Contract Let for Dock Superstructure

FAMINE IN RUSSIA IS EXTENDING AND MAY ENDANGER SOVIET

Local Builders Get Big Job of Erecting Warehouse for Wharf Now Nearly Completed

Mitchell & Currie, the local contracting firm, has been awarded the contract for the building of the superstructure on new ocean dock which is now nearing completion. Word to effect was received by the contractors yesterday by wire and it is necessary now before the contract is finally signed is confirmation of Hon. G. C. Ballantyne, the Minister of Marine, Ottawa.

The contract which has been awarded to Mitchell & Currie involves the building of the 150 by 820-foot warehouse and the erecting of its equipment according to the original plans which provide for commodious accommodation. The whole structure will consist of a single floor with office quarters suspended from above. It will be equipped with facilities of most modern style.

MATERIAL ON GROUND.

The material, which is supplied by the railway company, is ready on the ground, and the labor will involve a cost of approximately $10,000, employing about fifty carpenters for a period of four months.

With the completion of this contract the ocean wharf will be entirely completed, the only job remaining being that of the fitting in of the fire protection equipment. It is likely that a start for this will be let at a later date.

There were a number of bidders for the work, and many of them were from the outside. The awarding of the contract to the firm meets with a good deal of satisfaction in the city.

Yukon and Alaska Road System to Be Linked Up and May Be Extended to Fort Norman Oil Fields

DAWSON, July 21.—Arrangements are being made for linking up the trunk road system of Alaska with those of the Yukon. Chairman Steese of the Alaska Road Commission has conferred with Commissioner McKenzie of the Yukon regarding junction of the two systems at the Alaska-Yukon boundary where Glacier Creek Road of the Yukon meets Walker Fork Road of Alaska.

The Canadian Government is considering an extension of its road system from Mayo City to Fort Norman oil fields along the old Indian summer trail along Stewart River across the low divide to Gravel River. The whole system will eventually be linked with British Columbia and the Pacific Highway systems at the Yukon-British Columbia boundary.

INVENTS GUN THAT WILL SHOOT 300 MILES

Dr. Miller Rose Hutchinson, former chief engineer to Thomas A. Edison, has invented a gun which, it is claimed, will throw a projectile weighing five tons from two to three hundred miles. The model which Dr. Hutchinson is holding is noiseless and smokeless and is capable of sending a bullet through boiler steel three-quarters of an inch thick. The photo shows Dr. Hutchinson and his pneumatic gun.

Stories of Famine in Russia Indicates Number Affected is Greater Than at First Reported

GRAVES WERE PROTECTED BY THE BELGIANS

Stories of Bodies Having Been Stolen from Canadian Graves Proved Untrue.

LONDON, July 21.—The statement credited to the Canadian official graves commission that graves of Canadian soldiers in France and Flanders were empty when opened and that others were not taken to prevent clandestine exhumation is denied by the imperial war graves commission, which says that all precautions have been taken and in case of an attempted theft of a body without permission was frustrated by the Belgian authorities. The story is going the rounds in Europe that a dozen graves opened in the presence of relatives proved empty and the work of identification and marking of graves was carelessly carried out.

LONDON, July 21.—Stories of the failure of the crops in Russia and of the terrible state of the people in the famine-stricken districts continue to come to hand. The number of people affected continues to increase and it seems evident that unless immediate steps are taken there will be more die in Russia of famine and disease than died there during the war.

BERLIN, July 21.—The German Soviet organ says the Russian Soviet Government is doomed unless relief is found for the 25,000,000 Russians said to be dying of starvation owing to the crop failure in that country. Military intervention from "capitalistic countries" is feared in the confusion which is bound to result from the disaster.

GOVERNOR BONE IS OPTIMISTIC ABOUT ALASKAN DEVELOPMENT

JUNEAU, July 21.—Governor Scott C. Bone, who recently arrived to administer the affairs of Alaska, is optimistic as to the future. He says that the 38 bureaus that have had charge of affairs will be abolished and only one will be left.

Bureaucracy is going to be cast aside, he said, and in its place will come individual initiative and a restoration of the pioneer spirit which has been largely shackled under bureaucratic rule.

Resources to Be Developed.

"I expect to see material development in Alaska's pulp and paper resources," he stated. "Our coal fields, our oil lands, and all of her great natural resources are capable of and will receive development by individual initiative. Private capital is interested in Alaska. The press of the country are showing ever-increasing interest. These are some of the encouraging signs."

