FIRE INSURANCE REPORT ON PRINCE RUPERT SUBMITTED TO CITY COUNCIL

Report of Fire Underwriters on This City is Very Satisfactory; Loss Small and Apparatus Ample

That the City of Prince Rupert has had a small average loss yearly from fire and that the fire fighting apparatus in the city is ample for its needs is the interesting and satisfactory information which is contained in the B. C. Fire Underwriters' report on Prince Rupert which has just been received by City Clerk E. A. Woods. The city is classed as a fifth class city under the regulations, the report having been made last June. Several recommendations are appended to the report.

In dealing with fire losses here, the report states that for the five years from 1916 to 1920 the gross loss was $49,148. The total insurance carried on this amounted to $31,602. The value of the property involved came to $1,606,211. There were 171 calls for the fire department during this time and the report goes on to say that the average yearly loss was $1.20 per capita which, it adds, is very small.

Dealing with the fire fighting apparatus the report states that the city has ample apparatus which is slightly undermanned. The fire alarm boxes are declared to be in good condition and the distribution of telephones for fire purposes is also good.

An accompanying map with the report shows that there are 4,761 acres in the city of which 2,610 acres are land and the remaining 2,151 acres are water.

Make Recommendations

In making recommendations regarding this city the association, in the report, goes on to say:

The structural conditions now existing warrant some definite action toward a more permanent class of construction.

The association also recommends a comprehensive building bylaw and a competent official appointed to enforce the same.

It is possible that this report may be presented to Mayor Rochester and the city council tonight at their meeting.

PROVIDING FOR SINKING FUND

B.C. Only Province in Canada
Payoff Redemption of Debt
At Maturity

"British Columbia is in the enviable position of being practically the only province in Canada that fully provides for the redemption of its debt at maturity by providing a sinking fund," said Hon. John Hart, provincial finance minister, in his budget speech on Friday. "A comparison with the other provinces will be of interest to the House."

"The skillful investment of our sinking fund appropriations has established this enviable position, one which has brought most favorable comment from the financial houses which have interested themselves in British Columbia securities, that we can pay today sinking fund provisions exist for our entire debt. British Columbia is the only province in the Dominion which has fully provided for the redemption of its debt at maturity by a sinking fund. With a gross funded debt of $63,851,536 British Columbia has sinking funds amounting to $10,071,707.85, or fifteen per cent, while four other provinces with aggregate debts of $378,810.99 have sinking funds aggregating $10,296,792.12, or two-and-a-quarter per cent of the aggregate gross debt. In other words, British Columbia owns approximately forty-nine per cent of the total sinking fund appropriations of all the Canadian provinces."

FINNEGAN WON'T BOTHER PAYING FINE THIS TIME

T. Finnegan, charged with being drunk in the Empress Hotel appeared before Magistrate McClymont in the police court this morning. His Worship asked the accused if the charge was true.

"Well, Your Honor, I had some drinks but I wasn't drunk," he pleaded.

The evidence of the police officers showed the man had been creating a disturbance in the hotel.

Magistrate McClymont declared him guilty and imposed a fine of $50 or thirty days imprisonment.

As the convicted man started from the court he turned with these words: "I guess I could get the $50 but I won't bother. I guess I'll stay with youse." Then he marched out.

EXPENDITURE AND REVENUE PROVINCE FOR YEAR 1921-22

Revenue and Expenditure

"The public accounts for the fiscal year ended March 31 last, presented to the House at the opening of the session, shows that the total revenue taken to account during the year was $18,882,391.11, an amount $1,871,795.96 greater than the estimates," said Hon. John Hart, B.C. finance minister, in his budget speech.

"The total expenditures for the year were $17,436,186.92 on Current Account and $3,236,697.01 on Capital Account chargeable to income, or a total of $20,672,883.93.

