Terrible Blizzard Accompanies Heaviest Fall Snow in History In Middle Atlantic States

The quantity of snow is so great that it has buried cities, railway trains are stalled in the drifts, the trolley car services in the cities are all disrupted and there is a general suspension of business.

The snow is still falling and the wind blowing, and until there is a letup there will be no definite information available as to the situation.

Asked.

All citizens are asked to observe the national fish day on Wednesday next by using fish at meals and by attending the fish luncheon at the St. Regis Cafe given by the local branch of the Canadian Fisheries Association. Shopkeepers are asked to display fish products and in every way to put the use of fish before the people in such a way as to increase the use of the commodity.

In a fish town like Prince Rupert there should be no difficulty in arousing enthusiasm in regard to the national fish day.

CHILDREN'S BALL HELD LAST NIGHT

Annual Affair of Girl Guides, I.
O. D. E. Was Greater Success Than Ever.

The annual Children's Fancy Dress Ball of the Girl Guides' Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, held last night in St. Andrews Hall was a greater success than ever. The scene presented was pretty indeed, the costumes being varied and original and the decorations of a high order.

Financially the affair came out very well indeed although final returns have not yet been made.

The children's ball commenced at 7 o'clock and concluded at 10, refreshments being served before they left. There were 140 youngsters in costume and the prize winners were: Best boy, Ralph Warrior as a Cow Boy; best girl, Miss Lorna MacLaren, "Duchess of Gainsborough," most original boy, Ned McLeod as "King of Hearts," most original girl, Miss Lorraine Grant, "Butterfly," most original costume, Douglas Scott, in blackface and kilts.

Decorations.

Special mention is due the decorations which were in charge of a committee comprising Miss Katherine Collison, Miss Pete Tremayne, Miss Lorna Tite, Miss Constance McMullin and Miss Nora Phillipson. They were given valuable assistance by the members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police local garrison.

Corporal Bryce was master of ceremonies and carried out his duties in excellent manner. The music was provided by an orchestra led by Will Brone, the Westholme Orchestra coming in later.

At 10:30 the adults dance commenced and between 150 and 200 persons had a very enjoyable time until about 2 o'clock. Refreshments were served at midnight, Mrs. Carroll being in charge of this department.

Regent in Charge.

Mrs. H. L. Roberson, regent of the Girl Guides' Chapter, was generally in charge and she was given assistance by Mrs. James McKay, Miss Mills and Miss Du Vernet, the latter being in charge of the Orange Tree from which surprise packages were sold to the children.

DAILY EDITION

SATURDAY, January 28, 1928

Hon. A. M. Manson
Attorney-general.

The intimation that Hon. A. M. Manson would be appointed attorney-general comes as good news to the people of Northern British Columbia. The North already has one good member of the provincial cabinet and if Mr. Manson takes the attorney-generalship there will be two very active men, both of whom are very capable and who will see that the interests of no section of the province is neglected.

Mr. Manson has taken an interest in political life for many years and it is altogether probable that had he been living in the South he would have been a member of the cabinet when Premier Brewster was returned to power. Since that time he has come steadily to the front. He has won a name for extreme fairness as speaker of the Legislature and not once has a decision of his been seriously challenged. That is a record to be proud of. He is spoken well of by both the government and opposition members.

If he sees fit to accept the position of attorney-general, which is confidently expected he will, he should do honor to that position and will certainly be a strength to the government. There have been annoying little irregularities in the department of the attorney-general which, although of no great importance, have been the means of making the government unpopular. These will all have to be straightened out by the new man, and among other things an effort must be made to carry out the provisions of the liquor act along the lines demanded by the people at the last plebiscite.

Liquor Act Difficult to Administer.

