Fisheries Commission Is In Session

ONE OF THE WORLDS GREATEST NEWSPAPERMEN DIES TODAY

Evidence of Fishermen Today Before the Fisheries Commission

The Federal Government Parliamentary Commission, which is to investigate the fisheries of British Columbia, opened its sessions in the city council chamber this morning and, after adjournment for the noon hour, is again in session this afternoon.

All the public seats were occupied this morning and three witnesses were heard, James Neville, John O'Donnell and J. Brown, salmon fishermen. The high taxes and licenses, limitation of fishing districts and relation of purse and drag seine fishing were the main matters touched upon. Witnesses appearing before the commission are required to give their evidence on oath. The feeling of the commission this morning seemed to be with the fishermen and the tendency was noted on more than one occasion to be most liberal towards their demands. The commissioners themselves made even more far reaching suggestions on their behalf than they asked for themselves.

William Duff, M.P. for Lunenburg, is presiding, and the commissioners present are L. H. Martell, M.P., A. Stork, M.P., C. H. Dickie, M.P., W. G. McQuarrie, M.P., and A. W. Neill, M.P. Dr. A. W. Chisholm, M.P., the seventh member of the commission, was prevented from coming here on account of the illness of his wife. E. A. Knickles, of Lunenburg, N.S., is secretary to the commission.

PREMIERS NOT IN AGREEMENT

Another Session Being Held This Afternoon to Discuss Austria

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Although this morning's session of the Allied premiers was adjourned without their having reached an agreement on the German reparations question or having arranged for another meeting, it was stated shortly before four this afternoon that a plenary session would be held at five o'clock. The Central News says this meeting is to discuss the question of Austria's financial position.

DE VALERA HAS DISAPPEARED

Was Last Seen Thursday: Nationals Take Eastern County Cork

CORK, Aug. 14.—Irregulars evacuated Cork before the advance of national troops.

The whereabouts of De Valera remains a mystery. When last seen he was driving westward in a closed carriage on Thursday evening shortly after the irregulars left the city.

All of the eastern part of County Cork has now been taken by the nationals.

JAPANESE ARMY BEING REDUCED

Four Thousand Artillerymen Disbanded Today; Officers Shortly

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—The reduction of the Japanese army in accordance with the reorganization proposed by the War Office and approved by the cabinet, began today, when 4,000 artillerymen were disbanded. The retirement of many generals and other officers will be announced shortly.

were now taxed before they caught the fish. Mr. Neville produced figures for two years' operations of his company. In 1921 the total value of the fish stock taken was $5,637 and $951.77 had been paid in taxes and licenses. In 1920 the total stock had been $1,848.18 and licenses and taxes, $545. Their crew consisted of five men. The boats were putting them to the wall.

All Federal Taxes.
Mr. Martell explained that they had no authority over provincial taxes and asked that Mr. Neville differentiate stating the federal taxes. Mr. Neville explained that the fees quoted had all been federal, the provincial license having not been put into effect until this year.

Regarding the areas of fishing, Mr. Neville stated that their area was No. 6. They were charged $300 license to fish in that area and if they moved to another they would have to pay an additional $500. He considered the area too small and they ought to get a larger area.

The canneries had drag seines at the mouth of every sockeye creek from the beginning to the end of the season. There were not room for purse seines there. The drag seines cleaned up the fish which were not allowed to go through, the nets being in the schooling areas. He asked that the whole of No. 2 district be thrown open to them.

Motherwell explains.
Major Motherwell explained that anyone could have a drag seine license provided they employed Indian crews. The creeks were recognized as Indian reserves and the department had felt that by this method they were helping the Indians and keeping peace.

Regarding the purse seine areas there were 22 areas on the coast and 10 in District No. 2. A license of $300 was imposed for purse seines in each.

Mr. Martell felt that the license should entitle the fishermen to operate in the whole of District No. 2. Otherwise, it seemed to be penalizing the fishermen.

Mr. Neville explained that it was not practicable for them to employ Indians. The independent fishermen considered it was a frame-up between the department and the canneries to keep them out. As for conservation, the drag seines were depleting the creeks. At Curtis Inlet, the drag seine equipment costing $1,000 and paying $150 license had got 4,700 sockeye while they with $7,000 equipment and paying $300, had taken about 700. Similar comparison might be cited for every creek. The canneries got twice the fish and employed many Orientals while they were all white men. The figures would show who were depleting the fish.

Most Undesirable.
Mr. Motherwell stated that the department recognized the drag seines were the most undesirable method but no evidence had been brought that they could be caught commercially by any other method.

