Genoa Conference Will Not Offer Loan to Russia But May Substitute Consortium

GENOA, April 28.—Plans for Russia's reconstruction are being finally determined upon today by the Genoa conference sub-commission on Russian Affairs and indications are that a definite proposition will be laid before the delegation from Russia by the end of the week with the suggestion that the proposal be either accepted or rejected without further discussion.

It is reported that no loan will be offered to Soviet Russia but it is suggested that an international consortium may be formed so that Russia's trade, through combinations, firms and individuals, may be allied with the various countries represented. This plan would be in contemplation of the economic colonization of Russia.

Condition of Booth School Not as bad as First Expected, Cox Now Announces School Board

"After having looked more carefully into the details, I find that things are rather better than I had at first expected," declared A. A. Cox, the Vancouver consulting architect in presenting his final report on the Booth Memorial School building to the school board last night at a meeting called before Mr. Cox sailed for the south where plans, specification and estimates as to cost of repairing and the time required to execute the work will be drawn up. "I cannot go much further now until the plans are made but things will probably pan out better than I at first thought. While my first report may be overcome by careful work and attention to plans. The plans will be made as quickly as possible and the approximate cost of repairing and all right. Would it carry the length of time required will be ascertained. As the affair now stands it is not as desperate as the general public imagines. The idea that one's life is being taken in his hands when he enters the building may be dispensed with. The difficulties can be fixed all right and you have a building which can be put in shape with less trouble than many people expect. The next time you see me, I will probably be able to make you feel better. I will show you what can be done and you can decide on the course to be taken. It might be well to get some of them had deflected. It had not been his purpose to examine every point in the whole building. Defects had been found in many parts and might leave the question of how long it would take to execute the repairs until he returned in about three weeks time. He had every hope, however, that it would be ready to reopen by the time the fall school term commenced. He would not like to say definitely, however, at this time.

Ready for Fall

Mr. Cox said he would rather leave the question of how long it would take to execute the repairs until he returned in about three weeks time. He had every hope, however, that it would be ready to reopen by the time the fall school term commenced. He would not like to say definitely, however, at this time.

Favors Enquiry

Trustee L. W. Patmore asked if there was anything further to say in regard to the basement concrete walls. Mr. Cox replied that the specifications called for an unusual basement for that class of structure. While it might be all right for smaller buildings, basement walls of that kind for a public building of that size were all out of order. The surfaces seemed fairly hard but he did not know about the inside of the concrete. The method was rather unusual and did not constitute the ordinary rubble walls. The usual method was to lay up the wall stone by stone but in this case forms had been put up and the material was probably put in more or less carelessly.

The Worst Parts.

In answer to a question by Trustee Thomas McMeekin, Mr. Cox said he had found the south-west corner and the front of the assembly hall the worst parts of the building although other walls were about as bad. It was an absolute fact that the mortar in these walls could be scraped off in liquid form.

Dr. Kergin said he always felt that the first floor had been the best. Mr. Cox said that might be so but it had been impossible to see all through. From what he saw he was convinced that the building was poorly built. Perhaps that was due to the materials and certainly the weather had been against it. The sand was absolutely bad and should not be used in mortar, concrete or brick for it did not

How to Grow New Skin!

Nothing is more wonderful than the human skin. It breathes through tiny pores, it is kept whole and strong it improves the entire bodily health.

Those who know most about the complex structure of the skin appreciate the care that must be taken in deciding what is the safest, purest and best dressing to apply in case of accident or disease.

Much scientific thought and experiment was expended in the search for an ideal natural healing substance, but it has actually been found at last, in Nature's own storehouse of medicinal herbs.

Never in the world's history has there been another preparation like ram-buk. Amongst other virtues, it possesses that rare quality of actually growing new skin in Nature's own way.

A MIRACLE BEFORE YOUR EYES. Healing the injured and diseased tissues by this precious herbal balm is a miracle that may be performed before your own eyes.

Offering fundamentally and in action from all ordinary ointments, ram-buk is free from animal fats and mineral compounds.

It is slightly refined and contains no ingredient which the skin cannot readily absorb. A fifty-cent box of ram-buk may save you dollars in doctors' bills.

DISCOURSE ON ROADS

Delivered by City Engineer Before Rotary Club Yesterday Afternoon.

