. This is a time for us to look after our neighbors and see that there is no unnecessary suffering as a result of the weather.

Must Keep to Proper Debate.

There is a letter on another page which is, we fear, libellous and which must not be repeated or looked upon as a precedent. To use an expression such as "fattening on the bounty of the munitions board" brings a writer and a newspaper which publishes it within the clutches of the law courts. Another thing must be remembered in political discussions is that there are only two candidates in the field and their records only are open for discussion. To attack a man because he supports a candidate is not allowable and is liable to lead to all sorts of ill feeling and does not get us anywhere. When a man offers himself for election his past record and his policy and the expectations of the future are subjects of legitimate criticism. Even here, however, there is a limit to decency and we shall not allow any searching back for many years and digging up old sores that should be forgotten. We would ask correspondents to confine themselves to the issues of the day. There is no excuse for any man attacking another who is not a candidate for office. Colonel Peck's language in speaking of Mr. Williams was anything but correct and Mr. Dennis' defense of Colonel Peck gets right off the track in attacking another who is not a candidate. While Mr. Williams is president of the Liberal Association, that should not make him an object of attack unless he does something which affects the party or the candidate whom he supports.

GERMANS WORKING,
SAYS LORD HALDANEBritish Ships Being Repaired by Cheap Labor of Fatherland.

SHEFFIELD, Eng., Nov. 21.—Lord Haldane, who was in Germany a week or so ago, says he found the Germans working hard. They had put aside all thoughts of armaments because they realized that armaments did not pay.

They realized, however, that something which would pay was the application of the science which they had learned before the war and which they would have applied in peace if they had not been interfered with by a small military party.

Now they were determined to be free from interference of the military party. The output of scientific books had become enormous. All classes of people were working hard, and unemployment hardly existed.

They had no money except paper, which had badly depreciated, and to restore their normal condition they had found work by taking in other people's washing. He said he saw a large number of ships from Tyneside being repaired in German dockyards because German dockyards could do the work cheaper than the British workers.

IN THE LETTER BOXIT IS ODD.

Editor Daily News:
To the "Man in the Moon" it must appear an extraordinary thing that the independent candidate's independent followers and even the independent candidate's independent newspapers while supporting a self-confessed independent Liberal candidate with singularly few exceptions, prognosticate and fervently hope for the utter defeat of the Liberal party throughout Canada.

THE DAILY NEWSMANITOBA TO SUE FOR TAXES

Liens Being Filed Against Securities of Land and Loan Companies.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 21.—Steps have been instituted by the provincial government to file liens against all securities and investments of a score of land and loan companies for failure to make payment of the corporation taxes for 1920. A. Hedley Garland, superintendent of corporation taxation, said charters of the concerns will also be suspended.

The corporation taxation department also intends inflicting the penalty of $20 per day on delinquents who have failed to pay assessments on the due date for business tax, Mr. Garland said. The government intends, within the next few days, to take drastic steps for collection of all taxes due in order to obtain payment before the end of the government's fiscal year, which falls on November 30.

Mr. Garland said it had come to his notice the Canadian Manufacturers' Association had sent circulars from its Toronto office dealing with the net profits tax. The method of compilation of the returns and the definition of taxes collectable under the term "business originating and completed within the province" is entirely wrong and misleading, Mr. Garland said. He urged that taxpayers disregard circulars sent out by parties other than the government.

TERROR OF BLACK HAND

Foul Murder at Niagara Committed by Men Who Ran Away and Escaped.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 19.—A foul murder was committed here last night at 7:30, on a much-travelled street. George Timpani, aged 35, an Italian storekeeper, coming home from work over the river, was met by another man on Clifton Hill, just above the Clifton Hotel, and shot five times, four shots in the head and one in the heart. He died instantly.

Two local girls farther down the hill saw the shooting, and saw the murderer running into Queen Victoria Park, where all trace of him was lost. The police are scouring the park in every direction.

The murdered man some time ago was shot in his grocery store in Seventh Street, by men who stole his takings for that day. Some time ago he shot a local man who happened to stop near his home. Timpani at that time said he was living in mortal terror of Black Handers. He claimed then that he had left the organization, and the rest of the band had threatened to get him.

ATTEMPTED MURDER CASE COMES HERE

Chief Minny of the provincial police received word this morning that Wong Yok Ying, who is in custody on a charge of attempting to murder a compatriot Mah Toy last August, will be tried here. The assailant took place on board the steamer Camosun when it is charged Mah Toy was stabbed with a knife by defendant with intent to murder on August 16 last.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN ARE STILL UNRIVALLED

Gifted Writers of Distinctive Form of English Opera Have No Peer.

