RUHR QUESTION BEFORE BRITISH CABINET

HON. T. D. PATTULLO TURNS GOLDEN KEY OF HANDSOME NEW COURT HOUSE

Ministers Feel That Time Has Come When Great Britain Must Review Policy on Occupation

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The occupation of the Ruhr and the question of maintaining the British garrison at Cologne are understood to have been the chief topics discussed at a full meeting of the cabinet today. While it is believed the recent assurances given Lord Greve at Paris have been accepted and that such incidents as the Lazearhauer expulsion will not recur, it was said that the whole situation was causing the government increasing anxiety and that the time had come when, in the opinion of some of the cabinet ministers, the whole question of British policy must be reviewed and perhaps revised.

According to political writers some of the morning papers, the cabinet was divided on the question especially as regarded the keeping of British troops in the Rhine zone. It is reported that Premier Bonar Law favors the turn home of the troops, and that in this he is supported by several of his colleagues. British labor organizations are running a campaign against the occupation and are arranging an international protest against the continuance of the present situation.

The tug, which will take this schooner south, will bring a third schooner north for loading.

NEW BRUNSWICK PREMIER RESIGNS

Hon. W. E. Foster Retires After Six Years in Office; Private Business Calls

ST. JOHN, Jan. 26.—Hon. W. E. Foster, premier for six years of New Brunswick, resigned yesterday naming Hon. Peter Nevill minister of public works as his successor. Mr. Foster says pressure of private business compels retirement. He is the second maritime premier to resign within a week without the usual preliminary of a political crisis or a general election, the other being Hon. G. H. Murray of Nova Scotia.

SUGGESTIONS MADE NEW DIRECTORS IN REGARD TO EXHIBITION

At the meeting of the directors of the Agricultural Association yesterday afternoon some changes in the prize list were suggested by the retiring manager and also a number of suggestions for improvements were based on the experience of the past season. Mr. Venables thought it might be wise to hire a man to manage all sports during the fair week. He also suggested that arrangements might be made for an exhibition in the local railway station of products from the districts taken from the district exhibits. Another proposal was that arrangements should be made for an exhibit from Northern British Columbia at the Westminster fair.

In connection with the finances, the retiring manager said there was a sum of $207 from memberships to be added to the bank balance and also a few small collections which had not been listed as assets.

Scotsmen Foregather to Celebrate Immortal Memory of Great Poet

For fourteen years local Scotsmen and their friends have celebrated the birthday of the immortal Robbie Burns at the festive board but none of the previous banquets have ever had a more excellent program of songs and speeches than that which was presented by the St. Andrew's Society at the annual affair held last night in the Elks' Home, President D. C. Stuart presiding. Shortly after 8 o'clock 150 or so persons took their places at the five long tables set out with an abundance of delicacies by the Ladies' Auxiliary and five hours speeded away with celerity before the end of the altogether delightful evening's celebration had been reached. Seated at the head table around Toastmaster Stuart and Mrs. Stuart were the speakers and performers of the evening and the guests, of honor, including Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Mayor Newton, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kelly, Mrs. Bernie, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Thomas McGlymont, J. C. Brady, S. E. Parker, A. W. Edge, Mrs. H. L. Campbell, Mrs. J. P. McMillan, Mrs. William Millar, S. K. Campbell, R. E. James and others.

The banquet was opened with the pronouncing of a blessing, which took the form of one of Burns' verses, by Rev. H. B. Grant. After the first courses had been partaken of, the Haggis was piped in by Alex. McDonald, the society piper, carried aloft by James Jackson. Before it was opened by President Stuart, Joe Brown addressed it with the famous poem of Burns. The first toast was that to the King which was observed in the usual manner. "The Immortal Memory" was toasted in silence by the rising assembly and Rev. Dr. Grant delivered the address. Opening with a delightful comparison of Scotch humor and Irish wit, Dr. (continued on page five)

GRAIN COMPANIES ARE ORGANIZED TO OPERATE VANCOUVER

VICTORIA, Jan. 26.—Prospects of a big grain trade on the British Columbia coast is attracting businessmen with the result that two companies were incorporated today ready for the westward flow of grain. These are the Canada Grain Export Co. Ltd. organized with a capital of $500,000 to operate in Vancouver and the Western Pacific Grain Elevator and Terminal Ltd., also at Vancouver, with incorporated capital of $50,000.

