UNITED STATES CANNOT STAND ALOOF WHILE EUROPE IN STATE OF WAR

Clemenceau in New York Speech Tells Americans Where Their Duty Calls

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Georges Clemenceau, ex-Pres. of France, told a packed audience at the Metropolitan Opera House in the first speech of his American lecture tour that Germany was preparing for another war. General Ludendorff and the Imperialistic party were planning for a coup against the German Republic and the Turko-Russian rapprochement offered a war danger. He said that United States had had time to reflect on what was her purpose of entering the war and what her profit had been. In the present crisis she ought to renew conversations with France and England and present Germany with a picture of her three unpleasant opponents of the Great War. Americans could not continue aloof from the post-war problems of Europe and could not remain comfortable and wealthy if Europe was warring, M. Clemenceau said. He suggested that United States co-operate with the Entente to force the Peace Treaty against Germany as a nation not capable of keeping her word. If France had known in 1918 that four years later reparations would have been unpaid she would have entered Berlin then. There was great applause at this point. M. Clemenceau said that his visit was quite unofficial and he had come only to find where the fault in the American spirit existed.

OUTBREAK OF UNEMPLOYED IS EXPECTED

London Police Taking Extensive Precautions Against Communist Trouble

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Extensive precautions are being taken by the London police today to guard against trouble in connection with the proposed demonstration by unemployed which morning newspapers declared was being plotted in Communist quarters with revolutionary intent. The intervention of a number of labor leaders it was hoped would result in the abandonment of the plan for thousands of unemployed to march on Whitehall for the purpose of compelling Premier Bonar Law to grant an interview. The police are taking no chances, however, and the mounted police are on hand in great numbers prepared for any emergency.

DAWSON BEER CORRECT

Mr. Bowser Endeavors to Get Names of Many Local Men in Print

VICTORIA, Nov. 22.—Statements by Hon. H. H. Stevens regarding alleged illegal selling of beer by the F. G. Dawson firm of Prince Rupert were refuted in sworn statements made by Inspector Miller, of the Liquor Control Board, before the public accounts committee. Mr. Miller swore that he had personally investigated and had found that all beer handled by the firm had been accounted for. Some of the beer, 800 barrels he thought, had been transferred to the export warehouse of the Northern Liquor Co. All papers in regard to same were regular and correspondence dealing with the transactions was found. Mr. Bowser examined Mr. Miller with regard to the incident but failed to find anything irregular.

248 Bootleggers

Questions were asked regarding Oliver Besner and the Knox Hotel, the Northern Liquor Co. and the Fishermen's Club; also several other Prince Rupert men. Mr. Bowser suggested that there were 248 bootlegging establishments along the streets and on the waterfront. One he claimed, was next door to the vendor's store. The names of a number of Prince Rupert men were mentioned and H. F. Kergin, member for Atlin, expostulated that Mr. Bowser was simply trying to get their names into print. He objected to the mentioning of young boys' names. Mr. Bowser read an editorial from the Prince Rupert Daily News and referred to news despatches dealing with the liquor question and the activities of operators.

BOWSER SPEAKS TO THE BUDGET

Pulls it to Pieces and Defends Finances of Former Government

VICTORIA, Nov. 22.—Hon. W. J. Bowser, leader of the Opposition, congratulated Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, on his budget in the legislature yesterday and then proceeded to pull it to pieces finding nothing good in it. Mr. Bowser claimed that there were too many hangers-on to make retrenchment possible. He said that the minister of finance had covered a nasty financial pill with a sugar coating. He refused to accept the minister's figures on the estimates, debt or income and defended the spendings of his own government and its failure to collect taxes. Premier Oliver will reply to Mr. Bowser this afternoon.

The Toronto temple plans to send an official party, including a band and patrol of eighty. Additional members will swell the total to 300. Ramesses is the third Canadian temple to signify its intention of coming to Washington. The others are Wa-Wa temple of Regina and Khartum of Winnipeg.