Refused Appointment Once.

"This is my first official position in any capacity under the government," he continued. "I am a newspaper man and have been for 10 years. I was offered the Governorship several months ago and refused it at that time, because I knew conditions. But when I realized that there was going to be a change of system by which Alaska might be really developed, when the position was re-offered to me, I accepted. I would not have done so, had I not been convinced that something was at last about to be done for the Territory. Its history for many years past has contained much that is tragic. It has been neglected and placed off alone. But I am certain that these conditions are at last to be remedied."

JAPAN WILL ENTER INTO CONFERENCE

Representatives Will Go to Washington Disarmament Parley With Reserved Program.

TOKIO, July 21.—The Japanese cabinet has reported its decision to participate in the proposed disarmament conference at Washington this fall. Their general program will not involve the discussion of sovereign rights of the participants. Neither will the Shantung or Yap Island questions be discussed, it being held that these will be decided by the Paris Peace Conference.

WAR VETERANS AND FINANCES

Revenue Is Being Seriously Impaired by Discontinuation of Beer Selling.

A committee was named at the meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association last night to go into the matter of revenue now that the selling of beer at the canteen is barred. In the past the association has obtained a good deal of profit from the bar and it is felt that if some other scheme is not devised, the club will not be in a position to again do the work of relief that it carried out last winter when several families were assisted in a financial way.

As far as the selling of beer is concerned the local branch has discontinued this practice and is now awaiting the action of the societies in the south and the possible results from several test cases that have been launched against the beer clauses of the Moderation Act. The committee delegated last night to go into the revenue question comprises Jack Plint, S. L. Watkinson, J. Mason, J. Hawthorne and J. Trinder.

Apart from this discussion of finances, little other than routine business was taken up at the meeting last night. President J. H. Kelly was in the chair and there was a good attendance.

Wonderful Change In World Sentiment.

"There was a time when Downing Street controlled the Empire. Today the Empire controls Downing Street," said David Lloyd George, Prime Minister of Great Britain and Ireland, in his address recently to the Imperial Conference in London. That is the spirit of the day. The people are steadily getting a larger say in the affairs of the world. It is the trend of the time and its gradual development is one of the factors that makes for permanence. People are gradually assuming the right to govern themselves.

Are We Fit to Govern Ourselves?

Often the manner in which popular government works out makes us wonder if we are really fit to undertake the vast work of governing ourselves. As an organized nation we are not always a success. We do it about as well as any other organized nation and much better than most others, yet it is not a very fine job we make of it. There is plenty of room for improvement. In the meantime we are struggling along and gradually developing. If we can only be wise enough not to go too fast, and yet not to hang back in the general forward movement, we shall in time, after many generations, get to a point where the world will be much improved.

There are some who have an idea that by a sudden revolutionary move we can suddenly precipitate ourselves into the millennium. The experience of other nations has not borne that out. France had its revolutions and still she is no farther ahead than ourselves socially, politically or in any other way. Mexico had its revolution against the arbitrary Diaz, and see the result. It will take Mexico many years to recover from the devastation of the long years of anarchy. Russia, the great example of the class-conscious proletariat of our own country, is starving, and what the outcome will be no one can more than guess. The future is anything but bright. Had the people there understood the agony the country must endure they would have preferred to live under the rule of the Czar, objectionable as it was.

In Canada we do not make a very great success at handling public affairs, but we are improving. Every year things are getting better. We are getting more information, learning to investigate and to compare. Every generation should be better than the previous one.

Birth of the British Nations.

In addressing the premiers of the British Dominions a few days ago Lloyd George used some most significant words. He stated that those Dominions had now attained full national status. To quote the little Welshman:

"The British Government has been under some suspicion in some quarters of harboring designs against this gathering as a conference. We are said to be dissatisfied with the present state of the Empire, and to wish to alter its organization in some revolutionary way. Gentlemen, we are not at all dissatisfied. The British Empire is progressing very satisfactorily from a constitutional standpoint as well as in other ways."

"We shall be glad to have any suggestions that occur to you as to the methods by which the business of our Dominions in London, so far as it passes through our hands, may be transacted with greater dignity and efficiency, though you will all, I think, agree that the Empire owes much to Lord Minto and Lord Long for their services in the Colonial Office during a period of great difficulty and stress. We shall always welcome any suggestions which you may have to make for associating yourselves more closely with the conduct of foreign relations. There was a time when Downing Street controlled the Empire; to-day the Empire is in charge of Downing Street.

