BULGARIA COMES UNDER MILITARY RULE

FURIOUS GALES IN FAR NORTH FORCE SHIPS THERE TO RUN FOR SHELTER

State of War Declared in Bulgaria Following Communist Activities

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A state of war has been declared by the Bulgarian government because of communistic riots and the chamber of deputies has been dissolved by royal decree. The trouble has been developing there for some time and has been gradually assuming a more threatening aspect. Recently raids were made on communist clubs and documents then taken indicated that there was a plan afoot to overthrow the government. It was to commence with a general strike.

Drastic action is now being taken by the government and the declaration of recourse to military rule is the final effort to curb the activities of the rebels.

G.G.M.M. freighter Canadian Skirmisher, Capt. Hilton, cleared at 7:30 Saturday evening for an American catch being 17.1c paid to the schooner Restitution and for a Canadian catch 16.3c and piloted out to Dixon's Entrance by Capt. E. McCoshrie, harbor master, who will return to the boats were in with a total of 112,700 pounds, six American boats having 74,500 pounds and a similar number of Canadian, 38,200 pounds.

The Skirmisher loaded a total of 505,684 feet of lumber here, the H. R. McMillan Export Co. sending 368,911 feet and the provincial government, for Japanese relief purposes, 136,773 feet. She also took on 800 cases of salmon at this port for Japanese relief, 450 cases being sent by the city of Prince Rupert and 350 by the local Japanese Association.

The Skirmisher's total lumber cargo was 3,775,000 feet, including the local shipment. The balance was loaded at Vancouver and Vancouver Island before arriving here last week.

The next G.G.M.M. steamer to come here to load will be the Canadian Highlander, Capt. Fisher, arriving on October 20. She will take 500,000 feet of lumber, it is expected, and also further shipments of salmon for Japanese relief.

The total subscription was divided as follows: collected by Prince Rupert Japanese Association, $1,732.50; by city, $2,098.01. The former included $143 collected last week at Georgetown and the latter, $101.71 turned in by the public schools of the city on Saturday.

Drunkenness is Rife Here says Rev. G. G. Hacker in Sermon at Methodist Church Last Night

Declaring that if the police commissioners were not able to clean up the city they should admit failure and allow Mr. Manson to do it for them, Rev. G. G. Hacker pictured a deplorable state of affairs in this city and intimated that the police commissioners were anything but enthusiastic in making a change. He told what he had seen on Third Ave. during two hours before nine o'clock last Thursday evening as an example of what was going on. During that time he saw fourteen drunken men, staggering drunk.

Mr. Hacker said there was a difference of opinion in regard to the moral situation. The Premier said nearly everybody was satisfied with the present Government control law except a few church people who were disgruntled for political reasons. He referred, however, to the fact that the Union of B.C. Municipalities strongly protested against "the disgraceful situation which was worse than during the days of the open bar and is not only destructive to the morals of the people but is resulting in bringing about a general contempt for law and order."

Mr. Shockley was taken to task by Mr. Manson because of the condition in Prince Rupert where there were disorderly people up and down town and drunkenness on the part of the police.

Mr. Shockley did not altogether agree with this, however. To show that it was true, Mr. Hacker gave opinions of other people which had been secured from various sources.

Traps for Men

An officer on a large passenger steamer, who had been here, declared that there were more traps set for men's downfall in Prince Rupert than in any other place he had visited, and he had been around the world.

A prominent Winnipeg editor said he saw more drunken men in Prince Rupert on Saturday and Sunday evening than he would see in the worst part of Winnipeg in a month.

A prominent American tourist said he was pained to see young men drunk on the street here. He had not seen one in the United States since prohibition came into force.

Five young men of most respectable calling were seen by a prominent citizen drunk here in one evening.

A dozen boys on McBride Street were seen desperately drunk, several of them still in short pants. The ages of these boys was approximately from 15 to 18.

Two Hours on Avenue

Mr. Hacker then went on to tell what he had seen in two hours on Thursday evening last before (continued on page six)

Placing Totems
To Advantage.

The placing of the totem pole in an advantageous position is being discussed a great deal on the street. It has been suggested among other places that it should be erected on the plot of ground owned by the city just above the city hall. This would be a commanding situation and visitors when climbing to see it would have an opportunity to get a fine view of the harbor which they otherwise would miss. The city could improve the plot of land making it into a miniature park which would be a great asset to the town. This seems like a suggestion worthy of consideration. If the totem now secured is not placed at that point, perhaps the next may go there. Anything that will induce tourists to climb the hill will benefit the city.