"Practically every department of the Government service conducted its operations below the amount estimated to an aggregate saving of about $450,000. The charges on account of the Public Debt incurred in connection with the flotations we had to make during the year required some $722,000 more than originally estimated for that purpose."

Six Months' Statement

"The statement of receipts and expenditures for the first six months of the current fiscal year, shows continued improvement in revenue collections and general retrenchment in all departments. The revenue received up to September 30 was $9,905,952.41 out of the estimated twelve months revenue of $19,045,815.

"On October 5 our total revenue collections amounted to $11,000,000 receipts from liquor profits, income tax, and personal property tax accounting for the greater portion of the additional revenue. As there has thus been approximately 60 per cent of the estimated revenue for the year collected within a little more than six months there is every reason to believe that the full amount of the estimated receipts will materialize."

"The expenditure on current account for the six months was $7,479,534.09 out of an estimated expenditure for twelve months of $17,779,892.46, and the expenditure on capital account out of income was $1,608,316.75 as against an estimate of $3,349,165.56 for the twelve months, or a total expenditure chargeable to revenue for the year of $21,129,057.82, or approximately 40 per cent."

RESTRICTION ON FISHING

Harding Creates Reservation in Alaska to Prevent Destruction
Salmon Industry

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—President Harding by an executive order has created a fisheries reservation in Alaskan waters, including Bristol Bay, Cook Inlet and the waters adjacent to Kodiak and Afognak Islands, to prevent destruction of the salmon industry.

The order is to continue in effect until legislation is adopted establishing control of the industry.

The action creating the reservation was recommended by secretary of Commerce Hoover and Fish Commissioner O'Malley.

Hearing at Seattle

A hearing will be held in Seattle on November 21 to consider the restrictions to be made under President Harding's reservation. A hearing will also be held at San Francisco before the restrictions are made.

Officials of the Alaska canneries express the belief that there will be little decrease of the Alaska salmon pack because the restrictions are expected to be applied gradually.

THREE CLUBS FINED $1000 EACH FOUND GUILTY SELLING BEER

MINISTERS COMING TO PRINCE RUPERT AT END OF SESSION

VICTORIA, Nov. 20.—Hon. T. D. Pattullo told a Daily News representative today that just as soon as the session was over he intended to make a tour of his constituency and discuss with the people the needs of the various districts and such matters as immigration and local import. Owing to the necessity of making a visit to England it was impossible for him to visit the constituency before the session. He will make up for this by spending some time there after Christmas and trying to meet all the people. Mr. Manson will also tour the North after the holidays.

Hon. John Hart in Budget Speech Shows that Present Government Capably Handling B. C. Finances

"My conception of a Budget speech is not that it should defend the policies of the party in power but that it should place honestly and fairly before the people who have to furnish the money the disposition which is being made of it," declared Hon. John Hart in his Budget speech Friday. "I believe that the present Government is giving to British Columbia a capable administration of its affairs, and therefore to that extent what I have to say in regard to the financial situation may be construed as a defence of our policies."

The surplus of provincial assets over liabilities continue to grow, the increase during the fiscal year being $2,193,123.15. In 1917 the excess of assets over liabilities was $17,477,345.70; in 1918 it was $8,260,032.52; in 1919 it was $22,181,252.63; in 1920 it was $23,107,291.55; in 1921 it was $23,375,771.54; and in the year which ended March last it was $25,566,297.96.

The gross funded debt of the province at March 31st, 1921, was $46,746,661, to which must be added treasury bills outstanding to a total of $6,734,600, and the South Vancouver loan of $790,000, making $54,271,261 in all, from which must be deducted a payment of $9,700 on the B.C. House mortgage. During the ensuing twelve months there were new debenture loans floated, in large part for the conversion of treasury bills, to the extent of $8,800,100, and new loans by way of treasury bills total $718,000, or a total of new borrowings of $9,518,100. The total debt, both debentures and treasury bills was thus at March 31st, 1922, $63,779,961.