The liquor act is difficult to administer. Everyone realizes that. On the one hand are the prohibitionists who are satisfied with nothing less than complete prohibition and who look with suspicion on the present law, which they opposed strenuously at the plebiscite. The opposite extreme of this is represented by the dealers and brewers who would like to make more money out of the business by having open selling, and with them are allied the toppers and bangers-on of the trade, some of whom would like jobs as bartenders. Between these extremes are various grades of moderates, all of whom are opposed to the return of the bar, but some of whom think there should be liquor served with meals.

The government must remember, however, that the people voted for the law as it is today and not for dining room beer or any other provision for free selling of intoxicants. They can not consistently broaden the present law without first consulting the people at another plebiscite. There has been no demand for a change except from the interested parties. The people are satisfied with the present law as long as it is properly enforced. If the present head of the department can not enforce it, the new attorney-general should place in charge a man who will do so. What the people want is law enforcement. Nothing brings the attorney-general and the whole provincial government into disrepute so quickly as neglect in the administration of the liquor laws.

Local Member and Immigration.

The local member, the minister of lands, is making a determined effort to settle up the vacant lands of the province. He is devoting a lot of time to it and has already met with a good deal of encouragement in the old country. In connection with the working out of the plans, he will have to return to that country, where the people like to deal with the responsible heads of the departments rather than with agents.

Everyone will wish Mr. Pattullo success in his efforts. If he succeeds he will have a great deal of credit coming to him. The railway situation will be solved to a large extent by the filling up of the vacant lands of the interior. Already good work has been done, but Mr. Pattullo is ambitious and would do a great deal more. If we can get rid of political bickering long enough to give the plan a chance of success, we may all see great prosperity in Central British Columbia, and if this happens all will have a chance to share in that prosperity.

SO MANY PEOPLE
ARE NERVOUS"Fruit-a-tives" the Greatest of all Nerve Remedies

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia; Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately so vitally connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Men and women who take "Fruit-a-tives" for some form of nervousness—because they cannot eat or sleep or work or enjoy life—say that this fruit medicine is simply marvellous in its action.

THE DAILY NEWS

INTERIOR AND
PRINCE RUPERT

Newspaper Criticizes Local Board of Trade for Going After Too Much.

TELKWA COAL IS FIRST

Short Line Would Make Fifty-Four Million Tons Available for Shipment.

The Interior News has an editorial criticism to make of the resolutions of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade. It thinks the board is dissipating its efforts by going after too much at a time. The paper says:

Evidence of a long-delayed realization of the importance of the Interior in the ultimate development and destiny of their Pacific port is seen in a recent resolution, or series of resolutions, adopted by the Prince Rupert Board of Trade, although it is frankly admitted that people in the district to be immediately benefitted fail to see the wisdom of the steps Prince Rupert would take, the likelihood being that their generous action will be offset by the ambitious nature of their request and form a perfect excuse for another series of promises on which the Interior has thrived so long.

Branch Lines.

In addition to the requirements of their own immediate front door, Prince Rupert would have the government at Ottawa step right out and build some five branch lines to the Canadian National Railway, all of which are calculated to stimulate development of the natural resources in what might be called this district. They also see the necessity of an experimental farm, and while we do not attempt to deny the need of these undertakings as essential to the progress of the Interior with indirect benefit to the coast city, the News agrees with the former Mayor McClymont in the opinion that we would be well advised in asking for less and insisting upon the particular work agreed to as the greatest benefit to the most people. We prefer actual accomplishments carrying real paper money to professions bringing nothing but paper promises, and that is about what Mr. Stork will get when he attempts to put over the program of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade, to which, reports indicate, he has committed himself.

Coal Bunkers.

Evidently as an inducement to the establishment of a line of steamers to the Orient, Prince Rupert is anxious to see coal bunkers established at that place to give the railway company as a possibility. We prefer actual accomplishments carrying real paper money to professions bringing nothing but paper promises, and that is about what Mr. Stork will get when he attempts to put over the program of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade, to which, reports indicate, he has committed himself.

