The occasion was in celebration of fire prevention week which is set aside as a time for demonstrating the need of fire prevention.

Fire drills were held at the High School, Borden Street School and the Catholic Day School. In each case the buildings were cleared in between 30 and 40 seconds which the chief considered very satisfactory. DIVING OPERATIONS TO RECOVER REMAINS OF HAMILTON USELESS

Now Believed Only Hope of Recovering Body Will be Through Rising to Surface.

Several attempts were made yesterday to recover the body of Edward Hamilton, the longshoreman who was drowned last Sunday evening at the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Co.'s coal dock, but they were unsuccessful. Under the supervision of Capt. H. B. Babington and Len Dewhurst, representing the city police, Diver Schelin, of the dry dock, covered the ground thoroughly using grappling devices and a fire hose to displace the coal but no traces of the remains were found. Diving operations have now been given up as it has been deemed that further attempts in this manner would be useless and the only hope of recovering the body would be through its rising to the surface.

The water is very deep, shelving off sharply, at the scene of the tragedy and the current is also strong, so it is possible that the remains may have drifted away some distance if they were freed from the coal that fell in after the unfortunate man was precipitated into the water.

The Yanks made their two runs, one each in the sixth and seventh innings, when they made two and one hits respectively. Playing an errorless game, the trend of play went against the Yankees, while the Giants emerged winners despite the three errors chalked up against them on the official score card.

BETTING WAS ELEVEN TO TEN ON THE YANKEES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—John McGraw's Giants, the National pennant winners, were ready this morning to engage Miller Huggins' American League Yankees in the first game of the world baseball series. The Yankees, because of the great pitching staff, is rated the best by a majority of experts, but the Nationals are as ever the fighters at their best when against odds and are a dangerous lot.

Delegates from Convention Tell of Party Enthusiasm and Useful Work which Featured Gathering

Bearing reports of a highly successful convention wherein B.C. Liberals demonstrated the solidarity of their ranks behind the Dominion and provincial administrations and also brought forward many suggestions of a constructive nature for future legislation, Aid. Theo. Gollart, delegate from Prince Rupert, Olof Hansen, delegate from Omineca, and H. F. Kergin, M.P. for Atlin, returned to the city this morning on the Prince George after having attended the big provincial Liberal conclave at Nelson last week. Each were enthusiastic with the great success of the work of the convention and were delighted with the bright future prospects for the party in all fields.

"After attending a convention of New York Life Insurance agents at Seattle," said Aid. Gollart in an interview with the Daily News, "I left for Nelson on the special train from Vancouver for the Liberal convention. There were quite a number of ladies aboard including Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, M.P. for Vancouver. We had a delightful trip along the line of the Kettle Valley railway although our train was delayed for seven hours owing to seven cars going off the track at Juliet station, 15 or 20 miles east of Hope.

"Among the few resolutions presented by the resolutions committee was one introduced by the soldier delegate from Chilliwack and seconded by myself urging the government to give preference to returned soldiers in all appointments made. This resolution was passed unanimously.

"A resolution demanding the total exclusion of Orientals was also passed after a strong fight had been put up to have the resolution read 'Chinamen, Japanese and East Indians' instead of 'Orientals'.

"The convention also endorsed the action of the government in its endeavor to start a steel industry in the province.

Was An Attempt Made To Stampede Canada?

A great many people are of opinion that an attempt was made recently to stampede Canada into war.

This week Hon. Mr. King, for the Canadian Government, told the Imperial Premier that the Canadian Government, the Canadian people, the Canadian resources, were available for Imperial needs to the last man and to the last cent, but they are not available to support petty schemes of international promoters, international financiers, mediocre politicians or religious fanatics.

While in some details the present Turkish situation has aspects which may, by mishandling, develop into Imperial problems, the real troubles are primarily due to the efforts to aid the powerful group of men, some of whom are not even of British birth, to extend their political and financial interests.

Winnipeg Paper Comes Out Plain.

