ANTI-BRITISH DEMONSTRATION NEW YORK

HALIBUT SCHOONER SANK AFTER STRIKING OBSTACLE SOUTH OF THIS PORT

Demonstration of Women Against Lloyd George was Broken up by the Police in New York; Banners Torn

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—That unhappiness and difficulties resulting from the war have been caused by the improper or ineffective operation of the Treaty of Versailles, David Lloyd George, former Premier of Great Britain declared today on his arrival aboard the Mauretania en route to Canada.

Police reserves broke up a parade of women carrying banners denouncing Great Britain outside the city hall where a crowd of several thousand persons had gathered to greet the former British premier on his first visit to America. Some banners had "Don't let England pull wool over our eyes," and "British bootleggers flooding America with British booze."

The police grabbed the banners and tore them into shreds.

During the melee automobiles paraded outskirts of the crowd circulating anti-Lloyd George statements. A woman struck a police sergeant over the head with a banner she was carrying and was taken into custody. The women said they were members of the American Association for the recognition of the Irish republic. One of the banners read "Lloyd George's Black and Tans are here," and "Lloyd George's hands are red with the blood of women and children."

Fifty police reserves were called out.

FAIRBANKS IS BUSY

Work on Railway Terminals Makes Payroll; Depot Is Completed

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Oct. 5.—Miners and prospectors engaged in work throughout the district report that the year's output so far has exceeded all expectations. The Caribou Creek property has been worked this year for the first time in many years, more than $125,000 being expended before actual work on the property is started.

The first cleanup from the mine Airship this year proved greater than was expected, the owners of the property reported.

This year's output in gold is more than double that of last year, the mining companies declare in a statement. The first payroll in the history of Fairbanks came with the finishing of the railroad. The new depot has been completed and work has been started on terminals valued at $500,000.

EXPRESS COMPANIES MAKE AN APPEAL TO RAISE PRESENT RATES

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—In an appeal of the railway express companies before the railway commission for the permission to increase the express rates, G. A. Hayes testified that the Canadian National collected $13,058,000 in the express business in 1922, while the cost of doing this amounted to $16,536,00.

The C.P.R. showed a net loss on the Dominion Express system for 1922 of $40,970.

Judgment was reserved until hearings are taken elsewhere in Canada at a later date.

THREW MATCH INTO SEA; STARTED FIRE

Serious Conflagration Narrowly
Averted on Waterfront
Yesterday Afternoon

What might have been a serious fire causing much damage to property was narrowly averted on the waterfront yesterday afternoon.

Gasoline had been spilled on the surface of the water from pumping the snow at the Prince Rupert Boat House. A passer-by coming along threw a match into the water after lighting his pipe and the combustible liquid still floating immediately ignited. The flames ran up on to the snow occasioning a great deal of smoke and coming perilously close to large quantities of distillate and benzol. Fortunately the flames were overcome through the use of an extinguisher in the hands of Capt. Swanson before there was any serious results.

The man who threw the match is now wondering what he will do with his match ends since the sea is found to be unsafe.

ARSENIC NOT IN QUANTITY

Dr. Hanson Says May be Mined Profitably with Other Minerals

Arsenic is not to be found in sufficient quantity in the Hazelton district to warrant mining for it exclusively according to Dr. George Hanson of the federal geological survey who has just completed an examination of deposits of that metal in the interior. It may be mined profitably, however, with other ores in such properties as the Duthie Mine at Smithers.

Dr. Hanson states that several prospectors are going into the Kitsumkalum Valley in search of gold properties where operations may be carried on profitably on a small scale. These men are coming from outside the district, however. The people nearby do not seem to be much interested in it. Dr. Hanson recently said there were good opportunities for this type of mining there.

Dr. Hanson sailed last night for Vancouver and will spend the winter in Ottawa. H. G. Gunning, B.Sc., one of Dr. Hanson's assistants in the district this year, is at present at Terrace and will soon be going to Stewart to join the staff of the Premier Gold Mining Co. R. H. B. Jones, his other assistant, has gone to Wisconsin to continue his studies.

COLUMBUS, Georgia, Oct. 5.—A titanic fight between Mike McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world and W. L. Stribling, an eighteen year old high school boy was declared a draw three hours after the fight concluded yesterday.

At the close of the bout Johnny Erle, who judged the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, had agreed with the newspapermen that McTigue showed less class than Stribling and gave the decision to the youngster. Last night he revised his decision and said threats of an angry mob intimidated him into giving the decision to Stribling.

DAILY EDITION

Friday, October 5, 1923.

Financial Position Of Canada Today.