PREST'S PLANE NOW IN STORAGE

DAWSON, Jan. 26.—The airplane of Clarence Prest, who came to grief seventy miles beyond Eagle City last July, while attempting a trans-Yukon flight, has been brought to Eagle and stored in the governmental warehouse awaiting instructions from Prest, who is now at Kenmore, N.Y., planning to repeat the flight next year.

Indians Near Fort Yukon Pray for Queen Victoria Though in Alaskan Territory

DAWSON, Jan. 26.—In the Arctic village of Muaroikuk, 150 miles north of Fort Yukon is a tribe of Indians who are still praying for the health and happiness of Queen Victoria and using the Bible translated into their language in 1864.

Since Archdeacon McDonald, pioneer of the Yukon and Mackenzie territories and missionary of the Church of England, learned the Yukon Indian language and translated the Bible into that dialect, there have been few if any whites in Muaroikuk who spoke their language and consequently they are living politically in the middle of the nineteenth century. They are citizens of the United States and the late Archdeacon Stuck tried to persuade the tribe that the changed boundary line had made it necessary that they pray for the executive head of the United States. Perhaps the archdeacon could not speak their language well enough because recent reports have it that they still pray for Queen Victoria.

EARTHQUAKES AND ERUPTION

Volcanoes in Aleutians Emitting Quantities of Smoke and Earth Shakes

ANCHORAGE SHAKEN

Dishes Broken and Bottles Shaken From Shelves in Drug Stores

ANCHORAGE, Jan. 26.—Mount Mates near Mount Shushaldin and Pavlov, which were recently in eruption, was today emitting a large volume of smoke accompanied by two earth shocks. The first shock broke bottles in the drug stores and dishes in the homes and the second was less severe. Successive recent eruptions of Mounts Pavlov, Shushaldin and Mates each farther south than the other, led men here familiar with the geographical history of the Alaska peninsula and Behring Sea to believe that some series of events is in progress similar to those that marked the rising and falling of the Island of Bogoslof, 170 miles westward from the group of three volcanoes in 1906. At that time the floor of the Unimak Pass, leading from the Pacific Ocean to Behring Sea and cutting through the Aleutian archipelago just west of the three volcanoes was changed.

Many Attend Official Opening of Provincial Building by Minister

With a key of gold presented to him by M. P. McCaffery on behalf of the contractors, Albert & McCaffery and McDougall & McNeill, and in the presence of Mayor Newton and a good-sized crowd of representative citizens who turned out in spite of the inclement weather, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands and member for Prince Rupert, officially opened to the public the handsome new provincial government building at Market Square promptly at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony took place on the stairs of the main entrance of the building and with the member were His Worship Mayor Newton and M. P. McCaffery, representing the contractors, both of whom made brief speeches. The public, immediately after the ceremony, were welcomed into the building and many took the opportunity of inspecting the handsome pile. Refreshments were served in the course of the afternoon to the visitors and the Westholme Orchestra provided musical selections.

The first speaker was Mayor Newton who complimented Mr. Pattullo on the securing of the appropriation for the building and the successful execution of the contract. His Worship requested Mr. Pattullo to use his good offices at Victoria in securing the old government agent's office for the housing of the public library and gave his promise that if Mr. Pattullo were successful in such an effort he would specially invite him to be present at its opening and would praise him again as he had praised him on this occasion.

Presented With Key Mr. McCaffery stated his appreciation of the business like way in which the government and the minister had carried out their end of the contract and also for the confidence that they had shown in the contractors. The people appreciated that it was through Mr. Pattullo's efforts that the building had been built here and he hoped that they would not forget that fact in the future. Mr. McCaffery then presented Mr. Pattullo with the golden key to the building. "I appreciate the kind remarks that have been made by His Worship the Mayor and Mr. McCaffery," said Mr. Pattullo. "Today marks a milestone in the history of the city. It is indeed a handsome building which they were opening but it is not beyond the requirements for practically every office is already occupied. In providing the building the provincial government has simply fulfilled a pledge to the property owners of this city which was made several years ago. Looking around me, and I have not to look very far, I myself feel a proprietary interest in the building for I feel that my own dollars have gone into its construction.

