BONAR LAW CABINET HAS NO SURPRISES CANADIAN SCHOONER WINS RACE OFF GLOUCESTER AGAINST AMERICAN

Bonar Law Cabinet Takes Over Reins of Office Following the Handing Over Portfolios Today

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The cabinet of Right Hon. Andrew Bonar Law was sworn in at Buckingham Palace this morning. As a result of the taking of the oath of office members of the cabinet began to function as the new government immediately.

The personnel of Bonar Law's first ministry had been pretty thoroughly canvassed in advance and there was an entire absence of last minute surprises in the official announcement. The list of ministers, as a whole, receives little carping criticism even from anti-Conservative quarters.

The Times considers one of the defects in the ministry is the large proportion of members belonging to the Upper House, a point which will strike many partisan beholders.

The ministers who had resigned from the Lloyd George government this morning attended a privy council meeting in Buckingham Palace to surrender their seats and portfolios.

MAYOR IS BACK FROM KAMLOOPS

Quite a Fight to Get Next Convention Here—Vancouver Was Opposed

Mayor H. B. Rochester returned home today after an absence of three weeks in the south during which time he attended the conventions of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and the Good Roads League at Kamloops and also visited Nelson, Revelstoke, Hazelton Hot Springs, Cranbrook, Spokane, Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver. The mayor also was in a week on the Kettle Valley railway which held his train up nine hours.

Speaking of the convention, Mayor Rochester stated that he had had quite a fight to have the next convention held in Prince Rupert. Vancouver had opposed and wanted it in Chilliwack but the mayor used all his influence and activities and was successful in having this city chosen.

A full report on the convention will be made by His Worship for next Monday's council meeting.

There were 34 horses in the running and betting was 25 to 1 against Reecho; 7 to 1 against Poisoned Arrow, and 50 to 1 against Hasty Match.

CHAMPIONSHIP SAILING RACE

Officers of Henry Ford Agree to Try Skill Once More at Gloucester

(Special to Daily News)
GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—Competition for the Atlantic fishing vessel championship almost wrecked on the rocks of controversy was saved last night when the skipper and crew of the Henry Ford decided to return to the boat, unballast her, and try to beat the Bluenose again today. She had already won two races, one of which was declared unofficial.

The Canadian members of the committee offered to hand the cup to the Yankees if it was acceptable that way. The latter decided to try to win the cup without a flaw.

There was great joy in Gloucester over the outcome and a public holiday has been declared today.

Canadian Press Report
GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—The contest for the championship fishing schooner of the Atlantic coast will go on after all, the officers of the Henry Ford having agreed to take out the ballast loaded recently for a resumption of fishing and to meet the champion Bluenose again today.

The committee agrees to overlook the technical infringement of the rules when the ballast was loaded on the Henry Ford yesterday.

PERRY TAKES CHARGE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—G. C. Perry, former Indian Agent at Prince Rupert, took over the reins of office as superintendent of the new Vancouver Indian department.

FOUR YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Is Sentence Imposed on Constantine Duralis Found Guilty of Attempted Rape

Found guilty on the first count, Constantine Duralis, section foreman from Doughty, charged with attempted rape and indecent assault, was sentenced to four years imprisonment in New Westminster penitentiary by Mr. Justice Murphy at the Supreme Court Assizes this morning. Taking of evidence and argument of counsel in the case was completed yesterday afternoon and, after an hour's charge by His Lordship, the jury retired at 3:45, returning with the verdict at 6:30. Sentence was passed on resumption of court this morning.

McGill's Address

Before sentence was passed, L. S. McGill, of Smithers, counsel for the defence, made a feeling plea on behalf of the accused. "The position occupied by the accused is a very difficult one," he said. "It is through no fault of his own and I trust that those who heard the case will consider it no fault of mine. I am absolutely convinced that he is innocent. At first I did not believe his story but since then I have thoroughly investigated it and, after questioning and cross-questioning of accused, I have become convinced that it is true. I questioned almost everybody in the vicinity of Morissetown and Doughty and there is not a single man or woman who did not say that the man was innocent and the woman who laid the accusation was lying. I do not think that I ever saw a more gross miscarriage of justice than confronts us now in this case."