The Winnipeg Free Press editorially says: "Mr. Meighen's statement in Toronto on Friday would appear to raise a very clear issue in Canadian politics."

"Mr. Meighen's statement in Toronto on Friday would appear to raise a very clear issue in Canadian politics. Mr. Meighen takes the view that it was obligatory upon the Government, upon receipt of the cablegram from the Government of Great Britain, to make a reply which would have committed this country irrevocably to participation in a war in the Near East should one occur."

"Through the Dominion Government has made no explicit and formal statement it has let it be known by unofficial intimations that it intended, if a serious situation should develop, to call the Canadian Parliament together and submit the question of participation to it. Mr. Geerar, the leader of the Progressives, has declared in express terms the view that Canada should be committed to war only by the action of the Canadian parliament."

Canada At War When Britain At War.

Prior to the change in the status of Canada consequent upon participation in the Peace treaty there was no question as to the position of Canada in the event of Great Britain being at war. Under those conditions Canada was at war, too; but it was left for Canada to decide whether she would take part in the war.

"But apparently in the view of Mr. Meighen and of the Tory newspapers of Canada there has been a change. They hold that the old rule that Canada is at war when Great Britain is at war still holds, but without Canada enjoying her old power to use her discretion as to participation."

Up To Parliament To Decide Matter.

After discussing the constitution of the Irish Parliament which is said to be based on that of Canada and which declares that the Irish Parliament alone is the arbiter of war in that country, the Free Press concludes: "Mr. Meighen, it seems to us, is bound to seek from parliament the approval of the policy avowed by him at Toronto on Friday, and which is apparently in conformity with an understanding to which he was a party when he was prime minister of this country."

The Secret of Good Health

Assist Nature back to normal action

When Nature requires assistance, she will not be slow in conveying to you an intimation of the fact. Decline of energy, inability to sleep well, headache, biliousness, constipation, a general sluggishness of mind and body and any sign of digestive "unrest" should impel you to seek the aid of a reliable medicine without delay.

Celluloid Beau 'Twas seldom to movies I'd go 'Til I met my celluloid beau; His turn is a scream, His close-up a dream, So again I'm off to the show.

Beautiful Actress There is a beautiful actress called Miss Turner, Who has a new director to learn her, How to slapstick and rush Custard pie, jam and marsh, At the men who dassant say darn her.

The Speeder An actor named Wally one day Was speeding quite near Broadway, When all of a sudden A cop was before him, Wally was pinched, don't you see.

The Audience The man whose loud spoken recitals Of foolish remarks and sub-titles Are heard everywhere, Should be mauled by a bear, And a hot poker stuck in his vitals.

Worst Kind of Bore But the man who has seen it before, Is even a worse kind of bore, In his memories fixed Everything that "comes next," And he shouts it all out till you're sore.

URGES DEVELOPMENT OF FOREIGN TRADE

General Manager of Manufacturers' Association Would Use Ship to Open New Routes

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—Development of foreign trade on the Pacific coast has been assisted materially by the Canadian government merchant marine, and there is a feeling the service should be extended and some of the ships that are now idle used in opening up new trade channels, according to J. E. Walsh, Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who returned from a tour of the west. Mr. Walsh was a guest at luncheon at the Fort Garry.

Mr. Walsh said the export trade in British Columbia was increasing constantly and some important new markets had been found. The lumber business is good, and there is a scarcity of labor.

The association will send a representative to the Pan-Pacific trade conference, which will be opened in Honolulu, Oct. 18. Several questions affecting trade and its development on the Pacific coast will be considered at the conference.

ENGLISH PAPER ON DOMINION STATUS IN REGARD TO EMPIRE

Truth Publishes Scathing Article on Idea of "Helping Mother Country."

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press Cable).—"Anything more unconstitutional and ridiculous than the wild telegram dispatched to the colonies asking for volunteers cannot be imagined," declares this week's Truth. "With the exception of New Zealand, which seems pretty gungnacious and nobly anxious to land again in Gallipoli, all the colonies are asking very naturally what all the bother is about." Truth continues. "It is a difficult question to answer."