Recommended by Fisheries Commission Between November 15 and February 15.

The fisheries commission, which visited the Pacific Coast last summer, has recommended to the Federal government the placing of a closed season on halibut to begin annually on November 15 and end on February 15 according to an official copy of the preliminary report of the commission which has been forwarded to the Daily News and which appeared in brief through press despatches from Ottawa last week. The commission further recommends that an international arrangement be made towards the securing of the said close season in extra-territorial waters. The commission has the assurance of the Washington State Fisheries Board that it will render aid towards the said arrangement being arrived at on the part of the United States authorities.

Instructions Were Given to See Liquor Act Enforced, Inspector Miller Tells Accounts Committee

VICTORIA, Nov. 22.—James Miller, inspector under the Liquor Act, stated to the public accounts committee yesterday morning that he had received frequent letters from the Attorney-General urging prosecution to the limit of all bootleggers. Hon. J. W. deB. Farris, the former attorney general, had also demanded enforcement of the Act.

Inspector Miller said he had faith in the men who were working for him and it was not right to call them "stool pigeons." They were sworn officers and were the best that could be obtained for the work. He believed the evidence they gave in every case in spite of the fact that some magistrates said they did not. He thought that magistrates did believe the evidence but would not say why they would not convict.

Hon. W. J. Bowser, leader of the opposition, threw a bomb into the committee by saying that he had a series of checks from one man for the months of July and September amounting in all to $2,000 and ranging in amounts up to $400 paid for beer to Robert H. Gordon, vendor of the Robson Street liquor store in Vancouver. The checks were signed by the president of a notorious Vancouver club, A. M. Johnson, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, took the amounts of the checks and promised to investigate.

Investigations Made In reply to Mr. Bowser, Inspector Miller said he had investigated large sales by liquor stores to clubs for resale. His duty was to see that beer was properly delivered but he was not putting men on beer wagons to do it. Mr. Bowser asked regarding bootleggers at Huntingdon and other places near the boundary suggesting that the officials could not see things that everyone else saw. He also suggested that if shipments from vendors were stopped the bootleggers would go out of business. Inspector Miller told of prosecutions under the act and his desire to secure convictions.

BOYD YOUNG TOOK ANOTHER BAD SPELL

Dr. Friend Phones to Crown Prosecutor While Flewin and Kevis Were Up Today

Owing to the chief witness being unable to testify, Magistrate McMullin this morning granted another adjournment of eight days in the case of Clarence Flewin and Raymond Kevis charged with attempted murder of R. Boyd Young at Port Simpson on September 11. Constable A. J. Watkinson of Port Simpson was present at the hearing this morning and stated that Dr. Friend suggested that the injured man be sent south for a month owing to complications having set in in the form of dizzy spells and partial colapsus. While the matter was being discussed Dr. Friend phoned T. B. Hooper, counsel for the crown, stating that Mr. Young had just undergone one of his worst spells. L. W. Palanore, defending the accused men, opposed an adjournment for a month, but it is likely that Dr. Friend will appear at the next hearing and order Young to go south for a month as he is unable to stand any severe examination on the case.

Airing Of Near East Situation.

The complicated Near East situation, which constitutes perhaps the sorest spot now remaining in European political affairs, is to have what promises to be thorough airing in the diplomatic gathering of prime importance beginning at Lausanne this week and which may continue for several weeks.

Invitations to the parley, which has come to be known as the Near East Peace Conference, were sent in the names of Great Britain, France and Italy to the governments of Japan, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey and the United States. The same governments also invited Russia and Bulgaria to send representatives here "at a later date" to participate in discussions concerning the Straits of the Dardanelles—one of the most important subjects on the agenda.

Primary Purpose To End War.