"I felt during the progress of the trial that the case had been fully made up for the accused and did not think that it would be possible for any jury to find the man guilty. He did not have the finances to bring all the witnesses for the defence to the trial and, with the exception of two witnesses, the expenses of all were paid by myself. All investigations prove the man's character is good and that he had never been in trouble before. The people in the district from which he comes will stand against such a decision where an innocent man is railroaded to jail. I would ask you to consult Constable Kelly as to the man's character and record."

Asks Light Sentence

"Now that such a verdict has been brought the man is bound to stand under the conviction. Already he has been in jail for a month for something he did not do. I know Your Lordship's position and that you must stand by the decision of the jury. There is only one thing you can do to show the decent men of the country that they can get protection from such injustice of the courts and that is to suspend sentence or cut down the term by the time the man has already spent in jail. I think that in fairness to the accused and to the decent men and women of the country (Continued on Page Six.)

Bluenose Brings Honor to Canada by Winning Race Against American

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—The Canadian schooner Bluenose won today's race for the International Championship trophy by between four and five minutes, unofficial time.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—(Special).—After passing the second mark, the Bluenose increased her lead over the Henry Ford to over a mile and a half. At this time, the winner was leading by 7 minutes and 47 seconds. The wind had then dropped to ten knots.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—The American boat was leading the Bluenose by twelve seconds at the starting line but soon lost her lead, the Bluenose overcoming the lead of 1000 yards and leading 23 seconds at the first turn. By 12:30 the lead of the Bluenose was increased to 100 yards in a twelve knot breeze. At 1 p.m. her lead was nearly a mile and the wind had increased to fifteen knots.

The Bluenose had a better position at the start being to weather and blanketing the American boat.

THRILLS AT BIG RACE

(Special to Daily News)

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—The sensation of the race today was at 11:23 when the Henry Ford was crowded by the Bluenose toward the shore. The Canadian boat held the weather position when the Ford allowed her to go by. She came up quickly however, crossing her stern and coming up on the weather side.

Half way to the fourth mark the Ford gained on the Bluenose with the wind now blowing at 20 knots.

At 3:25 the Canadian was only half a mile ahead, the steersmen having difficulty in holding the course. Rounding the fourth mark the Ford's rush provided the thrilling sight of the series. Near the end of the race the Bluenose lost her sails.

Lloyd George Speaks but Says Little of Intentions During the Forthcoming Elections

LONDON, Oct. 25.—"I will support any party and any Government that pursues a policy of peace, economy, and steady progress, neither revolutionary nor reactionary and does it efficiently," ex-premier Lloyd George told the coalition Liberal members of Parliament at a meeting this morning.

Referring to the coalition government which he had headed he said: "We have stood for national unity of men and of all creeds, parties, and sections. Our first object was winning the war and afterwards extricating the country out of its after-war difficulties. It was our policy then, it is our policy now."

Referring to the Conservatives who broke away from the coalition and by their defeat of Austen Chamberlain as Conservative leader brought about the accession of Bonar Law to the premiership Lloyd George said: "I can understand the revolt of the under secretaries. There were subalterns who would like to be captains and captains who would like to be made colonels or full generals."

MCEACHERN IS ALLOWED OFF

Man Convicted of Unlawfully Wounding Is Released on Suspended Sentence

A. McEachern, who was found guilty of unlawfully wounding by the jury at the Supreme Court assizes, was released on suspended sentence by Mr. Justice Murphy this morning. His Lordship came to this decision through the recommendation of the jury for leniency and also in view of the good character of the accused which had been proven.

Before passing of sentence was made, M. Gonzales, counsel for the defence, made a plea on behalf of the accused pointing out the fact of the man's good character, that he was married with one child and that his appearance had been in his favor.

Mr. Justice Murphy stated that he agreed with the jury that accused would not have been where he was had he not indulged in the drink which he did. However, he might have been facing a much more serious charge, one in which his life might have been involved. It was not within his power to let accused go but he had communicated with the Crown in Victoria and had received that power. Therefore he would release accused on suspended sentence.

"If you behave yourself for the next two or three years," the judge stated, "there will be nothing more heard of this. However, if you get in trouble again, you will be brought back and rest assured that you will get the full penalty of three years. You owe the Crown the sum of $1,000 which you must agree to pay if called upon."