Truth also published the following from a correspondent which, it says, might know something about the sentiment in the colonies.

"Surely it is time we realized that 'help the mother country' is played out in the dominions. Everyone knows that Great Britain is not the mother country for either the French-Canadian or the South African Dutchman, nor, for the matter of that is it the homeland of a majority of the present generation of British origin inhabiting Canada and Australia. They are, first and foremost, Canadians and Australians, taking their nationality from the land of their birth. Only as such are they likely to redeem the pledge under which their signatures to the treaty of Sevres ties them to the responsibilities entailed thereby.

"It is not a question of 'helping the mother country' at all, and the sooner this is recognized the better for all concerned. If they find the appeal of Saturday week was only crying 'Wolf!' the consequences will be far-reaching."

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE TALKS ABOUT TRIP
Mentions Prince Rupert and Farming Districts of Interior B. C.

In an interview at Winnipeg, General Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University waxed enthusiastic over the educative feature of the Montreal Board of Trade excursion, and repeated a statement he had made at Westminster church, Winnipeg, some months ago, that many eastern business men prided themselves on having crossed the Atlantic half a dozen times but had never been farther west than Winnipeg. On the other hand he had met western business men who had not been east in 23 years. On this trip they had heard many problems recited and if no direct benefit accrued therefrom, the indirect benefit would be great, because it had increased the knowledge of the eastern business men of the people living in other parts of the Dominion, and learned something of their possibilities, their progress and their history. Personally he had had a perfectly glorious time and had renewed acquaintances with thousands of friends. He had addressed many gatherings of war veterans. In Northern British Columbia, which district had created a profound impression, especially on the British visitors, he came across a colony of 80 returned soldiers who were getting along very well. One of them informed him he had made $400 from potatoes and an equal amount from other sources and he felt he was doing splendidly. The country through which the Canadian National system ran in the northern part of the country had great potentialities.

Leave For East.
After a short stay in the city the party left en route for home. On its return from the coast it made the 550-mile sea trip from Vancouver to Prince Rupert on one of the Canadian National palatial steamers, receiving a comprehensive idea of the development of that part of the country. At Prince Rupert, a city hewed out of the solid rock of Kaien Island, an insight was gained of the halibut and salmon fishing industry. Then it became acquainted with the historic and romantic scenery of the Skeena River. The members of the party also saw some of the Bulkley and Nechako River valley country and in the mountains made acquaintance with Mount Robson park, 650 miles in extent, set aside by the British Columbia government as a playground and sanctuary for wild animals and Jasper Park lodge, National railway's new chalet on Lac Beauvert. From Edmonton the homeward route was through the rich farming lands of the northern part of the prairie provinces to Winnipeg, following the transcontinental line through the rich pulp forests and new farming lands of Northern Ontario to Cochrane, through the Cobalt district, in Ottawa and thence to Montreal.

THE TERROR HOUR: Horrors of a Soviet Prison Told by Woman Who Escaped

"The Red Dusk and the Morning" is a book written by Sir Paul Dukes late chief of the British secret service in Russia. In it he tells of the imprisonment of women and of the horrible waiting for death. There were thirty or forty in the prison together. The following is from the book:

The Awful Wait

The terror hour had not yet come—it came only at 7 each evening. The terror hour was more terrible in the men's chambers, where the toll was greater, but it visited the women too. Then, every victim knew that if the heavy door was opened and his name called, he passed out into eternity. For executions were carried out in the evening and the bodies removed at night.

At 7 o'clock all talk, all action ceased. Faces sat white and stiff, fixed on the heavy folding door. When it creaked every figure became a statue, a death statue, stone vivid, breathless, dead in life. A moment of ghastly, intolerable suspense, a silence that could be felt, and in the silence—spoken, every figure—but one—would imperceptibly relax.

