RUSSIAN SHOCK BRIGADES

Thornton Purkis, the Toronto advertising man, telling in the Financial Post about Russia as he saw it, mentions the "shock brigades." This is how they work:

"If a workers' committee, in a certain plant, asserts that a job, as planned by engineers and executives, cannot be done, then a "shock brigade" is formed within or brought from another factory and moved into the plant. The "shock brigades" set to work to prove that the job can be done as specified. If they reach the objective, then the rank and file of workers are jacked up by very severe measures. These measures include loss of employment, or to be more exact, demotion to work of a lower category, with its corollary lower wages. Where sabotage is suspected, it may mean being shifted to the mines or lumber camps."

NOT MUCH SYMPATHY

With only a superficial knowledge of the matter to hand it seems to a great many Prince Rupert people that Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King will not get much sympathy in Prince Rupert in opposing the ratification of the work done by the Imperial Conference.

While doubtless there is room for criticism—there is always—the general principle of the pact should be adopted. It is a beginning of a new era in Imperial statecraft and quibbles over small matters connected with it could well be dropped for this occasion. Possibly Mr. King may bring to light matters which have not yet been noticed but, unless he has some such information, we think he would be well advised to forget the criticisms until a more convenient season.

RHODES SCHOLARS

A SATURDAY SERMON

Views on Religion

Editor, Daily News:—

In resuming these Saturday sermons for the fall and winter season I felt that, having been asked by the Ministerial Association to prepare the first sermon, I would do so in the form of a letter to the Editor. I note your request that the sermon material be not lengthy and will endeavor to meet with your wishes.

One wonders at times whether or not these sermons each week are of any help. Words are queer things—there are so many of them and they seem so unimportant, yet their influence is such that it cannot be measured. It is our hope that the very least our words may do is to make people think. It is not so much a matter of being agreed with as it is a matter of stimulating thought. For there is a tendency today not to think unless one has to. We are repeating glibly what we have been told by others instead of thinking things through for ourselves.

This is very true in religious matters especially. So many people misunderstand religion and what it stands for. So many think that religion restricts—but does it do that? The aim of Jesus was that men should have life—not hereafter, but here and now—that men should know how to make the most, and so to get the most, out of life here on earth. At times it must of necessity challenge the habits of people even if it meets with opposition. Most of us are engaged in the quest for happiness. It is the greatest adventure of our age. But where can this happiness be found? Commercialized amusements say "Come with us," but, in due time, these amusements pall and we become bored. Wealth answers: "I am the key to happiness," yet more than one hundred millionaires committed suicide last year in the United States. Here is where Christianity issues a challenge. It admits frankly that reasonable happiness may be found in a man's work. Other happiness comes through friendships that endure. It is a cheering thing to have friends who know all about us and who love us just the same. Yet the Christian religion makes the great claim that, if it is intelligently understood and appropriated, it will create an attitude of life towards all the circumstances we meet which helps us to rise above them and to find a certain measure of satisfaction in them. I wish I could emphasize those words "intelligently understood." We have been content to take too much blindly, "on faith." If we do not think about the claims of Christianity and never make any trial of them, then, Mr. Editor, I maintain we are not competent to judge or criticize. Christianity does not pretend that life will be easy for anyone, not even for the most ardent Christian. But it does maintain that, if we give God a chance to work in our lives, we will find happiness.

"Peace does not mean the end of all our striving Joy does not mean the drying of our tears.
 Peace is the power that comes to souls arriving
 Up to the light where God himself appears."

Someone has said that a singing Christian is Christianity's best argument. The true Christian has a joy in his soul that is full and deep and permanent.

If we are not finding that satisfaction in life, if the world seems to be "too much with us," should we not ask ourselves the question: Are we giving God a chance in our life? We have tried everything else, they have either failed or caused us to grow discouraged. Why not try God?

NEW YORK YANKS MAKE COUNT IN WORLD SERIES THREE STRAIGHT TODAY

Score Today Was 7 to 5—Six Home Runs Clouted Out—Ruth and Gehrig, Two Each—Cuyler and Hartnett, One Each

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—In a game which was featured by a wild and dizzy splurge of hitting during the first five innings in the course of which no less than five home runs were poled out into the bleachers and far beyond, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig making two circuit clouts apiece for the Yankees while Kiki Cuyler contributed one for the Cubs, New York made the World Series count three straight over Chicago today by winning 7 to 5.

Following the hectic opening, and after Charlie Root had been replaced on the Chicago mound by old Pat Malone, who, in turn, gave way to Jackie May, the teams settled down and, during the final four innings, only four runs were made while hits were few and far between, although in 9th Hartnett banged out the game's sixth homer. Fifty thousand fans packed Wrigley Field benches to witness the third rout of Chicago's hopes in a game which, in many ways, was as strange as the series opener last Wednesday in New York. The fourth game will be played tomorrow and many experts are now picking the Yankees to once again clean up four straight as they did the last two times they played Chicago for the title.

George Pipgras pitched a steady game for New York and, what with the vigorous offensive maintained by teammates, was never in much danger although he was replaced by Herb Pennock to prevent a threatened Cub drive in the ninth.