Some Criticism "When a building of this size costing as it does some $480,000 is erected, some criticism may be expected, but all the people in British Columbia do not realize and appreciate the province and its size. All I wish is that I could bring the people of one half of the province to see the other half. Then it would be easier to explain and justify this building. "I wish to compliment the contractors Albert & McCaffery and Dougall & McNeill, Mr. McNeill, the superintendent, and his able assistant, Mr. Bryson, on the successful construction of the building. I would also express the hope that in it justice will be tempered with mercy, that it shall be a benefit to all the people and that the Almighty may bless all those who enter through its portals."

Threw Building Open Without further ceremony, Mr. Pattullo applied the key of gold and threw the building open to the public. Lower Rates on Railways Sir Henry Thornton Believes Possible to Make Profits Without Extortion WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—Modifying a statement regarding grain rates he made when last he was in Winnipeg, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways declared the Board of Directors must endeavor to establish such conditions as would enable the farmers to market their goods in successful competition with producers elsewhere but at the same time they must see rates such as would permit the railways to be operated at a reasonable profit. The address was given at a banquet tendered him by the Board of Trade here last night. Discussing this statement further, Sir Henry said: "The critics might say that rate adjustment was impossible but," he assured them amidst cheers, "I do not believe that. I believe it possible to establish such rates for transportation of grain and merchandise as will permit our farmers and manufacturers to compete successfully with the world and at the same time keep our national system out of bankruptcy."

RUHR VALLEY QUIET TODAY

But Railroad Strike Still Effective and Navigation Tied up on Rhine

ESSEN, Jan. 26.—Normal conditions so far as street demonstrations or rioting is concerned were resumed throughout the Ruhr valley today but unemployment is steadily increasing. The railroad strike continues effective and navigation is at a stop on the Rhine between Wesel and Cologne. Some 150,000 coal miners are idle. DUSSELDORF, Jan. 26.—Baronmaster Schmidt and Dr. Oexle, director of police, were arrested today and jailed by the French awaiting court martial for failure to enforce orders and charged with being responsible for yesterday's disorders which the French troops put down only after firing several shots.

Hope A Deceiver; Work A Regenerator.

"Hope is a liar" writes W. L. George, the novelist. And he is right. Hope is worse than that. Hope is a deliberate deceiver. Yet many of us hug the deceiver to our hearts and forget that he is false and that nothing but work really counts.

The person who hopes that something is going to turn up and does not set out to turn it up is in a parlous way. Hope is the last person he would entertain under those circumstances. Despair should be his companion.

There are a few people we call lucky who have riches and honors thrust upon them. They may be lucky, but they have not had the extreme pleasure of achievement, the joy which comes from work well done. While we say they are lucky they have been deprived by fate of the very thing which counts in this world and which can give them any real enjoyment.

Hard work directed by brains brings success. That is an axiom that is always true. It depends upon how much effort you put into the work and how much brain you develop in directing it. It is impossible to develop the brain without work and it is useless to work without developing the brain at the same time. The brain is the directing agency and must be used whether you are shovelling snow or writing a poem. In either case there has to be well directed effort if the results are to be satisfactory.

The Low Down Man Who Pleases Everybody.

Another thing that Mr. George says is that it is a low down thing to try to please everybody. He is a writer and a writer has to sell his goods to the public much as a grocer does. If there is no demand for his wares, he finds that the landlady becomes less friendly and eventually he is shown the door. Here is what this particular writer says:

"The man who writes only what the public wants is as low a man as the druggist who supplies cocaine to the public that wants it. I have never written a line which I cannot justify today; I might have had an easier time if I had been less idealistic about it. I may have changed my views; at thirty-nine I do not think as I did at twenty-five; but what I said at twenty-five I honestly believed then. There is no other way to keep one's heart clean and one's pocket filled; a man can no more prosper through writings which he despises than a salesman can sell stoves unless he believes that they are good stoves. For a while the fraud may stand, but in the end the writings and the stoves find liars out."

