Ismet Pasha Signs Capitulations and Peace in East Seems Assured French Point out Danger of Delay

PARIS, Feb. 6. — A despatch from Lausanne says Ismet Pasha has altered his mind and signed the capitulations, thus removing the last obstacle to conclusion of the Near East treaty. The crisis is past unless some hitch not disclosed exists. M. Bompard, the French delegate, interviewed Ismet yesterday and told him the allies had their plans fully laid in case treaty was not signed. Ismet appeared to change his mind later despatches says the capitulations have been signed. SPEAKS HIGHLY OF MEMBER FOR DISTRICT

Terrace News Has Appreciative Mention of Hon. T. D. Pattullo

The Terrace News and Omicron Herald, edited by G. H. Sawie, has this week an appreciative editorial on the work of Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands and member for this district. It says: Hon. T. D. Pattullo, member for Skeena, had a very pleasant time with many of his constituents in the Terrace district over the last week-end. Discussions were quite frank on both sides, and the member promised to do what he could in some respects, but in other cases he told petitioners that he would not sanction their requests. There was no beating about the bush. The member will go after what he said he would and there is every reason to believe that he will get it. In the attitude he took on this occasion, as well as on every other occasion that he has visited this district, Mr. Pattullo proved himself the kind of member that his constituents may place confidence in. This is also the reputation he has when dealing with all other people — you know where to find him once he has spoken. As a result of the visit many of the rumors afloat of late have been quieted.

GRAHAM DEALS WITH RAILWAY

Gains Obstacles Still in Way of Amalgamation: Longest Line in World

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. — Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, made a big speech in the House of Commons yesterday in which he said amalgamation would be completed in a few weeks. This would give Canada the longest railway in the world.

The only obstacles to amalgamation, Mr. Graham said, were the existence of a mortgage held in Toronto which would be taken up and a certain number of bonds held by the British Columbia government, neither would be taken over, he believed. He thought for business reasons Montreal was the proper place for headquarters of the system.

INDEMNITY AN INSULT

Offer of $2.10 Result of Little Girl's Death is Made to Germans by French Government

BERLIN, Feb. 6. — An offer of 100,000 marks indemnity made by the French government to the parents of the little girl accidentally killed when a French corporal's rifle exploded at a railway station was refused. In dollars and cents the offer would amount to $2.10. Provincial President Greutznier refused the offer and told General De Gaulle that it was an unheard of affront. He advised the parents to sue the French through the German courts for indemnity.

STERLING EXCHANGE STEADILY DROPPING

Discount on British Money is Not Very Great Now and Improvement Likely

There has been a steady diminution of the discount on British money coming into Canada and it is freely predicted in brokerage circles that it will soon reach par. When conditions are normal the British pound is nominally worth 81.86 2-3 but the person receiving money from the Old Country would get anything from 81.83 to 81.85, according to the rate in force at the particular time. Now the exchange rate is 81.70 1/2, a higher rate than has been in force for several years. Other rates quoted today are: United States 1.4. Hong Kong, 52.70.

IMPROVEMENT IN DEMAND FOR MEN

Tie Making and Logging Activities Are Absorbing Good Many of Unemployed in District

The demand for men is steadily improving, according to J. M. Campbell of the provincial government labor bureau. Tie making and logging activities up the line and on the Queen Charlotte Island are absorbing a good many of those seeking jobs and there are only about 60 on the list awaiting employment. One or two good orders will clean this out with the possible exception of a few married men who do not care to leave the city.

The election in one constituency was deferred. There has been a net gain for the Conservatives of 16 seats, none of the former Conservative seats having gone Liberal on this occasion. Montreal was the centre of defection. There thirteen out of fifteen seats on the Island went Conservative. Premier Taschereau and opposition leader Sauve were both returned.

Radio Mind Messages are Sent from Terrace to Prince Rupert Two Successful, One a Failure

While at Terrace recently Archbishop Du Vernel exchanged four radio-mind messages, two each way, with his daughter in Prince Rupert ninety-five miles away. Two of these messages were most successful, one fair, and one a failure. The one that was fair was shortened by the conscious mind of the receiver thinking it would be short. The one that was a failure was caused by pre-occupation. At times, the Archbishop says, it is difficult to prevent cross currents of thought.