In view of the first local production of a Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera next Wednesday night, the following from the London Times of recent date will be of interest.

It is close upon fifty years since "Thespis," the first joint work of Gilbert and Sullivan, the two men whose names have become household words all over the world, was given at the Gailey, and nearly forty since the Savoy theatre was opened during the run of "Patience," to become the home of the distinctive form of English opera which began and ended with its comical inventors.

Trial By Jury. In the account written of the first performance of "Trial by Jury," in 1875, the writer remarked that "it seems, as in the great Wagnerian operas, as though the poem and music had proceeded simultaneously from one and the same brain." That was the chief secret, at the time, of their long succession of triumphs, from "H.M.S. Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," and "Patience," to "The Mikado," "The Yeoman of the Guard," and "The Gondoliers."

Their plays were the product, as we said so years ago, of the "most extraordinary combination of talent that English opera, that any opera, serious or comic has ever seen."

Individually they were remarkably clever and competent exponents of their respective arts. Gilbert alone was a fine lyrical poet, with a gift of satire that was never untrue and never unkindly; Sullivan alone was a master of melody, with an equally strong sense of musical humor. Together they were irresistible, and formed a whole greater than either of its constituent parts. That is why their operas live.

Music and Words. The music, for all its familiarity, is as fresh as the words that it interprets and completes. The wit and humor with which Gilbert chastised the foibles of the women, the politicians, the lawyers, the soldiers of the later Victorian period are just as applicable to their related types of today. Even the aesthetic craze, which was killed by "Patience," is not beyond the comprehension of the present generation. It is beyond their power to recapture the first fine rapture of those wonderful first nights at the Savoy, when everything in plot and words and music came as delightful surprise to an audience on the tip-toe of expectation. But the haunting and pathetic and mournful melodies never grow stale, and the lyrics never lose their humor and their biting truth.

FARMERS' LOANS

Applications at Present Amount to $1,000,000 in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG. Nov. 21.—The Manitoba farm loans board has been receiving applications for loans at the rate of $300,000 a week for the past few weeks. The board, which had $1,000,000 at its disposal for loaning Manitoba farmers, has approved of loans amounting to $650,000. The applications exceeded $1,000,000, while farm loans already total while farm loans already made total $5,000,000.

Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer, said that the suggestion made by Henry Detton, general manager of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, that the government credits should be extended to farmers was what the Manitoba Government had been doing for the past five years.

55,184 FARMS IN MANITOBA PROVINCE

WINNIPEG. Nov. 21.—Marking an increase of more than 18 per cent. in the last five years, the 1921 census of crop acreage and number of live stock in Manitoba taken by the Manitoba department of agriculture shows 55,184 farms in the province. The total acreage was 7,463,735, of which 3,501,217 was in wheat and 2,226,376 in oats. The number of live stock and poultry kept this year totals 3,346,227. Of these more than 3,000,000 were hens.

"Curtain" is the photoplay at the Westholme tonight. In it Nancy Bradshaw was reared in the environment of the stage. Her cradle was the tray of a theatre trunk. Jerry Coghlan, who has known Nancy since her birth, and who has become a prominent Broadway manager, gives her an opportunity to star in a new play by a young author who is her silent admirer. She makes good.

Nancy meets a millionaire pursuer of the women of the stage, and after a whirlwind courtship marries him. He forces her to forsake the stage, stating that his love will fill the void. Later a wonderful son is born to Nancy, and he helps her overcome her longing for the glamour of the footlights. Coghlan and the young author are constant visitors at Nancy's Long Island home, seeking her advice and help on their new production. Nancy will not listen to their attempts to lure her back to the stage.

At the height of her domestic happiness Nancy discovers her husband in a compromising position with an actress who has succeeded her as star in Coghlan's company. Her husband pleads for another chance, and for the sake of her child Nancy decides to give it to him.

Later her husband departs on what is ostensibly a business trip to the far west. In reality he takes the other woman to the races at Tia Juana. There he purchases a new race horse, and Nancy, reading from the tag on the horse where it came from and later hearing from her friends in the theatre that the actress is at the same place, learns the truth. At the same time Coghlan is waiting for this same actress to begin rehearsals for her latest part, and as the time is near for the production he asks Nancy to take the part. Disgusted with her erring spouse, Nancy accepts and scores a tremendous hit in it.