Monkey Glands And Eternal Youth.

This is an age of startling things and novelties are always taken up with avidity. Usually they die down and no more is heard of them. Only a short time ago the world was startled by a statement that by transplanting monkey glands into the human body in place of their own natural glands, the person may have his youth extended and the time for the close of his life set forward.

It may be possible that with the acquisition of monkey glands the human family may become even sillier than it is today. If this should be the case, we might preferably pass on in the natural way. If a monkey could think of anything sillier than the song "Yes, We Have No Bananas," which seems to be engrossing a large part of the English speaking world, then let us all go to monkeyland.

Seriously, there are other ways of retaining youth than by acquiring new glands. There is such a thing as regular living with plenty of work and proper exercise, cultivating a cheerful disposition, eliminating the grumbling tendency and thinking of health, joy, peace, prosperity and progress. This is guaranteed to add many years of life and at the same time to make life worth living.

Quite Satisfactory
Says Mackenzie King.

The relations of Canada to the rest of the Empire are quite satisfactory and no changes are necessary, according to W. L. Mackenzie King, premier of Canada. Apparently the premier has watched the British Empire grow and its constitution form without a great deal of passing of laws and formulating of regulations. He has also seen the League of Nations formed and noticed that it had little effect so far on the life of the world. No decisions of a conference can prove half as useful as the development of the right spirit among the people.

It is always a benefit for representatives of the countries to get together and discuss important relationships. It is a good thing for each one to get the other's viewpoint and discuss the pros and cons, but to expect any very permanent result from a gathering of imperial statesmen is expecting too much. We shall evolve a constitution gradually.

Protection Against Paying Debts.

Prairie farmers always seem to be worrying about paying their debts. They are keen to buy machinery, horses, implements, motor cars and other luxuries or necessities but when the bills falls due they sometimes have not the means to meet it and then they howl. The difficulty is that the crop comes only once a year and then if it fails the bills go unpaid. If the farmers took up mixed farming they would have a much steadier income.

Any legislation which makes it difficult to collect debts at once puts a premium on dishonesty and restricts credit. If credits are bad, then profits must be higher to make up for the losses. In any case the debtor has to pay the bill. There are always people who want everything and are willing to give nothing. They are the hogs of the human family and often they are not the rich. They are poor because they refuse to deny themselves in the present so that they may benefit in the future.

WHALENS HAVE LARGE ASSETS

Lack of Capital Sufficient to Operate Concern Caused the Receivership

QUAKE BROUGHT CLIMAX

Attempt Now Being Made to Refinance Big Concern by the Receiver

Lack of capital to ward off any pressure on the part of creditors, and the certainty that these creditors would start pressing when they found out what a serious blow had been delivered to the company's market, seem to be the best explanation of the receivership for the Whalen Pulp and Paper Co., says the Financial Post. Thus the Japanese earthquake may be credited with bringing to a head the troubles of this concern. Talk of refinancing has been in the air for some time. There has been an effort to get the affairs of the company into shape and with some little success. On two or three occasions of late there have been meetings of the shareholders planned but these did not materialize. Then came the earthquake.

At least 50 per cent of the sulphite pulp turned out by the company was sold to Japan. Two large plants which took the major portion of these shipments were destroyed. It will take months before they will be back in the market. Then there was quite a supply at the docks on the other side of the Pacific and a shipload enroute.

Paper Machines

With a receiver in charge, it is now the intention to go ahead with plans of refinancing. It has long been said that the company should install paper-making machines. It is evident that the earnings of the concern have not been sufficient to allow for a profit from the development of sulphite pulp, etc., at the three plants.

Extremely economic management has been a compulsory condition with the Whalen Company since the present management took charge, in order to carry on without infusing new capital. A series of small reverses of the past few months, followed by the Japanese catastrophe, have brought about the present situation. About two months ago, just as the company's shingle mill had a large quantity of shingles ready for New York market, prices fell there to such an extent that a loss of $25,000 or $35,000 fell upon the Whalen Company. Then, about August 10, the water supply failed and a heavy expense was entailed cutting through a new canal, but in the meantime the plant lay idle for several weeks. Shortly after work resumed came the earthquake.