There was borrowed in July last $2,000,000, which represents, less the conversion of treasury bills, new borrowing of $1,575,000. There was also borrowed from the bank by treasury bills $805,000, or altogether $2,380,000. Adding this sum to the total debt at the end of the last fiscal year we find that the gross debt at November 1st was $66,159,961.

The purposes to which the new money borrowed by debentures this year were applied were:

Land Settlement Board	$ 75,000
Land Settlement Board	500,000
General purposes	500,000
Soldiers' Land Act	190,000
Conservation of irrigation works	255,000
B.C.E. Railway (rule of road)	55,000
	$1,575,000

The amounts raised by treasury bills were applied as follows:

Pacific Great Eastern Railway	$125,000
B. C. E. Railway	50,000
Conservation of irrigation works	50,000
Soldiers' Land Act	30,000
Forest Protection Fund	300,000
B. C. Railway Act	250,000
	$805,000

To arrive at the net debt of the province directly chargeable against taxation, we are entitled to deduct from the gross amount (Continued on Page Six)

Advantages Of Small Town.

There are many advantages in living in a small town. There may not be as much scope as in a large city and there are other disadvantages but on the other hand there are all sorts of compensations. The man in a small town may have all the friends he wishes if he treats his neighbors well. If he does the right thing and is sociable there is always something doing and he has a great deal of influence in the community. This cannot always be said of the big city. Only a few people ever become well known in a big city, and they are mostly politicians or preachers. Occasionally an outstanding businessman has a wide sphere of influence but usually that is not because of his business activities but because of outside activities often of a political nature.

In a small town practically everything a person does is known to his neighbors. If he goes away or returns his doings are chronicled and, after being away, he receives a hearty welcome from his fellow townsmen. True, the small town is given to gossip and sometimes does unkindly things, but for one such act there are a hundred little attentions that could never be expected in a large place. People in small places are interested in your birth, your school days, your marriage, your children, your social activities, in fact they are interested in everything you do. In a big city nobody cares whether you live or die. Each lives his own life and if he has a dozen friends he is a lucky person.

Take An Interest In The Elections.

Everyone should take an interest in the government of the city. Ours is a democratic country where the people rule. If the people are ignorant, idle or careless, the government of the city will be carried on badly. The mayor and council very largely reflect the electorate. Often they are much better than the men and women who choose them.

It is useless to grumble throughout next year if efforts are not made now to secure proper representation. There are always a lot of people who want to secure public positions, and there are a larger number who refuse to accept public office. It is well to beware of those who would thrust themselves on the people whether requested to offer themselves for election or not. They usually have some ulterior motive ahead, other than the good of the city. The advice we would give the people of the city is to choose carefully and if it is found that there are not suitable men in the field, get out after them and press them into the service. Unless the electors take a keen interest in choosing the right men, we shall find at the close of next year that we are in a worse position than we are today. We want men who will be careful of the finances and yet who have a broad outlook. The man who sees the dollar a day he receives for his services is not worth having.

Choosing Mayor Most Important.

Choosing a mayor is of course the most important thing we do each year. The first requisite of such a man is ability and the second courage. If a candidate has already been in the public service he can be judged on his record. If he has never served on any of the public boards or committees it is more difficult to judge him but the conduct of his own business is the best gauge. A man who is not a success in his own business is likely to be a failure as a public servant.

It is well to remember that the mayor of the city is also head of the police commission and has in his hand the moral condition of the city. The police act largely at his bidding. He has large powers and it is dangerous to trust these powers to a man who has not shown marked executive ability in other lines.

Baby Marshall.

"When my little son was three months old he broke out in sores on his chest and arms. We did all we could to heal those terrible sores, but nothing did him much good. Finally I ventured on a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and kept on using it. At last we were rewarded by the steady healing of the sores, and finally he was completely relieved of them. He is now three years old, and has had no return of the trouble since."

