Train Crashed At Missouri Station

SWATOW HARBOR IS JAMMED WITH WRECKAGE AND BODIES

Sixty Are Killed in Awful Railway Station Collision

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Missouri, Aug. 7.—The death list may be sixty in a train wreck which resulted when the engineer of a Missouri Pacific express failed to observe the signals and crashed into a stationary local train at the station here. The engineer of the express was the only person affected on that train and he was killed.

Forty-two other bodies from the local train have been recovered and about a dozen more are missing. About 100 were injured and some of these are dying. Twelve Boy Scouts are among the dead. The balance of the scout contingent, which was being camped, assisted the only doctor available for hours in the rescue and first aid work.

There were terrible scenes in the wreck with the dead, wounded and survivors in a welter of disaster. Women dragged their dead children out of the wreckage and others rushed about looking for missing relatives.

PILOTAGE WAR IS ABOUT OVER

Difficulties of Two Companies in The South to be Settled by Amalgamation

It is announced in Vancouver that arrangements are being made whereby the present unsettled condition of pilotage on the coast will be remedied by the amalgamation of the B.C. Pilotage Association and the Vancouver Pilots Limited, which bodies have been competing bitterly for business for the past six months.

The new system shall be under the sole management of a committee of seven composed of one appointee from each of the Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo Boards of Trade and three pilots, one of which shall be from the Vancouver Pilots Limited and two from the B.C. Pilotage Association, the seventh member, not a pilot, to be president of the board. The arrangement has been generally ratified by the organizations affected and will go into effect on October 1, it is expected.

Capt. H. L. Robertson, formerly of this city, is a member of the Vancouver Pilots Limited and Capt. C. W. Wearmouth, also formerly here, is a member of the B.C. Pilotage Association.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—James Stewart and W. F. Riddell have definitely refused to accept positions on the new Canadian wheat board under the conviction that the board cannot function properly except with the full powers enjoyed during its war time existence. It is understood that the farmers now intend to recommend H. W. Wood and T. A. Greer.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—H. W. Wood, of Calgary, has been ordered the chairmanship of the Canada Wheat Board.

JACK VENABLES IS BACK HOME

Much Pleased With Prospects of Exhibits From Interior for Fair.

"I have been received everywhere with the greatest courtesy and there is prevalent among the boards of trade, citizens' committees and the farmers generally throughout the interior a feeling that the Prince Rupert Exhibition is doing a great work for the northern part of British Columbia. To sum the trip up I can honestly say that it has been very successful and most encouraging," said Jack Venables, manager of the Northern B. C. Agricultural and Industrial Association, on his return last night from a trip to the interior. Mr. Venables states that he has received promises from six interior points to put in district exhibits at the exhibition this year. Telkwa is endeavoring to make up a car of dairy stock from farms in the immediate vicinity and several places along the line have promised mineral displays. From Fort Fraser it is anticipated the exhibition will get some Indian exhibits.

The country along the Canadian National is very dry—the driest in fact for 12 years or more, says Mr. Venables. At the same time the crops seem to be scattered. There will be a very fair crop in some places while in others they will be very poor. The country is on fire from one end to the other and every available man has been pressed into service to fight it. Around the Babine district is the worst part where miles and miles of fine timber are burning. A little rain at Smithers, Telkwa and Hazelton the latter part of last week helped the crops somewhat. The hay crop available is being cut but it is not very good.

Mr. Venables states that he can see a very great improvement in the interior country since he was through there five years ago and the one thing which struck him with particular pleasure were the great strides that had been made in the dairy industry. He was much impressed with the fine dairy at Vanderhoof and thinks that it will only be a short time before other creameries are in being along the Canadian National. The farmers are increasing their dairy herds and reducing the beef animals. The long season entailed in feeding beef cattle as against the dairy herd is inducing the farmer to take more interest in the latter.

Object of Trip.
The idea of the trip, Mr. Venables says, was to get into closer touch with the farmers of the various towns throughout the interior. The associations was working for one object, the development of northern B. C., and the only way to gain success was work together. He made a point of meeting the boards of trade, citizens' associations, farmers' institutes and the fair associations. They all appreciated the fact that Prince Rupert in sending Mr. Venables through the country, was trying to stimulate things and his visit also enabled them to become better acquainted. At a number of places Mr. Venables was taken around the country which he says looks good in places both as regards grain and vegetables.