Official Statement

While the Swanson Bay mills are to be kept in operation, it is presumed that the production will be curtailed until new markets are found. Hon. T. McGarry has issued the following statement: "After careful consideration, the directors of the Whalen Pulp and Paper Mills, Limited, Vancouver, have decided at a meeting today not to oppose the application of the Montreal Trust Company, as trustee for the company's bonds and debenture stock, for the appointment of a receiver. When the present management took charge in the autumn

CARNATION MILK is just pure milk—100 per cent cows' milk. It contains all of the food elements in the fresh whole milk.

Nothing is added to Carnation, not even sugar. Only part of the natural water is removed to reduce the bulk and give you doubly rich milk in convenient-sized containers. Carnation is then sterilized (heated) to keep it pure and absolutely safe.

Removal of part of the water leaves twice the proportion of cream in Carnation as in whole milk. Thus Carnation is twice as rich as ordinary milk. For cream purposes, use it as it comes from the tin; for whole milk, put back the water we removed (equal parts); for cooking uses add from 3 to 4 parts of water.

The high quality of Carnation is due to the excellence of the fresh whole milk and to our extreme care and long experience in preparing Carnation by the most modern sanitary methods.

Thousands of Canadian housewives are using Carnation because they have found it the economical and dependable Pure Milk Service.

You, too, will find that Carnation Milk is just "100 per cent cows' milk," rich, safe, convenient, economical. Order a supply from your grocer today and learn the food value of Carnation for all of your daily milk and cream needs.

“from Contented Cows” Mary Blake

Made in Canada

CECIL ALEXANDER LAMB, B.S.A.

of 1920, it was found that the assets $20,000,000." financial position was such that without substantial refinancing it might not be possible to continue operations. For two years following, market conditions were bad and at times only one of the three mills was in operation. For the past several months, however, the three mills have been operated to capacity and profits have been shown.

The attempts to re-finance, however, have been abortive, principally because the terms of the original mortgages securing the bonds and debentures rendered it impossible to issue any new securities. During these three years no new securities have been offered or sold to the public by the company and the management has been obliged to not alone carry on its operations out of earnings, but has also been called upon to pay $500,000 on the principal of the bonds as well as heavy interest charges.

Capital Needed

With the full operation of three mills, it became evident that much more ready capital is required, and this cannot be obtained without reorganizing and re-financing. It was hoped that this could have been accomplished without the necessity of a receivership, but the happening of recent events, in particular the shortage of water at Swanson Bay, interfering with profitable manufacture at that plant, and the catastrophe in Japan rendering uncertain the marketing of a substantial part of the company's products, have迫使 the directors in the position of not being able to carry on the company's operations.

It is felt by the directors that it will not be long until the affairs of the company are readjusted on a satisfactory basis, enabling them to take advantage at their three mills of the expected heavy demand for lumber in Japan. In round figures, the total liabilities of the company (including bonds, debentures, notes and trade accounts) amount to about $10,000,000 and the disaster are finally catalogued and analyzed it will probably be found, according to construction men who have spent much time in Japan, that one factor which acted as a terrible effective accomplice to the forces of destruction was the form of building construction in the most densely inhabited region of Japan.

Just as the San Francisco earthquake and fire and nearly all similar catastrophes carried with them a moral and a lesson, so also is the Japanese calamity likely to point a way to something better in the future—sounder buildings more scientifically constructed, designed according to the pattern of the Occident. This will mean incidentally the importation of vast quantities of building materials such as Canada and the United States are able to provide until such time as Japan has perfected means of obtaining her requirements at home. Lumber, however, Japan will probably always need and from now on her purchases from Canada should steadily increase.

Quake Possibilities

The fact that the majority of the buildings of Tokio and Yokohama were unable to withstand the earth tremor does not mean that scant attention has been given in Japan to the importance of considering the earthquake possibilities when building. Through the centuries Japan has been forced to pay attention to earthquakes and to provide against them. Probably no country in the world has more men trained in the science of seismology than Japan, and many of these men stand in the foremost rank among the earthquake authorities of the world. They have given the advantage of their advice to cities throughout Japan with the result that nearly all Japanese cities have building codes which limit the height of buildings to 100 shaku or feet, averaging about eight storeys.

These restrictions were dictated by a regard for traffic congestion, ventilation and other factors, but the earthquake problem was unquestionably the dominating consideration.