SATISFIED WITH SCHOOL WORK

Officials Paid Visit to Building Today Say Leakages Small

Dr. W. T. Kergin, chairman of the School Board, Trustee J. C. McLennan, Medical Health Officer Dr. J. P. Cade and Fire Chief D. H. McDonald paid a visit of inspection to the Booth Memorial School this morning. Speaking of what had been seen, Mr. McLennan said that leakage found has been small and there was only one place where there was an actual drip that being at one of the class room windows. It is believed that the water coming in there was entering from a cornice. There was, of course, moisture in other places where the work was not yet dry. All the visitors were quite well satisfied with the manner in which the school was standing up under the test of the recent storms. Structurally and from a waterproof standpoint, the building was one thousand per cent better than before the repairs under Mr. Jeffers commenced.

Types Of Mind In A Community.

There are various types of mind to be found in every community. The one that is most in evidence is the critical type. It criticizes everything and usually does so without any deep knowledge of the facts. There is little basis of argument. Such a mind finds everything is bad. It never attempts anything constructive and if it does so it fails and then becomes more critical than ever before.

The critical attitude does not add much to the happiness of the world, yet it is often useful. A critic that delves beneath the surface and brings out the facts is much to be admired, but the surface critic that just plays with words and speaks without knowledge is dangerous. Usually the extreme egotist is the severe critic. Naturally the only measure of the human mind is the length and breadth of his own and that being microscopic in size does not give him much scope.

The world is roughly divided into two big groups, those who do things and those who abuse the ones who are doing them. It is true in Prince Rupert and in every other community. The moment a person gets down to work and tries to do something, there is always a miniature orator on the next corner telling of the awful things that man is doing.

And at that, criticism is better than lethargy and as long as a person shows energy, there is hope for better things.

Pays To Look Beneath The Surface.

It always pays to look beneath the surface especially in appraising the human character. Appearances are most deceiving. Men and women who at first acquaintance do not appeal to us, as we know them better prove to be white all through except on the outside. A rough exterior must not be mistaken for a punk inside. Deep study and careful appraisal is desirable in all our relations with our fellows. Things are not always what they seem and it well to make sure before expressing our opinions. Immature judgment is the sure mark of an immature mind.

Suggests Henderson As Future Premier.

At a recent labor gathering in England, Arthur Henderson, the British Labor leader, was acclaimed as the future premier of Britain. And there is no reason why he should not be premier if he has a policy in which the majority of the people of Britain believe. He must have the policy and he must have the personality. With these two essentials combined with abundant energy anything is possible.

While we do not think the Labor cause likely to win in Britain today, it is quite possible that the Labor members may hold the balance of power in the new Parliament. There are able men among them and the labor sentiment there is strong in the industrial centres. It will be an intensely interesting political fight and one that we shall all watch with the feeling that what is possible there is also possible here and even probable.

New Names In British Cabinet.

To people on this side the Atlantic many of the names in the new cabinet list are quite new. The men are likely prominent but they are not well enough known for us to be familiar with them. They certainly are not national figures. There are also many well known statesmen associated with Premier Bonar Law and it seems as if there might be sufficient of these to give the British public confidence in their ability to carry on successfully.

DEAN QUANTON GIVES LECTURE

Tells in Humorous Vein of the Use and Abuse of the English Language

"The noblest literary study of an Englishman is a study of the English language," quoted Dean Quanton in opening his lecture last night on "The Use and Abuse of the English Language." He gave the address in the Empress Theatre before a good sized audience in which high school students and parents were much in evidence.

The dean spoke in a humorous vein throughout and criticized the newspapers very severely as being works of fiction and humor, the figure of hyperbole, of which he spoke at some length, being plainly evident in his remarks. The lecture brought frequent responses from the audience and was appreciated, the hyperbolic examples of poor English making a special appeal to the younger minds.

The Dean speaks again tonight, his subject being "Humor and Pathos of a Parson's Life," and doubtless he will have a good audience. The Dean is intensely English in his style and his quotations and references are largely to England, and the game of cricket, of which he is fond, provides some of his illustrations.

Basis of Education
The Dean quoted the English Board of Education report which stated that English was the only possible basis of national education. No form of knowledge could take precedence of English. In it was a full measure of culture. He suggested that one of the best ways to learn to think was to try to use the English language correctly.

The Dean referred to the well-known author who spoke of a person searching a whole day for the right word. "Do the public men of today give the impression that they are searching for the right word?" he inquired. The English of some public men, he said, was atrocious. The desirability of exact expression was emphasized. In order to understand the finer meaning of terms, it was necessary to read the works of the best writers and study the origin of words and their formation.