The feeling that now exists between the interior and the city of Prince Rupert and the Exhibition Association in general was one of closer co-operation and this fact alone was much worth while in accomplishing.

NO SPIRITUAL ADVANCEMENT

Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant Preaches on "My Eight Years in Prince Rupert."

With the services yesterday, the Presbyterian Church reopened after the holiday and Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant started upon the ninth year of his pastorate.

Speaking last evening on "My Eight Years in Prince Rupert," Dr. Grant said that while the city had progressed materially it had not advanced spiritually and, in that respect, was about the same as in 1914. At the same time it had not fallen back if that was any consolation. In Prince Rupert, as well as in Canada and in the entire white race, the time was one of spiritual retrogression instead of advancement. It was in such times that nations were at their weakest and the greatest people of the day were now realizing seriously that something must be done. Great writers and great newspapers were dealing more and more with scriptural and religious subjects realizing the great necessity. The people of Great Britain might be physically fit and wealthy in material things but the British flag was rooted in a spiritual foundation and if that became decadent the heart of the Empire would wither away and rot. What the congregation in Prince Rupert lacked was religious acumen.

Dr. Grant announced that Rev. A. E. Mitchell of Mount Pleasant Church, Vancouver, would preside at the services next Sunday.

K.C. PICNIC ENJOYED DESPITE WEATHER

Many Persons Enjoyed Fine Days' Outing at Digby Island Yesterday.

Although the weather yesterday was not exactly ideal for picnics it did not materially affect the success of the Knights of Columbus annual festivities which were held at Digby Island. The launch "23" and a number of private boats left Swanson's wharf from 9:30 in the morning until 11:30 laden with happy human freight and piles of dainties. Owing to the state of the ground the sports program was considerably curtailed, but otherwise, the inclement weather did not interfere with the excellent time provided and the sun shone long enough to permit of the elegant spread being enjoyed to the fullest extent.

The arrangements were in the hands of a committee composed of F. W. Moersch, chairman; J. Muldoon, J. J. Keefe, Martin O'Reilly and U. L. La Sasse. The return was made at 7:30 p.m. and by 8 o'clock the entire party was safely in port after having spent a very enjoyable day.

REBEKAHS AND ODD FELLOWS HAD FINE OUTING YESTERDAY

A gathering of about 100 Odd-fellows and Rebekahs and their families spent the day informally on the beach at Metlakatla yesterday afternoon. It had been intended to go to Sand Point, Digby Island, but the rain interfered and the boats stopped at the Indian village instead. Races, games and refreshments were enjoyed and the day, despite the handicap, was one of great pleasure to all. The boats left Cow Bay at 11 o'clock in the morning and all were safely home by 9 in the evening. Dr. Gade, Jack Boddie, R. C. Parsons, W. Gilchrist, A. R. Phillips and L. C. Eby donated their launches for the occasion. The committee in charge comprised Charles Baisdon, W. G. Barrie, S. V. Cox, S. M. Newton, Ben Crosssett, Mrs. T. Priest, Mrs. E. Ireland, Mrs. S. V. Cox, Mrs. J. Boddie and Mrs. J. Fraser.

CARPENTERS UNION OPPOSES WAGE CUT

Committee Deputed to Wait Upon Local Contracting Firm.

A mass meeting of the Carpenter's Union was held in the Carpenter's Hall on Saturday evening to discuss the question of the proposed reduction in wages by Mitchell & Currie from 87 1/2 to 80c per hour. The meeting was opposed to the cut and a committee was appointed to wait upon Mitchell & Currie with a view to further discussion. The prevailing rate for carpenters in Vancouver is $6.50 per 8-hour day, whereas the proposed cut would bring the local rate down to $6.40 per 8-hour day.

Party of Local Girls Hike From Skidegate to Clements Beating Steamer Prince John

Fishing, dancing, swimming, tennis and hiking are just a few of the attractive items on the program of a summer holiday at the Queen Charlotte Islands. Everybody who visits there attests to the pleasures that may be enjoyed. Miss Eileen Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Stephens, of this city, Miss Peggy Gillatt, who attends High School here, and her sister, Miss Belle Gillatt, are a happy trio who are having all kinds of fun there this summer. An interesting letter has been received by Miss Winnie Dibb from Miss Gillatt.

