GREAT BRITAIN, UNITED STATES AND TRADE

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS OF BROKEN BANK REMANDED UNTIL OCTOBER 12

Policy of Imperial Conference to Keep Business at Home May Justly be Expected says World

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Commenting on the policy proposed by the British Imperial Conference in London to keep trade so far as possible within the Empire, the New York World today declares that the people of the United States are the last people in the world who could complain should Great Britain buy less from them.

"We have an economic policy today which invites exactly such a policy as Great Britain is thinking about," says the World. "We have a policy designed to make importation difficult. In a world where nations must buy if they wish to sell we need not be surprised then if Great Britain answers our tariff against imports by a policy aimed to reduce our exports."

MINERS' ESCAPE IS REMARKABLE

Five Men Entombed for Nine Days in Falkirk Mine, Brought to Surface Alive

FALKIRK, Scotland, Oct. 3.—After being buried alive for nine days, five of the 45 miners who were entombed in a coal pit near here on September 25, were recovered today. They were brought to the surface in a fairly good condition and their remarkable escape from death has raised the hopes of relatives of other imprisoned men.

The first thing the men asked for was cigarettes. They had been able to get a little air current and water but they had had no food after the first day.

Home Bank Developments are Cause of Sensation at Ottawa; Discussed by Dominion Cabinet

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—The revelations contained in the report of Curator A. B. Baker in connection with the Home Bank and the speedy arrest of the President, H. J. Daly, and the members of the directorate of the suspended institution, have created a sensation here. A meeting of the cabinet to consider it took place yesterday afternoon and it is probable the case may come up for discussion again.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, stated last night that his announcement earlier in the day covered the case insofar as the Dominion government was concerned, for the present at least.

The resignation of R. P. Gough from the directorate of the Canadian National Railways is expected here. Neither Hon. James Robb, minister of railroads, nor Sir Henry Thornton, president of the system, are in the capital, so official information regarding this is lacking.

DIGBY ISLAND SPEAKS CANADIAN SKIRMISHER

C.G.M.M. Vessel, Eleven Days from Rupert, Is 2488 Miles from Cape Flattery

Digby Island wireless station was in communication this morning at 6:30 with the C.G.M.M. steamer Canadian Skirmisher in mid-Pacific. The Skirmisher which is eleven days out of this port bound for Kobe, Japan, reported her position as 2488 miles from Cape Flattery. It is not often the Digby station is in communication with steamers so far out.

Contracts for 2,000,000 Ties are Let: Plans of Steamer are Completed

F. G. Dawson, who returned last night from attending a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railway reports that contracts have been let for the getting out of two million ties between this city and McBride, all to be delivered during the coming winter and spring. This will be a good thing for the settlers along the railway, who will be able to earn winter money to be spent in spring on clearing land and extending their holdings.

Mr. Dawson is still very optimistic. He says everything is going well. The plans and specifications for the Alaska steamer are complete and tenders will be called very soon. She will be a fine boat, without exception the finest on the coast, and Mr. Dawson is hoping the contract will come here or at any rate to some British Columbia yard. This, however, will have to be determined when the tenders are in. At present nothing can be said in regard to it.

Mr. Dawson says the sale of the Prince Albert will facilitate the securing of more suitable boats for this service.

Negotiations are under way with a fair prospect of being carried through with a view of putting on an American owned boat for the local passenger and freight business between Prince Rupert and Alaskan ports. A Canadian owned boat is not allowed to operate under American shipping laws.

The size and construction of the proposed hotel was considered and details in connection with this are being worked out.

Dr. Dawson expressed himself as much pleased over the appointment of Hon. Frank Oliver of Edmonton to the Board of Railway Commissioners. He is a strong advocate of western rights and as such he feels sure will have an influence on the board, particularly in connection with the reconsideration of the export rates on grain, which are now being reconsidered by the board.

While in Quebec recently, where the board met, the directors were banqueted by the Quebec Board of Trade and entertained at luncheon by Premier Taschereau. The Quebec people are enthusiastic and optimistic and have a keen appreciation of British Columbia.

Sir Henry Thornton is meeting David Lloyd George, former British Premier, in New York tomorrow and is accompanying him to Montreal where he is to give an address.