Nancy's husband returns and discovers his wife's name in electric lights in front of Coghlan's theatre. He bursts into her dressing room and attempts to upbraid her. She informs him of her knowledge of his Tia Juana escapade and tells him that all is over between them and dismisses him. And the faithful young author—now a noted playwright—who loves her sincerely, consoles her in her hour of trouble.

In the Letter Box

Defence of Peck.

Editor Daily News:

W. E. Williams has made an impassioned defence of himself and an envenomed attack on Col. Peck in the case of W. E. Williams v. Colonel Peck, et al. That well-known character in legal circles, "et al," was the principal offender in the case, but a mere ranker or ordinary person like the writer was beneath the notice of a potential Attorney-General. I started the ball rolling in defence of the Colonel and he merely commented on what had been said, incidentally mentioning "the little squirt of a lawyer," which seems to have been considered as hitting below the belt one who considers himself as a big spout of the local Liberals.

While rebuking Colonel Peck for what is considered his unparliamentary English, Mr. Williams in doing so has a flow of language which might be considered courtly and courteous in the legal circles which Mr. Williams adorns, but would be considered the invective of Billingsgate in the case of a fishwife.

Political Job.

Mr. Williams said he made no attack on Colonel Peck as a soldier, but has always boasted him and calls him muddleheaded and a poor sport for seeing anything but a boost in the published report of his Terrace speech. If calling Colonel Peck's appointment to the command of the Northern B. C. contingent of the 30th was a "political job" a boost, what is a knock? However, being merely possessed of horse sense, instead of legal sense, I hope that all "political jobs" may have as successful an outcome as this appointment of one of the best soldiers who were Canadian khaki.

Mr. Williams points out his duty to a soldier who was fighting in the field by providing him with two "fair alternatives." First, that he should resign from parliament and attend to his duties in the field, and second that he should resign his commission and attend to his parliamentary duties.

Though the first alternative is what Mr. Williams desired, the majority of the electorate who made Colonel Peck their member of parliament, knowing he was a soldier in the field and proud of his powers there, had expressed no such wish. The second alternative would have been possible if Mr. Williams and other able-bodied young huskies had been patriotic enough to have offered themselves as substitutes for the Colonel and his comrades who were "fed up" with years of war. Mr. Williams then might have won a V.G., but he might have died unhonored with a humble "R.I.P." which did not appeal to Mr. Williams, for he was a "young man with many possessions." Ideals were only for muddleheads and not for a young professional man with a brilliant future and a glorious present in awaiting on the bounty of the Munitions Board.

In the absence of the Colonel will Mr. Williams kindly accept this epistle from one of the rank and file.

W. G. DENNIS.

ORIENTAL TRADE.

Editor Daily News:

Following up the remarks I made on the opening of the wheat trade from the Canadian prairies through Prince Rupert to the Orient, in your issue of the 9th inst., I could not help being struck with the immediate corroboration with these views as expressed in the Vancouver Province of the 12th November. In an interview which the representative of the Province had with H. W. Potts, director for

CATARRH
of the Stomach
FOR EIGHT YEARS

and Mr. Duff of Lunenburg.

To quote from your letter my dear Louis, you write:

"For representative we need a man who will come to the front in all issues affecting us, etc., etc."

Colonel Peck came from the front to represent us, after finishing his job there in quite a creditable way; since when, he has been Johnny on the spot in all matters affecting this constituency, and has accomplished much great and good work.

The people of this constituency have been enabled to realize and appreciate his great democracy, which has made him the outstanding and popular figure he is, with the returned soldier, and with all who know him. A man approachable by all, always ready to serve in the cause of right, the true representative of the man in the street.

Faith in North.

No man has greater faith in this Northern country or in this port of Prince Rupert, than the Colonel. He has spent the best years of his life here, and knows the country as few know it. His great aim is to do his best in an unselfish way for the people he represents, instead of studying the special interests of a favored few.

You further ask my dear Louis, "Will Fred fill the bill?" This query of yours reminds me of a little fable in my school books, when I was a boy: the gist of the story was this:

"A dog one bright sunny day was crossing a stream by a foot plank, with a nice fat, juicy bone in its mouth. When it reached the middle of the stream, it saw its own image reflected in the water, and, being of a dissatisfied nature, it made a grab at what it took to be the other dog's bone, in so doing lost its own bone, and went away a sadder but wiser dog." In other words, it lost the substance through grasping at the shadow.