Manson Speaks Very Clearly and Forcibly on Oriental Question in Legislature; Quotes Statistics

VICTORIA, Nov. 20.—Hon. A. M. Manson, member for Omineca, made an effective speech in the Legislature in which he dealt with the Oriental question without gloves. He showed how the Japanese and Chinese were over-running the industries and urged total exclusion from the country and attrition on the part of those now here. He said in part:

"It would seem to me that the time has arrived when, in the words of Fred Stork, the member for the Skeena electoral seat in the federal house, British Columbia is not prepared to sacrifice itself on the altar of Imperial relations. I do not think that it is necessary that we should do so because I am by no manner of means convinced that the situation cannot be amicably adjusted with the nations involved. Let me say at the outset that we have no quarrel with the Oriental as such. I think everybody appreciates that the little Jap is entitled to a great deal of admiration for his steadiness, his thrift, and his hard working qualities and although we have perhaps not that same admiration for the class of Chinaman that comes to British Columbia, we are still compelled to admit that he is at least a hard worker.

Standards Different

The standard of living of the Oriental is not our standard. It is very much lower, but I am of opinion that in the process of time the Oriental in his new environment would rise in his standard of living even as our own people have risen from the much lower standards that prevailed in earlier times in the country of their origin. In fact, one has already to admit that the Jap at least has progressed very much in the thirty or forty years that he has been with us and that today his mode of living is very considerably higher than it was twenty or thirty years ago in British Columbia.

"Our objection to the Oriental cannot be truly founded on that aspect of the matter. We object to his standards of living which make it possible for him to live for less and work for less and enter into competition with our white labor at a price which white labor cannot compete with, but in the process of time that difficulty might be overcome and yet, while speaking on that point one's attention is drawn to the fact that today we of the white race have come to the point where there are certain classes of labor that we are not willing to perform.

The Real Objection

"To my mind the real objection to the Oriental and the one that is permanent and incurable is the ethnological difference as between the white and the Oriental races. As a Christian people we thoroughly believe that 'man to man the world over should brothers be,' but it is hard for me to believe that in the divine order of things it was intended that the blood of the Oriental and the blood of the white should mix. The blood simply will not assimilate and if it were even intended that they should assimilate it was surely by a very slow process of assimilation extending over the centuries and not by a sudden process in our time. It is a matter of our own domestic affairs that we should endeavor to protect our white race from the necessity for its blood intermingling with Oriental blood and I think we have every warrant for fighting in the most strenuous fashion to prevent a situation arising which will inevitably result in the deterioration of our own race.

"And if my argument is fundamentally sound in this respect then I think we are right in taking up too the subsidiary argument that arises out of the lower standards of living of the Oriental and the unfair competition of his labor. Though one must not be unmindful in this respect of the fact that from an economic standpoint we hope to continue in the international economic race in industry, we must be prepared to find labor to supplant the Oriental and I am convinced that if industry will refrain from being too grasping, if in its anxiety to succeed it does not allow itself to be consumed in an inhuman grasping of wealth, industry can provide for its working men an adequate wage and working conditions that will enable it to get a sufficient supply of labor of the white race.

Progressive Menace

The story of the Oriental in British Columbia has been the story of a progressive menace. He came to us first as a hand laundry man. Then he became a factor in the fishing industry, next in the logging and lumbering industry, then in the mining industry, then in the farming industry and then as an ordinary merchant. The multiplicity of his activities has already increased.

Chinese immigration into the Dominion decreased from 2,135 in 1920-1 to 1,716 in the year ended March 31, 1922. Japanese immigration decreased during the same period from 532 to 471, and only 13 Hindus were admitted during the last fiscal year, but because there has been some little decrease in immigration it is not to be presumed for a moment that the menace is growing less for there has been a very substantial natural increase, particularly in the case of the Japanese during recent years in this Province and from the latter fact in my mind it would seem to me that it is necessary that we should do more than exclude the Oriental from entering into our country, we should adopt some policy that will compel the Oriental that is here to leave our shores.