The figure that bore the spoken name would rise, and move, move slowly with a wooden, unnatural gait, tottering along the narrow aisle between the plank couches. Some would look up and some would look down; some, fascinated, would watch the dead figure pass; and some would pray, or mutter, "Tomorrow, maybe, I." Or there would be a frantic shriek, a brutal struggle, and worse than death would fill the chamber, till where two were, one only would be left, heaving and convulsively, insane, clutching the rough woodwork with bleeding nails.

Name Was Called
But on this December afternoon the terror hour was not yet. There were still three hours' respite, and the figures spoke low in groups or sat silently waiting, waiting, endlessly waiting.

Then suddenly a name was called, "Lydia Marsh!"

A figure rose from a distant couch; it disappeared in the doorway, and the women went on waiting—waiting for 7 o'clock.

"Follow me," said the guard. He moved along the corridor and turned down a side passage. They passed others in the corridor, but no one heeded. The guard stopped. Looking up, the woman saw she was outside the women's lavatory. She waited. The guard pointed with his bayonet.

"In here?" queried the figure in surprise. The guard was silent. The woman pushed the door open and entered.

A Green Shawl

Lying in the corner were a dark green shawl and a shabby hat, with two slips of paper attached. One of them was a pass in an unknown name, stating that the holder had entered the building at 4 o'clock and must leave before 7. The other had scrawled on it the words: "Walk straight into St. Isaac's Cathedral."

Mechanically she destroyed the second slip, adjusted the shabby hat, and wrapping the shawl well round her neck and face passed out into the passage. At the main entrance she was asked for her pass. She showed it and passed out into the street.

Like dancing constellations the candles flickered and flared in front of the ikons at the foot of the huge pillars of the vast cathedral. Halfway up the columns vanished in gloom. I had already burned two candles, and though I was concealed in the niche of a pillar, I knelt and stood alternately, partly from impatience, partly that my piety should be patent to any chance observer. But my eyes were fixed on the little wooden side entrance. How interminable the minutes seemed.

Shawl Returns

A quarter to 5. Then the green shawl appeared. It looked almost black in the dim darkness. It slipped through the doorway quickly, stood still a moment, and moved resolutely forward. I walked up to the shrouded figure. "Mrs. Marsh?" I said quietly in English. "Yes."

"I am the person you are to meet. I hope you will soon see your husband." "Where is he?" she asked, anxiously.

"In Finland. You go there with me tonight."

We left the cathedral and, crossing the square, took a cab and drove to the place called Five Corners. Here we walked a little, and, finding another cab, drove near to "N. 5," again walking the last hundred yards. I banged at the door three times.

How shall I describe the meeting with Maria! I left them weeping together and went into another room. Neither will I attempt to describe the party, when an hour later Mrs. Marsh stood ready for her journey, clad in the cloak we had purchased in the morning, and with a black shawl in place of the green one.

Packet of Money

We drove slowly to the distant straggling Okhta station, where lately I had watched the huge figure of Marsh clamber on to the roof and disappear through the window. The little policeman was on the platform, sincerely overjoyed at this happy ending to his design. I forgot his ways, his dirtiness, his messy quarters, and thanked him heartily, and as I thrust the packet of money Marsh had left for him into his hand, I felt that at this moment at least, that was not what was uppermost in his thoughts.

"Come on, Varyara!" I shouted in Russian, rudely jugging Mrs. Marsh by the sleeve and dragging her along the platform. "We shan't get places if you stand gaping like that! Come on, stupid!" I hauled her towards the train, and seeing an extra box car being hitched on in front, rushed in its direction.

"This is Finland," observed our guide, laconically. "That is the last you will see of Sovdepia." He used an ironical popular term for Soviet Russia constructed from the first syllables of the words Soviets of Deputies.

R. E. Moore, manager for P. Burns Co., left for Terrace on last night's train. He will be back tonight.

MONTREALERS LIKE RUPERT

Report in Star of Visit Here
Good Advertising for This City.