What About Selling City Of Prince Rupert?

What about selling the city? As a community we have the city for sale and we are looking for a purchaser. We want to interest people in this locality and get them to come here and develop our resources, open factories, operate saw mills or pulp plants, develop the power now going to waste, cure the fish and develop markets for it. The goods we have to offer are the natural resources and often we put them in the back shed or in the basement instead of placing them plainly before the people who are likely to prove purchasers.

Possibly one of the lines of goods that will some day be more in demand than any other is our power. The humidity of our atmosphere is going to be one of our sources of wealth. Nature has provided this. There are all sorts of dormant possibilities in the water powers of this district and the time will come when they will be developed.

What shall we do? Just hope? Unfortunately hope is not a marketable commodity. It is not in demand among those who turn the wheels of industry. We shall never get anywhere by just sitting back and hoping that some day somebody will come along and develop the latent powers and make us all rich. Hope is a base deceiver. The communities that have prospered have usually been those where the inhabitants have been alive to the possibilities and have taken steps to sell them to the world.

Now and then men have stumbled across a gold mine and become rich in spite of themselves. Such cases are very few, so few as to be negligible. Well directed effort is what counts. It counts in developing a business or in building a city. Hope is a liar. Don't listen to him.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:
"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

ROTARIANS GET ENCOURAGEMENT

Minister of Lands Urges Courage and Optimism For City and Province

MUCH PROGRESS ALREADY
More Confidence in Future Today Than on Day he Came Here, Says Pattullo

"Today I have far more confidence in the future of Prince Rupert than I had the day I came here." "The forces that are able to accelerate development are not all doing it. I suggest that you leave no stone unturned until you accomplish that which you think should be accomplished in Northern British Columbia. If you keep on fighting there is no doubt as to what the future will be."

Not only were practically all members of the Rotary Club in attendance at the luncheon yesterday to hear the address of Hon. T. D. Pattullo but nearly every member had with him a visitor so that the accommodation of the St. Regis club room was taxed near the limit. President T. H. Johnson occupied the chair and the visitors were well mixed with the members.

In his address Mr. Pattullo referred to the dull times through which the city and province had been passing. Shortly after the war there had been unemployment in the States. That condition had changed and some people were leaving Canada for that country. Building had started after the war and the building activity had brought great prosperity. On this side of the boundary line conditions had not been so good and as a result many of the young people had gone away just as they had on numerous other occasions. It was said at one time that in Chicago alone there were 250,000 Canadians.

Must Have Courage
For the remedy the first thing was to have courage, fight the fight of today and let the morrow take care of itself.

Mr. Pattullo said he had for a long time been keenly interested in immigration even when the idea was not as popular as it is today. He did not agree with the reasoning that we should not bring people into the country because there had been unemployment here. Canada's greatest prosperity was during the time when there was the greatest influx of new settlers. The very process created employment. He had made the statement that Canada could absorb 300,000 people a year. These immigrants would add to the number of consumers and would enlarge the market.

Telling of the Yukon when he was there 25 years ago, Mr. Pattullo said at that time there were 25,000 people there. This was a wonderful market for outside places and Seattle had been built up on that trade. If they could get 300,000 healthy men with healthy minds who would pull their own weight when difficulties arose it would be a great benefit to the country. He told of new business starting up in British Columbia and the benefit it had been. How, he asked, could they build up the country without people? Yet there were people who still argued against immigration. What they wanted was healthy white people.

Immigration Policy
On his visits to the old country Mr. Pattullo said he had taken up with the imperial authorities this immigration question and later had laid his views before the Dominion government believing it was the duty of the Dominion to undertake an immigration policy. This had already borne fruit for Premier Oliver was even now at Ottawa discussing immigration with the Dominion government and he felt sure they would have a policy worked out soon. In a few weeks he expected to hear of a definite concrete proposal and there was no reason why it should not result in a great many people being brought to the country.