It is doubtful whether any form of construction could have successfully withstood the force of the recent earthquake in Japan under the most intense conditions, but investigation will probably disclose, it is believed, that most of the smaller buildings and the older structures of native construction would not have a chance to survive—an earthquake of much less severity. In spite of the warning of scientists, many thousands of Japanese houses and business buildings have been erected with a total disregard for the importance of guarding against the effects of earthquakes.

Flimsy Walls

Many visitors in Japan who gain their impressions from momentary observation have remarked on the suggestion of strength in the construction of Japanese houses, and they have taken it for granted that heavy and solid roofs were provided as a precaution against quake. The fact, however, is that these roofs are supported by such flimsy walls and foundations that most of the earthquake casualties in Japan have been caused in the past by their crashing to the ground at the first rumble of an earth tremor of unusual violence.

Native construction is now regarded as its own worst enemy in the event of earthquakes.

During recent years the Occidental style of building have been gaining favor in Japan and the recent disaster is expected to result in a general revolution of construction methods, with elimination of the old native plan and adoption of steel and reinforced concrete types of buildings, of light skeleton structure, such as is popular in Canada and the United States. Japanese may be able to improve on this form of construction, but it seems certain Japan will never return to the old style.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:-

WHEN opportunity touches the electric bell be sure not forget to yell "come in."

A BROAD smile of satisfaction comes over the face of some pedestrians when they hear of a chauffeur taking the lightning express to Hades.

THE objection I have to working overtime is that it keeps me away from seeing the latest movie sensation.

WHEN a person says he has a schoolboard opinion of you, it will not be difficult to guess what he means.

THERE are a lot of people who seem to think cleaning up a city means sending people to jail.

IF the German mark goes out of use, what will they do with the waste paper?

TALKING of fighting, people are still wondering what would have been the permanent effect on the world if at the Polo grounds, New York, that eventful evening Dempsey had not happened to crawl back into the ring and get his feet without being knocked out again.

In this letter I am dealing with the language problem. Many of us true Canadians know that there are two official languages established in this country for all time. We also should know to appreciate and thank God for it, but instead of amity like it should be, there exists a feeling of disdain with many and a race for supremacy. I believe it is about time for the authorities to take a firm attitude and put the matter of languages on a concrete foundation.

As the English and French languages are naturally related, it seems to me an easy matter to settle. My plan would be for each province to establish a bilingual college independent of any other institutions for the purpose of training the future politicians.

I believe no man should be allowed to enter federal politics in the country unless he can express himself in the two languages. With an institution of that kind politics could be remade honorable. The one who by nature has the faculty of learning languages should be given the preference. There are many studious men and women who have a fairly good start already and who would be glad to patronize such an institution.

In conclusion let us consider the demagogue's point of view. Is the French language necessary in this country? It has been proved by the great men of the past that the French affiliated with the English or other tongue makes the strongest combination for deep thinking and for scientific research. Now then, as Canadians let us ask ourselves this question. Do I understand the psychology of the people of this country with one language only? Many would say yes, I go by certain books and prejudiced stories. The more fishy it looks, the best it is for the jays. If a plan like I have proposed would mature, every demagogue then would be on the sick list. It would make room for the gentlemen who are

SMITHERS DEFEATED PRINCE RUPERT FOR SECOND TIME FRIDAY

Defeating Prince Rupert by a score of 10 to 6, the Smithers baseball team scored their second victory over the locals in the baseball series at the Bulkley Valley Fair last Friday afternoon. An unfortunate fourth inning blow up on the part of Prince Rupert team, which netted the Smithers aggregation a total of six runs, was the decisive factor in what was otherwise a close and well contested match.

Harry Astoria pitched for Prince Rupert and Douglas Frizzell caught. McConnaughay pitched the first seven innings for Smithers and was then relieved by George Roberts. H. Owens caught.

The Prince Rupert team returned home on Saturday evening accompanied by Ben Self.

Sport Chat

News of former Prince Rupert baseball, football, lacrosse and hockey stars comes in a letter received by Roy Barnes from Hughie Scott who is now in charge of the sporting goods department of the Bushman Hardware Co. in Seattle with ten men under him. Charlie Blyth is going to manage a hockey team in Seattle this winter. There are almost enough players from Prince Rupert there now to form a Sons of Canada team. Among them are, besides Mr. Blyth, Tom Moloney, Hughie Scott and Billy Blyth. Wallace Anderson and G. C. Clementson have been going strong in baseball at the Puget Sound metropolis this season. The former has been a member of two amateur baseball teams and one soccer aggregation.