F. J. Whittaker, city engineer, delivered an interesting discourse on roads, their history and construction at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon. Mr. Whittaker was the speaker of the day and his excellent manner in handling a rather dry subject was appreciated and listened to with pleasure by all those assembled.

In opening Mr. Whittaker dealt with the history of roads and made reference to old thoroughfares of Carthage and Rome many of which of the latter were still in existence. The Roman roads had been constructed all over the known world in the days of that nation's supremacy. In England modern roads had been built over the old Roman roads.

For a long period the Roman roads fell into a state of disrepair and it was not until the seventeenth century that the question of road making was again considered seriously in England and France. In the nineteenth century a system of putting in good bases for the roads was instituted in England. The MacAdam system, after whom modern road surfacing is named, was invented then.

Small sized rocks were put in and bound into a mass. The idea of rolling and crushing of the rock formed a sort of keystone, and the stones were broken on more or less into wedge shape with a certain amount of material to hold them in place.

Then necessity for putting in a harder surface arose. Granite sets and cobblestones were used, and many streets in the Old Country had cobblestones on them today. Granite sets and paving bricks were used extensively. However after considerable experience they were not generally though useful for the purpose and it became necessary then to form some softer surface on account of the noise and unsanitary condition of the road.

Introduction of Asphalt.

Asphalt was then introduced. The first asphalt was put down in London in the Tottenham Court Road. It was heated in kettles and laid on the surface with hot tamping irons. The men engaged in the work wore blankets on their feet to protect them from the heat. Speaking generally, it was absolutely essential if a good surface was wanted to get a good base. Just what the base was composed of did not matter very much as long as it was protected from the weather.

Local Conditions.

"I have used burnt clay, also garbage and ashes for base material. The local rock forms an exceedingly good base but is no use for a wearing surface. It can be used as a base if a wearing surface is put on top of it. With a rock that does not disintegrate with the weather, one that will support a great amount of strain without fracture you must add something of a cementing nature to it for binding. The rock you have right here is the best rock in the district but is not a good material for a wearing surface. It contains a large percentage of quartz, a quantity of hornblende, a large quantity of mica but little felspar, and the latter is needed to give it binding value.

The city council have recently discussed what will be the best surface to put on our streets and I think we have come to the conclusion that an asphalt surface will be the best. Whether it is made by the city, or made by a firm coming into the city and put it down by contract remains to be settled after it has been shown which is the best to do. In my opinion an asphalt surface here is far preferable to a concrete surface. The advantage of asphalt is that it is more or less elastic and will give in a great measure to inequalities. It is also very easy to repair. If a portion of an asphalt road is bad it can be surface heated, cut out and replaced.

Concrete and Asphalt.

"With concrete this does not apply and it is practically impossible to repair concrete. Now adays when concrete surfaces disintegrate and show signs of wear they are always cut out and filled with asphalt. With regard to concrete as I have said, it is a good material for road surfacing. It is practically a new material and is being extensively used in the United States and has been used quite largely in the province of British Columbia. I have travelled over many miles of concrete paving in Washington myself. There are also several good examples of asphalt. However, so far no actual tests have been made as to the relative properties of asphalt as against concrete. There are also some defects in asphalt surfacing on a heavy grade when it has tendency to run and rut.

Smith Island Rock.

"You will find if you look at the rock from Smith Island that it disintegrates very freely and you will notice potholes in it. Our Mayor and city council have agreed for the present that it will be advisable to put something on it to protect it. An application of liquid asphalt to preserve it, until such time as we can put on a better top, would be money well spent. We are endeavoring to build a road so that the surface will be saved and that at any time a black top can be put on.

to concrete as I have said, it is a good material for road surfacing. It is practically a new material and is being extensively used in the United States and has been used quite largely in the province of British Columbia. I have travelled over many miles of concrete paving in Washington myself. There are also several good examples of asphalt. However, so far no actual tests have been made as to the relative properties of asphalt as against concrete. There are also some defects in asphalt surfacing on a heavy grade when it has tendency to run and rut.

"One other surface that has also been largely used, but is not in great favor, is wood blocks. Two years before I came here I put down a stretch of wood blocks which cost $600,000. The penetration of creosote is not good in Douglas fir but in yellow pine we find it very good.

