Near East Situation Looks Brighter Again.

The crisis in the Near East is apparently simmering down again although Constantinople is in a disorderly condition and the situation is generally unsettled.

Put Straits Under League Of Nations.

Lord Robert Cecil, one of the creators of the League of Nations and now prominent in its councils, analyzing the problems that will confront delegates to the approaching conference on the neutralization of the Dardanelles, which is to follow the Near East Peace Conference, declared that in his opinion, and also the opinion of League members who have studied the situation, there is no satisfactory solution possible except to hand over the Straits to League control.

The question now resolves itself into getting Turkey to assent in principle to freedom of the Straits, subject to her own belligerent rights, and undertake not to fortify them nor to maintain submarine bases there, he added.

Freedom of Dardanelles As Necessary Now As Ever.

It is pointed out in this connection that a view now holding is that when any nation is at war, its entire civil population likewise is at war, therefore food and other supplies destined for any civil population may be stopped if the enemy has the power to do so.

It is noted that the freedom of the Straits once was considered necessary, especially in case of a general war, with Russia lined up as a European ally.

Would Also Remove Burden From Turks.

It is mentioned, for instance, that in case of war between Rumania and Turkey, the neutral powers would find interests in the struggle which would make League control of the Straits a distinct asset.

"Any international supervision of the Straits is sure to be found impracticable. The League of Nations will have to do it without armed forces."

"In order to deal with the situation, we are obliged to cast our pre-war conceptions overboard. It is curious, but most people, who discuss the Straits still think in terms of eight years ago.

SUFFERED YEARS WITH ECZEMA

"Fruit-a-tives" Cleared Her Skin

POINTE St. PIERRE, P.Q. "I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of "Sotha-Salva" and two boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return.

I think it is marvellous because no other medicine did me any good until I used "Sotha-Salva" and "Fruit-a-tives", the wonderful medicine made from fruit.

HIGH SCHOOL MAGAZINE IS OFF PRESSES

Attractive Publication Makes Its First Appearance and is Worthwhile Effort

One of the most interesting publications that has made its appearance in Prince Rupert in many a day is "The Aurora," Prince Rupert High School magazine. The first number is just off the Rose, Cowan & Latta presses.

The opening article is an interesting history of Prince Rupert High School which tells of pioneer conditions and contains interesting biographies of the ten students who made their appearance on the opening day in 1912.

Replete with poems and verses, all manner of witty sayings and humorous personalities composed by the students, and carrying withal a fine lot of advertising matter, "The Aurora" is a publication reflecting much credit upon those who got it out and it should be received with much pleasure and appreciation by the public generally.

It is a quarterly publication.

REV. JAMES EVANS OF SMITHERS IS GOING TO VISIT ENGLAND

SMITHERS, Nov. 18. - Rev. James Evans, the former popular pastor of the Union Church, has been touring Saskatchewan, Alberta and the Peace River district as circuit manager for the Dominion Chautauquas Ltd. He reports a successful season in spite of hard times and is now finishing up a fall tour in Manitoba and Ontario.

LLOYD GEORGE JR. ELECTED. PEMBROKE, Nov. 18. - Major Gwilym Lloyd George, son of the ex-Premier, was elected to the House of Commons by a tremendous majority.

JUNIOR CHOIR GAVE CONCERT

Methodist Church Young People Delighted Large Gathering Last Night

The Methodist Church was crowded last night on the event of the second annual concert of the Methodist Junior Choir. The concert was a splendid success and was given under the capable direction of H. C. Higgins.

On the curtain being raised the choir gallery presented a very picturesque and animated appearance, the entire Junior Choir being dressed in costume representing "The Entente," the whole being offset with an appropriate colored backing of Canadian, Union Jack and American flags. The tableau was greeted with considerable applause.