SHIPPING AIRPLANE SPRUCE TO JAPAN

Big Bay Sawmill at Georgetown Will Send 50,000 Feet on Canadian Highlander This Month

The Big Bay sawmill at Georgetown expects to ship some 40,000 or 50,000 feet of airplane spruce to Japan by the Canadian Highlander this month stated George McAfee, manager of the mill, this morning. The Big Bay Lumber Co. has a standing order for this timber which is used in Japan in the construction of airplanes. The mill at Georgetown is now running steadily and will probably continue throughout the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. McAfee are sailing for Vancouver tonight. Mrs. McAfee will spend the winter in the south and Mr. McAfee will be back in about a week.

BOATS WELL BUILT HERE

Supervising Engineer Expresses Pleasure at Progress and Class of Work on Patrol Vessels

Pleasure at the progress and class of work that marks the construction of the two patrol cruisers being built in the Canadian National shipyard here was expressed this morning by J. W. Allen, supervising engineer for the Department of Marine and Fisheries, who is in the city inspecting the construction of the boats.

If no undue delay is experienced in getting the engines from the Old Country, the boats should be completed about the middle of December Mr. Allen stated. The motors to be installed are 60-horse power Beardmore semi-diesel engines. The boats, which are being built in the overhang shed at the yard, are each 60 feet long. On completion, one of the boats will be immediately put into operation it is expected. The other will be commissioned in the spring towards the opening of the salmon season.

Mr. Allen will be in the city until the end of the week.

BRITISH LOSS FROM TRUST IN UNITED STATES

Treaty Would Have Been Differ-ently Drawn But For Idealism of Wilson

NATION OF REALISTS
English Paper Criticizes Severely
Methods of Republic in Her
Dealings

The difficulty of dealing with the United States and the false position in which Great Britain had been placed owing to its trust in its American neighbor is discussed very interestingly in an article in a recent number of the Evening Standard published in London, England. The writer says in part:

The last straw upon the British camel's back is the confidential aside of Colonel House to a reporter of the Morning Post on leaving Liverpool for New York on Thursday last. Colonel House was formerly secretary to ex-President Wilson, and he said that:

"It was a pity that Lord Birkenhead should discourage any leaning of present-day statesmen towards idealism, and should try to show that the only policy workable was practical statesmanship, in the old sense of the word. It was to be regretted that the British government had not an idealist like ex-President Wilson to direct affairs."

Why, bless the man, it was just because we allowed an idealist like ex-President Wilson to direct the Paris Conference in 1919 for six months that England and Europe have been landed in this terrible mess. It was precisely because we believed in Woodrow Wilson as an idealist, and, further, believed that the American people shared his idealism, that we allowed the first precious six months at the Paris Conference to be devoted to the construction of the League of Nations.

The Vital Hour
In January 1919 every day, nay every hour, was of invaluable moment in striking whilst the iron was hot, and rearranging the European map before various impossible claimants put forward impossible boundaries. This six months was entirely handed over to President Wilson to work out his theory of self-determination, which was founded on no experience, but on sheer transcendentalism.

We were pleased, of course, to think that the Americans shared with us the idea of an international peacemaker in the shape of the League, and France was pleased and reassured by the belief that the Americans would back their president with all the force and wealth of the United States in endorsing the League with power to carry out its decisions, and also in a special guarantee of security against Germany.

High Minded Faith
For a short time American politicians and the press sang praises to Woodrow Wilson's declaration of a high-minded faith.

But when it came down to brass tacks—that is, to signing the Treaty of Versailles, including the Covenant of the League, and to pledging themselves to join the Triple Alliance against Germany—the Americans promptly threw out their president, and said, in effect, that idealism was all very well for Britons and effete Europeans, but, as for the citizens of the United States, they were far too practical to embroil themselves in far distant affairs in which they had no pecuniary interest.

United States Record
Let us just recall how wonderfully well the Americans have played their cards. Whilst their president was earnestly busied in building the League of Nations they shouted with applause as brick was added to brick; but when the edifice was completed they brusquely declined to enter its portals.

The next thing they did was to invite the European Powers to the Disarmament Conference, England, ready as ever for the beau geste, deputed Lord Balfour to agree, in graceful language, to a substantial diminution in the British Navy; and to a claim, as novel as it was audacious, that the American fleet should equal our own.