"With regard to our plank roads that is a great problem. The trouble seems to be here that it is not from actual wear and tear that you are losing but it is the actual rotting of the materials. A great deal of that might have been saved if in the first place something had been done in the way of preserving the lumber with creosote. It is the alternating wet and dry weather that causes fungus to set in.

General Appearance. "With regard to the general improvement of your streets, it appears to me that the absence of trees is a drawback to the general good looks of the streets. That matter I took up with our worthy Mayor and the council and we have decided to spend some money this year in trying to beautify the park, and streets. There are many places on the streets where trees can be planted. By using a stick of dynamite and filling up the hole with soil trees can be planted. It would have looked very much pleasanter if Second Avenue had been laid with a boulevard in the centre planted with shrubs.

"The idea of the city is to establish a nursery in the cemetery and plant the trees in the park. As to whether they will be planted on the streets later is a matter for the council to decide upon."

SECTION HAND IS SENTENCED TO 18 MONTHS

Musiano Carmello Was Found Guilty of Assault With Intent.

Musiano Carmello, section hand of Seaton, was sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment at New Westminster penitentiary this morning, by Mr. Justice Morrison following a verdict brought in last night by the jury at the Supreme Assizes of guilty of assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The case took up the time of the court all yesterday afternoon and continued well into the evening.

The jury empanelled after a true bill had been brought in comprised James Hampton (foreman), Joseph Lindsay, Donald Brown, H. Ganstick, George B. Casey, H. Sunberg, W. Sloan, George Smith, Victor Basson-Bert, A. Nicholson, Robert Ereski and Ben Self.

In outlining the evidence for the crown W. E. Fisher said that on March 25 last, the two men, Musiano Carmello, the accused, and Musiano Gamme, the informant, had a slight altercation about their work on the section at Seaton. On the next morning the prisoner prepared to leave the camp and packed up his clothes, while the informant went about his daily work. The informant having made lunch he called the accused in.

Gamme, the informant, sat down to a bowl of soup and commenced to eat. The prisoner went outside returning with an axe with which he struck the informant on the back of the head. The accused then left Gamme lying on the floor and, taking his grip with him, proceeded up the track toward Morietown throwing the axe into the snow at the side of the track.

Informant's Evidence
The informant, on going into the witness box, said that he was an Italian by birth and had known the prisoner for some ten years in Italy and this country. On March 25 Musiano, who was foreman of the Seaton section, told him to clear out a ditch, which he, the informant, considered was not necessary as he had more important work to do. He told the accused so and this started some words, in Italian. They were about lunch time, however, he, the accused, and a man named Johnson, a brother workman, all sat down to lunch together that day and Gamme thought the matter had ended. On returning to their section house in the evening the prisoner did not speak to him.

Axe Produced
An axe was produced in court Gamme recognizing as the axe used in the coal shed at the section house for breaking coal. Upon being confronted with a kitchen knife by the crown counsel, Gamme said that it was the kitchen knife. He denied ever having used the knife on accused. Gamme said that he did not have any words with the prisoner at all on the Sunday morning. He recognized the prisoner in the box as the man who struck him.

Peter Johnson, a fellow workman on the Seaton section living in the next room to Gamme and Carmello, was next put on the witness stand. Johnson said that he could hear everything that went on in the kitchen but on the Sunday morning in question he had never heard anything untoward happening, or any high words, and did not know of anything having happened until the prisoner came in to him and showed him some knife cuts on his arm which he said Gamme had inflicted with a knife. Prisoner afterwards went up the track. After Johnson had finished a cup of tea, thinking that perhaps something was wrong, he went into the kitchen and found Gamme bleeding from the arm and the head.

Doctor's Evidence
G. H. Hankinson, of Smithers, upon testifying, said that he was called to Seaton on March 26, and upon arrival found the informant lying on a cot in a bleeding condition suffering from shock and loss of blood. He examined him hurriedly and found that he had two major wounds. One was on the left side of the head passing through the scalp and through the outer table of the skull. At that time the wounds were not bleeding a great deal, although considerable blood was about the floor. Having put dressing on the head wound the doctor then examined his arm. An incised wound about 7 inches in length extended from the left side of the left arm in an oblique direction forward from the external to the internal surface. This wound was very deep. He also found burns on the man's groin caused from the effects of hot soup, and thought the man was in a sitting position when struck from this fact.

