ANOTHER GRAIN CARGO FROM HERE TO ORIENT

Charter has been arranged for a steamer to take another cargo of grain from the Alberta Wheat Pool's Prince Rupert elevator to the Orient this fall, it is reported. The name of the boat which will take this cargo is not yet known. The Dutch steamer Maasburg, which was originally to have come here to load for United Kingdom or Continent in October, has been diverted to Vancouver. Before another grain cargo can be loaded here more wheat will have to arrive from the prairies.

BASKETBALL EXCITEMENT

Grotto Won From C. N. R. A. in Fast and Furious Senior Hoop Game Last Night

Other Matches

Tuxis Beat Merchants in Intermediate—Amazons Win in Ladies' League

Excitement was a prominent factor in last night's card of basketball games. The senior game between the Canadian National Recreation Association and the Grotto was fast and furious. The Grotto, with fast-charging plays, completely baffled the fast-stepping C. N. R. A. 31-25.

The intermediate game, although not as interesting as last Tuesday's game, was also of an aggressive nature. The Tuxis, hitting their stride in the last few minutes, defeated the heavy charging Merchants 30-23.

The ladies' game proved to be a one-sided affair in which the Amazons easily took the Comets 22-12. In the Junior League, Rovers defeated Japanese 11 to 9.

Senior Game
Right from the start of the senior game the Grotto pressed hard and showed the C. N. R. A. that they would need a lot more than neat passing to take them into camp. Fast dribbling, passing and a fast five-man attack gave the Grotto the edge from the start. C. N. R. A. tried to play the same style of game they used against the Kalens but, with the heavy checking of the Grotto, they were completely baffled. In the last few minutes of the game, the C. N. R. A. started to change their style of play which made the game again (Continued on Page Two)

SHAKE-UP IN KINGSTON PEN STAFF FORESEEN AS RESULT OF RIOTS; COWARDICE TALK

Rigid Investigation Being Conducted by Superintendent of Penitentiaries—Five Prisoners Were Injured and Damage is Placed at $5000

KINGSTON, Oct. 22:—Just a "corporal's guard" of troops remains in Portsmouth Penitentiary today. All through the night the big grey pile was quiet. Today a rigid investigation of the recent riots is in progress, Brigadier-General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of Canadian penitentiaries, questioning every one of the more than nine hundred prisoners in the institution.

According to persistent reports a number of guards will also be called "on to the carpet" for rumors of cowardice in dealing with the disorders have been prevalent for some days. A shake-up in the prison staff is also predicted.

The complete toll of casualties and damage during the week is as follows:

At least five convicts slightly wounded, two on Monday and three on Thursday.

Damage on Monday estimated at $700, the total being brought to $5000 on Thursday.

Redistribution of the prisoners was completed last night when 100 were taken from their cells and marched under heavy guard to the new women's prison building which was recently completed. They had been instrumental in starting Thursday's disorders.

All prisoners, some of whom had not been fed for twenty-four hours, were given their evening meal.

Report to Minister

OTTAWA, Oct. 22:—"All is quiet at Portsmouth but the prisoners are in a sullen mood," according to a report received today by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice, from Kingston.

SAFETY FIRST

To Relieve Pain, Stick to ASPIRIN

The public should be prudent in seeking relief from pain. Take nothing which does not have the approval of the medical profession.

Aspirin will never do you any harm, and almost always brings the desired relief. But remember that the high medical endorsement given Aspirin does not apply to all tablets for relief of pain.

Doctors use Aspirin for these important reasons:

It has no injurious ingredients. It contains nothing which can depress the heart. No coarse particles to irritate throat or stomach. Nothing to upset the system. Not even any disagreeable taste.

And to the absolute safety of Aspirin tablets, add speed. Aspirin dissolves so rapidly that you get the quickest relief from your headache, cold, neuralgia, neuritis, or other pain.

"Aspirin" is a trade-mark registered in Canada

Result Of Forest Fire In Oregon

Once a forest fire gets under way there's no stopping it and if a town happens to be in the way—that's just too bad. Cochrane, Oregon, is a pile of debris today after a recent holocaust.

BASKETBALL EXCITEMENT

more exciting from the standpoint of the spectators. The Grotto players, however, were just too good for the railway boys and well deserved to win 31-25.

Grotto — Menzies, Currie (4), Ratchford (12), Morrison (9), Gurvich (3), Nakamoto (3).
C. N. R. A.—Johnson (2), Stiles (2), Kenny, Kelsey (10), Smith (11).