The result of these further experiments in radio-mind is to confirm the bishop's previous statement that distance makes no difference. The best of the messages could not have come in more clearly or more strongly had the two persons been only two feet apart, and what caused the failure in the other case would have caused it equally well had the two been standing side by side. At Terrace the bishop stated to a large public gathering that he would not waste five minutes on these experiments if he did not believe that he was giving to the world a scientific demonstration of a profound psychological truth.

Line of Steamships from Prince Rupert Intended Says Hon. G. P. Graham

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. — In his big speech in the House of Commons yesterday Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, said he believed the Grand Trunk Pacific would be a paying proposition if properly developed. It was never intended, he said, that the road should run from the Atlantic to the Pacific and end there but it was planned to have it connect at Prince Rupert with a line of steamships operating to the Orient. The minister of railways said he believed this would eventually be worked out.

INVESTIGATION PLAN REJECTED

City Council Last Night Declined to Take Part in Booth School Inquiry

The city council last night formally declined to accept the school board's invitation to appoint a member to a commission to investigate the Booth School affair. A resolution to this effect, moved by Ald. Stephens and seconded by Ald. Perry was passed. Ald. MacDonald and Ald. MacKenzie voting against it and Mayor Newton also disapproving. The matter came up with the reading of a letter from the secretary of the school board inviting the council to appoint a member to such an investigating committee. Mayor Newton, at some length, explained the purpose of the communication and the motives that had actuated the school board in asking for such an investigation. The object, he explained, was for the commission to make a thorough investigation later submitting a full report to the citizens who would then decide if the matter was to be proceeded with further. His Worship commended the school board for submitting such a proposal and stated his opinion that, in putting the matter up to the council, the board had done the wisest and most straightforward thing it could have done. He suggested that, if the council saw fit, he would be willing to represent the council on such a tribunal as was suggested. Up to School Board Ald. Stephens felt that it was entirely a matter for the school board to deal with and the council should not commit itself to such a step as had been suggested. Ald. MacDonald said that, while he was not in favor of the council being rushed into a matter with which it was not really concerned, he would at least like to see the proposition of an investigation supported. He thought it was the council's duty to do so as a public body. After the resolution refusing to take part in the investigation in the manner suggested had been passed, Mayor Newton notified the council that it would still be his intention to proceed with just such an investigation as had been suggested if the school board did not go through with the matter itself.

JAPANESE GET EQUAL RIGHTS

No Discrimination Against Them in Matter of Naturalization, Says Judge Cayley

VANCOUVER, Feb. 6. — Japanese applying for citizenship will not be discriminated against and their applications will receive the same consideration accorded those of other nationalities, according to Judge Cayley. Responsibility for this course rests on the secretary of state, he said. The policy pursued by the Canadian government cannot be supervised by a naturalization judge, the Ottawa minister stated in a letter to Judge Cayley. It is a matter of policy for which the government is responsible.

The company in return promised to consider plans for establishing an amusement centre here. The ten year period of free water and exemption from taxation for the hotel has just expired. The city ten years ago gave the railway company the site for the hotel and filled it in for them. The site was formerly a badly smelling tide flat.

Turks Bluffed

Right To End.

After much bluffing the Turks have signed the terms of capitulation and it seems likely that peace will follow. The preparations for immediate action in case of refusal seemed to be the strongest argument in favor of peace.

The lesson of the Turkish escapade in which the peace of both Europe and Asia was threatened and in which Canada seemed likely to be involved, is that it is useless to look for a millennium just yet, for strength of arms still counts and the weak nations are likely to be forced to the wall. Had Turkey not been opposed by the strength of Great Britain, it is difficult to say where the trouble would have ended. It is all very well to say there would be no wars if there were no great armies and navies and no armaments. It would also be right to say there would be no wars if the people were all guided by correct ideals. If we are attacked by a stronger power, it does not help much to throw up our hands and plead for mercy. We must show that we are still a virile people.

Militarism Not To Be Tolerated.

Militarism is something that we all dislike. It cannot be tolerated as a system which might possibly interfere with the rights of the people. At the same time every nation should be ready to defend itself. A standing army is always a danger in any country. It is demoralizing to the members of the army and has a bad effect on the country. Military training for the people is another thing. An efficient militia system under which the young people are trained sufficiently to enable them to undertake military duties, if it should be necessary, in defense of their country, seems to be the right thing. Here we are on the borders of Asia. The time may come when an enemy may invade our shores. We, as a people, are insisting on discriminatory action against the Oriental. It is natural that the time may come when the Oriental may resent this and there may be conflict. To sit back and trust to moral suasion at such a time would be useless. It would not keep the hordes of Asia from over-running our coasts as has been the case in other countries. It did not keep Japan from entering Korea and subjugating the people so that even today they are governed as a subject race from Tokyo.