George McKenzie, section foreman at Morietown was next called as a witness. He said he was rather surprised to see the prisoner coming up the track on Sunday morning with his grip, and went to meet him. McKenzie asked what was the matter that he was walking the track on Sunday morning. Accused had said that things were getting bad at Seaton, and that he and Gamme had been fighting and he had struck him on the head with an axe. McKenzie asked him if he had killed him to which the accused replied he did not know. McKenzie then told him that it was a serious business and that he had better get a doctor and the police to which the prisoner agreed. He said that prisoner seemed rather excited but not unduly so. McKenzie recognized the axe produced in court as one he and his son had found in the snow that day on the side of the track.

Constable Kelly
Constable Kelly, upon being questioned, said that he arrested the accused upon arrival and had obtained the axe which he recognized in court. He said that he saw the knife produced in court lying on the table in the Seaton section house, and sent for it when he heard that the accused had been attacked with a knife.

Accused on being put on the stand, said he had known Gamme for some twelve years and they had always been good friends. Gamme had written to him from Vancouver and he had obtained work for him on the section at Seaton. After Gamme had been working for a while he did not seem satisfied and was always trying to show the prisoner how to do the work.

me for some twelve years and they had always been good friends. Gamme had written to him from Vancouver and he had obtained work for him on the section at Seaton. After Gamme had been working for a while he did not seem satisfied and was always trying to show the prisoner how to do the work.

Threat is Made

On March 25 he had told the informant to do some work which he had objected to and a slight altercation had taken place in the Italian language. The prisoner was standing some ten feet away when Gamme came up and gripped him by the arm telling him that he would cut him up and put him in a bag and throw him in the river.

"On the Sunday morning I got up and made up my mind to quit, taking up my clothes and putting them in a suitcase," continued the accused "Gamme was working around the place and cooking dinner. He called me to the meal and I asked him why he was so cranky, as he had been looking at me like a snake."

The informant, remarked "You know what I told you yesterday and I mean it."

At this moment he struck the prisoner with a knife. Accused then went outside and got the axe and went back to the kitchen. Gamme was standing in the doorway with the knife in his right hand, and has he stepped towards him the accused struck at him with the axe hitting him on the left arm. Gamme then turned round to go inside the kitchen and prisoner struck him again on the back of the head.

Afterwards accused went in to Johnson and, telling him that Gamme had struck him with a knife, and proceeded up the track towards Morietown with his grip. He threw the axe into the snow at the side of the track. Prisoner said he was so blind with rage he did not know whether he had killed Gamme or not.

The judge asked prisoner why he did not go to Johnson and get help if Gamme had come after him with a knife to which the prisoner replied he was too excited. The judge closed the evidence.

L. S. McGill, counsel for the defence and W. E. Fisher, crown prosecutor, then addressed the jury pleading their respective cases.

Judge's Address

The judge, in addressing the jury said, that the prisoner could be found guilty on three counts, first with attempted murder, second with intent to do grievous bodily harm, and third with unlawful wounding. The crown was not obliged to establish a motive for crime, the most atrocious crimes having been committed without any motive whatever. The prisoner had said that informant had struck him with a knife, and that he had a chance to back out and get away but instead of taking that course he had returned with an axe and struck Gamme twice leaving him on the floor and not knowing whether he was dead or alive. The law was that, when a man was assaulted, as the prisoner said he was, it was his duty to retreat but if cornered he could turn on his assailant and even kill him if he considered his life in danger.

The jury retired at 9.25 to consider their verdict and after an absence of an hour returned, the foreman stating that a verdict of guilty of injury with intent had been reached. Sentence was passed this morning.

The man who doesn't find advertising profitable in his business usually finds business unprofitable.

FRESH ROASTED COFFEE FRESH ROASTED

"Supreme" Brand is Fresh Roasted

Tastes as Good as it Smells

The value of coffee as a beverage lies primarily in its strength and flavor. Green coffee will keep indefinitely, but such is not the case after it has been roasted.

Roasting brings out the flavor and aroma. Coffee becomes stale because of loss of these aromatic principles.

We are roasting and packing for current requirements only, realizing that, essentially, coffee must be fresh roasted to prove perfectly satisfactory.

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a cough which is dry, harsh and hacking, accompanied with rapid wheezing, and a feeling of tightness through the chest.