Canada's financial condition compares favorably with other countries, in spite of efforts being made to convey the impression that it does not.

In 1914 Canada's taxation per capita was $21.21; in 1922 it was $42.63—an increase of 100.99%. Our national debt per capita was $43.67 in 1914; in 1922 it was $270.12—an increase of 516.25 per cent.

In Australia the per capita expenditures was $27.39 in 1914; in 1922 it was $57.32—an increase of 163.90 per cent. The per capita debt of Australia in 1914 was $18.96; in 1922 it was $359.60—an increase of 1801 per cent.

In New Zealand, the per capita expenditure in 1914 was $55.32; in 1922 it was $11.06—an increase of 100.76 per cent or practically the same as Canada's increase. The debt per capita in New Zealand was $409.45 in 1914; in 1922 it was $811.90—an increase of 98.29 per cent.

In South Africa the per capita taxation of the White population was $58.07 in 1914; in 1922 it had grown to $96.03—an increase of 65.36 per cent. The per capita debt of South Africa (White population) was $124.35 in 1914; in 1922 it was $533.05—an increase of only 20.15 per cent.

As compared with the sister Dominions of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, our Federal taxation and our per capita debt are away below theirs while our national wealth per capita, the value of our resources, and our per capita production of new wealth are all greatly in excess of theirs. We have doubled our per capita national expenditures since 1914. Australia has increased hers by 164 per cent. Our national debt per capita has increased since 1914 by 516 per cent. Australia has increased hers by 1802 per cent.

The per capita national debt of Australia is $89.48 greater than Canada's. The per capita national debt of New Zealand is $541.70 greater than Canada's. The national debt of South Africa (White population) is $262.96 greater than Canada's.

Comparison With Mother Country.

The comparison with the Mother Country whose staggering burden during the war was, of course, immeasurably greater than ours, is still more striking. The revenues or in other words, the taxation of the United Kingdom in 1914 averaged $17.06 per capita. For the last fiscal year, converting sterling at par, the taxation was approximately $100 per head of population, estimating the total population at 44,000,000. The increase in per capita taxation from 1914 is approximately 577 per cent as compared with Canada's increase of only 100 per cent.

In regard to the net debt per capita, Great Britain at the beginning of the war, had a per capita debt of $74.83. It is now approximately $850 per capita; an increase of over one thousand per cent as compared with Canada's increase of 516 per cent.

United States Figures Large.

Turning to the United States, the comparison with Canada also affords considerable consolation to the Canadian taxpayer. In 1914 the United States was spending on its Federal administration $7.42 per capita. In 1920 this had mounted to $63 per capita as compared with Canada's $42.52 per capita. In 1921 the United States reduced its per capita taxation to $52.05 and last year to $37.35 per capita as compared with Canada's $42.63 per capita last year. The increase in the public debt of the United States was $10.41 per capita in 1914 to $206.77 per capita in 1922, an increase of no less than 1886 per cent as compared with Canada's increase of 516 per cent. The percentage increase in per capita taxation was 403 per cent, from 1914 to 1922 as compared with Canada's increase of 100 per cent.

The satisfactory feature of the American budget for the last three years is that both the per capita debt and the per capita taxation are being steadily reduced and the comparison with Canada's efforts during the first two of these years serves to bring more forcibly into relief the fact that we did not seriously start upon our own attempt to secure an equilibrium between revenues and expenditures until quite recently.

GENERAL MEETS LABOR PEOPLE

Asks For Support and Will Form Organization Here If Enough Join

NIXON THINKS WILL WIN

Organizer Has Expenses Paid But Discards Idea of Campaign Funds

After listening to addresses by General A. D. McRae, leader of the Provincial Party, and J. Nixon, his Labor lieutenant, and asking questions of them, a resolution was passed at a meeting of local Labor men in the Carpenters' Hall last night that a meeting of the workers be called within ten days' time to debate and decide whether or not Labor of this city should take independent action or affiliate itself with the Provincial Party for the next provincial election campaign. This resolution was passed on motion of George B. Casey, seconded by Paddy Sullivan. T. Ross Mackay presided over the meeting.

The meeting opened about 9 o'clock after the arrival of General McRae and Mr. Nixon from Anyox on the steamer Prince George.

Mr. Nixon, who was the first speaker, explained how he was endeavoring to get Labor men interested in the Provincial Party. At first it had been intended that the new party should provide a strong opposition in the legislature. The support it was getting, however, indicated that it would be the government rather than the opposition after the next election. It should comprise not any single class but it should represent the combined efforts of all to obtain better government than had been given by the two old parties. A convention was being called for December 4 in Vancouver. Eight delegates would be allowed from each district and there would be no proxies allowed.