Antipathy Grows

It is very interesting to note the change in the attitude of portions of the public with regard to the problem. In the earlier stages in the fight against the Oriental intrusion it was left for labor to carry on and the rest of the public took a very indifferent attitude, but as the Oriental increased his activities he touched little by little the profits of a good many more classes in the community. The time was when agriculturalists were glad to employ Orientals, but since the Oriental has become a land owner and a land lessor, since he has depreciated the value of the white man's holdings, since his children have gone to the white man's school, the attitude of the agriculturalist has entirely changed. And so with the merchants. For years they stood aloof. They were willing to buy the produce of the Oriental truck gardener and to retail it again to the consuming public. But with the advent of the Oriental as a retail merchant the attitude of the white retail merchant has changed until today there is no organization in British Columbia carrying on a more aggressive campaign against the Oriental than the Retail Merchants' Association of this Province.

"So if the Jap or the Chinaman has extended his activities in our province if at least has not been without some good results because it has enlisted the whole of the white population of British Columbia, or nearly so, in the endeavor to cope with the menace in some successful way. And yet there is a good deal of carelessness for the most part when we patronize the Oriental laundry and eat Oriental produce. We ask, for instance, white laundries to live up to the most modern factory conditions, to carry on strictly in accord with trade union principle. We compel them to do so, and yet we unfairly patronize the Oriental competitor of the white laundry, who operates under anything but satisfactory conditions from the labor standpoint. One finds one plant employing seven or eight hundred Orientals and I think of one plant that is doing so, while a neighboring plant of exactly the same kind does not employ Orientals at all. This in the face of the serious unemployment situation that has prevailed in this Province in recent years. It cannot be said surely that the employment of Orientals in the first mentioned plant is an economic necessity because the sister plant seems to succeed quite well without doing so. Perhaps the first mentioned plant saves a few dollars by the course it pursues, but if it saves at the expense of the white people of the Province the cost in my opinion is altogether too high.

Believes in Attrition

I am a firm believer in a policy of attrition with regard to the Oriental in this Province. If we that are white will make it our business from day to day to patronize whites and to scrupulously refrain from patronizing the Oriental we shall drive the Oriental back to his own country or to some other part of the world. The Department of Labor, over which I have the honor to preside, is quietly and persistently using every endeavor to effect this purpose. It has approached industry throughout the Province with respect to the unemployment situation and it has pointed to the fact that if there must be unemployment it is a thousand times better that it should be the unemployment of Orientals than of white citizens. We have pointed out that if each industry will do its part to absorb a few of the disabled and partially disabled veterans of the war the task of their proper re-establishment will be greatly lessened and surely any industry that calls itself Canadian, and any employer that pretends to breathe the breath of patriotism should not be averse to taking up a part of this burden.

Any right minded employer should esteem it a privilege and a pleasure to be able to do something in the way of taking care of our men who served Overseas. And particularly in the case of those industries which are developing our natural resources I would say that there should be no hesitation whatever on their part in making the development care for the very greatest number of our white people that is possible.

That this Government is prepared to carry on the fight to the utmost I think goes without saying. With the principle of the exclusion of the Oriental we are in entire accord. I see no great virtue in going into the intricacies of the amendment moved by the honorable gentleman who leads the Opposition. If men in public life are prepared to play politics with this question they will do much to negative sincere effort. To my way of thinking, we in the Pacific Province where the menace is real must unite through every organization that we can bring into line and endeavor to impress upon the men who are in the seat of Government at Ottawa the necessity for the exclusion of the Oriental and we must similarly unite in our own Province in a policy of elimination of the Orientals that are here by firm and steady steps. In other words, there must be not only exclusion, but there must be attrition if the menace is to be successfully removed.

FOUND WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION BY USING Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills

Constipation is one of the most prevalent troubles the human race is subject to, and is the greatest cause of many of our ailments, for if the bowels cease to perform their proper functions all the other organs will become deranged.