Under a prominent head reading "Montreal Party Greatly Pleased at Prince Rupert," the Montreal Star published an interesting account of the recent visit of the Montreal Board of Trade to this city which should prove valuable advertising, it said in part:

The first two laps of the journey over the new system of the Canadian National have certainly proved most encouraging to the travellers. Mr. Howard of Toronto and Mr. Scott of Vancouver who with other officials are in charge of affairs at present, are certainly doing everything possible to make their comfortable. The food is excellent and the stewards and waiters are obliging and during the first meal buttonholes and corsage bouquets were handed around with the compliments of the Canadian National Railway.

The greater part of Saturday was spent at Prince Rupert and the fish dinner provided there by the Prince Rupert City Council and its Board of Trade was one of the most enthusiastic functions yet experienced.

Two hundred sat down and if anything in the shape of delicacies from the deep sea was missing, he noticed it.

Great Enthusiasm.

The speaker of the night was General Sir Arthur Currie. His references to the romance of the district and to Col. S. Peck, a native of Prince Rupert, his heroic tale of the heroic piper Richardson, recalled by the presence of a piper at the dinner, and his plea for greater faith and greater belief in the power of Canadians to do things, and to forget small sectional feelings for the good of Canada as a whole, stirred up a storm of enthusiasm that has not been equalled at any of the previous dinners or speech-makings.

As far as the local speakers were concerned there was a pleasant absence of expressions of grievances. Fred Stork, M. P., in a most interesting speech referred to the great work the Canadian National Railway was doing for this part of the country. "Prince Rupert with its great natural harbor resources, did not need any government aid," he said, "for actual harbor improvements, but with another couple of sheds, and perhaps another dock, they would be able to make the Canadian National pay much better than it did now."

Hospitality All the Way.

W. M. Birks in his usually happy vein introduced as the speaker on behalf of the Montreal Board of Trade, Mr. Cushing, whose maiden effort of the trip was thoroughly enjoyed. One of the points he made was that in the course of the unremitting hospitality to the travellers they should be so often offered the freedom of the cities they visited that they would find it difficult to do without that when they got back to Montreal and might have to be carefully watched before they accustomed themselves again not to appropriate any beautiful flowers or fruit that might tempt them, as they had been invited to do during their travels.

The visitors were kept busy with a visit to the Canadian Fish and Gold Storage plant which sends millions of pounds of fish to all parts of the world each year and to the fine Prince Rupert club which was thrown open to all.

Tea Dansant.

The ladies of the party were again separated from the men in the scheme of Saturday entertainment. In the afternoon they were the guests of the Girl Guides of Prince Rupert at a tea dansant at which Mr. Royce, M.P., and Mrs. Cornwall gave brief addresses. To console them for the absence of the gentlemen at their dinner on the train, the Canadian National presented each lady of the party with a box of candy. Many had drives around the city and the curiosity dealers did a rushing business in Indian totem poles and totem brooches.

Robert McKay, of the Prince Rupert Dairy, sailed last night by the Chelohsin for the south en route to Chilliwack on a business trip.

WADE'S PLAN TO SETTLE CANADA

Gives Interview in London Times in Which He Outlines Scheme.

"British Columbia is an Empire within an Empire." This is the enthusiastic opinion of F. C. Wade, Agent-General for the Province, who has returned from a mission of inquiry into the question of the immigration of British settlers. To a representative of The London Times, Mr. Wade has given particulars of a scheme of settlement which he has designed as the result of his observations. Of particular interest at the moment is his suggestion for the migration of demobilized sailors and soldiers.

Redistribution of Population.

"After three months' absence," he said, "during which I travelled far and wide through British Columbia, I have come back more than ever convinced of the paramount necessity of an immediate redistribution of population throughout the British Empire. With three members of the Government and the chairman of the Settlement Board I travelled some five thousand miles by steamer, railway, motor-car, and motor-boat through the interior of a country in which several European nations could be dropped and lost from public view. Countless lakes, some of them ninety miles long, glistened in every valley, offering unlimited and cheap transport for the thousands of future settlers which even the feeblest imagination must foresee.