There is a raising of phlegm, especially in the morning after rising from bed. This phlegm is at first of a light color, but as the trouble progresses it becomes of a yellowish or greenish color and is sometimes streaked with blood.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

You will find a remedy that will stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and help nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Mr. John H. Root, 40 Maple Avenue, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with bronchitis and had a very bad cough. I had it so long I was beginning to get afraid of other developments. I tried all kinds of cough remedies without relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I got a bottle, and it convinced me to believe that I had at last gotten the right medicine. I used several bottles and am practically well. I have recommended it to others since, and good results followed."

Be sure and get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it; Price, 35c and 60c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon the fire department answered a call to the corner of 8th Ave. East and Immanuel Street. A small grass fire which had caused the alarm was easily overcome by the use of the hand extinguisher.

Judgment was reserved in the Royal Bank of Canada vs. A. J. Phillipson case in the Supreme Court this morning. Fred Fraser, of Burns Lake, appeared for the plaintiff and B. O. Oughton, of Fisher & Oughton, for the defendant.

The fire department received a call at 1:50 this afternoon, a grass fire having been started behind the residence of R. J. McCarthy, 608 Fifth Avenue, East. Fortunately the wind was in the opposite direction otherwise the houses in the near vicinity might have caught fire.

In the Letter Box

REV. JAMES EVANS.

In the departure of the Rev. J. Evans from our midst after three years service as pastor of the Union Church, the community suffers a loss it can ill afford.

At the same time, it is with considerable pride that we record his entry into wider spheres of service, feeling assured that his subsequent career will reflect credit on the town which has been the scene of his probationary labors.

Progress and success have marked his work in connection with the Church, and the recent addition of a well-equipped social hall to the church buildings is a material evidence of his fact.

A finer token however, may be found in the splendid esprit de corps prevailing amongst the members and adherents of the church, who having been significantly favored in leadership, have responded with devoted loyalty.

commands respect even from his keenest critics and admirers alike. Well said of him as of another that he:

"Should he rise to station of command
Will rise by open means and there will stand
On honorable terms or else retire,
And in himself possess his own desire,
Who comprehends his trust, and to the same
Keeps faithful with a singleness of aim
And therefore does not stoop
Nor lie in wait
For wealth or honors or for worldly state;
Whom they must follow, on whose head must fall
Like showers of manna, if they come at all."

R. J. W. Smithers, B.C.

SMITHERS HONORS
REV. JAMES EVANS

Esteemed Minister Presented
With Gold Watch and Chain
on Eve of His Departure

Vivid Individuality.

It is however, as a man rather than a minister, that many prefer to think of Mr. Evans. Neither the theology of a church or the restrictions of conventionality have been able to confine his vivid individuality.

Dowered by nature with splendid mental gifts, enriched and ripened by assiduous study and research, he was equipped with exceptional facilities to go forth and give battle to all forces operating against the general weal, whether in connection with Community, Province or Dominion.

Force and Passion.

With a courage equal to his fine equipment, he was ever in the fore in matters of public interest, and the force and passion of his utterances on more than one occasion, turned the tide of public opinion into lines with his own ideals, and snatched victory from apparent defeat. Absolutely fearless, he hounded not without fear or favor. The token of appreciation given to him would remind him of loyal friends and prove an incentive and encouragement in days to come.

After partaking of daily refreshments provided by the Ladies' Aid Society, the meeting terminated with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Mr. Evans left Smithers on Monday last to take up the management of a circuit for the Dominion Chautauquans. He will tour through Saskatchewan and the Peace River district until fall when he plans on paying a visit to his parents in Liverpool, England. While there he will further pursue his studies at the University for a time before deciding his future location. His many friends in Smithers will watch his future career with interest.

J. A. Miller and T. Mason, of the customs inspection department, returned to Victoria on the Prince George last night.

Sport Chat

The Acropolis Hill grounds have been reserved one night a week during the coming summer for lacrosse playing. Just how these nights are going to be employed has not yet been definitely decided upon but it is understood that there will be some game played in the course of the season. The Sons of Canada it is stated, do not intend putting a hockey team into the field but it is believed that the Elks may present two teams for a series. Lacrosse has been taking quite a hold so far this year and many athletes are taking an interest in it. Fred Gilmuly brought in quite a bunch of lacrosse playing equipment about a fortnight ago and much of it has already been disposed of.