England is, so far as I am aware, the only nation that promptly carried out its promise of disarmament. The Americans next proceeded to collect their war debts from the only solvent power left in the world—namely, Great Britain. Mr. Baldwin was accordingly dispatched to fund the American debt which we had incurred for the common cause of the war, at 3 per cent interest, with a sinking fund to repay the principal in 30 years.

Mr. Baldwin was complaisant himself, and delighted the Americans with his businesslike attitude for detail; but there was no idealistic oratory at that meeting, nor were France and Italy called upon to pay a penny.

Hands Across the Sea
Having weakened our navy, collected our debt, and induced us to break off our alliance with Japan, the Americans became at once gushing in their profession of friendship with England, and all the old claptrap about "hands across the sea" and the Anglo-Saxon race was duly washed backwards and forwards across the Atlantic.

If the Americans had come in earlier, say, in 1916, the war would certainly have been shortened by probably two years. As they did not decide to come in until 1917, I am inclined to think they had better at least have repudiated the action of their president at Paris at the earliest moment. Had they done so, we should never have gone in building a house upon the sands, at the instance of the Cecilis, and other idealogues, as Napoleon used to call amiable theorists.

Had we been told that the Americans were not going to assist in an armed guarantee to France, we should certainly have drafted portions of the Treaty of Versailles in such a manner as to give greater security to France, and so have avoided the occupation of the Ruhr, an example which has undoubtedly led to Mussolini's occupation of Corfu.

It is very difficult to deal with a people like the Americans, who rapturously applaud idealism in other people, and in countries thousands of miles away, but who, in their own practice and domestic politics, are the sternest of realists, not to say cynics. Unfortunately, it is always the generous and middle-headed British taxpayer who has to foot the bill.

IN London, England, recently a lady kissed a horse on the public street. A policeman who was standing by, was so jealous that he arrested the lady for disorderly conduct. The magistrate before whom the case was tried said the lady ought to be the best judge herself and dismissed her. All of which leads to the conclusion that policemen are just about like other people.

TRAIN SLOWS UP FOR COW

Gentle Mooey Pursued by Iron Horse on Canadian National Near Here

An amusing story of how a cow held up one of the Canadian National westbound passenger trains near Amsbury up the line from here is brought to the city by arrivals from the interior.

It happened that the train had just passed Amsbury station and was speeding westward when the cow loomed up on the tracks. On one side was a sheer drop to the Skeena River; on the other, a steep rock cut. In order to avoid hurling the gentle mooey into the river by striking it and the possibility of a derailment, there was nothing to do but slow up.

BRITISH MONEY FOR PROVINCE

Hon. John Hart Says Investors Look to This Country for Opportunities

VICTORIA, Oct. 4.—More confident than ever of the high estimate placed on British Columbia securities by the world's money masters, Hon. John Hart, provincial minister of finance, returned to Victoria after a trip to more than two months to the British Isles and continental Europe.

When Mr. Hart left here in July what he sought primarily was a long vacation and an opportunity to revisit the scenes of his youth in Ireland and the war devastated areas of Northern France. However, he managed to put in considerable time interviewing financial experts, government officials and businessmen regarding various phases of the investment and general economic situation in their relation to British Columbia.

Great Britain, while in a category of its own financially, when considered with other European countries, has a mass of complicated financial problems to solve and until some of these have been more thoroughly dealt with Canada cannot expect a tremendous inflow of British capital, the minister found.

Nevertheless, he found a genuine interest in British Columbia and in other sections of western Canada being displayed by Old Country financial interests when their funds are released this Province should receive preferred position.

The indications are that British money will soon be invested extensively in hydro-electric and pulp enterprises in this Province, especially if an embargo on the exportation of pulpwood from Canada is adopted. The phenomenal showing of the Premier and other mines has given an impetus to British investment in British Columbia mining properties, too.

Settlers Coming Mr. Hart commended the efforts of F. C. Wade, K.C., agent-

A worth-while Reputation

The head of one of this country's great manufacturing institutions says:

"The Man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive—to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy."

Patronize the manufacturer or merchant who has a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the good-will of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed

Every time he advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or the wares he has for sale must make good. His service must be as advertised.

That is why it pays to read advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods.