Mr. Neville said that was the canneries' view. The independent fishermen considered that the purse seine method was the best for that allowed the fish to get up the creeks and there would be better runs later. It was absolutely wrong to catch (Continued on Page Six)

IMPRESSION ON ENGLAND

Lord Northcliffe Was Most Noted Figure in British Journalism

LONDON, Aug. 14.—It is stated that the cause of Lord Northcliffe's death was supuration or production of pus within the heart which was followed by acute blood poisoning.

The death of no other unofficial person could have made a deeper impression in England than that of Lord Northcliffe.

The news of his death was not a surprise as the bulletins issued by the doctors for the past week plainly indicated that the patient was dying. He was by far the most noted figure in British journalism and the question now is what effect his death will have on the policy of the Times and his other newspapers, which since the end of the war have strongly opposed the Lloyd George administration and its principles, with the exception of its dealings with Ireland which the Northcliffe press supported throughout.

Lord Northcliffe's death took place this morning at 10:12.

ROUND THE WORLD AVIATOR MAY VISIT THIS CITY OCTOBER

Major Blake Expects to Reach This Coast at That Time and Will Land at Juneau

Word has been received in the south that Major W. T. Blake will probably be here early in October. Should he meet with no serious accident which might interfere with his plans he should arrive on this coast before the winter sets in and possibly may make one of his rest stations at Prince Rupert.

Colonel Broue is on the coast now organizing fuel stations and he says that the hydroplane will fly from the Aleutians to Juneau and will then follow the inside passage to Vancouver.

LOCAL BARRISTERS TO ATTEND MEETING OF BAR ASSOCIATION

W. E. Fisher and T. B. Hooper sailed last night on the Prince Rupert to attend the seventh annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association which opens in Vancouver on Wednesday and adjourns on Thursday to Victoria for the last day on Friday. Mr. Hooper will attend the Vancouver sessions but Mr. Fisher is going on to Victoria and will attend on the last day. Both will be away from the city for about a fortnight.

There is to be a most distinguished list of delegates and speakers at the convention and the legal profession from all parts of the Dominion and from overseas will be represented. The list of guests includes Lord Shaw of Dunfermline, Hon. John W. Davis, of New York, and Gordenio A. Severance, of St. Paul, of the American Bar Association, M. Henri Augépin, of Paris, and Dr. R. Masujima, of Tokio.

FIFTEEN PER CENT REDUCTION FISH LICENSES

Department Will Reduce Number Issued to Orientals by 15 per cent Next Year.

The following letter in regard to the reduction in the number of licenses to be issued has been received from J. A. Motherwell, inspector of fisheries:

"The Department has decided on certain reductions in the number of the several varieties of fishing licenses issued to other than resident white British subjects and Indians for the season of 1923 and as it is considered very desirable that all those interested should receive notification at the earliest possible moment, the following is forwarded for your information.

Salmon Gill-Nets.
In District No. 1, the number of salmon gill-nets issued to other than resident white British subjects and Indians for the season 1923 will be reduced by 15 per cent.

In District No. 2 the reduction will be as follows:
Nass River, 10 per cent.
Skeena River, 10 per cent.
Rivers Inlet and Smiths Inlet, 50 per cent.
All other portions of this District, 15 per cent.

In District No. 3 there will be a general reduction of 15 per cent.

Salmon Trolling.
It has been decided that salmon trolling licenses issued for the East and West Coast of Vancouver Island will not be issued for small areas but there will be one license for the West Coast and covering the area, "from Victoria to Cape Scott" and one for the second area covering the East Coast "from Victoria to Cape Scott."

The reduction in the case of herring purse-seines and herring gill-nets will be a general one of 15 per cent covering the whole province.

Details as to the manner of allotment will be available later. Applications will be received only from those who had similar licenses in the season of 1921 and the date limit for receiving applications has been set for December 1, owing to the fact that the licenses in future will be issued for the calendar year, and the setting of the above date will leave one month for the allotment and the advising of those interested.

Applications must be received in the office of the Chief Inspector of Fisheries in the Molson's Bank Building, Vancouver, on the above date and any received after December 1 will not receive consideration.

REPUBLICANS TAKE DUNDALK

The attack was successful and the town isolated with republican troops patrolling the streets.

Lord Northcliffe Died Today; was Notable Figure in British Journalism

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Lord Northcliffe, the noted British publisher, died here today.