Frank Barrieau, who boxes Johnny Klesch of Cleveland ten rounds at the Army and Navy Veteran's show, at the Civic Arena in Toronto tonight, holds three championships, claims another and could, if he wished, claim one more. He is the recognized Canadian welterweight champion, the Pacific Coast welterweight champion and the Pacific Coast middleweight champion. He also claims the Canadian middleweight championship. Barrieau, when a younger in his teens won the Canadian welterweight championship from Hilliard Lang, and has defended it ever since. The Pacific Coast welterweight title was earned on March 17 of this year by beating Heinie Schumann. When he won from "Batling" Ortega in 1919 at Fritco, he established himself as the Pacific Coast middleweight champion. Ortega weighed 165 pounds ringside for this bout, and Barrieau 152.

CATARRH of the Stomach FOR EIGHT YEARS

The cause of this trouble is the fermentation of food in the stomach which generates a gas that is very frequently belched up. There is also a rumbling of the bowels and a discharge of gas therefrom, there is constant retching, and the meals are frequently vomited. There is a burning pain in the stomach, the appetite is flake, the tongue coated, the breath bad, constipation is generally present and the sufferer becomes weak, nervous, depressed and exceedingly miserable.

The blame lies with a sluggish liver, as it holds back the bile which is so necessary to promote the movement of the bowels, and when the bile gets into the blood a badly disordered condition of the stomach, liver and bowels will surely follow.

Keep your liver active and you will always enjoy good health.

Mrs. Agnes Gallant, Reserve Mines, N. S., writes: "I had been a great sufferer for eight years, from catarrh of the stomach. I tried several so-called catarrh remedies without relief until a friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and four vials completely relieved me. That was six years ago, and I have had no return of my old trouble."

Price, 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

In a recent Fairbanks despatch in connection with a bank failure at that place among other defendants in the lawsuit the name of J. H. Rogers was given. The local steamship agent, J. H. Rogers says that while he was in business for some time at Fairbanks he had no connection with the defunct institution. It is another J. H. Rogers.

A Mr. Tucker has been appointed Dominion constable at Bella Coola, J. F. McDonald for Skidegate, and Mr. Calkins for Hazelton.

Because he trimmed Billy Weeks in 1917 when Weeks was middleweight champion, Barrieau also claims that title. He has not pressed his claim to it very strongly. Brousseau later

SALT LAKES WALK IS MUCH BETTER

Provincial Government Renews Lower Portion of It Skirting Lagoon All the Way.

When the work now being done by the provincial government on the trail between the landing and the Salt Lakes across the harbor is completed, the boardwalk will skirt the lagoon, all the way in, practically at a level grade. More than half of the walk is being rebuilt this year and the near section of it joining up to the new part at the upper end built last year, is being replaced now. Hand rails are being put up at all points of elevation and at these places four planks are also to be put down. The place is going to be much improved indeed.

The plank being used in the work this year has been taken from the eastern ramp at the Government wharf which was recently torn down. This plank is in good condition and the walk is very solid. New lumber is being used for the hand rails.

The job will soon be finished before traffic over it commences for the season.

EDMONTON MEN ARE NOT EAGER TO TAKE WORK ON THE FARMS

EDMONTON, April 27.—From 150 to 200 jobs on farms are offering at the government labor bureau here, but there are few accepting this work, which pays from $35 to $40 per month and board, and officials of the department say they will be forced to bring in labor from outside points if the local men do not take these jobs.

Further complications are expected, due to the advent of laborers from the coast, who are being routed through to Calgary via the Canadian Northern. These men will travel through Edmonton and it is very likely that a number will stop off here instead of proceeding to their destination. If this happens it is apparent that the men who are out of work here will be in a like condition at a later date.

PRINCE GEORGE

City Constable Bruce left last night on the Prince George for Okalla prison with W. H. Lubbee and John Main in his custody. The former was recently sentenced to six months for having drugs in possession, and the latter to six months for breaking into and entering Mrs. Frizzell's store.

Provincial Constable Ponder and Baker arrived from Massett, Queen Charlotte Islands, last night with Mark Spence, an Indian in custody. It had been reported to the provincial authorities that Spence had become very violent, and he is now in the city jail awaiting examination as to sanity by the medical health officer.