Lack of Settlers.

"Even new groups of people from the Old Country are to be found in these valleys, but the crying need everywhere is for increased settlement. Hundreds of valleys through British Columbia are in an anemic condition owing to lack of settlers. Particularly is there a cry for women immigrants. 'Why don't you send us some of the land-girls who did so much to help the Empire during the War?' This was the question we hear on many occasions.

"There are signs on all hands that Canada is awaking to the need for migration, and that she will shortly take advantage of the Empire Settlement Act. It seems to me that there are three things necessary to the success of a scheme. In the first place, the settler should have immediate employment on his arrival; in the second place, that employment should be continuous; and in the third place, he should have farming experience.

His Solution.

"The only solution that I can see is to select the most suitable emigrants possible and send them out as land 'reservists' under an arrangement by which they would agree to work for three years clearing land, preparing soil, putting in crops, building farmhouses, and grading roads. During this term the British Government and the Government of the Dominion concerned would be responsible for their pay and for their keep. In three years these reservists would become thoroughly familiar with every operation known to agriculture—would become, in fact, part of the farming life of the province. At the end of the three-year term each reservist would receive a hundred acres of land, including forty acres under crop, his house, his farm buildings, and his fences complete.

"Such a scheme would entail heavy liabilities on both the Home and the Dominion Governments, but they could be carried out without ultimate loss to either party.

"If this plan were adopted, I believe (speaking unofficially) that every valley in British Columbia would be settled in five or ten years. Any other system must entail half a century's delay."

WAITING FOR CHANGE

He stood with a friend at the counter of a department store, waiting for his change. After some minutes had gone by he remarked: "I wonder if they had department stores back in the days of Job."

"Why?" the friend inquired. "Because," he replied with a tired smile, "Job declared: 'All the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come.'"

FORECAST OF WORLD SERIES

Little to Choose Between Teams
As Seen on Paper

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. — In offensive strength there is little to choose between the contenders in the 1922 World Series, as they appear grouped upon paper, and only with the aid of the fates that decide that some player shall hit when a hit is most needed or that another shall fail when failure is most costly can a preference be made.

Of course it is by the arrangement and distribution of the batting strength that a manager obtains the most possible out of his team and the actual attacking value of a ball club must be gauged by that line-up producer. In valuating the teams, moreover, consideration must be given to their offensive abilities in relation to their defensive character.

An instance of this is an infield that may lead all the other infields of the league in batting, yet be so poor in fielding that its rating would place it third or fourth among all the eight clubs. The maximum offensive power of an infield, which includes the three basemen, shortstop, catcher and best hitting pitcher, is their average batting strength.

Advantage to Yankees

On the latter basis the New York Yankees lead the Giants by one point, having a total of 319 to the Nationals' 318.

These figures are based on the hitting of Kelly, Frisch, Bancroft, Groh, Smith, Snyder and Nehf, of the Giants; and Pipp, Wards, Scott, Schang and Bush, Dugan of the Yankees.

Sons of Canada baseball, football and lacrosse players will be en fete at a dinner which is to be held commencing at 7:30 tomorrow evening in the Ed's Home. Besides the athletes themselves there will be present members of the society generally, officials of the various leagues and the donors of the trophies for the year. Presentation to the victorious Sons of the various trophies that have been captured by them during the summer season just over will be made and a general good time will be spent. George Johnstone, president of the society, will preside and Fred Stork, M.P., honorary president, will also be there besides George Nickerson and Dave Stuart, donors of two of the trophies won this year by the Sons.

Attention is again drawn to the necessity for the utmost care that should be observed by all hunters in the woods. Every season tragedies occur through mistaking men for deer. In the anxiety to bag game, every hunter realizes that there is a temptation to up and let fly at almost any moving thing. One should, however, be positively sure before firing that there is not the slightest danger of the target being else but the supposed objective. Stop, look and listen and use all the senses and if there is any doubt let the game escape. Hunters should also take a care to see that they are so clad that they cannot be mistaken. Many hunters use a bit of red rag or some other article to ensure their not being mistaken. The idea is a sensible one that might well be adopted by all. Also no chances should ever be taken with faulty or suspected firearms.