Provincial Effort

General McRae, in opening his address, expressed pleasure at the opportunity given him to meet local labor men. He reviewed the events leading up to the formation of the Provincial Party. It was purely a provincial effort and was not intended to enter into federal affairs.

The General explained that he had always been a Conservative but, like many others, he had been disappointed when that party did not clean house. The last Conservative convention had failed both in the matter of selecting a leader and forming a constructive policy. The Liberal convention had failed in the same manner. A large percentage of the followers of both parties were discouraged with the prospects. The Farmers had taken the initiative with a view to remedying the situation when they had called the convention at Vernon. Sixty delegates were present representing various classes in the province and he (McRae) had attended at the request of 50 Vancouver businessmen. The convention had decided that the old parties were not satisfactory. They were but doing the same job on the same ship at different shifts joining together in cases of emergency. The Independents had little opportunity of doing effective work. It had been decided to form a new party. A committee on organization had been chosen consisting of seven farmers and seven business and labor men with himself as chairman.

Organization Not Easy
"I am no politician and do not like this job," declared General McRae. "I had lived in ease for several years and anybody who thinks this work of organization is easy has made a mistake. I only responded because I felt that it was a public duty which I could not honorably avoid. Any man who fully appreciates the situation will realize that it is not a privilege but an obligation to take up the reins of government at this time. I am not like Premier Oliver who says he likes the job, that it is the best job he ever had and that he does not want to lose it. Up to this time 97 per cent of the people of the province have been merely innocent onlookers of the government."

General McRae declared that the pledged membership of the Provincial Party was greater today than that of either of the old parties. At the convention in December the responsibility would be handed over to the 300 or 310 delegates. It would be up to them to select the best man to lead the party. He would be entitled to the active support and sympathy of all the followers of the party. Labor would be afforded the opportunity of framing constructive planks of the party's platform. The idea would be to give good government for all the people and not for any particular class and work in the sentiment of better things for British Columbia. An enlightened electorate, he believed, was the best means towards effective government. The Provincial party had already incurred the enmity of both Liberals and Conservatives because it had brought out the facts with respect to past governments.

Taking Over P.G.E.
Referring to the "Great Betrayal" or the taking over of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway by the government, General McRae said that things had come to even a worse pass than he had thought if Premier Oliver would be able to get by with the excuse that the "Great Betrayal" was merely the conception of a disengaged mind, as he had described a start towards the objective of getting a Labor government in it in Prince Rupert.

"We have no axe to grind in the province," Mr. Nixon explained, "but are merely working for the ed that he had given up labor good of the province as a whole," union offices to work for this declared the General. "I have movement. He was giving his travelled for nine months now, time but his expenses were paid.

How to have beautiful hair

For really beautiful and attractive hair, just follow this simple method:

Dissolve a tablespoonful of Lux into a gallon of very hot water. Whisk into a foamy lather. Cool down with cold water, then work the lather through the hair thoroughly, rubbing the scalp briskly with the tips of the fingers. Rinse with fresh water, gradually cooling it. Dry by gentle rubbing—in the sun, if possible—but not with strong heat.

Everybody admires her beautiful hair—

it is so richly luxuriant, soft and silky, and always so delightfully fresh-looking.

And when her friends openly admire it and beg her for the secret of its lustrous beauty, she always smiles and answers, "Really it's so simple. I just shampoo it frequently with Lux."

Try a Lux shampoo the next time and you will be both surprised and delighted with the result. The creamy, soothing Lux lather will leave the scalp fresh and healthy, and will bring out the natural wave and colour in your hair, making it soft, silky and bright-looking.

DISCOURAGE JOY RIDING

Woman Magistrate Says Girls Should be Taught Self-Respect

TELLS OF DRUG TRAFFIC

Judge Murphy Says Eighty Per Cent of Fallen Girls Were Domestic

VICTORIA, Oct. 4.—"Teach your girls not to be grafters. Don't encourage your daughters to look for too many free tickets, joy rides and dances. They always have to pay for them at some time or another. When your daughter stops out too late, find out where she is, or you may be too late."

This warning to mothers was enunciated by Magistrate Emily Murphy ("Janey Canuck"), of Edmonton, in the course of an address before the Women's Canadian Club in which she dealt with women's courts and the drug traffic. Few women in the world are more qualified to speak on these problems than Mrs. Murphy. As the first woman to be appointed a magistrate in the British Empire, her experience with women and girl delinquents has been a long one. Her intimate acquaintance with the evils of the drug traffic has been revealed in the expose of its horrors which she wrote under the title of "The Black Candle."