It tells about a recent hike from Skidegate to Port Clements, how they beat the steamer Prince John, and other things. It reads, in part, as follows:

"I love writing but holidays were made for other things and I have been doing them all so there has been hardly time for writing. Last week we did some plain, unadulterated, honest-to-goodness hiking, 40 miles without exaggeration and it seemed more. But it was great. Belle and Steve and I climbed, packs and bloomers, on the Prince John on Tuesday. They wouldn't believe us when we told them we were going to hike from Skidegate to Port Clements and they had the joke of their lives laughing about it. But, he who laughs last laughs best, and they found that out.

"It was about 7 in the evening when we struck Skidegate village and we hit the trail right away. We made the wireless station about 10, guzzled some cold canned meat, rolled up in our blankets under the stars and spruce trees and went to sleep. Bright and early was our motto the next morning and, a little chilled, we topped down to catch the rising sun on the beach. It was just beautiful—the old Spit stretching away across the water. Belle sat on Dead Tree Point and sketched while Steve and I just drank it all in. Then, smoking before us, came the Prince John and into our brain flashed the brilliant of seas. We would beat the boat to Port Clements. No sooner did we think of it than we started out. We packed our blankets and started out on a long, long trail—longer than we thought. The road up to Tiell is sandy just like our wagon roads here at Sandspit and so pretty—I took a couple of snaps which I hope will come out all right. We made Richardson's place at 12:30 but did not stop. We saw Doris Shoekley in passing and were told it was 12 miles to Port Clements. Later it stretched out to 14 or 16 but I am convinced that's putting it lightly. Of all the dry walks that's the worst—endless miles of one long stretch of slashing and blackened trees—then a hopeless expanse of muskeg where we had to wander around looking for blazings and marks on the stunted pines. We wasted hours on wild trail hunts but kept pegging on and on. Just when we expected to fall over Port Clements at any time we were almost howled over by a cheerful sign, 'Port Clements, six miles.' Well, it was Port Clements or bust, and after a long time we ran onto a three mile sign. We were in the right direction, at any rate, so we kept on. The most welcome sound I heard, I think, was the barking of a dog. It was 8 o'clock when we limped into town.

"We soon got in touch with the hotel manager, Mr. Smith (formerly of the Rupert Hotel) and say, he's the sweetest thing. He latches with his son, Mac. He gave us a room in the hotel and supper at his house where he was in the preform year before I went over. "Of course, we were as cheerful as a basket of chips when we heard the Prince John hadn't come in yet. About ten o'clock Mac said she was coming so we all promenaded down to the wharf and were waiting when she tied up. Say, talk about triumph! Here was our moment and it was all that we expected, and then some. Those poor fellows on the boat just gasped. Capt. Nedder, congratulated us as if we were Arctic explorers or aviators as soon as he could get his breath. Vera will tell you all about it. She was going out when we dropped off at Skidegate and refused to come on the hike for fear of missing the boat. The laugh was all ours now.

"About midnight we went to bed and it certainly felt good to strike a real mattress again. Mr. Smith called up two or three times next morning and, when we finally appeared, we went to his house for the 'scrummyest' breakfast and a yield not to temptation fight not to start home until next day. They promised a dance for us that night. But we had promised to get back for Johnny Kitson's birthday party and the Lillooet boys. It sounded beastly tempting and we heroically resisted it, still more heroically accompanying Mac to the tennis court.

"Port Clements is some place. They have a tennis club, wonderful dance hall and everything—also wonderful citizens. "About noon, we said 'good-bye' and took the home trail. Mr. Smith came a little way and Mac about half. We kept the trail this time but it didn't seem much shorter. We had lunch by a creek and lazed around for a while and then Mac went home and we came on. We reached Tiell about seven in the evening and put up with a French family. They were fine and we got dry after the rain and had a dandy feed. They gave us their barn-full of hay to sleep on and piled blankets and cushions out for us till I wouldn't have called the King my uncle. We were very comfortable that night.

"It was nearly noon when we started out next day and Miss Peters, who is school teacher there, accompanied us as far as Richardson's, just across the river. She's lovely, and is staying with us now. My feet were very sore and I was crazy for a horse-back ride, not having had a decent one yet this year. The others were also kind of tired of their packs, so it was decided that they would leave the packs and walk on and I'd follow with the horse from Richardson's with the packs after dinner. That was a swell ride although the horse was a little shy and bush fires along the road made him too careful with his feet. However, I got a few good gallops out of him and everything was wonderful and fresh after the rain. I overtook the others at Lawn Hill and we fooled around for a while and then started for Skidegate, taking turns on 'Baldy.' It was 11 p.m. and dark when we struck Skidegate. They had the gramophone going so it was morning when we went to bed.