Would Get Standpoint
Of the Others.

"On all matters of common concern we want to know your standpoint," the Premier continued. "I will give you my general conception of the mutual relationship in which we meet. The British Dominions and the Indian Empire, one and all, played a great part in the war for freedom, and probably a greater part than any nation, except the very greatest powers. When the history of that struggle comes to be written your exertions, side by side with ours, will constitute a testimony to British institutions such as no other empire in history can approach or emulate.

"In recognition of their services and achievements in the war the British Dominions have now been accepted fully into the comity of nations by the whole world. They are signatories to the Treaty of Versailles and of all the other treaties of peace; they are members of the Assembly of the League of Nations, and their representatives have already attended meetings of the League; in other words, they have achieved full national status, and they now stand beside the United Kingdom as equal partners in the dignities and the responsibilities of the British Commonwealth."

EULOGY TO LATE MRS.
JAMES B. STAPLEDON
FUNERAL ON MONDAY

In connection with the death of the late Mrs. Stapledon, the Victoria Times has the following:

With the passing of the late Mrs. James B. Stapledon, widow of the late Bartholomew Stapledon, at the residence of her daughter Mrs. L. W. Rudge, Abbotsford, B. C., Thursday, Victoria lost another of its pioneers.

The late Mrs. Stapledon had been suffering from partial paralysis for the past two years, having taken a stroke in the right side at that time. On Saturday last a second stroke took place, completing the paralysis. Death took place at the daughter's residence after the second stroke, and was in the nature of a merciful release from pain.

The late Mrs. Stapledon died at the age of 76 years, after a long life in which she had endeared herself to all who had the pleasure to make her acquaintance. Of a most lovable disposition, Mrs. Stapledon figured in the home life of this city for many years, coming to this city from Quebec, where she was born in 1845.

An invalid from heart trouble many of her days, the late Mrs. Stapledon was none the less a very prominent factor in the early days of this city and was universally beloved. The late James Bartholomew Stapledon, well known on this coast and in the maritime provinces in his connection with the cannery, being for some time manager of the Skeena River cannery of Turner Beeton Co., Ltd., predeceased his widow in 1913.

Since that time the late Mrs. Stapledon resided with her daughter Mrs. Rudge at Abbotsford, and also in the northern interior of the province.

During the late war, Mrs. Stapledon, though invalided, took a keen interest in the welfare of the Canadian boys at the front and knitted hundreds of pairs of socks and woolen comforts for the soldiers on service.

Ten Years Ago

Eggert, Mrs. F. G. Dawson, Mrs. G. H. Arnold, Mrs. M. P. McCaffery and Mrs. Dailey. Mrs. Burritt and Mrs. Naden poured and were assisted by Misses McPhail, Piner, Grant, Holby, Ginn, Kincaid, Galkins, Curtain, Brown, McDonald and Keeley.

The funeral took place at Victoria Monday.

SONS OF CANADA
WERE WINNERS

Inflicted First Defeat of Season on Sons of England Last Evening.

The Senior League football game between the Sons of Canada and the Sons of England played at the Acropolis grounds last night resulted in victory for the former team by a score of 2 to 1. Weather conditions were not at all promising and there was a rather small attendance of fans but the game was a fast one and the play was of as good a quality as was possible under the conditions with a strong wind often carrying the ball far out of its course thus working to the disadvantage of both teams. It was regrettable that the evening was not finer for the game had bid well to be one of the most interesting of the series with both teams keen for victory and the premier position in the standing. With this win, the Sons of Canada have stretched their lead and are now three points ahead of the Sons of England with the G.W.N.A. and Callies somewhat in the background on account of not having played so many games.

The Scoring

The first score was made by Moffatt for the Sons of Canada early in the first half. There was some good fast football by both sides following this but neither teams were able to make a count, half time seeing the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Canucks.

The Englishmen were able to equalize early in the second half with a lightning shot from Lamb, which Thompson, the Canadian goalie, was unable to stop despite the fact that he touched it before it went in. A few minutes before the final whistle Moffatt made the winning goal for the Sons of Canada from a corner kick.

Both the goals made by the Sons of Canada were fast ones which were nigh impossible for Winsby to divert despite the fact that he put up an excellent game in goal. Lane, for the Sons of Canada, made a number of notable fine long kicks and he proved one of the most valuable men on his team although other players also played football of a high standard.