Some thought only those of Anglo-Saxon origin should be brought here, but he thought this a mistake. Immigrants should be trained on their arrival in Anglo-Saxon traditions and institutions and they would make good Canadians. He did not favor bringing older people. The young could assimilate quicker and tackle the problems of a new country better than the old. He would like to see a lot of them brought right in to Northern British Columbia.

Old Centre Street
While regretting that greater progress had not been made here Mr. Pattullo said he looked back a few years when Mr. Ormg had his drug store in a tent on Centre Street and he saw great improvement since then. The railway lost its inspiration with Mr. Hays, and then came the war, then the railway got into difficulties and got into the hands of those who were not in sympathy with the people here. He thought the part from Jasper to Prince Rupert was the best part of the line and Northern British Columbia was the best part of Canada. He had been in every part of the province and knew what he was talking about. Today he had far more confidence in the future of Prince Rupert than the day he came here. He spoke of the fisheries, the mineral and timber wealth and the agricultural possibilities. Development of the stock industry would be a great benefit to the district. Dairying was one of the things that would make the interior prosperous. Switzerland supported three million cattle and British Columbia's grazing commissioner estimated that the Bulkley and Nechaco valleys would support as many as Switzerland.

Growth in 20 Years
There was no reason to be discouraged, the minister said. The population of the province had trebled in twenty years and there was reason for encouragement. The forces that could have accelerated development had not all been doing it. They should leave no stone unturned until they had accomplished that which they thought should be accomplished in Northern British Columbia. If they kept on fighting there was no doubt what the future would be.

OXFORD GRADUATE TAKES YEAR IN PEN.

Sent up For Appropriating Another's Victory Bonds

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25.—George C. C. Stenning, graduate of Oxford university and Westminster public school, was sentenced to serve one year in jail when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate Hugh John Macdonald in city police court to the theft of Victory bonds worth $2,000 from his former employers, the Winnipeg Social Welfare commission.

Stenning met his sentence four and one-half years after the crime for which he was brought to justice was committed.

A letter written by his wife as she lay dying in a sanatorium at Great Falls, Montana, where she was taken by her husband after the theft, containing a confession that her husband was guilty of taking the bonds, gave the police a clue which led to Stenning's arrest last September in Portland, Ore.

Waiving extradition after he had first started a legal fight to avoid coming back to Winnipeg for trial, Stenning left a second wife and one child in the American city. While he serves sentence of one year, four children left in Winnipeg when he fled with his first wife are in the care of the Children's Home, police said.

Four $500 Victory bonds were taken by Stenning, who had access to the vaults of the Social Welfare commission, between March and October, 1918. He left the city shortly after and the theft was not discovered until the audit was made in the spring of 1919. The clue afforded by the letter from his first wife led the police to investigations which finally disclosed his residence in Portland. One bond, which was sold prior to his departure from the city, was recovered. Restitution of the bond was ordered by the court.

Keeping Up your Quality

Mrs. J. H. S. says she likes Pacific Milk because it is always the same. The only change she ever noticed was the recent improvement in process which allows us to have each 100 pounds contain 43 per cent cream.

"Keeping up your quality must require exceptional care," Mrs. S. says, "which I believe all good cooks appreciate."

Delayed for the first time this year by snow in the Prince Rupert division, the Canadian National westbound train was 5 hours late in arriving last night. The delay was caused on account of the line being blocked with snow at Kwiatka.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryson and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Eadie and their families sailed this morning on the Prince George for Vancouver. The former will spend a fortnight holidaying in Victoria and the latter a similar period in Calgary before they take up their posts with the contracting firm of McDougall & McNeill at Essondale.

MANITOBA'S CRIME WAVE IS ABATING

WINNIPEG, Jan. 24.—Appreciation of the fact that the small list before the winter assize indicated an abatement in the wave of crime that has been sweeping over the country during the last few years, was expressed by Chief Justice Malher, presiding judge of the opening.