Yes, it is worth your while to Read The Advertisements

Money talks—and it often says a lot of foolish things. On the other hand, money can speak with the greatest of common sense. What kind of conversation does your purse contribute to the joy of the family? Have you educated it to gossip intelligently with the merchants who sell you the products your daily life demands? Give your income a college course in shopping for the household or for your personal needs. Education in the art of buying is found in the advertising columns of your home newspaper. Study the advertisements. They will keep you informed of new labor-saving devices to lighten your daily work—the newest in books and music—the styles for the coming season—of suggestions for the table—of furnishings for your home. In the advertisements you can also learn where these things may be procured and what they cost. At this season of the year you spend more time indoors. Use some of this time for your own profit.

general for British Columbia at London, for the work he is doing in focusing the attention of influential Britishers on the opportunities in this province. As a result of this campaign and also as a natural sequel to present conditions in Great Britain he expects that before long British Columbia will receive a large number of settlers from the Old Country—people of farming experience and inclination and who will be a real asset in developing the agricultural resources of the Province.

DR. GRANT ADDRESSES LOCAL ROTARY CLUB

Tells of Visit to Olympia Where He Found People Just Like Canadians

At the Rotary Club luncheon this afternoon President Hugh Grant gave a report from the district conference which he attended recently at Olympia.

Dr. Grant said it was his first visit to the United States and he was impressed with the fact that the people he met there were much like ourselves. They were just about as friendly as the people here, just as hospitable and in every way just as fine people.

It was reported there that nine service clubs of somewhat similar type to the Rotary Club were in existence, the latter being the original. There was no jealousy of another or rivalry except insofar as they could be of service to the community.

The Canadian delegation was a representative group and they were looked up to just as much as that of the American delegates.

One of the great features emphasized by the Olympia conference was that of regular attendance. It was felt that any member who could not attend the meetings should drop out as he was filling a position which might better be filled by another. Attendance was the price of Rotary and was compulsory.

A good many suggestions were made which were of interest to members of the club only.

A sudden demand for wheat in Scandinavian markets has caused increased activity in the movement of grain through Vancouver. Four boats left with bulk wheat for ports of Norway and Sweden, marking the first direct grain shipments from the Canadian Pacific coast to Scandinavia.

The rapid increase in the export butter trade of Saskatchewan during the past year or two has been the outstanding feature of the provincial dairy industry. Recently the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries made a shipment of 25,000 lbs. of butter to China.

Breaking all 1923 passenger traffic records, the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Metagama," westbound from Glasgow via Belfast, docked recently at Quebec, and Montreal the same evening, with a record number of 382 cabin and 1,078 third-class passengers.

"There are hundreds of first class farm workers in Scotland anxious to come to Canada, and the finest material Canada could wish for, but their wages are sufficient to barely support them and they are unable to accumulate funds for the passage." This is the opinion of Thomas Scotland, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Colonization and Development office in Glasgow, who recently arrived in Canada with a party of Scotch immigrants bound for the western provinces.

To J. K. L. Ross, director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, goes the honor of catching the world's record fish with rod and reel. At St. Ann's Bay, N.S., he landed a tuna weighing 712 pounds; length, 9 feet 2 inches; girth, 6 feet. Commander Ross used a Vom Hofe tuna rod and reel, No. 39 thread line, with mackerel for bait. His catch took three and a quarter hours to land.

The world's wheat crop this year is estimated at 3,318,000,000 bushels, as compared with 3,104,000,000 bushels last year, an increase of 214,000,000 bushels, according to figures carefully compiled by the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome. The estimated shipments from supply countries of the world for this year is 690,000,000 bushels, of which Canada is expected to supply 290,000,000 bushels, or about one-third.

Canadian trade with Australia is on the increase, according to returns made public by the Bureau of Statistics. PORT SIMPSON INDIAN BOY DROWNED MONDAY

Charles McKay was Bathing in Sea and Outgoing Tide Took Him Out

The body of Charles McKay, an Indian boy, who was drowned at Port Simpson on Monday, was recovered yesterday. From reports to hand it appears that the deceased, along with two other boys, was bathing in the sea when he got into difficulties. The tide, which was receding at the time, took him out and he was soon overcome. His companions, after witnessing the affair made for their homes but help appeared on the scene too late to be of any avail.

The prize winners at bridge were Mrs. Olof Hanson and John McRae.