"When we got up we walked to Queen Charlotte City, having turned 'Baldy' loose the night before. They were pretty surprised to see us back so soon—on Saturday. Dad had said we wouldn't make the return trip by Sunday so we hid when we came in and fooled him. "Just as we got home the Lillooet came in and the boys were already packed for a fishing trip to Copper Bay. We did not go of course but when we saw them next day at Kitson's they had a catch of 39 trout, the longest of which was twenty inches. They had all been caught in one morning. The sight of their catch restored enthusiasm which I had completely lost the Sunday before when we went down and caught not even a bullhead.

"On Tuesday we went down but it was too sunny for fishing. I landed a pretty good one and had the greatest whooper in the creek swinging on my line with nowhere to land him and he got away. I'll say I was sore. Bullheads! If there was a bounty on them, I'd be a millionaire now but, as it was, I was just a mad murderer. Anyway, we had a good day.

"This letter seems to contain all one theme, but I'm silly—eating too many berries. We live on strawberries and cream."

SETTLERS LOOKING FOR INTERIOR LAND

Representative Visits Prince George from Spokane and Speaks Encouragingly

Accompanied by A. H. Bultin of Big Sandy Montana, and G. McHaffie, of Alberta, A. H. Anderson, a well known Spokane real-estate agent, is in the city to look over lands in this part of the province with a view to selling numbers of families in communities, says the Prince George Citizen.

The operations of Mr. Anderson, at Spokane, are conducted on an extensive scale. He is no stranger to this country, having visited it on three occasions. In 1919, when associated with Nels Jorgensen, land agent of this city, Mr. Anderson turned over large tracts to settlers who have made good here.

In conversation with The Citizen, Mr. Anderson stated that he was optimistic for the future of land settlement in this part of the province. The men who accompany him represent many families in the United States and Alberta, which are anxious to become established on the lands available here at reasonable prices, and on terms that are liberal. He represents some large land-holding concerns, and the heavy pruning of the price, which these concerns were asking before they realized that settlement under such a tariff was next to impossible, has brought the sale of the areas which they control well within the means of the modern settler.

Asian Red Salmon Must Not be Labeled as British Columbia Fish

The name "Sockeye" must not be shown on the label in addition thereto. All such fish imported before the date mentioned above may be sold as at present marked.

FISHING PARTY TOOK SEVERAL RAINBOWS AT KHTADA LAKE

The launch Sopleam with Douglas Stork, Fred Hale, A. R. Nicholas and Norris Pringle aboard, made port this morning after an enjoyable two days' cruise to Khtada Lake. In the words of the party the trip was "a peach" and several large rainbow trout took the hook of the holiday fishermen, as well as a bunch of smaller fry.

The toughest part of the trip was dodging the fishing nets in the Skeena on the return journey. However, these entanglements were successfully negotiated.

DETAILS OF WALES ISLAND CANNERY TENDER SINKING

Members of Crew Implored James Hamilton to Leave Distressed Craft

Details as to the sinking of the Wales Island Cannery gasboat No. 9, in Portland Inlet on July 31, when the skipper, Jas. M. Hamilton, was drowned, are in the hands of Chief Minty, provincial police chief. Hamilton was an American, single, aged 45, whose parents live in Illinois. The affidavit of the four members of the crew is to the following effect:

"On Monday, July 31, when returning to the Wales Island cannery with fish and at a point 15 miles north of Wales Island passage, Portland Inlet, engine trouble developed. A strong breeze was blowing and the sea was very rough. The waves breaking over the boat started to fill her. A heavy load of fish was being carried and to lighten the boat the crew threw considerable of it overboard. However, this action did not help the boat and the small boat was launched in which the crew took. The crew implored the skipper to go with them but he insisted upon staying with the boat. The stem of the No. 9 was then under water and that if the boat did go down he could make the shore. The small boat then started off for the shore but they were unable to beach it owing to the sea being so rough. The Lura D, owned by W. Davidson, was hailed but there was not sufficient distillate aboard to permit of her reaching the wreck and the crew were landed at the Somerville Cannery. In the 24-hour Yosda they started for the spot where the accident happened and on arrival found that the No. 9 had sunk. There is about 50 fathoms of water at this point and no sign of Hamilton could be found. The crew then returned to the Wales Island cannery and two boats 'Starling' and 'No. 7' were despatched to the scene. At 9:30 that night the No. 9 was located and after considerable difficulty was beached. A minute search of the sunken craft failed to find any trace of the missing skipper. The members of the saved crew were J. Ervick, W. Jamison, P. H. Corbish, and J. Kramer."

