Work and Findings of Halibut Commission Make Interesting Subject For Address to Gyros

Many interesting sidelights on the Pacific Coast halibut fishery were revealed to members of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club and a goodly number of guests by Norman L. Freeman, local representative of the International Fisheries Commission, at luncheon yesterday in the Boston Cafe in an address on the work of the International Fisheries Commission with special reference to life history of the halibut and age determination. Research operations of the Commission in the endeavor to establish the actual condition of the fishery at present in comparison with the past and some of the conclusions that had been reached as to measures for building up the fishery were reviewed by Mr. Freeman in an enlightening manner. Mr. Freeman's address was timely to the National Fish Week occasion.

The International Fisheries Commission, Mr. Freeman explained, had been established when a treaty was signed between Canada and the United States on October 24, 1924. The aim of the Commission had been to establish beyond doubt the actual condition of the fishery at present and the history of its trend to that condition with a view to finding remedial measures that could be adopted in order to build up the fishery and ascertain conditions that would have to be met in applying such measures.

The work of the Commission in the past had consisted of (a) a complete statistical analysis of the fishery from its inception, (b) a study of the rate of growth of the fish according to locality, (c) a study of migrations (d) existent races (e) spawning habits and (f) oceanographical studies relating to the halibut's larval development. With new regulations now in force, the Commission had established a scientific system of collecting statistics whereby current analyses can be made. Biological studies were also being continued.

Until 1911, Mr. Freeman disclosed, the total halibut catch of over fifty million pounds was taken from waters within five hundred miles of Seattle and Vancouver. By 1930 the same amount of fish was taken from waters off over 2100 miles of coast line, revealing that depletion of the fishery had already commenced. The Pacific halibut fishery was the greatest in the world, latest figures showing its production to be 57% of the entire world's.

Big Company Will Make Headquarters Here For Fur Buying in District

Establishment of Store in Connection is Under Consideration—W. W. Anderson, Former Manager at Hazelton, to Take Charge

The Hudson Bay Co. is opening up a new agency in Prince Rupert which will be made the future fur trading headquarters of the company for Northern British Columbia, it has been disclosed with the arrival in the city of W. W. Anderson, for fifteen years manager of the company in Hazelton, who will take charge in Prince Rupert.

Meantime, the Prince Rupert branch will engage only in the purchasing of furs although the company has under consideration the opening of a store here which is the usual procedure in connection with the operating of a fur purchasing agency.

The new fur agency here will be similar to those operated by the company at such centres as Vancouver, Edmonton and Winnipeg. It is a recognition of the strategic position Prince Rupert enjoys in connection with this important industry.

Mr. Anderson has taken over the premises on Third Avenue near Seventh Street, formerly occupied by the Dollar Store, where he will open the company's local branch.

For the nine-month period January 1 to September 30, net revenue of the railway totalled $6,220,177 compared with $3,565,770 in the corresponding period of 1931. Gross revenues of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending October 21 were $3,258,697 compared with $3,921,853 for the corresponding period of 1931, a decrease of $663,156.

BENNETT IN NEW DRAMA

Popular Star Featured in Picture "Two Against the World" With Neil Hamilton

"Two Against the World," which brings the popular Constance Bennett to local audiences again at the Capitol Theatre at the middle of this week, is said to be the most sumptuously dressed and dramatically satisfying of all the pictures in which Miss Bennett has been starred. Based on the well known novel of the same name, "Two Against the World" is a thrilling story of love and murder in high places, of a luxury-loving lady who finds herself suddenly face to face with the law with the man she loves as prosecutor, of a proud girl who dares disgrace and ruin to protect a name. Running all the way from the tantrums of a spoiled child to the turgid emotions of a disgraced woman in love, the picture is said to give Miss Bennett one of the greatest screen roles that she has had. In addition to the essential drama, there are many light moments and delightful and smartly dialogued scenes. There is also a courtroom sequence of dramatic intensity. Of interest to the ladies is the fact that, in the picture, Miss Bennett wears some twenty-odd new gowns.

The supporting cast is headed by Neil Hamilton and includes Allen Vincent, Helen Vinson, Gavin Gordon, Walter Walker, Hale Hamilton, Alan Mowbray, Oscar Apfel and Roscoe Karns.

As the weekly revival feature, "The Cuban Love Song," memorable musical film starring Lawrence Tibbitts and Lupe Velez, is being brought back tonight.