The speaker told of the culture of the Greeks and quoted a writer who said that the intellectual standard of the people of ancient Athens was as superior to us as we were to the natives of Australia.

Hopeful Note

A hopeful note was struck in mention of the fact that thousands of reprints of the masterpieces of literature were poured forth from the presses and that someone was buying them, but the lecturer warned against drifting into that mental state in which the sole literature a person read was the newspaper and story magazine. He said that we must have the newspapers for our sins. He did not read them for news but for fun and fiction. He quoted instances to show that different articles in different parts of the same newspapers in England were contradictory. Newspapers of a certain type were owned by rascals, edited by rascals and read by fools. They ministered to the mind diseased.

The Dean then dealt at some length with the matter of clearness of expression, giving them amusing instances of ambiguity. The idea of using language was to communicate truth. Many public men were gross offenders in the excessive use of superlatives. There was something radically wrong when they did this and it led to superlative financing and was a menace to the public morality of the country. The habit of using superlatives was a weakness of the feminine sex, of ardent and emotional natures and of young countries. He put in a plea for clearness, restraint and temperance in the use of the English language.

Figures of Speech
Dealing with the use and misuse of figures of speech and giving examples of mixed metaphor and other fallacies of expression the Dean quoted a minister who when praying extempore said: "O God if there be any spark of grace in our hearts water that spark occasionally." The use and abuse of slang also came in for criticism. The use of slang sometimes became

PROHIBITION IN U.S.
AND SHIP SUBSIDY

Republicans Think They Will Not Be Hurt By Increases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(By Canadian Press)—Effect of the recent ruling of Attorney General Daugherty, which bars liquor on all U.S. vessels anywhere and also bars it on foreign ships in United States waters is expected to be felt on the question of subsidy legislation.

It is by no means impossible that as a result of the dry ruling by the attorney-general as applied to U.S. ships, the administration ship subsidy bill will be enacted.

It would have been impossible in all likelihood to have passed a subsidy measure to be applied to U.S. ships known to be wet or engaged in selling liquor. Public sentiment in the dry states and districts, which after all constitute most of the geography of the U.S. would not have stood for such a thing.

Now that the U.S. vessels are to be dry, while it does not follow that the subsidy bill is by any means certain to pass, and while there is tremendous opposition to it, it is unquestionably true that the tendency of the recent ruling will be to give the bill better standing and more support among the dry elements in Congress, as well as in the country.

Administration leaders who want to pass the subsidy bill perceived that when the issue of dryness as to the U.S. shipping was raised, it was calculated to overshadow the subsidy question in the minds of many people and that unless this issue were laid to rest, subsidy would have to take a back seat.

This is not saying that Attorney General Daugherty was influenced in his ruling by the fact that a dry ruling would help subsidy. Plenty of the ablest lawyers believe he could have done nothing else than he did so far as liquor on U.S. ships are concerned. Nevertheless, there can be no doubt the ruling puts the subsidy measure in a stronger position than it was.

Farmers United

The farmers of the United States are declared to stand almost unitedly against the subsidy legislation. This is the fact which the advocates of subsidies are obliged to face and which, up to date, they have been unable to surmount.

Representative Davis of Tennessee, one of the democratic members of the House committee on merchant marine, who has taken a prominent part in the subsidy hearings, in a speech which has just come out in the Congressional Record, maintains the farmers of the country are strongly against the bill. He says the "propaganda" to the contrary is based on the fact President J. R. Howard of the American Farm Bureau Federation endorsed the bill. Howard, according to Davis, spoke without the authority of the great organization of farmers which he is the head of. Representative Davis quotes a letter from President C. W. Hunt of the Iowa Farm Bureau which says that in a referendum in Iowa on the subject the vote was 37 to 1 against the bill. The referendum was conducted among the farmers who are the members of the Iowa Farm Bureau.

In the recent games at Vancouver between the Big League players enroute to the Orient and an All Star Vancouver team, when Vancouver was beaten 16 to 1, "Lefty" Delcourt pitched for Vancouver. This hurler is a brother of F. V. Delcourt, the well known local representative of Malkins, and has been the star pitcher among the Vancouver amateurs this season. He first played ball around Ladysmith and Nanaimo and has been in the Commercial League at Vancouver for several years.

Girls are taking an active part athletics at Prince George and just recently have started public appearance at baseball. Last week a team of High School girls beat a Physical Culture class by a score of 38 to 13 in a game which was watched by many spectators and was both novel and interesting. This afternoon a game is scheduled at the Fraser river town between a ladies' and a fat man's team.