Babe Ruth made his first homer in the first stanza when he scored, in addition to himself, Earl Coombs and Joey Sewell, with a lusty clout into right field bleachers. Coombs had got on with a grounder and advanced to second on Jurgas' wild throw. Sewell was walked. Bill Dickey and Ben Chapman also contributed singles in this inning but they went for nought when Frank Crosetti failed to follow up.

The Yanks made it four in the third when Gehrig, first up, smashed a homer into the right field bleachers.

Not to be outdone, Kiki Cuyler, first up for the Cubs in the third, lashed out a circuit clout into the right field benches. Captain Charlie Grimm's double later scored Johnny Moore, who got on by grounding and forcing Riggs Stephenson out at second. This made it two for the Cubs.

The Cubs followed up with another run in the fourth. Bill Jurgas made second when Babe Ruth fell in trying to pick up the ball. Jurgas scored when Lazzeri fumbled Woody English's grounder. The Chicago fans were wildly enthusiastic but there was no follow up.

The Yankees made what was to prove a cinch in the fifth which was featured by another pair of home runs by Ruth and Gehrig with no one on board in either case. Ruth's high drive cleared the centre field fence while Gehrig's circuit clout hit the flagpole.

More Fireworks
 In the ninth, the fireworks gave promise of reviving and the Yankees replaced Pipgras with Herb Pennock.

In Yanks' half, Lazzeri and Dickey got on on errors, Chapman's double scoring Lazzeri. During this inning May was replaced in the Cubs box by Bud Tinning. Pipgras fanned for the fifth time, thus establishing a new World Series record.

For Chicago Hartnett drove a homer into the left field bleachers. Jurgas singled and Hemsley batted for Tinning. To prevent a threatened drive, Pipgras was replaced by Pennock on the Yankee mound. The crisis passed when Hemsley fanned and Herman and English batted out.

Babe Ruth's two homers were the fourteenth and fifteenth he has made in World Series play.

The four Chicago moundsmen were accorded poor support in the field, no less than four bobbles being charged against the Cubs.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was among the spectators.

Gerald Rushton, traffic assistant for the Union Steamship Co., at Vancouver, and Mrs. Rushton, will arrive in the city on the Venture this evening from the south and will stop over until tomorrow evening when they will join the steamer Cardena for the trip to Anyox, Stewart and other northern points and thence back to Vancouver on Tuesday.

VENTURE IS LATE

Running almost twenty-four hours late, Union steamer Venture, coming north on the run of the steamer Cardena which, in turn, has taken over the run of the steamer Catala, which has been withdrawn from service, is due in port between 7 and 8 tonight. The vessel is in the Skeena River today. Soon after arrival here, the Venture will sail on her return to Vancouver and waypoints. Capt. J. E. Boden is in command.

ODDFELLOWS HOLD DANCE

A very enjoyable balloon dance was held last night by the Odd-fellows' Lodge in the new hall on Fourth Avenue East. There were about fifty couples in attendance at the affair which was featured by a number of novelties. Splendid music for dancing was furnished by Mrs. J. S. Black's orchestra, the affair being in progress from 9:30 p.m. until 1:30 a.m. David Geddes was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. J. H. Majr was the winner in a balloon dance contest, while Miss Elsie Ormbrack won a spot dance contest. At midnight delicious refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. J. W. McKinley, Mrs. J. S. Irvine, Mrs. J. L. McIntosh, Miss Chrissie Wood, Murdo MacArthur and Albert Blackhall. H. M. Daggett presided at the door.

This lady says her curtains look like new

A letter from a lady in Quebec tells about the wonderful success she had freshening and recoloring her old living room curtains. "They were so grey and dull looking they made the whole room look shabby. Yet they were perfectly good and I couldn't afford new ones. A neighbor told me about a new kind of tints called Diamond Tints, made by the makers of Diamond Dyes. I know the splendid quality of Diamond Dyes—have used them often for dyeing dark garments. My neighbor explained that Diamond Tints are for lighter shades and they need no boiling. I got a package of Ecru and gave my curtains a good rinse in the tint water. When my daughter came home she asked where I got my new curtains! They surely do look as crisp and fresh as when brand new and they cheer up the whole room!"

Highest Prices of Season Paid For Halibut Here
During Past Week—Halibut Livers Profitable—Ketchikan Out of Halibut Picture

During the week ending yesterday highest prices of the season for halibut were paid on the Prince Rupert Fish Exchange. The week's business was featured by very gratifying prices, more particularly for American fish. For the week the high bid for American fish was 12.4c and 4c which the Charlotte received for 6,500 pounds. The low price of the week for American fish was 4c and 2c which the Leviathan was paid for 26,000 pounds. There was only one catch bought at this low price, the general average for the week being a great deal higher than this. For Canadian fish the high price of the week was 8c and 4c, which the Tramp received for 9,500 pounds, the low price of the week being 5.90 and 3c which the Helen II and Toodie were paid for catches of 16,500 and 10,000 pounds respectively.