The Telkwa River line would also have the advantage in its advantage of not being new to the railway company as a possibility, and they have become quite hot up without giving much thought and at least three exhaustive reports are on file in the Grand Trunk Pacific offices to prove the stimulus it would give to settlement and attendant revenue.

The Telkwa River line would go back a dozen years to the time when Charles M. Hays headed the G. T. P., were made at his orders, and followed detailed information concerning the property. One of the reports was submitted by Mr. Beaudette, a mining engineer well known to many in this country, and the field work was started with Mr. Hays' statement that should the reports prove the existence of twenty million tons of coal the branch line would be justified.

Fifty-four Million Tons.

But Mr. Beaudette's report showed, not the twenty million tons, but his examination, made after superintending the actual diamond drilling operations, showed fifty-four million tons of coal in the Telkwa River field, these figures being quoted from memory but being substantially correct.

As compared with the Groundhog area, the branch line to the Telkwa River field would be constructed in one-third the time and at approximately one-third the cost. It would bring a steady supply to Prince Rupert at an early date, would more quickly return the money spent on construction, and would create an immediate prosperity out of all proportion to a line through a country as yet little settled.

Should Mr. Stork feel confident of putting over the entire program, then let us have the Groundhog line as well, but if one is to endanger the other, as we firmly believe it will, then Prince Rupert and the Interior would be doing mighty good business to concentrate on the Telkwa River branch to its consummation.

No Appetite

Nervous exhaustion leads to taste for food. The nerves of the stomach are weak, digestion fails and you become generally upset and out of sorts.

The secret of complete restoration is in getting the nervous system fully built up.

Mrs. B. Cheney, 208 Richmond St., Chatham, Ont., writes:

"I was troubled with indigestion, which caused me many sleepless nights. I would be in terrible distress at times, and would get no relief for two or three hours. For sixteen months I ate nothing but Shredded Wheat biscuits, as I dare not eat anything else. I did not know what to do, as I had tried so many different remedies, as well as doctors' medicines, without gaining permanent relief. Finally I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and while on the second box noticed that I was improving. I continued the treatment until I am now fully restored, and have returned to my regular diet. My husband has also taken Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with splendid results, so we are glad to recommend it to others."

The foundation of Prince Rupert's PROSPERITY is built upon the Fishing Industry

The Royal Fish Company, Prince Rupert

Waterfront Whiffs

Doings of the Mosquito Fleet Which Is the Chief Source of Prince Rupert's Prosperity

The fish business is moving lively around the waterfront these days and the vicinity of Cow Bay is no place for loafing, so if you have half an hour to spare any time don't try and spend it around the waterfront with someone who hasn't.

The halibut catch during the week has reached a large tonnage, and the boats of the Mosquito Fleet are only in port long enough to discharge cargo.

The Admiral of the Fleet has issued orders to all boats to "get in quick and get out quicker" which conveys a whole lot of meaning to the well disciplined crews.

A few of the boats engaged in herring seining have returned to port during the week and report that the herring are still swimming at too great a depth to allow of being caught in any great quantities. However, the herring prospecting has been accomplished and the happy hunting grounds have been located. It is anticipated that the herring will be swimming nearer the surface in a few days, and several boats are leaving port over the week-end to try their luck.

The repair work on the various craft for the season's fishing is nearly completed, and with the exception of one or two boats on the dry dock the mosquito fleet is intact and on the war-path of the various deep sea amphibious monsters.

Wednesday, February 1, is Canada's Eighth Annual Fish Day, which is a very important and far reaching event in connection with the local fishing industry. Throughout the entire Dominion there will be much publicity given to the subject of fish, and each one should do his bit to make this day a memorable occasion, thus showing our appreciation of the worthy fisherman who risks his life that we may be supplied with one of the most important, if not the most important item of daily diet. Remember that the scientist has said that fish is good for the brain so on Wednesday we surely owe it to the "upper storey" to feed it up a little. Remember that the prosperity of this fair city is dependent upon the fishing industry, and get out and hoist for all you are worth. Buy, talk, and EAT FISH on February 1.