Alfred C. Harmsworth, Viscount Northcliffe, was probably the most prominent man in journalism today. He controlled the London Times, Daily Mail and a string of publications of all kinds and made them pay. In 1904 he received a baronetcy. The following year became a baron, and in 1917 was created Viscount. The following year he was appointed director of propaganda to foreign countries.

His Policies.
In the World War he took the lead in advocating almost every measure of reform that was carried through in Great Britain, usually weeks or months before it was introduced. He was indeed described by Mr. L. J. Masse as "the great driving force in our country during the war." He aimed at the most vigorous possible conduct of the struggle, and was from the first of the opinion that the war would be long and desperately contested. The chief newspaper campaigns which he carried out, always with the aim of victory and close union between the Allies were: (1) for the removal of Lord Haldane from the War Office in August 1914; (2) for the organization of the munition supply and the provision of high explosive shells in April and May 1915, when he did not hesitate to lay the responsibility for the shortage on Lord Kitchener in leading articles written by himself in the Daily Mail of May 19 and 21, the second of which was publicly burned on the London and other stock exchanges; (3) this campaign was one of the causes of the formation of Coalition Ministry by Mr. Asquith; (4) throughout 1915 and early 1916, in the teeth of storms of abuse, he urged the necessity of compulsory service as the sole means of winning the war; (5) he protested vigorously against the excessive optimism of Mr. Asquith's government and of its press supporters, and against the whole system of official secretiveness by which grave failure was concealed; (6) he called for the strict enforcement of the blockade and the stoppage of supplies which were reaching Germany through neutral countries; (7) he pointed out the impossibility of successful war with a debating society of 23 or 24 persons, such as formed the cabinet; (8) so far as the censorship would allow, he resisted the "side-shows" such as the Dardanelles and Salonika campaigns, which absorbed so large a portion of the national forces; (9) he continued his pre-war demand for the construction of air-craft and the "right kind of aircraft" on the largest possible scale, and he called for effective measures against Zeppelins and for warnings in the case of imminent air-

Remarkable Tribute Paid to Irish Leader in Protestant Churches

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—The body of Arthur Griffiths, president of Dail Eireann, lay in state today in Dublin City Hall while thousands of mourners streamed by the body. It will lie in state until tomorrow when it will be removed to the pro-cathedral for burial on Wednesday morning.

In the Protestant churches yesterday a remarkable tribute was paid to Griffiths, the trend of which was that the Free State had lost in him a pillar of strength.

attacks; (10) he urged the necessity of creating a strong naval war staff and taking offensive measures against the enemy submarines; (11) he insisted on the need for a compulsory system of food rationing.

Supported Lloyd George

In December, 1916, he gave his support to Lloyd George in the political crisis which led to the fall of Mr. Asquith's Government, and dealt the final thrust which brought that Government down, though after the Armistice, by reason of his objections to the long-drawn-out after-war negotiations with the Germans, he became Lloyd George's most persistent critic. He was offered office but declined, believing it was his duty to keep his hands free and hold the Government up to the mark. He did, however, because the office was strictly non-political, accept the chairmanship of the Civil Aerial Transport Committee, on the establishment of that body in 1917.

Before the United States entered the war he was offered and declined the post of British Ambassador at Washington. He received, however, an urgent call to go to the United States on May 30, 1917. The War Cabinet had greatly desired him, after conference with leading Americans, to go to the United States as chairman of the much-needed British War Mission. He accepted this appointment, though with some reluctance. After an audience with the King he left England on June 2, arriving in New York on June 11, with the understanding that he should not remain more than three months. During the next few months he co-ordinated the work of the numerous British Departmental missions; controlled an expenditure of £10,000,000 to £11,000,000 a week; maintained the closest friendly relations with President Wilson and the American government; and in a series of speeches and visits to the Middle West and Eastern Canada he set forth the work that had yet to be done if the war was to be won, and the immensity of the British effort. Having prolonged his stay far beyond the original three months, he returned to London on November 12, 1917, when he was created a Viscount, as Viscount Northcliffe of St. Peter-in-Thames for his services.

In a letter dated Nov. 11, 1917 he declined Mr. Lloyd George's offer of the post of Air Minister on the ground that he was indisposed to enter an administration with the energy of which he was by no means satisfied. But on February 13, 1918, on the distinct understanding that he was to remain free to criticize and suggest he accepted the office of Director of Propaganda in Enemy Countries.