First Half

Each girl member of the choir sang a patriotic song or gave a recitation befitting her respective part. The costumed chorus included Miss Bessie Derry, as Canada; Miss Sundaie Calderone, as Italy; Miss Winnifred Dibb, as Belgium; Miss Margaret Kergin, as New Zealand; Miss Gladys Bowd, as America; Miss Ella Steen, as India; Miss Mary Reid, as France; Miss Catherine Irvine, as Australia; Miss Grace Ackroyd, as Hellanria; Jack Stevens, as John Bull; Eddie McLean, as a sailor; and Bruce Stevens, as a soldier. Other members of the Junior Choir included the Misses D. Christenson, Winnie Exley, Dorothy Edgar, Agnes Edgar, Doris Gawthorn, Florrie Gawthorn, Victoria Krikovsky, Mary Murray, Connie Morgan and Doreen Woods.

The audience were very appreciative of the excellent manner in which the members of the tableau rendered their respective part.

Mr. Higgins, in addressing a few remarks to the audience on the success of the Junior Choir, said that the singing child was necessarily a happy child, and that it was the responsibility of parents to encourage their children to sing and not to discourage them as was often the case. He said that singing had its influence on children mentally, morally and physically.

Second Half

The second half of the program was opened with a piano-forte solo by Miss M. A. Way entitled "Etude" (Paganini-Liszt), a well deserved encore being demanded.

Principal J. C. Brady gave a particularly entertaining reading "Serouge's Xmas Awakening," by Charles Dickens.

A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Stockdale, "The boy who Stuttered and the Girl who Lipped," was much enjoyed and as an encore "The Avroplane Song," was given.

Mastee William Murray, a pupil of Professor Pryce, gave a violin solo "Humoreske" (Dvorak) in which he displayed a clever mastery of his instrument, an encore being willingly given.

Principal J. C. Brady gave a recitation of "How the Major Proposed," in his most humorous manner, which was much appreciated. As an encore he gave a very laughable talk on his experience with Algy while on a picnic last summer in a boat purchased from a friend. Mr. Brady injected a lot of local color and humor into the story which was very laughable.

A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Stockdale, in costume, entitled "Darby and Joan" was exceedingly well performed and came in for loud applause. As an encore they sang "Dancing I am Growing Old."

The singing of "Old King Cole" and the National Anthem by the entire Junior Choir, conducted by H. C. Higgins, brought a very enjoyable and splendidly executed musical program to a close.

Defence Witnesses Took Stand Yesterday Afternoon

The proceedings in the police court Friday afternoon in the case of Dan Campbell charged with selling whiskey were the liveliest that have been seen for some time. All the witnesses were defence witnesses and T. B. Hooper for the crown cross-examined every one of them very closely. M. Gonzalez appearing for the defence rose a number of times to object to the manner of examination.

Ald. J. H. Kelly was called to the stand when the court opened to produce a sheet from his ledger showing that Peter Black had paid him for work done at the hotel on October 14, the day in question. Witness stated that he had been up and down stairs most of the day and that the accused was not behind the bar at any time. A man named Hans was taking his place. Hans Giske, the bartender, was the next man called. He said he had started on October 11 and a few days after had taken Campbell's shift in the morning and was relieved of night duty. At noon that day he was relieved by Stevens. Campbell, he said in answer to a question, was not feeling well and appeared first at 8 p.m.

Cross Examination

Mr. Hooper in cross-examining the witness asked if he had sold beer in the club. Witness answered in the affirmative.

"Did you know you were breaking the law?" asked Mr. Hooper. "I claim protection for the witness," interjected Mr. Gonzalez.

"I repeat my question," the crown came back.

"Yes," the witness answered adding that he had to do something to make a living and there were lots of others breaking the law.

"Did you ever sell whiskey in the club or hear of it being sold?"

"No," was the answer.

Witness was asked if he had ever been in trouble before and replied that he had not except for the beer-selling charge.

"Do you know Eva Pennington," asked the crown.

"Yes," witness replied.

After plying him with a number of other questions Mr. Hooper asked the witness if Captain Parsons had not spoken to him or Montgomery in the morning after being in the witness box. Witness denied it.

"You had better be careful and think, Giske," warned Mr. Hooper.

"He said, 'Hello,'" remembered the witness.

"Did you talk to Frank Stevens?"

"I saw him at lunch," was the reply.