BARNESLEY WINS RECEIVING SET

Wireless Apparatus was Offered to First Amateur Getting Messages Through to Greenland

FIRST NEWS OF FIGHT

Jack Barnesley is the winner of a fine radio receiving apparatus as a reward for being the first man to communicate with the McMillan expedition at Refuge Bay on the coast of north Greenland. Owing to the fact that Operator Mix of the Bedowin was unable to get any message out, the Chicago Radio Laboratories, which installed the wireless apparatus aboard the ship, offered a prize to the first amateur station communicating with the expedition. Mr. Barnesley was the first and Operator Mix has wireless a message to the Chicago firm stating that fact. Mr. Barnesley has also put in his claim for the set.

Mr. Barnesley still continues to communicate with the Bedowin. He took from Operator Mix a list of several hundred stations, whose signals he had been able to hear, but with whom he had been unable to communicate. The static is poor most of the time on the north coast of Greenland and there is much interference from the powerful commercial European stations. Owing to this the members of the expedition are unable to pick up the press which is broadcasted on this continent. They got their first news of both the Japanese disaster and the Dempsey-Firpo fight from Mr. Barnesley by way of Prince Rupert.

The emotional punches come in with the development of the impressive theme, showing the hero's fight to go straight, inspired by the trust which a dance hall girl reposed in him, he being in reality a crook who went to Panamint for the purpose of robbing a bank.

Pretty Fritzi Brunette is the leading feminine support.

WHAT A WIFE LEARNED IS PROBLEM STORY TO BE PICTURED HERE

"What a Wife Learned" is a drama of American life today—a drama embodying the primal instincts of man and his mate that go back to the beginning of the race in the Garden of Eden. Civilization and equal rights for women has failed to reconcile man to her independence. To him her true sphere is the cradle—not a career.

Bradley King, herself a woman successful in her profession—offers her own interpretation of the heart of the new woman when she shows that love and self-sacrifice are still the keynote of woman's true happiness and that success and fame are empty without the companionship of her mate.

She has told a romance that will appeal to the woman of all nations—from Oriental women, the odalisque of her lord and master, to her emancipated sister of Western civilization.

The question, "Is Marriage a Failure?" and the remedy for increasing divorces and a falling birth rate are answered by "What a Wife Learned." It presents a solution of the domestic problem in the millionaire's palace and the workingman's bungalow alike. The essentially masculine role of "Jim Russell" is admirably played by John Bowers, while the modern woman—charming, brilliant and cultured, is typified in beautiful Marguerite de la Motte. Milton Sills gives an artistic portrayal of Martin, "the other half."

The picturesque life of a western ranch is vividly contrasted with glimpses of San Francisco and New York, the tense action of the story culminating in dramatic flood scenes.

REBEKAHS AND ODDFELLOWS AT DIVINE SERVICE

Some 40 or more members of the Rebekah and Oddfellow lodges attended divine service last evening at the Baptist Church where Rev. J. J. Smithson delivered a splendid sermon on "Friendship, Truth and Love," the motto of the Rebekah order. H. C. Higgins sang two solos.

The members of the lodges assembled in the vestibule of the church where they were marshalled by H. M. Daggett, assisted by Mrs. Phil McDonald, noble grand, and Mrs. James Simpson, vice-grand of the Rebekah lodge.

REAL PUNCHES IN WHILE SATAN SLEEPS

There are real punches, physical and emotional, in "While Satan Sleeps," Jack Holt's new Paramount picture at the Westholme tonight. The star delivers a realistic battle when as a parson of Panamint, he goes into a saloon and dance hall to bring out a derelict to his wife, and encounters the burly proprietor of the place.

The emotional punches come in with the development of the impressive theme, showing the hero's fight to go straight, inspired by the trust which a dance hall girl reposed in him, he being in reality a crook who went to Panamint for the purpose of robbing a bank.

Pretty Fritzi Brunette is the leading feminine support.

WOMEN POLICE ARE UNDER DISCUSSION IN LONDON TODAY

"What a Wife Learned" is a drama of American life today—a drama embodying the primal instincts of man and his mate that go back to the beginning of the race in the Garden of Eden. Civilization and equal rights for women has failed to reconcile man to her independence. To him her true sphere is the cradle—not a career.