Keep your bowels working gently and naturally by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and thus do away with the constipation and all other troubles caused by it.

Mrs. A. B. Spence, Springhill, N. S., writes:—"I have suffered for some time from constipation, and was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. After taking a vial of them I have found wonderful relief, and would advise all those who are constipated to give them a trial, for I feel sure they will also receive the same benefit I did."

Price 25c a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PATTULLO ON IMMIGRATION

Minister of Lands in Address at Victoria Says There Should be Less Dependence on Governments

Immigrants should be made to show self-reliance and not be mothered too extensively by governments, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, told the Klamath Club at its weekly luncheon in the course of an address upon the subject of immigration, says the Victoria Colonist.

Speaking not only of newcomers to the province, but also of those already here, the minister declared: "We have got to get back to first principles and insist that individuals do more and not expect so much from governments."

Load of Debt

Mr. Pattullo contended that it was not right to put a load of debt around the neck of immigrants in order to give them a start in British Columbia.

A couple of years ago, said the speaker, one dared hardly suggest an immigration policy of any kind, but now there was a definite body of public opinion in favor of bringing in new settlers. Some people had contended that there was no sense in increasing the population of the province while there was unemployment and the industries were in a depressed condition. This was a very superficial argument. Canada could absorb at least 300,000 people each year.

A Broad Policy

"I believe we should admit every healthy-minded, healthy-bodied, person of white extraction," said the minister. Common sense would, of course, have to be used in regard to such a policy. He would not, for example, suggest that all the immigrants should be unfamiliar with conditions in Canada. An effort should be made to have a preponderance of the newcomers of Anglo-Saxon origin.

Mr. Pattullo pointed out the steps which the Old Country had taken in regard to Dominion immigration, and said that the Federal Government was now working out a policy. The British Columbia Government already had laws on the statute books which would enable it to proceed immediately the Canadian Government had stated the extent to which it was willing to go.

Sought Pulp Investment

Stating that the establishment of industries in British Columbia should be given encouragement, the minister said that while in the Old Country he had taken up the question of the development of water power and the pulp and paper industry. He did not believe that there would be a general investment of British capital in Canada for some time to come, and pointed out that while the treatment of the Grand Trunk shareholders was thought by some to be more an excuse than a reason for the withholding of Old Country money, he believed that that affair had an influence. There were, however, responsible firms of the United Kingdom investigating in the province at the present time.

The people of British Columbia should use their initiative in finding employment and in developing the province, said the minister, making a plea for less dependence on government assistance and more self reliance.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Basketball and How to Play It

By Observer

OFFENSE.

Practically every art of the game such as passing, shooting, handling one's self while dribbling, pivoting, dodging, jumping and starting must be well executed in offensive formations. One slip up or one act of indecision is likely to make the formation useless. Strong offensive play always comes as the result of combined efforts. One star or a team comprised wholly of stars cannot accomplish the greatest result if their efforts are individual. Highly developed team play with formations built around a star player will work out exceptionally well.

Successful offensive play requires the working of the ball down the floor through the opponents' defense by a series of passes or dribbles so as to secure a point of vantage for shooting. Failure to start an offense play after a player secures the ball is usually due to team mates not coming around in front to receive a pass and allowing the man with the ball to advance his position. Someone should always be in an advanced position but when calling for a pass, as we have stated before, a player should get in motion to meet the ball.

There are times when close guarding prevents such movements and back passing must be resorted to. Under this condition back passing is good basketball. Usually the back or stationary guard is uncovered and in an excellent position to receive a pass when the play is blocked near the center of the court. The running guard should be on the look out for back passes.

The style of offense which a team is using can often be judged by the style of passing used. Many teams resort wholly to a variety of long passes endeavoring at all times to have the ball beat their opponent to the basket. It has been noticed that this is not effective unless developed very highly.