Primarily, the plenipotentiaries will seek to end the war in the Near East between the Greeks and the Turks, which has been sizzling, and at times assuming more menacing proportions, ever since the Sevres Treaty of 1920 informed the Turk that his presence was no longer desired in Europe. Actual military operations, in fact, were halted only a few weeks ago, when the Turkish forces under Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Commander-in-Chief of the Nationalist Army, consented to an armistice following the complete defeat of the Greeks.

Attitude Of Russia And United States.

The attitude of both Russia and the United States toward the conference has presented many interesting aspects, not the least of which is the Russian contention that she must take a leading part in any negotiations centering around the Straits, in which she has a tremendous commercial interest.

"We are not making threats and are not rattling the swords," Foreign Minister Tchitcherin said recently, "but we do insist upon proper consideration in all questions relating to the Near East, and particularly the commercial freedom of the Straits."

The United States, on the other hand, has declined to participate officially in the conference, holding that as it never had been at war with Turkey, it did not believe it could appropriately take part in framing a treaty of peace with that nation in association with the Allied conferences.

United States Looking After Own Interests.

The Washington government did say, however, that it had sufficient interest in the conference to send observers to Lausanne for the parley, and outlined the subjects which particularly concerned it. Among other things, the United States is on record as favoring unqualifiedly the freedom of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, as well as the protection of racial and religious minorities.

It also is recognized, according to the American Secretary of State, that the United States has certain very definite rights under the so-called Capitulatory Treaties, pertaining to extra territorial concessions granted foreigners; and again—that the Washington government is not disposed to see Americans discriminated against in favor of the nationals of other nations.

Another side-light on the conference, and one which has played no small part in the preliminary interest, is the attitude of the United States as regards the Allied tendency to exclude Russia from participation in the general deliberations.

It is understood that the American government is strongly inclined toward the belief that no permanent solution of the Near East problem can be hoped for unless steps are taken to conserve and protect the legitimate interests of Russia in any settlement that may be attempted.

Should Further Insure Against Fire Possibility.

It is gratifying to have such a favorable report on the city from a fire standpoint as that which has been submitted by the Fire Underwriters' Association of B.C. It shows that the per capita fire loss for six years has been very small and that the city is well protected. These facts were undoubtedly responsible for the reduction in rates which came into effect a few months ago.

While giving a favorable report, the board makes some recommendations which is would well behoive the city council to act upon. Prince Rupert has never had an extensive fire, but it would be well to take every precaution possible to make the possibility of such even less than it is at the present time.

Mary Jane Irving Has Important Role With Ethel Clayton in "The Cradle"

Of the child prodigies of the screen there is perhaps none who has attracted greater attention and admiration than Mary Jane Irving, who has an important role in Ethel Clayton's latest Paramount picture "The Cradle," which comes to the Westholm Theatre tonight and tomorrow. Mary Jane portrays that character around which the story revolves—the child who is placed in the centre of the see-saw of two divorced parents. Her love for each is boundless and yet the law, which knows not the childish mind, decides she must spend so many months of each year with each parent. Such cruel torment as this state of affairs must naturally bring about is depicted in an amazing manner by little Miss Irving, and her performance is one which will live long in the memory of all who witness it.

DENONCES MARRIAGE REGULATIONS BANKS

Canon Scott Says Institutions Better Spend Money Making Human Pillars Than Marble

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—Speaking here before the Young Men's Canadian club on the subject of "The place of the young man in Canada," Rev. Canon F. G. Scott, of Quebec, flayed the policy of those banking and other institutions which did not permit their employees to marry before they reached a certain salary. He hotly denounced this policy as a crime and suggested that the money spent by such institutions in building marble columns in front of their offices would be better spent in building human pillars for Canada in the homes instead of "throwing money away in making a show of this kind."

"Our whole conception of marriage is wrong," he continued. "Instead of 27, 28, and 30 being considered the correct age for marrying, it ought to be the same age as in the days of our grandfathers. My grandfather married when he was 21. The woman who is raising children, and not the woman who is going in for political power, is rendering the highest service to the nation."