PRINCE GEORGE

John D. Galloway, provincial mining engineer for the district, who returned last week after spending several days in the Cedar Creek section, is not inclined to discount the mineral possibilities of that district too severely. He says that, although the district is not all that has been claimed of it in the press it may yet become a very important producer of gold.

A change in the railway divisional point from Jasper to Lucerne is imminent according to reports received here from official circles. The railway commission has issued findings which favor the former place. Lucerne and Jasper are 22 miles apart, the former in British Columbia and the latter in Alberta. There has been much rivalry between the two points for months.

Van-der-Hoof won the final game in the Carney Cup baseball series from Prince George by a score of 10 to 6.

The latest development of the long controversy over the school board's appointment of Alexander Smith to the principalship was the resignation of the appointee. The board refused to accept the resignation.

Miss Abba E. Henry, advance agent of Chautauque, is expected here in a few days. The show will take place from August 16 to 19.

Ad. Gustavo, the wrestler who is visiting Prince Rupert has posted $50 with the Prince George Citizen with a challenge to any wrestler in the district.

Sport Chat

In the local world of sport this week will be one of the most important of the season. The headline feature will, of course, be the baseball game on Wednesday evening between Prince Rupert and Anxox Elks. On the same day the Elks' children's celebration will provide all kinds of fun for the kiddies. Other sporting events of the week will be the Intermediate League baseball game between the Grodio and Gil's tonight; the Stuart shield football game between the Grodio and the Sons of England tomorrow (Tue-day) evening; Knights of Columbus vs. Elks senior baseball Thursday evening and Sons of Canada vs. Callies Stuart shield football Friday.

The local Elks have mustered together for the baseball game with Anxox on Wednesday evening as strong an aggregation of players as it would be possible to obtain in the city this season. They have the pitchers of all three Senior League teams on the list, Eddy, Selman, Frizell and Astori, and also the pick of the infields and outfields. The Anxox Elks are hailed as the strongest team in the best baseball town in the district this year but the local selection should be able to hold its own. It will be the first outside team to play with the locals this year and the match will, doubtless, get a big patronage.

Now that lawn tennis is more popular than ever in England and hosts of people are playing it who never played before, a painful complaint has become almost epidemic—"tennis elbow". The prevalence of the "tennis elbow" is attributed by a medical correspondent of the Times to the use of large-handled rackets. He cites a view expressed by a prominent physician, Dr. Frank Romer, in the "Lancet" to this effect and agrees with it. "I believe," says Dr. Romer in the "Lancet," that the universal use of a large handled racket in lawn tennis, without consideration of the size of the player's hand has much to do in bringing about this common ailment.

The Times' medical correspondent says that the trouble arises through the strain on the muscles of the hand, which, attempting to grip the large handle are thrown out of the proper function. "It is obvious," he says, "that once the condition has been established it will be apt to recur when certain strokes are played."

He adds that in the great majority of cases the onset of the condition is gradual. Pain in the muscles is only produced at first by actions which bring the affected muscles into play. Thus patients notice that they can lift or pull heavy weights from the ground with perfect comfort, while any sudden action, such as pouring out tea, tying a bow-tie, brushing the teeth, or similar movements are exquisitely painful.

The shape of the Racket handle ought to be a first consideration, the Times' correspondent says, so far as prevention of "tennis elbow" is concerned.

Persistent advertising is absolutely necessary to success.

HAS THE MOVIE LOST ITS GRIP

President of Lichtman Corporation Says It Has Not.

The question whether the movie as an institution has lost its grip on the public has been discussed but the almost unanimous verdict is that the good play is just as popular as ever but crudities in picture making are no longer tolerated. Discussing this Al Lichtman, president of the Lichtman Corporation who has just returned home after touring the whole country says:

"And I want to go on record right here as saying that all this talk about the decline of the motion picture is nonsense. A general survey of the country covering practically all walks of life indicate that most people are thoroughly sold on good pictures. I will readily concede that most picture patrons are definitely through with the stereotyped in motion picture productions, but this was inevitable and apparent to all who had the best interests of this great business of ours at heart.

