MASTER OR SERVANT

The most of people will agree with the statement made in an address at Vancouver by Capt. Ian Mackenzie M.P. that it is time money was being dethroned as a dictator and be made to resume its normal place as a servant of humanity. Possibly, the mastery of money—which the present medium of buying and selling or exchange is called—may be blamed more than any other single factor for the depressed condition in which the world finds itself today. The most of the world's money has found itself in the hands of a few and those few are today dominating the situation, almost to the point of starving the masses. Hence, the dictatorship of money as referred to by Capt. Mackenzie.

Agreeing on this, then, how to change money from its present status of master to that of servant is the great problem with which legislators are grappling today and in which practically all are interesting themselves at least in some small way. Many would be bold enough to dethrone the solidly entrenched dictatorial monster could they discover a means of attack compatible with the rules of law and order, good citizenship and democracy.

The radicals would overthrow money by some vague so-called change of system, by some solution of affairs, details of which they cannot specify themselves, apart possibly from the generality that any old system would be better than the present. Their cure, if it might be called such, would be little better than a leap in the dark. The whole present order of things would be upset, chaos would ensue and probably another monster of some kind, possibly worse than the present one, might very likely emerge.

The most of us are prepared to admit that some change in the order of things seems necessary but all of us are puzzled as to what process should be followed. In short, the means of effectively attacking the dictatorial monster known as money has not yet been discovered.

We are all seeking a tonic for this sick old world—a tonic which none of the economist-physicians, if we might put it that way, have been so far able to prescribe. The only thing that most of us have to offer is that time will cure its own ills, a theory to say the least of which is none too comforting.

Finish of Walker-Schmeling Fight on Monday Night Was as Dramatic as it Was Unusual

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The finish of the Schmeling-Walker fight at Madison Square Bowl, Long Island, Monday night was as dramatic as it was unusual. The bout was stopped after the bell had sounded the eighth round with Mickey Walker so badly out and bleeding around the eyes that his manager, Jack Kearns, refused to let him continue. Walker was knocked down for the count of six in the first round but, safely past this spot, he rallied so effectively that he took four of the next rounds and even appeared to have the upper hand until the fatal eighth. Schmeling lashed out suddenly and caught Walker on the right temple a short blow with dynamite in it. Walker was dazed and reeling and barely lasted out the round.

 HIGH SCHOOL

Moxley Cubs Beat Hanson Senators 9-6 Yesterday

By losing a well fought battle to the Moxley Cubs, the Hanson Senators now share the bottom position with the Obata Braves in the High School Softball League. The Senators threatened to take the game in the last inning when three men crossed the plate with none out but at no other time were they able to get more than a single run in an inning while the Moxley Cubs collected a few runs in every inning except the third. The hitting was not extraordinary and a few errors tended to slow up the game. Moxley now leads the league but today's game between the Morgan Pirates and Smith Giants will place one of these teams even with him, for each of these teams have won one game.

Hanson and Santurbane played well for the Senators while D. Morrison, J. Morrison and Moxley starred for the Cubs. The teams were: Cubs—D. Morrison c., J. Morrison ss., Blake lb., Moxley p., Greer rfs., Worsfold 2b., Shrubbsall lf., Cromp 3b., Peachy cf., Murdoch rf. Senators—Bussanich lb., Hanson p., Santurbane, Arney 3b., Ross 2b., W. Visits Mining Property Which He Is Developing in That Territory

JUNEAU, Sept. 28.—Enroute to the Willow Creek mining district to inspect mining property owned by him, Gen. A. D. McRae, Senator from British Columbia and prominent industrial and political figure in that province, visited Gov. George A. Parks here. He was a passenger on the steamer Yukon for Seward. Development of the property was started last year, following a visit there by Gen. McRae and mining engineers. This work, he said, will continue through the present winter and if the results are as expected from present indications, a mill will be erected in the near future. Gen. McRae is interested heavily in Western Canada timberlands and timbering, and also in the mining industry. He predicted today that Canada's gold production for the current year will exceed that of 1931 by several million dollars. Other branches of the mining industry, particularly copper and silver, are hard hit by the depression and several important properties have been shut down. W. E. Funnell, who has been on a two weeks' holiday trip to Vancouver returned to the city from the south on the Prince Rupert this morning.

TWO KINDS OF WOMEN

Miriam Hopkins, Wynne Gibson and Phillips Holmes Leading Players in Capitol Theatre Picture

The moving picture "Two Kinds of Women," mid-week feature offering at the Capitol Theatre here, is an ultra-modern play which ran on the New York stage as "This is New York."

The story deals with New York life as it falls about the ears of the eager and pretty Miriam Hopkins, daughter of a senator from South Dakota. The latter part is played by Irving Pichel. When Pichel and Miriam visit New York on an enforced business trip, she gets out of his control, meets some typical Broadwayites and night club habitués and is drawn into a whirl of excitement which culminates in a near tragedy. Out of all the glamor and danger, she emerges finally to a romantic finale with Phillips Holmes, whose part is that of the son of a wealthy New York banker. Wynne Gibson, as a gold digging parasite, is the "other kind of woman," thus sharing the title role with Miss Hopkins. Stuart Erwin participates in the goings-on as a New York reporter who looks dumb but isn't. Other members of the cast include Josephine Dunn and Stanley Fields, in comedy roles, and James Crane.

The dialogue is bright and sparkling and the action such as to take the audience quickly from one tense situation to the next in romantic adventure.

Bank Manager Is Speaker Before Terrace Board

TERRACE, Sept. 28.—The board of trade held a successful meeting last Thursday when a paper was read by George Beveridge of "Finance." This proved instructive and interesting and was followed by an open discussion in which most of those present joined.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in the municipal office and to invite a general discussion upon the findings of the Kidd commission.

COLLAPSE OF OLD BRIDGE

Joy-Riders of Terrace Nearly Meet With Disaster

TERRACE, Sept. 28.—A startling accident happened recently to the old bridge leading to the old ferry. This bridge has been condemned as unsafe for some time but it has been the resort, on fine summer nights, of courting couples and of joy-riders. One joy-riding party, returning from the river front, had almost completed the crossing in their car when the old bridge, at least the approach to it, gave a lurch and canted up to a steep angle with the result that there was a great mix-up of boys and

TERRACE

The weather during the past week has been cool and showery. This has called in most of the campers who lingered at Lakelse Lake beyond the term of the school holidays.

The farmers' crops, with the exception of tomatoes and cucumbers, are in excellent condition. The cool, damp season has been especially good for all root crops and for cabbage. Apples are ripening rather slowly.

Captain Bowen-Colthurst has gone to the Bulkley Valley on a hunting trip, taking with him Mr. Mawhinney. They expect to be away two weeks.

Mrs. Von Hees has returned to her home at Premier and Mrs. Norrington has returned to Prince Rupert after spending several weeks at Lakelse and Terrace.