"There are only a small number of cases on the docket," he said, "and this indicates to me that there is a falling off in the crime wave. It is gratifying in view of the lengthy lists that have come before grand juries in the past. I am informed there are only 13 bills to be considered, which is much less than at previous sittings."

Mrs. R. C. Hunt, Port George, N. S., writes:—"I have been troubled by being constipated for the last six months. My tongue has been terribly coated, so much so that it made my breath bad. I was talking to a friend about it, and she advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and now I am perfectly well. My tongue is as smooth as it was before I got that way, and I owe it all to your Pills, of which I only used two vials."

SALMON RIVER AND ITS MINES

History of the District Outlined in Official Geological Report by Schofield and Hanson

"The development in British Columbia of a mine from a prospect is usually a long and costly operation requiring an outlay of capital far beyond the means of the ordinary prospector, but the discovery of the Premier Mine in the Salmon River district and the Dolly Varden mine in the Alice Arm district proved conclusively that there are deposits in British Columbia which can be made to pay from the grass roots and come in the category of 'a poor man's proposition.'"

This assertion is made in the memoir on the geology and ore deposits of the Salmon River district, British Columbia by S. J. Schofield and G. Hanson, Dominion Government mining engineers, which has just been issued from Ottawa.

"The discovery of rich silver-bearing veins in the Salmon River district in 1914 re-awakened interest in mining in that part of British Columbia," the report continues. The type of ore deposits rich in native silver—sometimes amounting to 1,000 ounces to the ton—was new to British Columbia.

History of District

"The early history of mining in Salmon River district is intimately bound up with that of Portland Canal district, of which it is a part. The metalliferous character of the Portland Canal mining district was first discovered by a party of prospectors in 1898, the year of the great Klondyke rush. They were searching for placer deposits, but failing to find pay gravels turned their attention to prospecting for quartz. The Roosevelt and other claims on the north fork of Bitter creek were staked in 1899 and the Mountain Boy and American Girl on American creek in 1902. The Alaskan boundary at that time had not been defined, and the claims were staked under the United States laws, but were subsequently restaked and recorded in British Columbia. The Redcliff, which could hardly escape notice as the outcroppings showed up prominently on the mountain side, was first staked in 1898, and has lapsed and been restaked several times, the last time in 1908.

"The earliest mention of prospecting in Salmon River district is in the report of the Minister of Mines for British Columbia for 1904, where it is stated that Messrs. Harris and Rearick of Ketchikan, located six claims composing the Silver Lake group and that Dan Lindberg located four claims on the summit of Bear River ridge between Silver Lake group on Salmon river and the American group on Bear river. In the report of 1911 it is stated that the Big Missouri was also staked in 1904.

Some of the claims now owned by the Premier Gold Mining Company were staked in June, 1910, by Wm. Dilworth and Bunting Bros., but it was not until the summer of 1914 that W. J. Rolf found high-grade ore (8500 a ton in gold and silver) on these claims. The discovery revived interest in the district and the well-known rush of 1915 and 1916 followed, during which all available ground was staked. Prospecting and developing of these claims continued to the time the area was geologically mapped, in 1920.

The Coughs and Colds of Children

Only the mother knows how hard it is to keep the children from taking cold, they will get overheated and cool off too suddenly, get their feet wet, kick off the clothes at night, and do a dozen and one things the mother can't prevent. A great many mothers are now giving their children

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

It is pleasant and nice for them to take and relieves the cough or cold in a very short time.

Mrs. J. Wilson, Portage La Pétrole, Man., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my five children. My little girl, two years old, had a very bad cold last winter, which I thought was croup, I had some 'Dr. Wood's' in the house so gave it to her and she was fine the next day; also my baby, three months old, had a bad cold and I gave it to him. It cuts and brings up the phlegm, and is the best cough medicine I ever used."