"This means, of course, that the selection of story material must be most critical. If you boil down the general complaint against the average picture you will find that in the last analysis, it centres on the bromidic story. While it is possible to ruin a fine story by poor production methods, if the theme remains the picture will get by, but the finest production quality in the world won't put across a stereotyped story.

Source of Supply.
 "The independent field has long needed a reliable, permanent source of supply in the matter of product and we are going to do our share—a large share—in meeting that requirement. As a matter of fact unless this market is to have available product in sufficient quantity and quality, it cannot survive.

"I find that most exhibitors are convinced that the time has come when they must select their entertainment with the utmost care, and they are chiefly concerned with picture quality. They are serving a far more discriminating public than formerly, and this necessitates judging each production separately on its individual merit."

LIONEL BARRYMORE IN BOOMERANG BILL OPENS HERE TONIGHT

A prison cell setting in "Boomerang Bill," a Paramount picture featuring Lionel Barrymore, which comes to the Westholme Theatre tonight, had to be rebuilt and strengthened before Mr. Barrymore could do what he considered justice to one of the most dramatic moments in the picture.

"Boomerang Bill" goes to prison for bank robbery, having committed the crime to get money to save the life of the invalid mother of the girl he loves. Annie, the girl, swears to him, as he enters the portals of the prison, that she will await the expiration of his sentence and marry him.

Later Bill receives a letter saying she is to be married and that this is the last she can write to him.

Something in Bill's mind seems to snap. Mr. Barrymore here rises to magnificent heights of artistry. He flings the lockets on the floor, stamps on it, crushes the letter, tears his prison bed from its fastenings on the wall, and then savagely attacks the cell door.

When Mr. Barrymore attempted this action the first time he smashed through the side of the setting. Thereupon the carpenters were put to work barricading the setting so that it could withstand the weight of the actor.

"Boomerang Bill" is based on the story of the same name by Jack Boyle and was directed by Tom Terriss. Marguerite Marsh plays opposite Mr. Barrymore, and the supporting cast is adequate.

ANITA STEWART PLAY BOOKED FOR WEDNESDAY

A treat is in store for movie fans this week, when "The Invisible Fear," starring the admirable Anita Stewart, comes to the Westholme Theatre.

The star plays the part of Sylvia Langdon, who is wooed by two men. One of them suddenly disappears, and Sylvia believes he has been burned to death in a cabin. Due to an episode which has preceded the fire, she keeps silent the fact that she had seen a body being consumed by the flames, but throughout the years the "invisible fear"—the haunting recollection—is ever present, despite her happy marriage.

Then one day the "victim" appears in the midst of a dinner party being given in honor of Sylvia's birthday. Sylvia is so astounded and horror-stricken that she falls under his sway.

What follows marks the story a strikingly original one, teeming with mystery, romance and adventure. Miss Stewart will surprise even her most ardent admirers by the manner in which she portrays the most difficult emotions. Gorgeous sets have been provided for the attraction, most of the scenes taking place in an imposing mansion, a country club and in the woods.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

Damage amounting to $2,500 resulted from a fire which occurred last night at H. R. Love's machine shop at Cow Bay. The fire department had great difficulty in fighting the blaze.

Prince Rupert's gardens are very luxuriant this year among the noticeable ones being those of the Catholic Church, Mrs. R. L. McIntosh and Sheriff Shirley.

The "At Home" given last night by the Kaien Island Club was a charming and popular affair. Among those present were: Mrs. McLaren, Miss Curtin, Mrs. Haskamp, Miss Ginn, Miss Brown, Mrs. and Miss Dawson, Mrs. Carl, Mrs. Renworth, Miss Paul, Miss McPhail, Miss Keen, Miss Jenns, Miss Lochart, Miss Kinkade, Miss Gleason, Miss Fisher, Mrs. Frizzell, Mrs. Ferguson, Miss Heyward, Mrs. Bain, Mrs. McCaffery, Miss Gibbons, Miss Green and Messrs McLaren, Haskamp, Nickerson, Wallace, Dawson, Simpson, Harrapp, Renworth, Reynolds, McKean, Melliar, Helgerson, Keeley, Kearney, Parker, Pooler, Linnell, Look, Knight, Tobey, Averill, Frizzell, Bain, Hickey, Noble, Beatty and Kissick.