We all believe in peace and we abhor war. We all would like to be able to sit back and say: "From this time on we shall take no more part in world conflicts." The fact remains that as long as there are military nations left we have to be able to defend ourselves against them. We cannot afford to place ourselves at the mercy of the Turks or any other similar nation. While avoiding militarism, we must not forget that our children may have to defend themselves and they cannot do this unless they are a strong and resourceful generation, and are taught to be not afraid.

Tendency Toward Laissez Faire.

The tendency of the day is toward a policy of non-resistance. That seems to have been the policy of the Armenians. That has been the policy of China, to a large extent and in neither case has the result proved satisfactory. It is not the policy of Bolshevik Russia, for the people there realize more than ever that the weak are pushed to the wall and the "survival of the fittest" is still part of the great order of things in this world. Life is a struggle from the cradle to the grave. In our bodies the beneficent and malignant microbes are battling for supremacy. In business, professional and industrial life the struggle is going on all the time. Sometimes it is a battle of wits and sometimes physical ability counts. So between countries there is going to be keen rivalry resulting sometimes in one country breaking beyond the bounds of international decency, failing to observe the rules of the game and the climax is war. In the struggle the weak are ground between the upper and the nether millstone.

We, as a people, cannot afford to drift, to trust to luck, or to hope for the best. Our men must be strong, skilled, able to defend themselves, else when the test comes we shall be a subjugated nation, such as it was intended we should be when Germany set out to conquer the world.

PARENT - TEACHERS MEET AT TERRACE

Plans For Providing Equipment For Sports Decided Upon and Other Business Done

TERRACE, Feb. 6.—The February meeting of the Terrace-Kitsumkalum Parent-Teachers Association took place Thursday night in the Kitsumkalum School. It was well attended and a very desirable spirit of friendly intimacy prevailed, every one taking part in the discussions. It was decided to continue serving hot cocoa at noon to the pupils. Plans for basketball and baseball equipment for the school were made, and a discussion took place as to what should be done this year toward improving the school grounds.

At the close of the business part of the meeting the refreshment committee invited the gathering into one of the other rooms where delicious refreshments were served.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

February 6, 1913

Over indulgence in Prince Rupert's "liquid sunshine" after four months on the briny has caused considerable trouble among the crews of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.'s trawlers, George E. Foster and Andrew Kelly, recently arrived from Grimsby, England. As a result there have been several sailormen up in Magistrate Cars' court during the past few days.

The quick action of the Prince Rupert fire department this morning checked a blaze in Haynes Bros.' furniture store on Third Avenue before any serious damage was done.

The Union Transfer Co. is opening up a modern garage in the Dawson Block. There will be accommodation for five automobiles.

Accounts in connection with the reconstruction of the Booth Memorial School and the Northern Polytechnic Institute, which were laid over last week by the city council, were passed by the council sitting in committee of the whole last evening.

TELLS OF VISIT PORT SIMPSON

Rev. Edward Marsden Writes About Splendid Reception Given Metlakatla

Rev. Edward Marsden of New Metlakatla writing of the recent visit of the Metlakatla choir and orchestra to Port Simpson says:

The members of the choir and orchestra of the Presbyterian church of Metlakatla suddenly made up their minds to take a trip to Port Simpson, B.C. last week, and in answer to a telegraphic enquiry, they were at once assured of a hearty welcome on the other side. The motor boat Prince of Wales was then chartered and the party of forty-nine, mostly young people, left here very early Saturday morning, arriving there in the afternoon. The run across was very smooth.

Hearty Welcome

True to their nature, the people of Port Simpson heartily welcomed the party and they at once scattered the young people to their different homes. At noon what we may call a banquet was spread before the members of the choir in the athletic hall. There were several courses and some of them were new to the visitors. The food was not new neither the preparation nor the serving of it. But the toast to the King of England and the use of plain water and everybody drinking to his health was certainly new. The welcoming addresses were sympathetic and brotherly and the responses were appreciative and very frank.