A dribbling game effects the same style of play, while the short passing game is usually played with the object of creating and opening near the basket for an incoming player to receive a pass and shoot. The most successful offense is that which combines long and short passes with the dribble used occasionally.

Starting Points

Though the long pass may reach the center and the forwards may be on hand to receive the pass out, still every man might be covered and unable to shoot. Short snappy passing around the basket will aid in getting a man uncovered under such circumstances. It means that every man must be on the move.

Players may be drilled in many offensive formations with specific starting points during practice but experience has taught that conditions as outlined in practice occur only occasionally in games. However, the drill work is exceedingly valuable for it forms good basketball habits and also wakens within the player a recognition of the possibilities for the start of team play.

The tip-off at center is practically the only formation where specific starting places can be set. It must be remembered that forwards and guards must be constantly on the move to obtain the advantage of position. A ball held out of bounds, a held ball, and the line-up all for a free throw all hold splendid possibilities for the start of an offensive formation. If the players have been drilled in such formations team play will result in the game. It cannot be expected that formations will work out as specifically planned but a start or an attempt to do so will eliminate loss of time and indecision.

A team should master its selection of plays exceedingly well and not try to acquire a large number of half-learned plays. This end can be accomplished by starting with a very few plays and gradually perfecting others as the season progresses. Plays should remain as simple as possible for the fewer the passes the more likelihood of completion.

Sport Chat

If the brand of basketball played and the closeness of the scores in Friday night's games marking the opening of the winter season may be taken as any indication, there should be some good, close and interesting hoop games in store for fans during the forthcoming few months. None of the three winning teams in the first games on Friday night won by any considerable margin and it would seem that the teams who lost on their first appearance should have every chance of coming back. Evenly matched teams always make the contests more interesting and the teams this year seem to be pretty even. The second basketball program on the calendar is down for tomorrow evening.

Victoria and Vancouver play tonight at Vancouver in their second meeting of the season in the Pacific Coast Hockey Association schedule. The protégés of the two Patrick boys are just as keen for victory this time as they were on Friday night and Vancouver is out to get her name above the cipher figure in the standing. The Millionaires gave the Aristocrats a good run for it on the Victoria ice and will, doubtless, be counting on changing defeat into victory at home tonight. If Victoria wins she gets a firm hold on second place while a Vancouver victory would tie the two Canadian teams in the cellar with a victory and two losses each.

Louis Phal — "Battling Siki" conqueror of Georges Carpentier, may be many things, but he is not the "fighting chimpanzee" sporting writers describe him, says a Canadian correspondent in Rotterdam. He is a typical Senegalese negro, nearly six feet tall, well built, with kinky hair and forehead an inch high. He would never shine as a beauty in America, but in Senegal, he would be rated handsome. Siki fought all through the war, was wounded and won medals and honors. He speaks fairly good

INCREASING ACTIVITY IN LUMBER SHIPPING NOTED AT VICTORIA

More Ships Taking Cargoes at Capital Than For Years Past
—Eastern Demand Large

VICTORIA, Nov. 20.—There is an increasingly active movement in the lumber export trade of this city. With a demand for lumber on the Atlantic coast the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber & Timber Co., Ltd., of Victoria, seized the opportunity to increase its output and the mills are now working at high pressure to keep the ships working on the big freighters taking turn at the Upper Harbor berth.

Not for many years has there been so many large lumber freighters loading lumber in the Upper Harbor as has been the case during the latter part of this year. The Italian freighter Brenta took on some 2,000,000 feet of lumber at the Canadian Puget Sound mills recently for New York, and the freighter Margaret Goughan loaded here for Montreal.

For the past week the British freighter Indian City has been taking on lumber for the Atlantic at the Upper Harbor mills. The Indian City is taking 2,000,000 feet here and will shift on Thursday to Vancouver and later to Coma Bay to complete. Her total cargo will approximate 5,000,000 feet of lumber.