To apply the moral of this little story to the local situation, Louis, we will say: Let the people of this constituency represent the dog, Colonel Peck, the nice fat juicy bone, and Mr. Stork the image reflected in the water.

Made Good.

In Colonel Peck we have a tried and true representative. A man who has more than made good. A man who has been put to the hardest tests, and who always came out on top. The Colonel as a national figure carries more influence and prestige than any other man we could possibly send from this constituency to represent us at Ottawa. Are we going to do as the dog in the fable did; lose the substance by grasping at an illusory shadow? I think not, Louis, and when you consider the situation carefully from all angles; if you wish to obtain the best possible, for Prince Rupert, for Skeena, and for Canada; you will cast your ballot on December 6 in favor of Colonel G. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O. "A man's man."

PRINCE GOES TO INTERIOR

Will Take Part in Leopard Shooting and Other Big Game.

BOMBAY, Nov. 21.—The Prince will leave Bombay tomorrow for Baroda, which last received a visit from the then Prince of Wales in 1875. After some formal engagements in Baroda the Prince will go into the country and have some black-buck shooting. He will then proceed to Udaipur, whose venerable Maharana is considered the leading ruler in Rajputana, on account both of his legendary descent from the semi-divine Rama and the great traditions of chivalry associated with the ruling house. Through all the generations of Mogul domination it was the only ruling Rajput family which gave no daughter in marriage to any member of the Mahomedan imperial dynasty. The Prince will spend a couple of days in the valleys not far from the palace of the Maharana, shooting bison

GIRLS SPENT NIGHT IN CAR

Were Arrested When Discovered
in Male Attire and Charged With Vagrancy.

EDMONTON, Nov. 18.—After spending the night in a cold railway box car in an attempt to beat their way to the coast, two young ladies dressed in men's attire were arrested here by city police on a charge of vagrancy.

Financial difficulties, the girls allege, drove them to the attempt to make their way over the railway to a place where they thought fortune might smile more benignly on them and they sobered out their pathetic tale of struggle and hard work in the city of Calgary to maintain a decent existence. Unable to make enough money to feed, clothe and shelter themselves, one working in a well-known departmental store at $9 a week and the other making $10 in an office they decided the game was not worth the candle and came to this city where they believed conditions for girls were better.

Dressed as Men.

At Jodhpur the following day the Prince will meet the Jodhpur Imperial Service Lancers, who rendered conspicuous service on many fields during the war, notably in the brilliant charge of Haifa, in Lord Allenby's campaign in Palestine.

Jodhpur is the home in Rajputana of pig-sticking and polo, and Sir Pertab Singh, it is expected, will provide the Prince with good sport in both directions. The young Maharaja is reviving the Jodhpur polo team, once so famous in India.

On December 1 the Prince will reach Bikaner, whose Maharaja is recognized as one of the most enlightened and able of Indian Princes. Bikaner comes next on the list, and will be reached December 1st. Here His Royal Highness will come in contact with the Imperial Service contingent, members of which have a fine reputation as soldiers. Early in December there will be duck-shooting at Bharatpur, and from there the Prince will proceed to Lucknow, where he will arrive on December 9th.

To Visit Banaras.

The Prince will spend some time in the United Provinces, now under the charge of Sir Harcourt Butler as Governor. While in Lucknow he will stay at Government House. A feature of Royal visits to the Oudh capital is the fele given by the Tagadars at the Kaiser Bagh, which recall the glories of the Court of the Nawabs and Kings of Oudh, Allahabad, is the capital of the United Provinces, though the Legislature meets at Lucknow, and will be visited from the latter city. His Royal Highness will also go to Benares, and later in his tour, on his way to Delhi and the Punjab, he will see Aligarh and Agra. In all these places, except Agra, there are universities and the Prince will make a point of coming in contact with student life there. A flying visit is to be paid to Dehra Dun, on the foothills of the Himalayas, in connection with the inauguration of a preparatory school for Indian youths selected for study at Sandhurst.

From Benares the Prince will entrain for Bairatnagar for a week in the Nepal Teri. Four days will be spent in shooting. As was the case with the Prince's father in 1911, His Royal Highness will have the companionship of the Prime Minister, Maharaja Sir Shamsher Jung, who is himself a keen sportsman. Excellent sports in shooting tigers, rhino, and other big game is anticipated.

Dunbar at Patna.

The Prince's visit to Patna, the youngest of the British Provinces, will be of historic interest, as it will be the first time that a member of the Royal House will be the guest of an Indian Governor, in the person of Lord Sinha. There will be a durbar at Patna.
