This ideal state can only be approached consultation has brought numer through an awakened public conscience. Before there can be ous assertions of status, various any change in public sentiment a campaign of education must suggestions and schemes. Prebe undertaken. In the case of the fish and game it should be mier Massey of New Zealand the duty of the sportsman, who is vitally interested both from a personal and national standpoint, to take the lead. The sportsman who breaks the law and boasts about it is not a true sportsman. It does not matter what his standing is in any community, so long as he shoots out of season, takes more than his legal limit, or breaks any one of the fish or game laws he is not sportsman and should not occupy a seat in the great circle before the camp fire reserved for tried and tested knights of the trigger and reel.

First we must have a highly developed sense of honor amongst sportsmen. If the man who is to benefit most from the natural life of the country cannot play a fair game, there is not much incentive for the man who takes no interest in the outdoors, to become a conservationist. If the men who shoot and hunt in Canada will organize they can achieve the ideal conditions enumerated above.

Laws affecting wild life are passed by provincial legisla- colony but as one of the states tures and amended from year to year. Organized sportsmen can see that they are given, a fair trial and if they are found lacking, how, as Mr. Hughes queried at the action can be taken to ensure revised legislation. The public must be educated to a realization of the value of game to the country, and the place for that education to commence is with the rising generation. It is the duty of every sportsman, after he feels that he is deserving of that honorable title, to do his part in educating those less fortunate.

Organization is the keynote of success for the Canadian hand?" conservationist. Organize locally, by districts, provinces and nationally. Three united sportsmen can accomplish more than a score working individually .- Rod and Gun in Canada.

LVEN in this age of enlightenment soms folks spend their money blindly. They buy with their eyes shut. They grope in the dark as truly as if their eyes were bandaged.

And all the time a powerful light is being thrown on the very things they need and want!

Advertising is a beacon to guide you in buying. It shows you what to buy--where to buy--- and when to buy. At the same time, it protects you against fraud and inferiority.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise deliberately focus thousands of eyes upon their wares. Their values must be honest and their prices right, or they could not advertise successfully.

Don't play blind man's buff with the elusive dollar. Spend a few minutes each day running through the advertisements in this paper. Then buy the products that have proved up in the light of advertising.