At the Armistice Lord Northcliffe was ill, suffering from an adenoma of the thyroid gland, for which, in June 1919, he underwent a serious operation, and it was only after some months that he gradually made a complete recovery. During the Peace Conference his press and the Continental Daily Mail in particular exerted a powerful influence on the British Government, extracting from Mr. Lloyd George a promise to fulfill his election pledges and striving to maintain the closest and most cordial relations with France. In July 1921 he went for a prolonged tour of the world.

Lately the Northcliffe press bitterly opposed the present British government.

SCOUTS RETURN FROM CAMP AT WARNER BAY

Andrews Troop in Charge of Archdeacon Rix Take Place of Firsts

Yesterday the First Troop of Scouts returned from camp at Warner Bay, Porcher Island, and their places at the camp were taken by the St. Andrews troop in charge temporarily of Rev. Archdeacon Rix. The transfer was made by the Fredella, Capt. Vereker, by courtesy of the management of the Canadian Fish & Gold Storage Co.

J. A. Teng, who has had charge of the first Troop, reports that the boys had a splendid time. Every morning they rose at 6:30 and took a short drill before breakfast. At nine they paraded and were engaged in general scout practices for the rest of the morning. Following lunch there were games or other amusements and a wash was served promptly at 5:15. Camp fires were lighted and at 10:15 the boys were supposed to be in bed with lights out.

On Tuesday Mr. Teng took John Leod, Richard Mortimer and William Hamilton and set out for the summit of the Bell Range, as they reached and enjoyed the view of the whole country around. They left at 4:25 and reached camp again at eight o'clock.

Mr. Teng was aided by John Ferguson, assistant scoutmaster, and Ben is remaining with the St. Andrews troop to aid Captain Rix until Friday when it is expected Major S. D. Johnson will release them both and take charge.

The party while there explored much of the country around and saw deer and grouse. There were 25 in the party.

RED BLOOD ACTION IN BILL HART PLAY

Charles Ray Stars in "Two Minutes To Go" at the Westholme Tonight

While the football game in the latest Charles Ray feature, "Two Minutes to Go" is a wonder and brings the photoplay to a crashing climax, there are other incidents which hold the interest of audiences from first to last. There is no boy or girl, however, old, who has been to college, who will not enjoy to the utmost the scenes where the freshmen take advantage of the absence of the seniors at a party on Halloween to collect a mass of junk and put it in the seniors' dormitory corridors. There are gates, barber poles, chicken pens and wooden Indian signs and other choice relics.

Every college boy or girl will understand the feelings of Charles Ray when he is supposedly caught with the goods, and sympathize with him and laugh at the natural way the tricks are played. Only a boy at heart could have devised such scenes and only perennial youth could have given them the direction which Charles Ray has accomplished. The detail is remarkable and the spirit which he injected into the players is true to life. It is college life personified. Many of the actors and actresses engaged were merely living their school days over again.

THE ROSARY COMING ON WEDNESDAY NEXT

"The Rosary," which is coming on Wednesday works out a beautiful theme as a background to a most interesting story and highly dramatic situation.

The sum of $600,000 is to be spent in producing a new play with Norma Talmadge as heroine. "The Voice from the Minaret" is to be one of the big interest in a community and because of this interest a strong friendship has grown between a priest and a Hebrew merchant whose love for his constituents has won him the respect and devotion of the men, women and children of the village.

Through a common love for humanity a strong brotherly love has grown between the priest and the Hebrew merchant showing how man is bound together by that devout affection when occupied on mutual labors of love.

Dore Davidson as Isaac Abrahamson by a most intellectual performance shows how easily creed distinction and prejudice can be removed through a love for all mankind.

He passes out to the public, through his screen work, the spiritual essence of every good fearing man when devoted to the expression of his faith through any dogma.

UN-INVITED GUESTS AT PICKFORD WEDDING

Each One Gets Price of Cake and Flower to Take Home

As an echo of the Jack Pickford-Marilyn Miller wedding comes the news that several hundred un-invited guests made the long pilgrimage to the Pickford-Fairbanks home in Beverly Hills, Calif., in the hope of getting a peep at the ceremony, or at least at the bride and groom.

Their long wait before the big gates to the estate was rewarded not only by a sight of Jack Pickford and his bride, but also by an eye-filling view of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. After the ceremony, this quartette of celebrities took in hand most all of the wedding cake and also the flowers which formed the decorations and distributed portions of the cake and one flower to each person that made up the crowd before the big house. Each un-invited guest went away to sleep on a piece of wedding cake that night and make a wish for his own good fortune as well as that of the bride and groom.