The stenographers of the fleet are working overtime on a brand new document at the Admiralty offices of the Fleet under the personal supervision of the Admiral. It is nothing less than a brand new motor boat law.

After having passed three readings before the elite of the Mosquito Fleet it will be forwarded to higher authority with the effect of its becoming real and honest law.

It is claimed by the local motor boat owners that the existing law contains too much red tape, and that the compliance with all the details eats up a third of the overhead cost in operating. The big idea seems to be to get down to the essentials that are required in operating motor boats and cut out the non-essentials.

B. Mantrop, the Dominion government inspector of furs and boilers, paid a visit to the Mosquito Fleet during the week.

Several boats made port during the week from trapping expeditions and unloaded some valuable cargoes of furs, most of which were disposed of to local fur buyers. In a few instances where the local purchase price was not approved of, the furs have been shipped to eastern fur houses. Mink has been the predominating fur.

Captain Harry Watson of the Starston left on this morning's train on his way to England. There are many rumors afloat around Cow Bay as to his object of the sudden trip, but the secret service of the Fleet has been on the job and their observations are worth recounting. There has been an enormous amount of washing done aboard the Starston lately and a brand new electric iron has been installed. Clothes pressing from daylight till dark has been discovered aboard the frigate, including neckties and pyjamas with crease down the front sharp enough to shave with, and Flossie has been engaged on some needlework for the departed skipper. From the foregoing observations it will be clearly seen that Cap. is out on some sort of joy ride, and just to be Another snag which is causing Flossie some deep thoughts is the Jamaica question. It appears that Jack Toner was telling Flossie the other day about the rivers of rum in Jamaica in which he had taken swimming lessons; mountains of sugar which he had sealed. Also about the flying fish which abound in that part of the world. Jack said that the fish used to fly on deck and some of the specimens, which had more inquisitive natures than others, would fly down the ventilators of the ship right on to the plates on the table below.

"Well," says Flossie, after Jack had finished his educational disclosure. "I believe about the rivers of rum and the mountains of sugar, but I'm jack rabbit if I can swallow the flying fish dope." Now the library of the Fleet has been augmented with all sorts of ten cent fish yarns which Flossie reads in bed to try and elucidate the flying fish dope. Flossie will give ten cents to anyone who can verify Jack's statement, and thinks that if fish can be caught that easy why the blazes the fishermen are bothering about hooking 'em.

The Bringgold, Captain Gust, left for the halibut fishing grounds on Thursday morning. Cap. is a strong prohibitionist, when asleep, and nothing will get his goat quicker than for anyone to ask him to have a drink and then put water in it.

The Arcadian, Captain J. Morrison, having completed a general gear overhaul, left port early Friday morning for the wide and open sea.

The Bethune, Captain J. Bigbury, with Jack Smith his first mate, arrived in port on Wednesday night, after a prospecting trip for herring. While they had somewhat of a catch the going was not as good as they had expected, the herring still being a little too deep. However, the two J's, have their eye on some first class herring producing grounds and hit for the open sea again on Thursday, behind a smoke cloud.

The N. M. & R. Captain Rorick, arrived in port Wednesday night, and claims to have located a large school of herring. Having overhauled gear they are outward bound with the idea of teaching the school the folly of trying to hide in such a small on the safe side the Admiral has ordered the Cow Bay orchestra to practice up The Wedding March in readiness for Harry's return.

The Mayflower owned by Captain Jud Thurber, having taken ice and bait aboard from the Gold Storage, cleared for the deep sea fishing grounds on Thursday afternoon.

The blasting work on the Cow Bay roadway is practically completed, and the bridge is now almost a finished product. While the roadway is not yet open for vehicular traffic, the pedestrians are busy trying it out. The bay is certainly putting on a snappy appearance these days.