Pioneer Druggists Prince Rupert The Rexall Stores

Burns lived it was said he was a second class poet but the world now recognized his works as the highest in interpretation and fervor. Humor was also exemplified in such poems as, "Tam O'Shanter" and "Holy Willie's Prayer." The world today was becoming too formal and the people did not mingle together as they should. It was necessary to get back to the conditions of which Burns wrote, such as in "Guller's Saturday Night," where a picture was given of life as it should be lived. The world today could do with a poet such as Burns who would lead the people back to that form of simplicity and beauty which was so much to be desired.

Thomas McClymont

After impudently opening into his subject, the toast to "Bonnie Scotland," Thomas McClymont said he would concede two things. First, Scotland was a fine country to be born in and its hard school fitted one out well to meet the rough roads of life but, second, there were better countries to live in and Canada was one of them. Canada was a bigger country geographically and that very fact made the people broader. Mr. McClymont declared that Burns had been placed on a pinnacle but there were other great poets in Scotland. He was the most popular poet in the world but he could hardly be placed in the same category as Shakespeare, Milton or Dante. It was Burns' humanity that made him beloved of the world.

Mayor Responds

After the toast to "Our City" had been drunk and the gathering had enthusiastically sung, "We're Here Because We're Here," Mayor Newton responded in an optimistic vein. He was inclined to think that things were not quite so bad as many people might think. Vancouver was talking about stealing our dry dock but he had been present at the opening of the court house and there was one thing they could not take away. Looking back over 15 years of the city history great progress had been made even if more had been hoped for, anticipated and promised. Looking back over the city's brief history, he questioned if it was justifiable to feel dissatisfied or pessimistic. New courage should be taken and since we had already waited so long we should wait a little longer. Sir Henry Thornton would soon visit here and all hoped that something of benefit would accrue from that visit. If elevators were refused, could not the ocean dock be used for handling grain? Two industrial propositions had been made to the city council in the brief time since he had taken office and they were now moving cautiously and quietly until a successful conclusion might arise from the negotiations. There was no reason to take too gloomy an aspect. If through these annual gatherings new prospects might be demonstrated it might be the forerunner of great achievement and great success for the city. He hoped that a year hence there might be some material bearing out of the prospects of today.

Hon. T. D. Pattullo

In replying to the toast of "Our Province," Hon. T. D. Pattullo said it had been his privilege to attend the first Burns Banquet in the city and also several since. This was his first, however, where the ladies had been present and for that reason he thought it was the most enjoyable. His subject was too big to deal with in the short time at his disposal. The mayor's optimism was to be commended. There really was no reason for anything but optimism in British Columbia and especially on the frontier where the red blooded men and women were needed. He had studied conditions in the province, in Canada and other countries and he could see that progress was being made here. With the possibilities and resources contiguous to the railway and the city there was no reason for anything else but cheerfulness. The real means of success in the great interior district would be through agriculture with stock raising as its backbone. Today his optimism for Prince Rupert was greater than when he came here first. The foundation for optimism was now real proven fact while before it had been largely speculation. There was bound to be rivalry in a new country but co-operation was necessary. There might be attempts to injure Prince Rupert but the south had always taken millions of dollars out of the north and no greater tragedy could happen to the south than if disaster should come to the north. In urging co-operation, he pointed out that prosperity for one part of B.C. meant prosperity for the whole of the province. The people here must have courage and stay with the fight.

Imperial Forces

Replying to the toast of the "Imperial Forces," Ex-Ald. J. H. Kelly, said that it had not been Pech, Haig or Pershing who won the war so much as two common fellows, "Jackie Tar," and "Tommy Atkins." It was the Imperial Forces that made the land safe to live in. The ideals of the Union Jack should be lived up to and jealously maintained by all and, if necessary, there was always that silent force which said "We don't want to fight but, by Jingo, if we do."

J. C. Brady again excelled himself in responding to the toast to "The Lassies." The toast, he said, was as novel tonight as it had been ten years ago this night. The power for good invested in women was a thing that was more than ever being used today. What the world lacked was that true love of a good man for a good woman under which all difficulties could be overcome. It was necessary to get back to the foundation of true love for there was too much of a temptation today to become engrossed in the material things of life.