Should Attend Courts

Declaring that any woman who had reared a family had been a police magistrate all her life, Mrs. Murphy observed that the connection between the home and the court was very close in that both were places of education and both places of correction.

"Women should attend courts wherever possible; the friends of criminals always attend; the friends of law and order seldom do. It is a sign of interest in public welfare and not necessarily morbidity to attend the courts," commented the speaker.

One-third of the cost of government had to do with the courts, continued Judge Murphy, who said that seventy per cent of the discovered crime went unpunished through non-evidence or appeal.

Her statement that ninety-three per cent of all crimes by boys is theft was startling. She urged the women's organizations to study crime and crime prevention more closely.

"The police court should be looked on as a casualty clearing station where diseases or crime may be diagnosed and remedies applied. It should not be looked upon as a place where so much punishment is meted out for so much crime."

Wide Jurisdiction

Province-wide jurisdiction for women magistrates was advocated by Mrs. Murphy. She holds the magistracy in Edmonton but with jurisdiction throughout Alberta, because a case frequently has its origin in one part and its sequel at a distant place.

The operation of the courts in Edmonton was described by Mrs. Murphy. One of the outstanding features of the woman's court is its follow-up work. Any girl leaving jail is encouraged to retain her self-respect and is assisted to a position instead of being made to feel the hopelessness of her future. Many of them were the victims of ignorance, she said.

Mrs. Murphy appealed to the mothers to see that their daughters dressed modestly. "Teach your girls not to be grafters. Don't encourage your daughters to look for too many free theatre tickets, joy rides and dances.

Don't be apathetic. When your daughter stays out too late, find out where she is or you will be too late," pleaded Mrs. Murphy. "Instead of throwing stones at the white slavers, some of us ought to say, 'God be merciful to me a sinner,'" was Mrs. Murphy's trenchant observation, which followed the statement that eighty per cent of fallen girls were in domestic service, not in factories and stores, as often believed.

Women in Senate

That women should have a place in the Senate was Mrs. Murphy's assertion. She recited the many abortive efforts made by women to have certain legislation designed for the protection of girls pass the Senate.

Turning to the drug traffic, the speaker stated that the cure was primarily international. "You might as well try to keep back the ocean with a broom as to try and pass laws to keep back the ocean of narcotics which is sweeping into this country," she declared. "The only way to stop it is to stop all production except for medicinal and scientific purposes."

Child Addicts

Motives of self-preservation, not merely altruism, call for a strong determination on the part of Canadians to fight the narcotic evil, continued Mrs. Murphy, quoting figures to show the ravages of the traffic in the United States. She spoke of a case coming within her purview of a girl of fifteen who had been taking drugs since the age of thirteen, and cited other cases of addicts to show the horror of the situation.

Anticipating the suggestion that her statements were an exaggeration, Mrs. Murphy pointed out that the drug traffic was a secret one, as drug addiction was a secret vice, and there were no narcotic police squads.

Drug Production

Touching upon the production of drugs, the speaker explained the nature of the opium monopoly enjoyed by the Indian government.

There was no narcotic drugs in India; and while three tons per annum would supply the world's legitimate need of opium there had been produced in India alone in 1921 no less than 1,273 tons of the drug. In the United States the government had stopped all import of opium until it should be ascertained what amount was required for medicinal and scientific purposes.

"Everybody is responsible in some measure for the existence of the traffic," concluded Judge Murphy. "There is only one thing worse than actual participation in the unholly profits of this traffic, and that is a guilty acquiescence in it."

The police court should be looked on as a casualty clearing station where diseases or crime may be diagnosed and remedies applied. It should not be looked upon as a place where so much punishment is meted out for so much crime."

BRITISH MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT TELLS OF GERMAN CONDITIONS

Says Whole Edifice Rocking and Likely to Crash; People are Afraid

Josiah Wedgwood, M.P., in the course of a letter to the "Manchester Guardian," writes:

No one can pass through Germany today without seeing that the whole edifice is rocking. Presently it will crash, the most awful example of how civilizations end. The coming of the end is being watched with terror by 60,000,000 of passive, helpless people, whose whole existence depends on civilization. The nearer the edge they get the less they like the look of the abyss, the more they cling to what is left of the State. It has been said that the French action in the Ruhr and the helplessness of the German government are driving the voters into the extreme parties—Communist or Right. It may be so; but neither Communist nor Right wants to take any action, wants to replace Stresemann, wants to have any responsibility. They, too, are horribly afraid.