Lineups and Standing.

The lineups were as follows: Sons of Canada—Thompson, H. Menzies and V. Menzies; Mitchell, Shakespeare, W. Anderson, Lane, Clarke, Moffatt, Swan and Robertson.

Sons of England—S. Winsby, G. Kelsey, H. F. Wearmouth, E. Craggs, B. Fanthorpe, Mansell, J. Farquhar, H.M.D. Lambe, G. P. Tinker, H. Fanthorpe and Westwood.

The Senior Football League standing to date follows:

P. W. L. D. Pts.
Sons of Canada 5 3 0 2 8
Sons of England 5 1 1 3 5
Callies 3 0 1 2 2
G.W.N.A. 3 0 2 1 4

The Great War Veterans are early looking towards putting a team in the Basketball League next winter. COMPETITION IN PITCHING

Gil and Clementson Organizing
Game for the Young Boys
As Test of Skill.

Fans who attend the National League baseball games at Pittsburg may keep balls knocked into the stands without fear of being molested by policemen according to an order issued by the director of public safety in that city. The ruling was made following threatened damage suits against policemen who placed three fans under arrest for refusing to throw balls back into the diamond. Hereafter any action taken against spectators for refusing to give up balls must be taken by park authorities. If this rule applied in Prince Rupert, youngsters would be allowed to pick up and keep the balls that are batted out of the field as long as they were not interfered with by the police.

Facing a threat from the Yakima Pacific International League baseball club that it would disband immediately unless $2,000 worth of season tickets were not sold at once, fans of the interior Washington town made sales of $1700 and the solicitors personally pledged the remaining $300. Gate receipts at Yakima have not been very satisfactory this season and the baseball club is faced with some serious financial problems. It is found that it is much more difficult for a town of the size of Yakima to support a ball team than it is for the other cities of the league, Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma, all with larger populations. A similar difficulty has been experienced at Victoria for the same reason.

Pitching is one of the most important features of baseball and to develop good pitchers should be the aim of every club manager. This is the reason for putting on the competition. Boys will be graded according to their ages and everyone will be given a chance to compete.

SHACKLETON'S EXPEDITION TO THE SOUTH

Complete Plans Made by Famous Explorer Leaving End of Next Month.

NO CREW TO SAIL ON LITTLE VESSEL

The long voyage of Sir Ernest Shackleton on which he leaves about the end of August will take him 30,000 miles in the Atlantic and Pacific and those uncharted seas that guard the Pole. His staff will include men who were with him in the Nimrod and the Endurance; and his object is to solve some of the problems of geography as they affect little-known islands of the great oceans and long mysterious lines the Antarctic region.

The expedition, which will start about the end of August, has been made possible by the generosity of John Quiller Rowett, who endowed the Rowett Institute for Agricultural Research, and made provision for research at the Middlesex Hospital. A large donation has been given also by Frederick Becker, the paper manufacturer. Thanks to them, the expedition will be equipped for every branch of scientific research with the most modern instruments and methods.

The Ship.

The ship is called the Quest, and is a little vessel of hardly more than 200 tons net. She belongs to the Royal Yacht Squadron. It must not be inferred that she is a frail craft. On the contrary, with her sides 2 feet thick, of oak, pine and fir, and her bows shod with steel, she is well fitted for the strenuous part she has in play among cigar.

Every puff

erratic bergs and deceptive Antarctic flows.

Built in Norway four years ago, she has had her trials tried in the ice of the north. Her steaming radius is 9,000 miles; with her original sail she could do eight knots. The sail area is now being increased; she is being rigged a sa brigantine, and other extensive alterations are being carried out. Above and below decks there will be laboratories and general scientific provision; platforms are in course of erection for sounding machines, by which the ocean depths can be tested down to 30,000 feet; together with winches for winding in captive balloons for examining wind currents, and a home for the specially constructed seaplane from which Sir Ernest Shackleton hopes great things. A powerful wireless will be added.

Without Crew.

A remarkable feature of the Quest will be her lack of a crew—a crew, this is, distinct from the scientific workers. The staff of the expedition will manage the ship themselves. As they are men of large experience there is no reason to suppose the Quest will suffer at their hands.

The long voyage will begin from the Port of London. With her head turned south, and making as she goes a full hydrographical survey as well as charting of the air currents, the Quest will explore islands of the ocean which lie in "silent oblivion," partial or complete. The zoologist and biologist will investigate the bird, animal, and marine life of these islands; and while the geologist looks into their structure, the magnetician will take his observations, and the camera and cinema men will record what goes on.