Kindred Societies

In responding to the toast to "Kindred Societies," S. E. Parker, representing the Sons of Canada, told something of objects of the society which he represented. In this city they had entered vigorously and successfully into outside sport but a greater object was the preservation of Canadian ideals and better citizenship. A great need at the present time was for all to get together to check the out-go of Canadians to the United States.

A. W. Edge, representing the Sons of England, spoke briefly in a vein of dry humor and expressed the hope that the spirit of good fellowship which had existed so long between the St. Andrew's Society and the Sons of England might continue.

Musical Program

The musical program was of great excellence and the numbers presented provided fitting punctuation for fine speeches. Mrs. H. L. Campbell delighted the audience with her solo "Angus Macdonald," responding to the insistent demand for an encore with "Goin' Through the Rye," S. K. Campbell's solos were no less appreciated, his numbers being "The Star of Robbie Burns," "Scots Wha Hae," and "Will He No Come Back Again?"

A new and splendid combination were the vocal duets of S. K. Campbell and Mrs. H. L. Campbell. Their first item was "Ye Banks and Braes," and their encore "What are the Wild Waves Saying?" Having made their first appearance in duo, the two soloists will doubtless be much in demand in future in a similar combination. Other vocal numbers which were received with much applause were "Braw, Braw Lads," and "Bonnie Prince Charlie," by Mrs. William Miller; "Afton Water," and "Dear Homeland," by Mrs. J. P. McMillan, and "The Sergeant Major," and "Fourteen Days in a Boarding House," by R. E. James. W. Vaughan Davies was accompanist. The St. Andrew's orchestra provided a spirited selection of Scottish airs for the opening of the program.

At one o'clock the gathering dispersed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and "God Save the King."

PURE WHITE BEAVER CAUGHT AT NIPIGON

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Jan. 25.—The pelt of a pure white beaver is in possession of a fur buyer here who bought it from a trapper in the Nipigon district. There is not a trace of color in the pelt, which is of fair size. White beaver is one of the rarest skins brought in from the north.

E. W. Jacobs, for some time with the Bank of Montreal staff here, sailed for his home in Vancouver on the Prince George this morning.

HYPNOTIC WORK IN MAKING PICTURE

Bertram Grassby, who plays the Hindu hypnotist, the heavy role in Ethel Clayton's new picture, "The Defence," to be shown at the Westholme theatre tonight, was engaged in "mesmerizing" the star for an important scene, during the filming of the picture. After the action had been taken, Director Paul Powell observed an odd extra man who played the part of a servant, staring with glassy eyes at the actor. They shook him and he failed to awaken. Finally, a whiff of ammonia brought him to his senses. Evidently, it was explained, it was a case of auto-hypnosis, as Mr. Grassby does not practice nor regard with favor, hypnotic work.

DISCUSS BRYAN AS POLITICAL POSSIBILITY

Suggestion That He May Yet Come Back as Nominee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—Can William Jennings Bryan "come back" politically?

This is a question being freely asked in political circles just now. In little more than a year, the nominations for the presidency will be made and talk is rife over the available in both parties, although there is little now to indicate that President Harding will not be renominated by the Republicans.

Colonel Bryan, three times candidate for President, and Secretary of State under the Wilson regime up to the time he was practically forced out, has been in Washington in recent weeks. With his departure, there started reports, known to be well-founded, that some of his old admirers were at work to make him the presidential nominee of his party next year. Col. Bryan, it appears, is not averse to such activity on the part of his old followers and has not entirely given up his earlier ambition to be president.

As the Bryan followers now plan it, they would put him at the head of the ticket with an eastern conservative and perhaps a wet in second place on the ticket. As they see it, Bryan would draw a great number of votes of progressive republicans and of farmers in the republican party who are deeply dissatisfied with the government's course toward agriculture.

The practical difficulty of the Bryan men is that the democratic organization on the whole is not for him. This will make it hard for them to select anything like a majority of the delegates to the democratic national convention. Nevertheless, it cannot be denied Colonel Bryan still has millions of adherents in the United States, he is in the pink of health and condition; his brother, Charles, has been elected governor of Nebraska, and he is sure to be a factor when the democratic convention meets.