Murdock Montgomery

Murdock Montgomery, a fisherman on the James Carruthers, was the next witness. He told of knowing Campbell for twenty years and of being at the front with him. He went to the Central Club on Friday, October 13, in the evening and was talking to Campbell at the bar when Campbell went to open a jar of fish and it fell and broke. Witness said Campbell stated that the thirteenth was unlucky for him. He stayed with Campbell in his room that night and got up about 11.30 the next morning. Campbell was still in bed and said he was not feeling well.

Mr. Hooper in cross-examining, got the witness to tell of meeting Constable Dixon at the club when he was attired in rough clothes. Witness said he was introduced to him by a friend as an ex-mounted policeman. Dixon, according to the witness, had stated that he had "beaten" his way from Edmonton and that he was broke. In reply to a question, witness added that Dixon was bumming around the place.

"Have you ever been convicted in court," Mr. Hooper questioned.

"No," replied the witness.

"Were you ever fined for being drunk?"

"Yes," the witness admitted.

"You forgot that conveniently," suggested Mr. Hooper.

"I do not call that a conviction," the witness retorted.

That the Western Canada Hockey League is an important unit in developing Canada's social life is the opinion of Frank A. Patrick, president of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association. The prairie organization is bringing new blood and new ideas into the professional hockey world and, what is more important, is helping to bridge the gap which lies between the Far East and the Far West in a unifying bond of sportsmanship, Mr. Patrick says.

The schedule of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association which has just commenced is said to be the most varied and exhaustive time-table that has ever been compiled for the edification of hockey fans. It will give southern coast followers of the game

Doings of the Mosquito Fleet which is the chief source of Prince Rupert's prosperity

The Admiral of the Mosquito Fleet reports that the recent heavy wind and rain storms made the situation very precarious along the waterfront at times this week although, in spite of a few untoward happenings on the high spots, the amount of fish marketed has been well up to the average.

On Wednesday morning a gale was blowing from the south-west and a number of the halibut boats were compelled to put back into port.

The waterfront was visited by a particularly high south-west wind on Thursday morning which kept everybody on the jump in the vicinity of Gow Bay. Serious damage to the boats was only prevented by the arduous work of fishermen around there at the time.

The power boat Iris, Capt. B. Hanson, and the Verna L., owned by Bob Leighton, broke away from their moorings at the Rupert Marine wharf on Tuesday night. Both boats were rescued by the Police boat and returned safely to their moorings.

Once again we have to report the misdoings of the halibut chaser Cayceon, skippered and owned by one named Jim Morrison. This time she lost her raft of buoy flags and came into port early in the week without a flag flying.

The Canadian schooner Thelma, Capt. George Fritz, suffered as the result of a storm which struck her off Cape Omineca and was ashore for twenty-four hours. She lost her cable chain and anchor and only made port with great difficulty.

Pachena Hunting Party
The Pachena, Capt. A. Swanson, returned to port early in the week after an eight day hunting trip to the head of Gardner Canal. Accompanying the Cap. were Police Commissioner E. H. Shockley, E. C. Gibbons and R. Gammon.

The hunters were loud in their praises of the trip and from the bag of game which they got one cannot blame them. The bag included two goats, four deer, eight geese, 80 Mallard ducks, and last, but by no means least, a big brown bear which fell to the gun of E. H. Shockley. Of course there is a long story to the bear killing but suffice to say that Mr. Shockley was all on his lone-some when the dirty deed was done and he did it single handed so to speak. The bears around Gardner Canal are not used to seeing such celebrities visiting the country and it was owing to the inquisitive nature of Britin that a live shell was introduced to his brainbox. Cap. Swanson says the goats up there got your goat trying to hunt them as they keep so high up in the hills.

Boats Adrift
The power boat Iris, Capt. B. Hanson, and the Verna L., owned by Bob Leighton, broke away from their moorings at the Rupert Marine wharf on Tuesday night. Both boats were rescued by the Police boat and returned safely to their moorings.

Keyosu Docks
The old reliable halibut boat Keyosu, Capt. Art Oswald, is being given the once over on the Seal Cove Marine ways. The dance hall floor was badly cut up by someone dancing with nails in his boots and this is to be repaired. Several additions are also being made to the domestic end of the boat, and the tinware is to be replaced with some hand-painted stunts done by Professor Smeardbrush.