Landings for the week totaled 453,500 pounds of which 120,000 pounds was from Canadian vessels and 453,500 pounds from American. The total landings for the season up to and including September 30 were 12,298,500 pounds, consisting of 3,745,750 pounds Canadian and 8,552,800 pounds American fish, as compared with a total of 14,012,340 pounds for the 1931 season up to a similar date which figure was made up of 5,300,900 pounds Canadian fish and 8,711,440 pounds American.

Official figures issued by the chief supervisor of fisheries for the Pacific Coast indicate that the salmon packing for the 1932 season up to September 17 had further built up its lead over 1931, the total pack for the coast up to that date being placed at 925,690 cases this year as compared with 625,394 cases at the nearest corresponding date last year.

Per varieties, the pack for the coast this year was as follows, figures for 1931 also being shown for comparison:

	Cases 1932	Cases 1931
Sockeye	269,300	267,810
Springs	68,385	25,960
Steelheads	973	1,189
Bluebacks	25,757	24,768
Cohoés	121,958	60,657
Pinks	214,258	198,361
Chums	225,059	46,649

Per district, the pack this year and last:

Fraser River	143,389	88,574
Naas River	79,052	14,674
Skeena River	223,322	173,543
Rivers Inlet	70,836	76,517
Smith's Inlet	26,362	13,915
Central Area	248,252	126,834
Q.C. Islands	6,851	6,187
District No. 3	127,626	125,050

Rising like Phoenix from his ashes, Einer Solem, whose little restaurant on the waterfront near Manson Way was recently burned out, is having the place rebuilt and expects are long to be open for business again. He is being congratulated upon his enterprise and many friends will wish him success in his renewed business.

According to word received from the Queen Charlotte Islands, coho trolling on Skidegate Bar has been very poor and the fish small. No large catches are reported. Throughout the district, trolling seems to be falling off.

The fact that the halibut catch in District No. 2, from Willapa Harbor to Cape Spencer, had reached 18,343,000 pounds on Sept. 1, or only 4,157,000 pounds short of the quota set for the season with heavy fall fishing impending, has been explained as being the actual factor in the decision of the International Fisheries Commission to order fishing stopped in this area on October 22 instead of continuing until November 1, the regularly set date for the 1932-33 close season. Practically all the Canadian boats and many of the American vessels are affected by the order. With the catch in District No. 3, from Cape Spencer to the Aleutian Islands, where many of the larger American vessels operate, reaching only 14,228,000 lbs. up to September 1, there appeared little if any likelihood that the quota of 23,500,000 lbs would be reached, so the fishing season will remain open in the westward area until Nov. 1. The close season will end on January 15 instead of February 15 next year.

Halibut livers, formerly considered offal of the fish, have, it is estimated, brought more than $20,000 to fishermen of the British Columbia coast this year. After careful experiments and investigations, drug companies of North America last year learned that vitamin content of the halibut liver was equal or superior to cod liver oil and so informed fishing interests of this coast. As a result, the fishermen have all season been turning in the livers with their catches. This additional revenue, it is estimated, meant $20 to $40 more for each boat, the liver averaging as about two per cent. of each fish. Fishermen receive 14c a pound for the livers. Halibut livers from Prince Rupert are handled by the Booth Fisheries in co-operation with the Bacon Fisheries.

For the first time since 1915, halibut prices on the Seattle market recently slipped below 4c per lb. for first class fish. Incidentally landings at Seattle for the month of August, amounting to 2,885,000 pounds, constituted the second largest monthly deliveries since 1915, having been surpassed only by the 2,938,350 pounds landed there in March of this year.

With only one company buying halibut at Ketchikan at present, the Alaskan port recently has not been figuring as much of a factor in halibut landings on this coast. During August only 181,900 pounds in all were landed at Ketchikan, the only producers there being small boats of the local fleet. Vancouver handled only 115,000 pounds of halibut in August. Landings at either Ketchikan or Vancouver for the whole month amounted merely to what Prince Rupert would consider a fair day's business. Practically the entire halibut production is being handled now by Seattle and Prince Rupert.

Trans-Atlantic Traveller
Having already made two crossings of the "Big Pond," Bill Bacon, son of Jim Bacon, pioneer fish curer of Prince Rupert, is now on his third trans-Atlantic voyage, according to word which has been received at his home here. By the time his journeyings are over, he will indeed be an experienced trans-Atlantic traveller. Having left Prince Rupert on August 19 for the Old Country, Bill sailed two or three weeks later from Quebec aboard the steamer Empress of Britain on the same voyage as Capt. James Mollison, noted British aviator, returned to the Old Land, following his trans-Atlantic flight. It appears that some formality in regard to Bill's passport had been overlooked before embarkation at Quebec with the result that, after some journeyings around between France, Germany and England, Bill, having been denied a landing at Southampton, had to return all the way to Quebec. The detail in connection with the passport having been arranged, Bill sailed again yesterday afternoon from Quebec and this time will, no doubt, reach his destination without further complications. While the situation might prove embarrassing to some, we can imagine that Bill will be getting a real "kick" out of it and will fully enjoy three Atlantic crossings where he had expected there would only be one. Bill will visit with relatives in England and will also inspect fish processing operations on the east coast of Scotland. He may be away six months and it may be two years.