Two Ships Coming
Two other ships are due at the Canadian Puget Sound mills shortly to load lumber for New York.

One of the vessels of the Robert Dollar fleet will arrive here early in December, and another vessel not yet named, will be handled by the local mills about December 20.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS ARE IN GOOD SHAPE

Investigation by Committee Fails to Unearth any Irregularities

VICTORIA, Nov. 15.—The public accounts committee has been sitting for several days and has so far failed to unearth anything irregular. It is interesting to watch the proceedings. The members of the committee sit around a big table with the man they are examining at one end and the chairman at the other. At one side are W. J. Bowser, R. H. Dooley, and J. W. Jones, the three opposition leaders, and at the other H. F. Kergin, Capt. Ian McKenzie, and one or two others.

members. Questions are asked on either side, but the Conservative triumvirate take the offensive attitude and try to unearth petty things that may be of political advantage to them. The whole thing is a game of politics.

This morning the Liquor Act accounts were under fire. Chief Accountant McFarlane was on the stand but much of the evidence was supplied by Archie Johnson, chairman of the Liquor Board. He has all the facts at his finger ends and gives the replies to questions in that clear, decisive way that indicates finality and accurate knowledge.

Close Examination
Cases of burglary and short-ages of accounts came in for review. It was shown that the sum of $105,000 had been spent since the formation of the board in secret work, prosecutions, lawyers' fees, travelling expenses and expenses of witnesses. It was also shown that clubs were unable to purchase beer as clubs. It was all bought on individual permits. Twenty men would each purchase as much as his permit allowed. The abuses which led to the cancellation of the brewery privileges were mentioned and the final closing of agencies and the inauguration of the present system. Placing inspectors at the breweries did not meet the case. They now send a man with each delivery. Under the former plan much of the beer it was thought was sold through bootleggers.

Other public accounts have been investigated but nothing of importance has been discovered. It is very satisfactory to have the accounts scrutinized for it shows that the financial affairs of the province are well taken care of. The audit system works well and it would be difficult for employees to get away with anything raw.

FOR EVERYBODY!

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, seems to have a genius for collecting, or at least for giving us the best of everything. It is because all needs are catered to, and all minds receive what they need, and all households are given from the experience of the past and the wisdom of the present what is necessary for today and for tomorrow also, that none can afford to be without the Family Herald and Weekly Star, particularly as the subscription price of $2.00 a year is within the means of all.

G. A. McNicholl, C.N.R. assistant general freight and passenger agent, attended a conference of passenger and freight officials in Winnipeg last week. Officials from all parts of the system were in attendance at the discussions which were of a private nature.

"See Ethel Clayton in 'The Grudge' at the Westholme Wednesday and Thursday night." runs a movie poster. That ought to be enough for the most of us.

What chance has a lovely woman in a battle with New York—its white lights, its police, and its cold world of high society? The answer is given dramatically in a mystery romance bristling with more thrills and suspense than the average person experiences in a life time. The play is "Find the Woman," starring Alma Rubens, which will be the week-end feature at the Westholme Theatre.

"PRIMITIVE LOVER" IS COMEDY WITH THEME

Constance Talmadge Has a Role
That She Likes in Tonight's Picture

Although it has never before been recorded in the numerous magazine articles written about Constance Talmadge, it is a matter of fact that the popular screen star is a very much domesticated, stay-at-home person. She prefers the walls of her domicile to a butterfly existence and has often yearned for a screen part that would enable her to portray this side of her nature.

In the story of "The Primitive Lover," the first National attraction playing at the Westholme tonight, she is cast as a married woman who finds the routine of married life abhorrent and learns the true lesson of love in the fastness of the California mountains surrounded by a raging blizzard.

Despite the serious sound of this theme, "The Primitive Lover" is a dandy comedy that will appeal to all of Constance Talmadge's followers. Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan have the leading roles opposite the star.