Intermediate League

Both Merchants and Tuxis seemed over-anxious in the beginning of the intermediate game. This indirectly caused fumbling. In the first half the Merchants, with their aggressive play, had the edge on the Tuxis, 12-11. The second half started out much the same as the first but, towards the end of the game, the fans were treated to another little surprise that often occurs in basketball. Hitting their stride of last year, the Tuxis showed just how it should be done and, consequently, were easily winners, 30-23.

Tuxis—Morrison (8), Nakamoto (15), Smith (1), Moxley (4), Hanson (2), Allen.

Merchants—Pierce (2), F. Dingwell, E. Dingwell (4), Hunt (9), Windle, Ross (6), McNulty (2).

Ladies' Game

After last Tuesday's game, the girls rather disappointed the fans. The Amazons had complete control of the game and, although the Comets fought hard, they did not have the co-ordination or team work to stand up to the Amazons. However, they are fast and, with practice, should give the other two teams a run.

Amazons—Boddie (4), Gurvich (4), Morris (10), Ritchie (4), Tite.
Comets—Steen, Morgan, Smith, McLeod (8), Johnson (2), Dickens (2).

Junior League

The junior boys put up an excellent and well-fought game. Both teams were out to win and there was very little to choose between the playing abilities of either side. The Rovers had lots of weight and used it freely while the Japanese depended entirely upon their cleverness.

In a close game like this, it can only be said that it was anybody's game to the last whistle and, as chance would have it, the Rovers scored that last basket to give them the game 11-9.

Rovers—McMeekin (2), Greer (3), Bremner (2), Willisroft, McRae, G. Willisroft (4).

Japanese—Nakamoto, Obata (4), Kishimoto (4), Kondo, Kanaya (1), Hirano.

Referees for the evening were J. C. Vurrie, W. Johnson, B. Irvine and R. Smith.

IN THE LETTER BOX

ECONOMIC SYSTEM

Editor, Daily News:—

From time to time the unemployed, individually and collectively, are the recipients of harsh criticism, generally voiced in the press. This is not resented, as we have the opportunity of self-defence, but it is calculated to prejudice public opinion and whitewash the authorities. Our representatives overstep the mark also and give offence and this is most reprehensible and any specific instances receive our joyful attention. We are human beings also and have to endure in addition all sorts of annoyances—flagrant discrimination, eviction from homes, jail and deportation for our active members. We are also accused of being habitual loafers when Sherlock Holmes himself would be baffled in tracking the now almost extinct job to its lair. Evidence the arrival of a grain boat when several hundred men almost break their necks in the forlorn hope of earning a few dollars and there are only jobs for the few. We are blamed for not submitting to the blind and blundering dictates of authority whose apparent aim is to get the people accustomed to low wages and the taxpayer continuously shrieks to high heaven that it is him and the likes of him who have to pay for all this.

The majority of us have not had employment for two years now and are tired of hearing about prosperity and suspect "there ain't no such thing." No mere "job" will compensate any man for the wholesale robbery of years of life. With your permission, Mr. Editor, I would like on behalf of the unemployed and their organization, to present a few facts (as we see them) in the hope of stirring up a more tolerant attitude towards our "idle poor." Unsightly slums invoke curses, not on the inmates but the system that is responsible for their existence. Similarly, when we behold unemployment, why blame the victims and add to their misery?

There are now two great divisions in the land—employed and unemployed—and the former refuse or dislike to recognize that we are all in the same boat. The National Unemployed Workers' Association is the only organization with machinery to function in periods of unemployment and this association, by its militant stand against lowered living conditions, wage-cuts, short time, etc., is in reality fighting everybody's battle and the sooner this is realized the better. Professional men, merchants and wage earners are now suffering reduction of their profits, incomes and wages, and wonder why. A year ago the unemployed in this district accepted the government's offer of a 70% wage cut and immediately nearly every industry followed suit.

Therefore the unemployed by passive submission will eventually and inevitably lower the standard of all to their own level.

We maintain that any system would be better than a system which periodically creates so much misery. While the principalities and powers of the earth are experimenting with tariffs and juggling with gold and silver standards, there is no sense in the people slowly perishing and we venture to assert that, even a temporary change of system would prove so successful, public opinion would never permit a reversion to the old system. Any government with the interests of the people at heart would sweep this system away with the stroke of a pen. There is no unemployment problem if we can only get men to represent us who are not tied down by die-hard precedent.

W. A. HOGG,
Committee-man,
N. U. W. A.

POSSIBLY BLOATED EGO

Editor, Daily News:—

I would like a little space in your valuable paper to find out a little more about this wonder-man (or human-gorilla) who hides his blunders as he sings psalms of praise about himself, under the nom-de-plume "Scrutineer."