He claimed that Canada was suffering from a deterioration intellectually and in regard to the administration of justice he said it should be the same in the case of the rich as in the case of the poor. "That is not the case here, at present," he maintained.

IS BUNGHOLE OF DOMINION

Rev. A. E. Cooke Makes Furious Attack on B.C. Liquor Act at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—A vigorous attack against the British Columbia Liquor Act was launched at the temperance convention here by Rev. A. E. Cooke, of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia Prohibition association, who said the measure had made British Columbia "the sink-hole of the Dominion, plunged much of the social and moral life into debauchery, was forcing the government downer and deeper into the mire, and made the name of Canada a by-word along the Pacific coast." He was enthusiastically applauded by the delegates, who are organizing to fight the coming referendum in this province.

Hunting the Bung-hole

Battalions of those who could not fly a mile from a bung-hole had marched upon Vancouver and were still coming from all quarters, dragging Vancouver down to degradation. Organized fleets of whisky boats were carrying crime even murder down the coast, and making Canada's name a by-word, Mr. Cooke said. British Columbia was becoming famed as the "land of the corkerew," where the government stood behind the bars and handed out the liquor to all those who had the price. The liquor influence was steadily increasing its grip and instead of the government controlling liquor in British Columbia, the liquor interests of all Canada were using it as their bastion.

Everybody Sells It

Respectable apartment houses were selling liquor, public dances were becoming open scandals, and young women were carrying liquor in silver flasks to the fashionable parties. Two rings, forming the biggest combine west of the Rockies, were doing their utmost to smash the laws, and were endangering international relationship with the United States by carrying on illicit traffic across the border in defiance of both United States and Canadian regulation. Blind pigs were wide open.

Mr. Cooke paid a tribute to Attorney General Manson who he said was making a splendid attempt to restore the majesty

BERLIN IS STILL POPULAR RESORT

Many Americans Visiting in German Capital This Autumn

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—Although the tourist season in Germany usually is on the wane when autumn sets in, September's daily influx of strangers in Berlin was just as heavy as in July. Nearly one-tenth of the arrivals from abroad were Americans.

The total number of visitors was 123,875, of which 32,224 were foreigners. Of the latter, 3,162 were Americans, Czechoslovaks headed the list of nationalities with 3,339.

REVEALING CHARACTER

"Another fine little way to study character is to watch the faces of people while they are reading the jokes of a 'Topics of the Day' feature," states Charles A. Leedy in his jolly "Lines and Jabs" column of the Youngstown, Ohio, Telegram.

You're right, Mr. Leedy! In watching a typical family group while "Topics of the Day" was dashed on the screen, we observe them registering their emotions as follows: Father—appreciation; Mother—approval; older daughter—amusement; older son—delight; little daughter—enjoyment; little son—glee.

Yes, indeed, under the happy spell of the reel of press wit, everybody gives immediate register of their feelings and those who evidence a keen sense of humor are usually pretty good sports, eh?

DEFENSE

Box Formation

One style of defense formation has been mentioned in connection with the discussion on guards, that is the one-man guard. The box formation which we shall consider now is stronger though the stationary guard serves in the same capacity in it as in the "one guard back" defense.

The running guard and the center play their own positions and in so doing they turn the play toward the center and prevent sideline dribbling which is frequently resorted to against the one guard back defense. The forwards form the first line of defense just beyond the center of the floor in advance of the running guard and the center. It is their duty to force the passing of their opponents and prevent any killing of time in holding or passing the ball at their end of the floor.

This will give two forwards in the front line defense, the center and the running guard as a second line taking opposite sides of the floor and the stationary guard under the basket waiting to intercept as usual.

Five Man Guard

The five-man defense is another exceptionally strong and effective style of play that is becoming common among school and college teams who work out systematically under coaches. It places the responsibility of defense on the whole team.