A Huge Problem.

At Cape Town she will prepare for the most risky part of her voyage—that which will lead her to the Antarctic south of South Africa. Some 90 years have passed since a ship has been in these particular waters. Captain Scott, Sir Douglas Mawson, and Sir Ernest Shackleton himself have increased our knowledge of the Antarctic Continent south of New Zealand and south of South America; but all we know of the land in this other portion is one rocky cliff, Cape Anne in Enderby Land, and we do not know whether that is part of the Antarctic Continent or an island. For over 3,000 miles the region is a huge problem.

It is expected that the Quest will emerge from the Antarctic near the Weddell Sea. She will then move north to the South Sandwich Islands and South Georgia, surveying and searching for suitable harbors for whaling stations. At South Georgia she will refit, and afterwards will turn east once more, to this direction sub-Antarctic Oceanic islands, like Bouvet Island and Heard Island, will be encountered. Landings will be made on their rarely seen shores. The southern fur seal may be discovered hereabouts. From the better-known islands it has disappeared, owing to the wanton slaughter of a century ago.

Missing Islands.

The peculiar propriety of the Quest's name is now fully apparent. She will surely have earned it by the time she reaches New Zealand. But, as she voyages from that country into the Pacific, romance will still cling to her errand. By dredging and sounding she is to search for the lost Pacific island of Tunaki, mentioned in missionary history and native legend, but never seen. Dougherty Island may be found farther south. Its very existence, however, is doubtful. If it can be located, and offers a suitable landing place, it may make an oceanic station for wireless relay between New Zealand

TRAGIC DEATH AGENT'S HORSE

Story That Has Drifted Into Prince Rupert by Word of Mouth.

Ever since the time when Tom Deasy was fire chief in Victoria he had been fond of horses. He was a good fire chief and he liked his horses. At that time horses took the fire engine through the streets with much ringing of bells and running of boys. The horses were everything. They were almost human. They were trained to leave their stalls at the sound of the fire bell, and as soon as the collars were clasped beneath their necks to leap forward and obey the guidance of the driver.

Tom Deasy never got over those days. When he went to Masset on Queen Charlotte Islands, then it was not surprising that he should seize the opportunity of buying for himself a horse or which he could ride about his work or with which he could till the garden.

Just in Fun.

No one here knew of Mr. Deasy's weakness until recently and then it was only when the story came here, passing from mouth to mouth as is the custom in the North, just as it was with the people who lived before the advent of the newspaper or the printed book. "Torn" so the story goes, came to Prince Rupert and left his horse behind at Masset. In that rich country there is plenty of food for such animals, and they roam more or less at will. This steed of the Indian agent's was a sociable animal and while its master was away it took a nip in play at an Indian and squeezed his arm, just as youngsters will romp and punch each other or pinch each other in fun.

No Sense of Humor.

An Indian has no sense of humor, it is said. At any rate, this particular Haida Indian had not. He went to Mrs. Deasy and complained that the agent's horse had bitten him.

"Why didn't you shoot him?" enquired the lady.

The Indian went away. He had been injured, at least in his pride. The horse had shaken his arm and the owner's wife had only ridiculed him. She had asked why he did not shoot. "Presto!" He would shoot the creature. Going for his gun he waited for that equine, and sad to tell the Indian never the heart of the faithful steed, the pride of the Indian agent.

Draw the curtain. The horse is dead!

COLLEGE PRESIDENT REFUSED EVICT OWL

Bird Monocled Life of Oak on Campus.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, July 21.—It's a wise owl that strikes up an acquaintance with a university president. But for several months the life of one of the oldest oak trees on the Stanford campus has rested on the will of the persistent little owl that had taken up its abode in the mortally hollow trunk.

All the gardeners and experts looked at the fine old oak tree that stands right before President Wilbur's residence and declared that the trunk must be sealed immediately if the life of the oak was to be saved. But all their arguments failed to impress Dr. Wilbur.

To all their reasoning he simply remarked: "The owl was in the tree before you wanted to fix it, and so long as that owl wants to live there you will leave the tree alone."

And they did.

Last week, however, the feathered resident departed and has not been seen since, and now the gardeners can have their own way and save the life of the tree.

and South America, and serve in addition as a station for reporting on ice conditions by ships voyaging on this route." By Cape Horn and the Atlantic the Quest will return home.