In Adam's Rib Pauline Garon,

in the role Mathilda Ramsay, portrays the side of the modern girl directly opposite to the one seen in Mr. De Mille's "Manslaughter."

A clean interesting plot with a vein of humor is a brief and complete criticism of this production. It carries over the interest started in the "modern girl" in "Manslaughter" by showing the girl as a real asset;

doing in other words the same thing that proved so successful in a series of divorce plays including "Why Change Your Wife" and "Don't Change Your Husband."

The original story of "Manslaughter" did not contain anything about the Roman bacchanal scene in that production, that was just an idea of the director's.

Likewise in "Adam's Rib" does

Mr. De Mille have a similar scene, that of the life of prehistoric man in the form of a vision. This is a most interesting addition to the regular story as were the corresponding scenes in "Manslaughter."

The picture is massive and the support exceptionally brilliant.

A worth-while Reputation

The head of one of this country's great manufacturing institutions says:

"The Man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive—to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy."

Patronize the manufacturer or merchant who has a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the good-will of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed.

Every time he advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or the wares he has for sale must make good. His service must be as advertised.

That is why it pays to read advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods.

Yes, it is worth your while to Read The Advertisements nine o'clock in the evening on Third Avenue. He saw a man staggering drunk and begging for two dollars at the Universal corner. He bought the man cigarettes and a night's lodging. Previous to that he was afterwards told the man had begged a suit of clothes which he had traded for booze and had offered his artificial arm in trade for the same that evening.

Mr. Hacker said he saw a woman tourist look pained and disgusted dodging a drunken man. Another young woman was followed several blocks by a drunken man.

Two men, one of whom was very drunk, were drinking from a bottle on the public street on Third Ave. Mr. Hacker had the bottle with him and showed it in church. The label read: "Export Lager, Proof Spirit 10 per cent."

"In all" said Mr. Hacker, "I saw fourteen drunken men, staggering drunk, during the two hours I was there."

Commissioners' Attitude

"Mr. Shockley is not convinced, the mayor is disappointed, Mr. Cameron fears the cost," declared the preacher. "Will this trio make an enthusiastic cleanup? Unless they will they should admit failure and hand the job to Mr. Manson who has threatened to do it if they do not."

Proceeding, Mr. Hacker said Mr. Manson's cleanup of last year produced few permanent results. This must be a thorough cleanup and not a whitewash. Prince Rupert citizens strongly objected to paying the salaries of silent policemen but would not object to the cost if they saw real results.

"An ex-policeman told me, I can take two men and clean up Prince Rupert in a few months if I am told to do so, but a Prince Rupert policeman is a damn fool to do what he is not told to do if he values his job. Why does Chief Vickers allow a drunken man to use the vilest language within his hearing and the hearing of a highly respected woman and ignore it? I have nothing against any man in Prince Rupert, personally. My only desire is to see the city a place of which all may be proud," concluded the preacher.

HOW LUTHER BURBANK BECAME PLANT WIZARD

At 21 Years of Age he Worked in Factory — Had to Quit Because Sawdust Impaired Health

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Sawdust in a wood-turning factory where Luther Burbank was working, together with the death of his father, were responsible for the plant wizard's taking up plant breeding.

The dust in the factory impaired Burbank's health so that he had to give up that work and turn to gardening and fruit growing on his father's farm. He was twenty-one years of age at that time. Shortly afterwards he developed the Burbank potato.

Attracted by the reports of the great fertility of California soil and the mildness of its climate, Burbank sold his personal property and set out for the Pacific coast with a small capital and ten Burbank potatoes. The soil and climate were all he hoped for, but his finances were low. It was necessary for him to work as a carpenter during the day so as to be able to devote the long evenings to the preparation of a small nursery on a few acres of rented land.

For the last sixty years, Burbank has worked on an average of ten hours a day. His labors have been well repaid. He has experimented with practically every tree, fruit and vegetable. He has made the cactus shed its spine; the prune to become larger and sweeter; the cherry to ripen earlier; the walnut to thin its shell, and the calla-lily to give forth fragrance.

With Ontario

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—The effort to carry Alberta coal to Ontario to take the place of that imported from Pennsylvania has failed. In response to requests from Alberta, the railway reduced the rate on that product with a view to giving the coal owners an opportunity to test the possibility of working up a business. The effort has failed and the rate has gone back to that formerly in force.