The funniest show ever put on in Prince George is said to have been a baseball game last week between the Fat Men and Skinny Men. The result at the end of the fifth when the game was called was 15 all. There was a good crowd to see the game and the return match is expected will draw double the number. W. P. Ogilvie and Ed. Hall comprised the Fat Man's battery and Alex. Moffatt and J. D. Corning handled the ball for the Slim ones.

IN FAIR HALL

Arrangements Are Made to Have Association's Games Played There Again This Winter

Satisfactory arrangements were arrived at last night between the Fair Board and the Basketball Association whereby the latter organization will again use the Exhibition Building this winter for the staging of its games. A delegation from the Basketball Association comprising John Mitchell, president, and George Johnstone, met with the Fair Board at its meeting. It was also decided to allow the school children the use of the building for afternoon games under the supervision of H. L. Campbell, superintendent of schools.

The board also decided to box the new sewer leading from the building to the Summit Apartments to protect it from frost. Vice President W. E. Thompson presided at the meeting and there were present: R. E. Benson, Ald. J. H. Kelly, M. M. McLachlan, D. C. Stuart, Ald. T. W. Silversides, W. J. Kirkpatrick and Manager Jack Venables.

U.S. TARIFF IS NOT AFFECTING THE ELECTIONS

Republicans Think They Will Not Be Hurt by Increases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(By Canadian Press)—Indications are that the new tariff law will have little effect on the result of the elections next month. Contrary to the general impression when the new law was passed, the effects thus far have not been especially felt in the United States and probably will not be for some little time to come. If this proves to be the case, the democrats will gain little as the result of the new measure and the republicans will not lose, as they feared they would.

Some of the democratic political chiefs are not without a belief that the "big protected interests" are taking care to hold in the reins on prices before the election and not permit them to increase until after the new Congress is chosen. Moreover, there is in the country a large volume of articles imported before the tariff law was enacted.

Shrewd observers of the situation look for the new tariff law to begin to have marked effects in the next few months. They look to see a steady upward tendency in prices in a number of lines of manufactured articles. They predict that a year hence the consumers will look back and see that the tariff has in fact increased the cost of living. Friends of the new tariff law, however, insist the flexible tariff provisions will tend to counteract the increased cost of living and that if the administration sees soaring living costs in any given direction, rates will be reduced.

Taxes Growing

Republican political chiefs—or those who study political tendencies most keenly—are becoming satisfied they will not be hurt to any marked extent by the tariff in the coming election but are wondering if trouble over the tariff is coming in 1924. They are by no means without worry on this score. Moreover, they are reported to be perturbed by complaints from the farmers that their taxes are growing and prices for their products are decreasing and that the new tariff law is not saving them from this decrease. Should the farmers become generally embittered because they feel the new tariff has not helped the prices of their products and at the same time increased prices of manufactured products, it is hard to estimate the political consequences. Such a thing would unquestionably endanger the republicans in 1924.

TRADE WITH ORIENT NATURAL PRODUCTS

Exports and Imports Give Indications of Possibilities

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(By Canadian Press)—Canada is in an enviable position as far as her trade with the Orient is concerned in the opinion of Max Enos, United States Press representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has returned from an extensive tour of China and Japan during which he made a study of trade conditions.

The Canadians whom he met in the Orient, Mr. Enos declared, are great boosters for the Dominion and are creating an ever growing demand for Canadian products in both China and Japan. Due largely to her superior transportation facilities, Mr. Enos foresees a remarkable growth in the Oriental trade of the Dominion in the near future.

Premier Position

"While Canadian trade is not as large now as it is destined to be," said Mr. Enos, "it certainly is a notable factor in the world's business with the Far East. Although she is recognized to be Great Britain trading into the Orient from the Occident, as distinguished from Great Britain trading through the Suez Canal from Europe, Canada has a personality all her own. This, perhaps is due to the fact that through the Canadian Pacific Canada holds the premier position as a carrier country having the fastest and largest steamships on the Pacific Ocean. Because Canada can use superlatives in discussing transportation gives her "face," that far eastern word the equivalent of which in our country is "front."

"Notwithstanding the fact that there are big competing routes of trade through the United States and through the Panama Canal, it is a flattering commentary on the efficiency of Canada that the Canadian Pacific can retain the superior position in comparison with any of its competitors into the Orient from the West."