The defense is concentrated in the center section across the entire width of the floor. As with all others, the time for this style of defense is immediately upon loss of the ball. The great danger with this formation will occur if any time is lost in getting into place. Once the opponents penetrate into that territory past the center of the floor scoring is sure to result. A team that is behind should not attempt this style of defense as the opponents can continue to pass at their end of the floor for the sole purpose of killing time. The team that is behind should exert every effort to establish an offense and the only way to do so is to intercept a pass.

Three-Man Offense

A three-man offense can rarely penetrate the five-man defense. Four or five men are necessary and even then if skill and good judgment is not used even this number will fail. There are two ways in which the five-man defense can be played. One is the man to man type of play and the other is the position style of defense.

In the first each man picks his opponent as the latter endeavors to advance into the guarded territory. Naturally a criss-crossing of players on the line of defense will result. But in the other style each man is held responsible for a section of the floor and should he be drawn out of his position in the line of defense he is simply affording his opponents an opening. The end men on the forward line of defense ward against sideline dribbling as the opponent can easily be forced out of bounds. An attack directed between two players on the first line of defense can be met from either side. Even if the forward line of defense is not successful in breaking the play it should by no means break if two men get past. The two guards, or the secondary line of defense will take care of the two men. The three men on the first line of defense are responsible for the three remaining players and after the offense has passed the front line they have a chance of action according to the way they size up the play.

They may either fall back and help the secondary defense or hold their forward positions in readiness to launch an offensive attack if the guards break up the play and get the ball.

The breaking up of formations built around a brilliant star necessitates the putting of one man for the sole purpose of guarding the star.

Sport Chat

If the Vancouver hockey players fall down tonight in their game against the Metropolitans in Seattle, they might as well give up any hope of trying to catch up with the other two coast teams before the end of the year.

The Puget Sound team soundly trounced the Millionaires in the opening game on the Canadian side and then Victoria stepped in and handed them two more beatings. Now they are put with their back against the wall. It is a case of "do or die." Of course the Seattle fans will install their home boys as favorites but there will be a goodly crowd of Vancouver supporters to lay their change on their favorites. Beyond a doubt the Millionaires standing in the cellar of the coast league is due to the absence of their star goalie, Hugh Lehman who is not supposed to report before December 1 but urgent wires have been sent asking him to hurry. The substitute from the Prairies is not good enough to stop the Coast sharpshooters who have been finding the back of his cage with great regularity, a thing which they had great difficulty in doing while Lehman was on deck.

England's Grand Old Man of Tennis, J. G. Ritchie recently celebrated his 52nd birthday by passing into the finals in the London Covered Lawn Tennis Championships, a fine achievement indeed as the entry was of a very high quality. Ritchie is one of the most wonderful veterans who have graced English sport. At 52 years of age he plays tournament lawn tennis practically every day of his life and thrives on it. Some people may think a man is too old at 40 for such a strenuous exercise but Ritchie meets and beats good players thirty years his junior and he keeps doing it. He is slower than he was ten years ago but a compensating asset is the subtle brain of a great lawn tennis "general." That and a matchless steadiness, pulls the veteran Ritchie through. He gets everything back and works with one object, to get his opponent out of position. That accomplished, he finishes off the rally with a neat and reasonably hard shot.

Ten Years Ago

Frank S. Evans, managing director of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., left this morning for England to purchase a fishing fleet for the company.

G. A. McNeill, superintendent of the G.T.P., left this morning on the Prince Rupert for the south on a business trip.

The Grand Jury, headed by Fred Stock as foreman, has presented its report on the public institutions of the city to Hon. Gordon Hunter, Chief Justice of B.C. The report also made some very complimentary remarks about His Lordship.

W. B. Baer, who has been in the city for the last few weeks in connection with the Port Edward townsite, left this morning for Seattle.

Fifty reservists left on the steamer Prince Rupert for the south this morning on their way to fight against the Turks in the Balkan war.