Methodist Gymnasium Scene of Great Activity With Various Organizations Using It

There are two basketball teams that mean business this autumn, the Adanaes and the Maple Leafs. These are already training at the Methodist gymnasium and are getting into good shape already in readiness for the opening of the season.

The gym is the scene of great activity over one hundred young people having used it last week.

On Mondays there is a class of little folks that engage in community play after school, and in the evening the older boys use the hall.

Tuesday is set aside for the use of the Adanaes basketball team, Wednesday the Baptist boys use it, Thursday the Canadian Girls in Training hold sway there and on Saturdays the Maple Leafs are in possession.

ALICE ARM

Reports have been received to the effect that George Wingfield, the creditor of the Taylor Mining Co., who, it is believed, will in the spring take over the Dolly Varden properties and operate the railway, will move all equipment from the Dolly Varden to the Wolf and commence his main operations there. It is believed there is very little ore worth the mining left in the Dolly.

Steve Dumas is building a new store in the centre of the Alice Arm business section. The building will measure 24 by 40 feet and will be completed before the snow flies.

Miss Velma Selkirk, of Vancouver, sister of Mrs. T. W. Falconer, and J. Pinder-Moss, of Prince Rupert, rendered a pleasing duet at the last church service held here by Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook.

Steve Morrison, who has spent the summer in the Naas Valley, returned to Alice Arm last week.

Mrs. F. G. Forest and Mrs. Garnham, of Vancouver, are visiting here the former with Mr. and Mrs. A. Falconer and the latter with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Falconer.

KING OF SPAIN IS NOT HANDSOME ENOUGH

King Alfonso still likes a little girl of six years the other day, when he suddenly burst out laughing. He had been telling the child, in reply to her question, that he really was the King of Spain.

"I don't believe it," the child said, "you have no crown, no diamonds, no throne, and then you are not handsome enough. All the kings I've seen in picture books were good looking."

ing that the government, in principle, should bend its energies towards taking out of the country served by that railway all they could take out before the wooden trestles decay, leaving for later on the question of abandoning the road when the resources of the country could have been ascertained.

"Fred Dawson was re-elected member of the National Convention representing the North after a very eulogistic motion made by Ben Self.

"Good work was done by the various delegates from the Skeena riding and especially by the attorney general who was always there at the critical moment handling a few delicate questions with much skill and diplomacy. He surely was the most popular member of the convention and was held in very great favor by everyone who had nothing but praise for his endeavor to do justice to all and sundry.

Delegates' Good Work

"Olaf Hanson on the credentials committee, Bert Kergin and E. T. Kenny, on the resolutions committee, and Ben Self, in general debate, did very good work and forced the attention of the convention on the growing importance of Prince Rupert and the North country.

"Good words were also urged upon the government and I believe that the Prince Rupert Board of Trade and city council should send a good representative delegation to Victoria to impress upon the government and the members of the House the necessity for an early start upon the road to connect Prince Rupert with the interior. What is worth having is worth fighting for.

Another Accident

"Having had one railroad accident on the way to Nelson, we had to have one on our way back, but luckily nobody was hurt, although we had a narrow escape. However, we had a very good time all the way through and came back in a good humor. The spirit of enthusiasm that pervaded the whole convention was surely a good omen and will help materially to strengthen the Liberal party throughout the province and put it more firmly than ever in the saddle."

Bert Kergin, M.P., who also returned today, said that press reports of the convention had been misleading. No resolutions regarding the P.G.E. or the return to the patronage system had been made. Premier Oliver had said if the civil service was not satisfactory it would be made so. Mr. Kergin returns to Alice Arm tonight. Mrs. Kergin is remaining in Victoria for a while.