The Volunteer returned to port Wednesday night with a good sized cargo of Mink furs of first-class quality. With the advent of the halibut fishing, this old sea dog, will hit for the high seas over the week end.

The Malamute, Captain Nick Carter, left port on Thursday morning for the halibut fisheries.

Flossie Flirt is still busy on her vacuum fishing idea and the plans have reached gigantic proportions. All the good silver handled carving knives around the Mug Up have been practically ruined through Flossie sharpening pencils with them. However, the idea is still shaping, and Jack says if the plans are no good in the finish hell use them for papering the walls with as they look more like old English tapestry designs every day.

Flossie is cursing her luck these days, the weather last Saturday ruined the State Ice Carnival and the skating exhibition did not mature as a consequence. As the sweet thing says, "If a guy can bring down rain at ten cents per gallon why the dickens can't a guy work out a scheme to stop the rain at double the price?" Here is a power which some scientist might sit up night's figuring out.

Another snag which is causing Flossie some deep thoughts is the Jamaica question. It appears that Jack Toner was telling Flossie the other day about the rivers of rum in Jamaica in which he had taken swimming lessons; mountains of sugar which he had sealed. Also about the flying fish which abound in that part of the world. Jack said that the fish used to fly on deck and some of the specimens, which had more inquisitive natures than others, would fly down the ventilators of the ship right on to the plates on the table below.

"Well," says Flossie, after Jack had finished his educational disclosure. "I believe about the rivers of rum and the mountains of sugar, but I'm jack rabbit if I can swallow the flying fish dope." Now the library of the Fleet has been augmented with all sorts of ten cent fish yarns which Flossie reads in bed to try and elucidate the flying fish dope. Flossie will give ten cents to anyone who can verify Jack's statement, and thinks that if fish can be caught that easy why the blazes the fishermen are bothering about hooking 'em.

The Banaco completed her overhaul at the N. M. McLean yards during the week, and is now earning a little revenue on the halibut fishing grounds.

The Lear Bros. of the N. & S. are contemplating having a new keel laid at the N. M. McLean ship yards. The dimensions of the new boat will be 45 feet, 6 inches x 11 foot beam and 6 foot depth. The motive power will be supplied by the engine of the N. & S. which will be transferred to the new boat.

Captain J. Petersen states that his new craft will be off the N. M. McLean slips in very short order now. When the hull gets out in the open Mac is going to commence work on the pilot house.

H. R. McMillan of the Big Bay Lumber Company arrived in the city on Wednesday, and left for the Georgetown mill on the S. S. McGuffoch on Thursday.

Jack Toner has a very beautiful illuminated address elegantly framed and hung up at the entrance to the culinary department of the Mug Up, which reads thus:

Late to bed,
Early to rise,
Hustle like Hell
And advertise.
Fish Day, February 1.

Dan of the Fleet had rather an exciting experience during the week. The story goes that Dan arrived in port after a strenuous two weeks fishing cruise and longing for a sight of the broad white way, proceeded up town to make up a little jollification. Having collected a few old acquaintances Dan hied to a quiet little rendezvous only known to himself and started in to make the happy gathering a happier one. The fun waxed long and strong until the early hours of the morning, during which time Dan had taken part in several chancing competitions, that is chasing Tom and Jerry without water. He got sleepy during the proceedings and having divested himself of his outer raiment lay down on the floor to sleep.

Everything was going fine in the land of nod till someone with more shoe leather than brains, gave Dan a strenuous tap in the ribs, demanding to know what he was doing in the hen house. Dan sleepily sat up and thinking he was once more aboard the lugger yelled for the skipper. However, the donor of the shoe leather soon acquainted the sleepy one with the fact that he was in his hen house. Dan quickly realized his position and with one bound hit the high road in his B. V. D.'s, for the floating home in Cow Bay. His colleagues aboard the lugger, who had gone to bed like good boys, early in the evening, were astonished upon being awakened by a figure garbed in white clambering aboard. Now the S.S. of the Fleet are working on the case trying to find out who put Dan in the hen house, and are also endeavoring to persuade the lifter of the outer garments to return them to Dan's wardrobe, as he needs them in his business.