He says that he could do as much work in one hour as the men referred to could do in two days—well, let him go ahead, no one will stop him.

I am sure that, if he only made his name public, it would not be long before he was hired, his glowing tribute to himself would be enough for any boss.

He concludes his letter with the words "Yours for a good day's work for a good day's pay," thus showing his ignorance of the whole thing.

My husband, child and myself receive the large amount of 81pc per meal to exist on and, if that is a good day's pay, I quit right now. Now if Scrutineer could work on this, let him go ahead but, doubtless, he is just another with a bloated ego, writing to you for the sole reason of seeing his literary efforts in print, so I don't think that the loafers on the job need be scared of being fired to make a place for Scrutineer.

As you will notice, Mr. Editor, I am not ashamed to put my name to the bottom of this.

"My husband says it's my prettiest dress"

"I want to tell you how I got acquainted with Diamond Tints," says a cordial letter from a Windsor woman. "I was in the drug store and saw some attractive Diamond Tint packages. The druggist told me they were for tinting light shades without boiling. He said they were made by the Diamond Dyes people. I have always used Diamond Dyes for dyeing dark colors and know they are the best dyes made. When I saw Diamond Tints I thought of a 2-year old dress which I had to quit wearing because it was so faded. I got a package and gave my dress the simple rinsing called for. It came out the loveliest shade—a lustrous, shimmering yellow. I have laundered it several times but have never had to retint. It certainly holds the color. I'm perfectly delighted with my new dress, as I call it, and my husband says it's the prettiest one I have."

Some Facts About Herring—Encouraging Prospects For Salmon Canneries and Whaling—Halibut Season Nears Close

Herring are all herring but investigations carried on in British Columbia waters show that the herring found in one area may be a population quite distinct from those in other areas. Or to put it in another way: The British Columbia herring fishery—a very important fishery whose product enters into large export trade—is centred off the east coast of Vancouver Island, off the island's west coast, and off the Prince Rupert district in the north, and evidence gathered by scientific investigators "proves conclusively" that herring of the Prince Rupert area (Jap Inlet and Pearl Harbor) are a population distinct from those of Vancouver Island.

Other evidence "indicates," too, that the fish on the east coast of the island are distinct from those of the other coast, while some of the information "suggests" that herring in each district are more or less isolated from each other and tend to form local populations.

Study State of Stocks

These are interesting points but the investigations have a much more important purpose, of course, than simply to discover things which are interesting to know. The prime object of the work, which has been in progress for several years under joint federal and provincial auspices and has been conducted by research workers of the Biological Board of Canada, is to determine whether or not the British Columbia stock of herring is satisfactorily withstanding the strain of intensive fishing. In accomplishing this purpose there must necessarily be a study of the age and length compositions of the stock "in order to detect any evidences of depletion" and a statistical analysis of "certain so-called 'racial' characters of the herring of each of the various fishing areas to determine the degree of intermingling and migration which takes place between them."

During the 1931-32 herring season almost 4,000 herring from the three main fishing areas were examined, and other samples had been studied in previous seasons. Here are some of the facts which were brought out, as given in a report by Albert L. Tester, one of the scientists concerned:

The average length of female herring was greater than the average length of the males, and, as found by previous investigators, female herring grow at a faster rate than the male fish.

Herring from the Prince Rupert area were characterized by their slow rate of growth as compared with that of herring in the more southern part of the province. Herring from the west coast of Vancouver Island had a rate of growth more rapid than that of herring on the east coast. Herring from some areas on each coast of the island grew somewhat more rapidly than fish from certain other areas on the same coast.

Herring from Sydney Inlet, on the west coast of the island, had a greater average length than those of any other district considered.

West Coast Fish Bigger

On the average, the fish from the west coast were slightly larger than those on the other side of the island, which were of approximately the same length as the herring from Prince Rupert.

Comparison of length composition and age composition of catches of herring which were made in several Vancouver Island areas in former years with those of the 1931-32 season "indicates" some diminution of the fishery in these districts since 1916.

The relatively new fishery of Sydney Inlet is characterized by the large average length of the fish in the catch, and by the large percentage of fish in their fourth and fifth years.

"Intensive fishing in a particular district," says the Tester report, "appears to cause a decrease in size range, a decrease in average length, and a decrease in the numbers of older fish in the catch. Whether the fishery, having suffered this decline, again stabilizes itself at a lower level, i.e., younger fish, and consequently smaller size, or whether it continues to decline to the point of depletion, remains to be determined."

The salmon pack on this coast for the 1932 season up to October 8 just passed the million case mark with a production of 1,000,208 cases, as against 662,031 cases at a similar date last year, according to an official statement issued by the fisheries department.