Increase 40 Per Cent

"Figures issued recently in a statement by the president of the Canadian Pacific, E. W. Beatty, showed that since 1913-1914 the freight traffic between Canada and the Orient has increased almost forty per cent and that first class travel has increased over four hundred per cent, second class one hundred per cent and steerage considerably over two hundred per cent. These figures are from the reports of that company but are a fair index to the increase with all of Canada."

"The Orientals regard the Canadians very highly and this general good will is augmented by the Canadian who are to be found all over the Far East. The Canadians are great boosters for their own country and seem to become even more ardent in their speech as the years of their sojourn in the Orient increase."

Canadian Goods

"Canada's exports now mainly consist of lumber, fish, grain, flour, asbestos, wood pulp, paper, lead and spelter. There is a growing demand for Canadian manufactured products and, in the opinion of many men who have been in the Orient for years this market could be greatly increased with slight additional effort and a more personal contact with the Far East by the Canadian manufacturers. It is the opinion of these men that if more Canadian business men would make a trip of three to six months, to the East they would be in a position to profitably take advantage of the abundant opportunities to be found there.

"Japan is in a position to use quantities of raw materials and the products of the mines, fisheries and agriculture. China, however, can not only use great quantities of these products but is a fertile market for manufactured products such as machinery, textiles, hardware and building material. Japan also used a great deal of wheat as flour mills have been established in numbers of late."

Oriental Goods

"Exports to Canada from the Orient consist mainly of rice, spices, tea and silk; Chinese porcelains, curios, toys and other Chinese and Japanese manufactured products of various kinds."

"There is a greater field for trade in China than in Japan. The Japanese are undertaking to build up their own industries and to find a market for their manufactured products outside of their own domains. This they have been able to do to a large extent. With the Chinese it is an entirely different story. They are extremely conservative and unlike the Japanese, are not so imbued with a spirit of nationalism. Once trade is established with a Chinaman it is very hard for a competitor to get him to change. China not only needs all of the machinery and hardware for which there may be a market in Japan, but needs almost all of the manufactured products Canada can supply."

"Agents of other countries are to be found in large numbers in China and these observers bring back to their own countries the results of their observations. The Germans are very active and in many places are prominent now. In Shanghai Hugo Stinnes has a China Company which is doing a big importing, exporting and banking business. The Japanese are strong but in nothing like the degree that is Canada, or Great Britain. The Japanese are not popular in China."

British Prestige

"There is no question as to the prestige of the British. This was very strong before the Prince of Wales made his swing around the world, but is even more so now. He did a great deal to add "face" to the British position, and in the Orient "face" is of inestimable value."

"That there are wonderful opportunities for trade in the Orient and that the part Canada will play in this trade is to be determined by the extent she acquaints herself with conditions and seeks to profit by her observations seems to me to be the gist of opinion of Canadians in the Far East."

SENTENCED BY SOVIET

KHARKOV, Oct. 25.—Twenty insurrectionists accused of operating under General Petlura during the time he was active against the Soviet government, have been sentenced to be shot. They were tried here by an extraordinary revolutionary tribunal of the Ukraine. Twelve others, all members of the Don Basin partisan committee charged with anti-Soviet activities, were given prison sentences. Of the 42 persons placed on trial, 15 were acquitted. General Petlura himself is said to be in Galicia, outside the jurisdiction of the Bolsheviks.

Simply Fiction

The good dean told in many words

About our curious diction, And newspapers had often read He styled them "simple fiction."

On this I pondered half the night; Then thought about the Dean, And wondered what, in classic phrase,

And then I tapped the well worn keys

And praised his wondrous art. For in the fiction game I find

FOUR YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY

country, that should be done." Chief Constable Kelly, of Smithers, stated that he knew nothing against the man since his six month's residence in the district.

Judge Agrees

"You have been convicted of a serious offence," declared His Lordship in addressing the accused. "The purpose of jury trials is protection rather than justice to the citizens, though your counsel does not agree with the finding. The jury, in my opinion, has had ample evidence to come to the conclusion it did and I have no criticism to make of its action. The offence cannot be dealt with lightly especially in isolated communities. If it goes abroad that men can attempt rape and get off with little punishment, the people would have no confidence in the courts and the country would become rampant with murder and rape. It is my duty to regard the effect upon the community at large as well as on the prisoner. If it was my duty to deal with the accused alone without regard to the community I might be able to pass a lighter sentence. There is but one thing in your favor and that is that you did not actually commit the offence. The maximum penalty for the offence is seven years with a whipping. The sentence of the court is four years in the penitentiary."