No Parties

It should be understood that there are in truth no parties in Germany today. Stresemann's government is united enough—from Independent Socialist to the Industrialists of the Volkspartei—they are all for saving the country, if they only knew how. On either flank are, no doubt, men driven mad by want or injustice, who are screaming out imprecations against Jews or capitalists. But the danger is too deadly to allow of back-chat amongst themselves. Ludendorff looking for a meal knows that Breitelschmidt searching for a sausage is more akin to him than all those accused foreigners at the Adlon and the Bristol.

Yet, while there are no political parties, there are growing ever more distinct and diverse in interest two economic classes, bound together only by loyalty to their common German nationality. The peasants who own their dread winter weather for the torture it brings from sore faces, chapped hands, frostbite and cold-sores.

With the face, hands and arms protected by Zam-Buk, frost and cold winds simply cannot redder, rougher and chafe your skin. Wash with Zam-Buk Medicinal Soap and apply the Zam-Buk balm after drying.

There is nothing like this Zam-Buk treatment for keeping the skin smooth, strong and flexible. Composed exclusively of rich herbal essences, Zam-Buk soothes and purifies the tissues and prevents all roughness and soreness.

Where the skin has already become chapped, blistered and sore, Zam-Buk, because of its great antiseptic and healing power is doubly valuable. It takes away the smearing irritation almost immediately, kills dangerous disease germs and quickly heals with new healthy skin.

Zam-Buk is the best remedy obtainable for chapped, cracked hands, cold-sores, frostbites, chilblains, winter eczema, burns, scalds, and all wounds and injuries. 50c. box, all chemists.

Sport Chat

Overshadowing even the excellent team play, the sterling work of the pitching staff and the uncanny field defence of the New York Yankees, American League pennant winners this season, were the performances of Babe Ruth, the year's star of stars in the major leagues. Ruth came back to the game this year with but one idea—to give his best. While he has not been the home hitter he was in 1921 with the all-time record total of 59, his all-round play has surpassed anything he has ever shown before. His batting record—close around the 400 mark this season—is filled with singles, doubles and triples—blows that came when men were on bases and runs were needed. He has been such a terror at bat that the number of intentional bases on balls given him by opposing pitchers has set a new record. Around Ruth—the new Ruth—the Yankee attack has been clattered throughout the season. Taking their cue from him, the other members of the team settled into perfect combination with the result that the club won the pennant with one of the greatest winning margins on record.

The record for long distance swimming is claimed by a Roman swimmer, Armando Sanfilippo, one of the water fans of the Tiber River. Sanfilippo swam a distance of 100 kilometers recently and contends that such afeat constitutes a record. The distance is roughly 60 miles and was swum on the Tiber from Rome to the sea. The time was 15 hours. His accomplishment seems phenomenal but it should be remembered that the Tiber is a swift running river, the current moving at the rate of two or three miles an hour.

Three Things Necessary

I suppose it might be possible to save civilization still. For that, the German Budget must be made to balance. For that, three things at least are necessary. The colossal expense of paying wages in the Ruhr to 1,500,000 workers for doing nothing must be stopped. The payment of reparations must be postponed and the amount fixed. A dictatorship must be established over German finances, for there is no German statesman who would dare to impose the enormous taxes or to reduce the enormous establishments which will be necessary.

Now, let it be understood that the German government is prepared, even anxious, to end the "passive resistance" on the Ruhr. It is prepared to promise to pay any reparations, and to leave the amount possible and dates of payment to any tribunal. It is prepared to accept financial control, which means the abdication of self-government. They would hope for a loan, as in the case of Austria, but the Finance Controller would settle that. They think it impossible to work in industries and railways with the Ruhr cut off from Germany; but again, the Finance Controller will have to see to that. All they ask is to be allowed to work—as helots. One other thing, perhaps, they ask: "Save us from occupation by French troops—at least, from more occupation by French troops."

Oriental Question

Paddy Sullivan referred to provincial government expenses in the Old Country and the Oriental question. Mr. Nixon agreed that too much money was being spent by the government seeking immigration that was not required. There were too many trips to London at the government expense. He felt that Oriental question should be stopped. The present government had taken no action.

Mr. Casey then submitted his motion that a meeting of Labor be called to go into the question of affiliation. This was carried and the meeting adjourned. Mr. Nixon declaring that a step had been taken in the right direction. T. Ross Mackay was delegated to call the meeting.

Among the passengers sailing last night by the steamer Prince George for the south were: Geo. P. Hale, Dr. George Hanson, Mr. Harris, U. Fugiwawa, Miss H. Thorsen, J. W. Graier, Mr. Mardale, Mrs. J.