The pack per species for the coast was as follows, figures for last year being also given for comparison:

	1932	1931
Sockeye	275,235	282,740
Springs	72,422	26,027

Salmon Outlook Rosy

The market for British Columbia canned salmon has shown a stiffening tendency recently, especially on pinks, the pack of this variety having been below expectations. The pink output is not considered in excess of domestic requirements while there has been a good demand for shipments to Australia and New Zealand as well as Canadian markets with the result that the supply is already running short. During the season the case price has advanced from $3 to $4. The old pack in all lines was cleaned up by July 1 and the requirements of the coming year must be met entirely from this season's pack. Sales of sockeye have been very fair while it is considered certain that the rather large chum pack will be cleaned up in view of the shortage of pinks. All things considered, it looks as if the packers of British Columbia will go into 1933 with very little salmon on hand. The trade preference on canned fish from Canada bestowed by other nations of the Empire at the recent Ottawa conference will also have its beneficial effect. It is confidently expected that prices and other factors will warrant operations on at least a normal scale by the time the next packing season opens. The outlook for the salmon canning industry appears, indeed, to be more promising than it has been in some considerable time.

T. H. Johnson, general manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., and John Dybhavn, president of the Royal Fish Co., were elected directors of the Canadian Fisheries Association at the recent annual convention in Quebec City.

The Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. is continuing a practice which it started some years ago of sending out each month to every one of its customers an attractive blotter bearing a calendar for the month and a list of British Columbia fishes in season during the month together with the company's name and a cut of the Prince Rupert plant with an attractive fish design. The blotters are very handy and appear to be prized by the company's customers.

Encouraging news also comes from the whaling industry. The fact that oil prices have gone up thirty percent within the past two months is expected to have a direct and beneficial bearing on the future of this industry. If the trend is definitely maintained, and there appears to be every indication that the upward movement will continue, it will mean the resumption of the whaling industry on this coast including the plants at Rose Harbor and Naden Harbor on the Queen Charlotte Islands. During the past year, owing to the deflated market, these plants together with the entire whaling fleet were idle.

Extremely rough weather was reported recently on the halibut banks of the Westward where the larger boats of the American fleet operate. Capt. Dave Hassel of the Seattle schooner Columbia reported that his vessel did not have one full day's fishing during an entire trip, storms invariably interfering and forcing suspension of operations. Capt. Paul Pedersen of the schooner Aleutian reported having never before in his long experience encountered such rough weather. Capt. Nels Forde reported having encountered a storm in the Gulf of Alaska which punished his schooner, the Superior, very severely. The vessel was forced to run into Yakutat with four feet of water in her hold, later making permanent repairs at Ketchikan after marketing the catch at Prince Rupert.

Capt. H. Nesland, owner of the Seattle halibut schooner Seattle and well known at Prince Rupert, has recovered sufficiently from a serious illness during the past summer to permit his appearing around halibut headquarters at Pier 8 in Seattle recently. He will probably not resume active work in the fishing until next season, however.

T. H. Johnson, general manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., is now on his regular fall business trip to branches and agents of the company through the eastern states and Canada. On his way east, Mr. Johnson visited Vancouver and Seattle. Mr. Johnson recently intimated that the outlook for the winter frozen fish trade was improving a little. While an element of uncertainty was introduced by the early opening of the halibut fishing season, he said that the carry-over of frozen fish was not large and that several other phases of the situation looked more encouraging than a year ago.

Halibut Landings

With landings exceptionally light at a total of 332,000 pounds of which 16,000 pounds was from Canadian vessels and 286,000 pounds from American, halibut prices showed somewhat of a revival at Prince Rupert during the past week. The high price of the week for Canadian fish was 5c and 2c while the low was 4c and 2c. For American fish the high price of the week was 7.5c and 3c while the Fremont received for 12,000 pounds and the low 2.5c and 2c.

For the season up to and including October 21 landings at Prince Rupert had reached a total of 13,370,850 pounds of which 3,972,250 pounds was accounted for by Canadian boats and 9,898,600 pounds by American. For the 1931 season up to a similar date landings had reached a total of 15,107,240 pounds including 5,474,100 pounds from Canadian boats and 9,633,140 pounds from American.

son in Area No. 2, from Willapa Bar to Cape Fairweather, today, fishing is practically over as far as the Canadian fleet is concerned, most of the boats, indeed, being already in port and tied by. Fishing will continue until November 1 in the "westward area" and some of the larger of the American vessels will, no doubt, continue operations until that time. The first week in November, however, is expected to see the last of the season's catches in.