The Livingston II, Captain Tony Martinsen, arrived in port on Thursday with one of her port holes, right aft on the starboard side, sov in through the force of a heavy sea encountered on the halibut fisheries. Repairs were made in quick order at the N. M. McLean yards, and the Livingston is off again for the banks.

HOUSE WHERE HISTORY MADE

Lloyd George's Residence, 10 Downing Street, Most Famous Private House in Britain.

No. 10, Downing Street, London, is the most famous private house in the world.

It is the residence of Mr. Lloyd George and has been the home of Prime Ministers for the past two hundred years. Downing Street is a little blind alley off Whitehall. Two steps lead up to No. 10, which has a plain oak door with a wrought iron knocker.

A fine fireplace is a feature of the carpeted hall which leads to the waiting room. This room has a mahogany table and many spacious armchairs, and writing materials of every description for the use of visitors. A quaint little garden may be seen from the window.

The Cabinet Room.

The most interesting room, where all important meetings are held, is the Cabinet room. It is in this room that the Cabinet held its midnight sitting on August 3rd, 1914, to decide whether there should be war with Germany. Mr. Lloyd George has stated that this was the most dramatic moment of his life.

WEAK HEART NERVES BADLY SHATTERED

Many a woman who should be strong and healthy, full of life and energy, is bound by the shackles of ill-health.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of a weak heart, shattered nerves, impoverished blood and an exhausted condition of the whole system.

In

they will find a remedy that will supply food for the exhausted nerves, one that will strengthen and regulate the weak heart and invigorate the whole system.

Mrs. W. W. Pearse, 44 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I was left with a weak heart and in a run down condition from the 'flu.' My nerves were badly shattered, and I had such pains around my heart I could not sleep much at night. I took several doctors' medicines without getting any better. My husband got me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve pills, and after I took one box I got relief, and after taking six boxes I have been well and not bothered since."

SMITHERS

The Smithers Electric Limited has signed its agreement with the railway company for the supply of electricity for light in the town. The poles are now being wired and the machinery is expected at any time.

The Arctic Ice Co. has received the contract for the supply of ice on the mountain division of the Canadian National Railways. It is being cut at Lake Kathlyn and will be taken to the ice houses at Prince Rupert, Pacific, Smithers, Endako and Prince George. About 10,000 tons will be cut and the work will take about two months.

Miss Florence Gray sprained her ankle at a hockey practice this week and is taking an enforced holiday from her work at the Union Bank.

Unofficial Breakfast.
The Premier breakfasts at 8:30 and usually entertains a guest. The famous Downing Street unofficial breakfast conferences have decided many important questions.

The reception room is a splendid apartment. There is an inner room which is the Prime Minister's sanctum, and which used to be Gladstone's favorite breakfast room.

For all its power and authority No. 10 is a simple and unassuming house. Most of those who knock are admitted. The residence of the Premier is as accessible as any house in London.

Built in 1674.

Downing Street was built in 1674 by Sir George Downing, a supporter of Cromwell. He received a grant of the property in Whitehall, later known as Downing Street, and built the row of houses there. He occupied No. 10 himself.

After Downing's death the house passed to the Government and has since been used as an official residence.

Among famous Prime Ministers who occupied the house were Sir Robert Walpole, William Pitt the elder, William Pitt the younger, George Canning, the Duke of Wellington, Sir Robert Peel, Lord Palmerston, Earl Russell, Gladstone, and Disraeli.

The house has been associated with most of the greatest moments in British history. Here Lord Liverpool received news of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar and Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo.