New Oil Station
W. J. Dimsmore, northern manager, and Clark E. Johnson, assistant engineer of the General Petroleum Company, recently visited Ketchikan, Alaska, in the interests of their company. They announce that a permanent oil station will be put there shortly. The floating station established there by the company some time ago has been very successful and someone who owned a red flannel pellicot and on banded knees was able to obtain it from the owner. After her skipper sat up all night cutting out flags, the Cayceon is once again able to ply her trade properly equipped. She left port on Thursday morning with her new flags flying at full mast although unfortunately the skipper had not cut all the buttons off and these looked somewhat unsightly, otherwise he had made a good job of the cutting and hemstitching. The motto of this story is, never wear anything red.

Hand Lancers Return
J. Currie returned to port recently with his donkey engine which had been in use at Wark Channel in connection with his logging operations. The donkey engine is now being used by its owner on the repair work at the Albert & McCaffrey wharf. The logs which had been taken out have been picked up by the tug McCullough and towed to the Georgetown mill. This will complete Mr. Currie's logging operations for the season.

Where is Frenchy?
Much apprehension is being caused in local nautical circles over the prolonged absence of Capt. Frenchy of the coastal liner Snipe. The efforts of the fleet secret service have failed to find any trace of him although it is known that he was seen on Dundas Island looking for some buried wire with which to fix up his engine. Cap. has been living in the hopes of being able to find a suitable mate for Olof and his unsuccessful attempt may be proving upon his mind it is thought. Repeated efforts to get in touch with his wireless station have not been conducive of results.

Bill Has Left Us.
The one and only William J. Cash, manager of the Booth Canadian Fisheries for a while, and known along the waterfront as Bill, has gone and left us. Yes sir, he got aboard the Prince George on Thursday night while the purser wasn't looking and left for Seattle. A lot of fellow's were down at the boat. Bill thought they had gone to see him off but it was nothing of the sort. The boys went down to see that he actually did go. Poor old Bill. He always meant well and probably some one or other will miss the smile that wouldn't come off. He was very useful in many ways especially for getting the fish sales from in the moon hour. It is understood that Bill has gone to join his family in Seattle. If his family are pleased to see him arrive in Seattle as the boys were sorry to see him go, all we can say is that he should have moving pictures taken of his welcome home. There was one good trail about Bill, he always left his tobacco pouch lying around unguarded and he had a good taste for tobacco. Several of us will miss the free fills now. Bill was not Scotch, quite to the contrary. What he really was doesn't matter but we do know he was a white man. The waterfront boys wish him good luck in spite of his funny ways.

The old reliable Beaver Cove changed hands this week. She was formerly owned by skipper Bud Corley, and will now be put into commission in the hand logging business around Queen Charlotte Islands.

Fresh Salmon Arrives
The troller Violet, Cap Thompson, arrived from Wark Channel early in the week with a cargo of fresh salmon. The cargo was readily disposed of locally and the Violet left on her return trip on Thursday morning.

Lumber Shipped East
The tug McCullough, Capt. H. Clifton, left port on Thursday morning for the Georgetown mill, to help in two scows. One scow was loaded with fish boxes for the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company and the other was loaded with four carloads of lumber for western shipment over the Canadian National lines. The lumber shipment was for Winnipeg, one West L. Ontario, one Oshawa, Ont. and one for Toronto.

Flossie and Sandy
Flossie has written a particularly interesting epistle to the Admiral this week which is full of news and pathos, although it starts rather harsh. Here we go. "Dear Admiral:—The letter carrier nearly got brain fever trying to read what you had said on the outside of the envelope. If you can't write say it with flowers. Would you believe it, that lanky octopus faced piece of limburger cheese Sandy Stush has gone and written me from Fort William where he is work-

Suffered from PIMPLES & BLOTCHES for Fifteen Years
When the blood becomes impure it is only natural that pimples, blotches, boils or some other blood trouble will manifest itself by breaking out of the system. There is only one way to get rid of these obnoxious skin troubles, and that is by giving the impure blood a thorough cleansing by the use of a good blood purifier such as