Appeal Refused.

Mr. McGill asked leave to appeal on the grounds that the indictment read that the offence had taken place on September 22 while the evidence showed the date to be September 21, also that the verdict had been against the weight of the evidence. The judge stated that he would have to refuse the request but stated that Mr. McGill could, of course, appeal for a stated case.

SWEDISH BUSINESS SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

General Conditions Better in Stockholm: New Business Cycle Prophesied

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 25. — The most optimistic official quarterly report since the war has just been issued by the Swedish Foreign Office, and along these same hopeful lines the Swedish board of trade has declared that "the present industrial and financial situation points to the beginning of a new business cycle."

The foreign office report, as usual, constitutes a conservative appraisal of the situation as a whole. It says that the spring and summer of this year have witnessed a marked improvement in the wood products, pulp, and paper trades, while the iron and mechanical industries are moving very slowly out of the depression. The textile industry is working up to full capacity, and the chemical factories are steadily increasing production. During 1922 prices have in general been practically stabilized but the tone is firm, and there seems to be a slight upward trend in some of the basic industries.

With regard to internal money and banking conditions the undertone is now confident, and the importance and strength of the three large Stockholm banking houses in which Sweden's banking system is mainly concentrated is now the same as before the war crisis.

Lumber and Fish

Foreign trade shows strong activity. Thus the total exports of lumber will reach 1,000,000 standards, which represents the pre-war level, before the end of the year.

The increasing trade with the United States is hailed with satisfaction, especially as new lines of export have recently been added to the staple commodities. Large shipments of Swedish cement have been going to the United States for several weeks and a high quality of salted mackerel has also begun to move in the same direction.

ALICE ARM

A debating society has been formed in Alice Arm and Mr. Woodward has undertaken the task of giving instruction. The committee comprises H. Fowler, J. Morrison, C. P. Reil, M. D. Ross and M. Peterson.

The Alice Arm Citizens' Association has appointed a committee comprising O. Flint, M. Donald, George Matheson and George Young to investigate the road and trail requirements of the district with a view to making representations to the provincial government regarding the program for next season.

Dr. Whalen, of Anyox, spent a couple of days hunting up the Kitsault river last week and was successful in bagging one goat.

J. P. Suttle, provincial government engineer, is making surveys of the proposed road between here and the Naas river valley.

Preparations are being made for the winter skating season and last Sunday there was a working bee for the purpose of laying a pipe from John Strombeck's water system to the rink.

Puppy-love sparks are kindled in packs.

PRINCE GEORGE

J. Y. Gillies, organizer of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, visited Prince George last week. Organization of the branch here was supervised by Mr. Gillies on Sunday last. A branch has also been organized at Lucerne.

The litigation in connection with the Otway right of way and station grounds between the Canadian National Railway and George Ovasko was settled by a compromise in Judge Robertson's court last week, the interested parties agreeing to accept a valuation of $2,350 for the 23.55 acres involved.

An effort is being made to organize a junior branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society in Prince George.

The new Knox Presbyterian Church here will be opened on November 5. Rev. Dr. Robert Laid, D.D., of Toronto, treasurer of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, and Rev. J. R. McGrimmon, of Prince George, will conduct the services.

Dr. Alward has returned to the city after a two month's absence in the East.

J. D. McArthur arrived in the city from Winnipeg last Friday evening.

VANDERHOOF

E. F. Archibald, of the General Experiment Farm, Ottawa, and R. M. Helmer, superintendent of the Experimental Farm at Summerland, are visiting various centres along the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Prince George and Smithers seeking a location for the proposed Dominion experimental farm in this district.

Mrs. McGeachy, Sr. is in Vanderhoof visiting her son E. C. McGeachy while in her way from the coast to her home in Ontario.

Rev. E. B. Arroll has accepted the appointment to take charge of the Vanderhoof Presbyterian Church and will arrive here shortly from Dufur, Saskatchewan.

After many years of service in the missionary field, Father N. Gocola is to take charge of the industrial school at Fraser Lake. He will be assisted by Father Plamondon from Dawson. Father Allard is leaving Prince Rupert and Father Wolfe will take up the station at Fort St. James.