We may note here that the native people of Port Simpson number nearly or about a thousand souls. They are a part of the ones living in old and new Metlakatla. They speak the same native tongue and in a general way make the same progress as the others. In their struggles for a higher and better life they also inquire into the causes of their weakness as a people and they try to solve their problems fairly and earnestly.

Native Sentiments

Hence, when one of their leading men was asked to say a few words at this banquet, in the course of his remarks were the following words:

"Brethren, there are many problems before us today. One of these problems is to find out the cause of our dwindling away and to remove or remedy the same. It seems that as soon as there is any civilizing effort made for our benefit we at once commence to show our decrease in numbers. We do not discard or belittle these well meaning efforts. We do not look upon Christianity as an agency for our decrease. Very far from that. But I do mourn our mistakes. I am sorry for our unintentional ignorance and our tendency to linger behind the times."

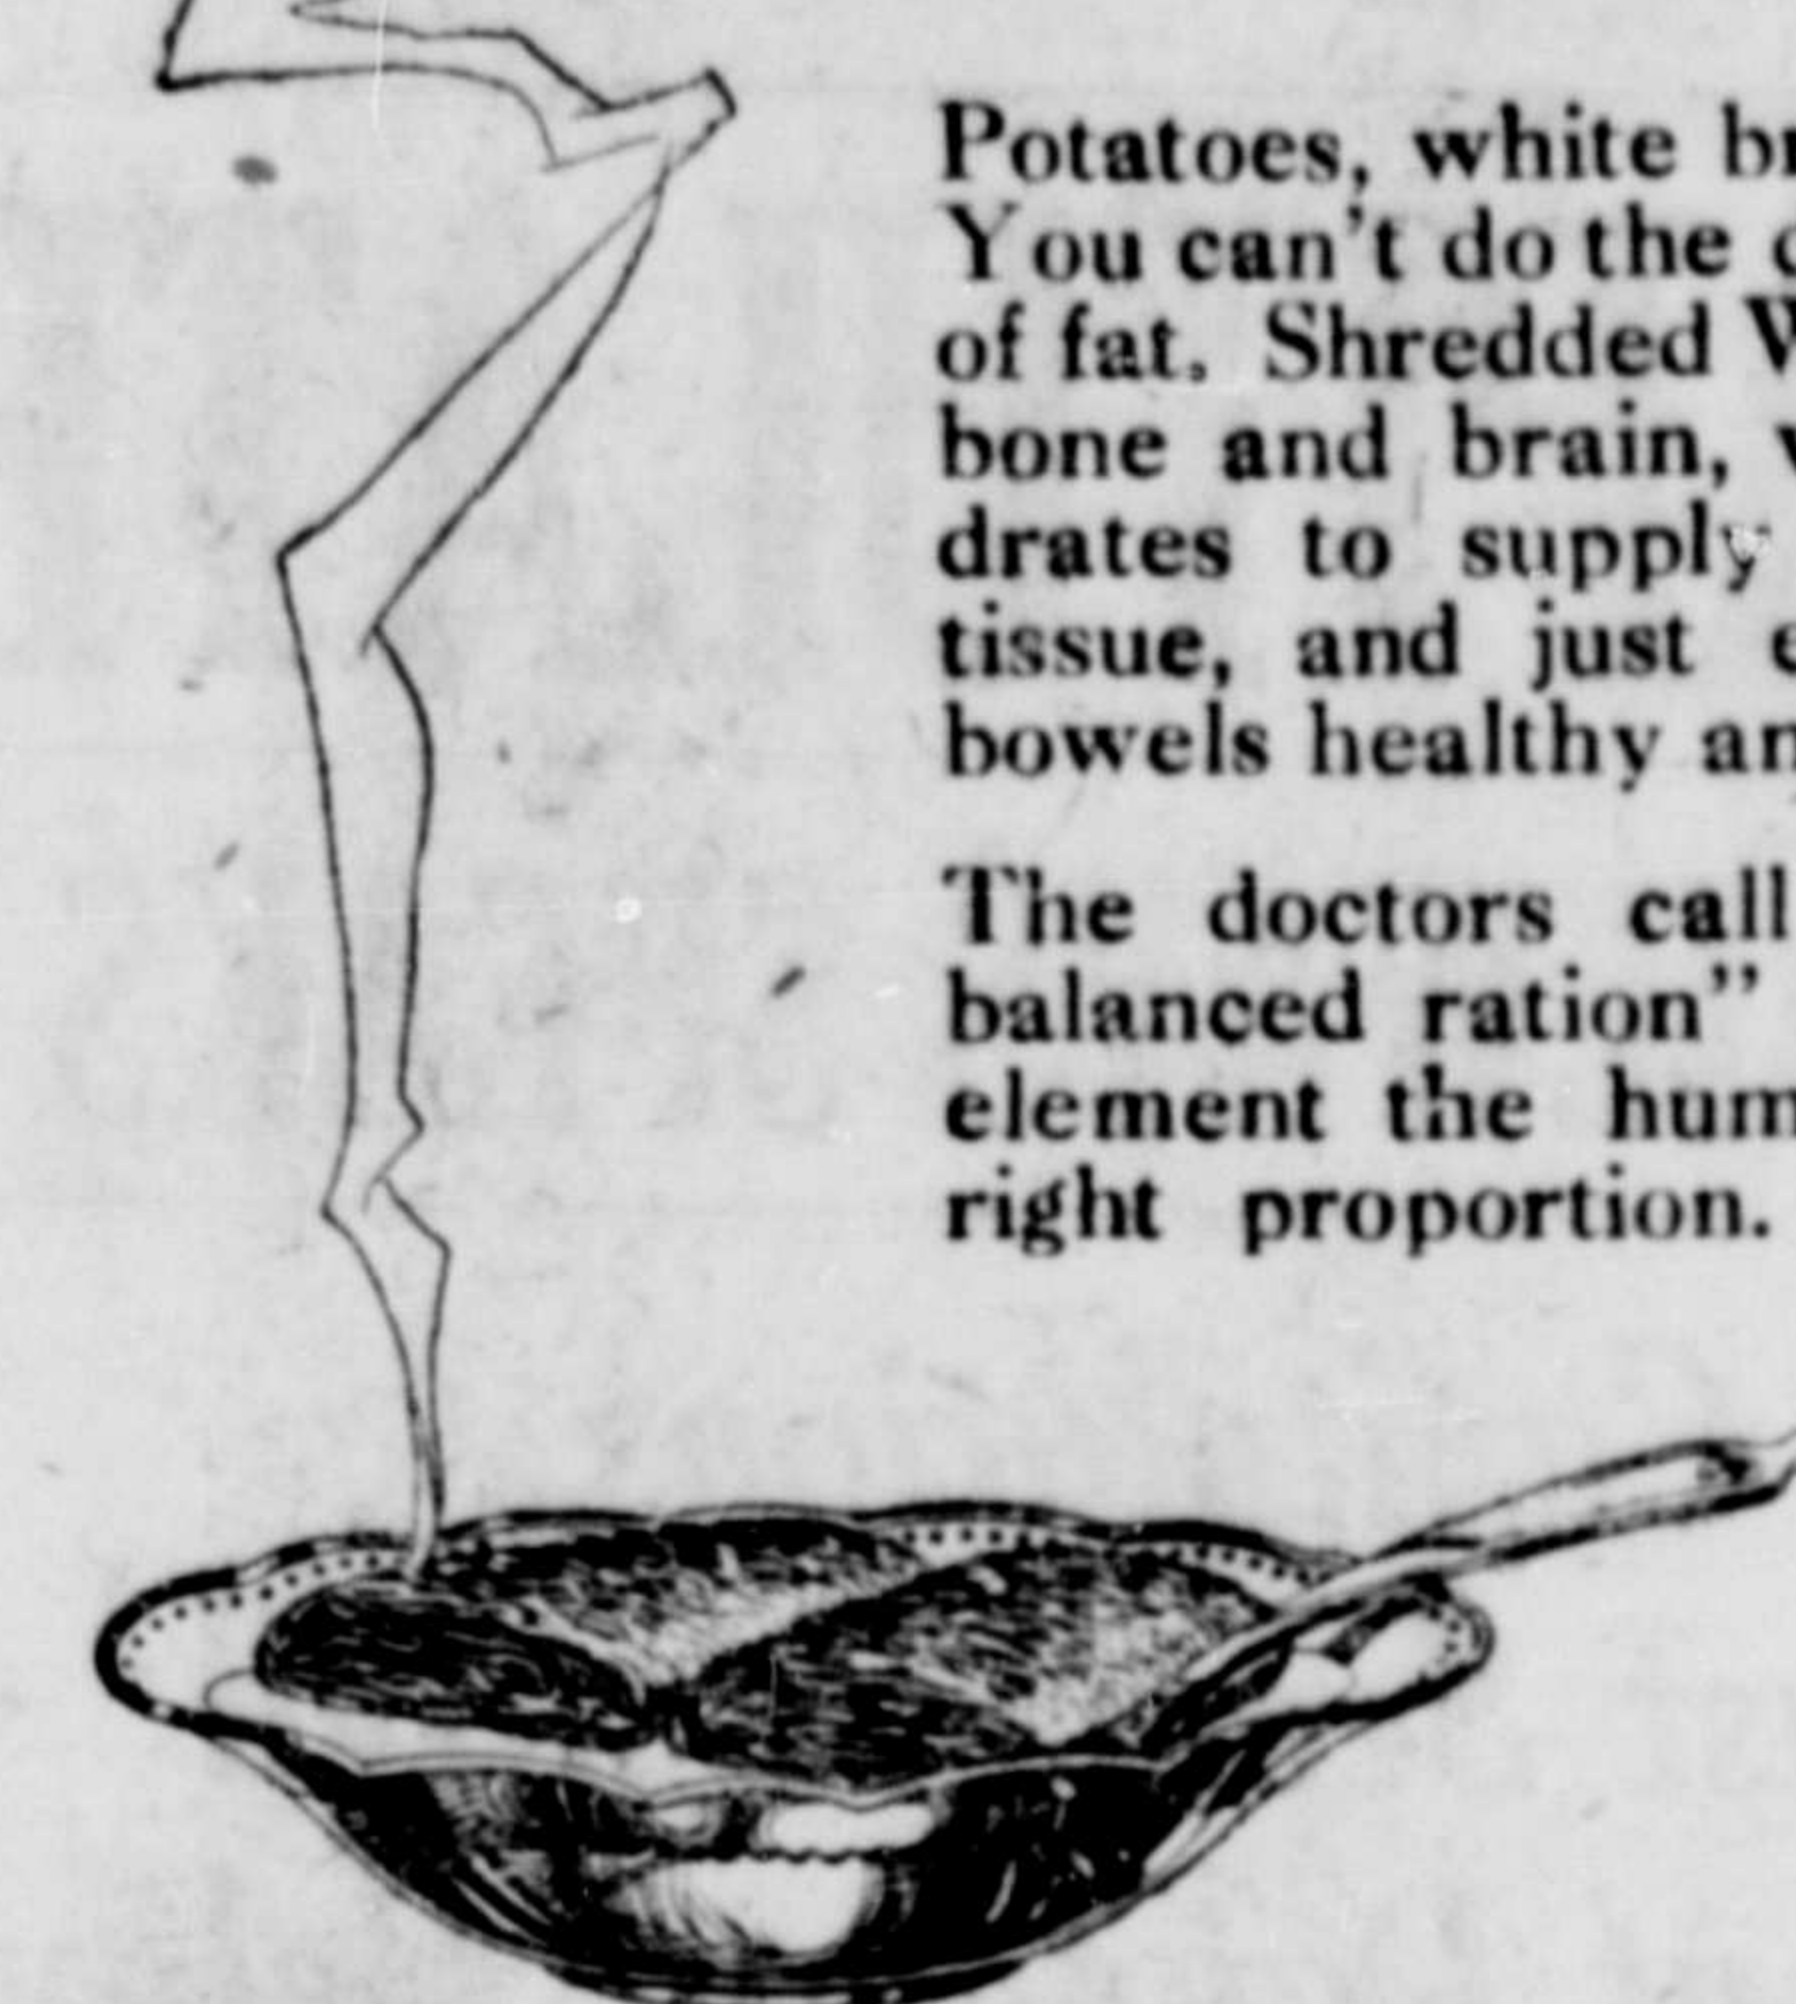

Late in the afternoon, owing to the meetings in the evening, the visiting singers gave a sacred concert to a full house in the Methodist church. They again sang in the Athletic hall, Monday evening and these concerts were much appreciated by the Port Simpson people. The singers did their best and they did very well. The services in the large Methodist church were well attended and they were full of interest and profit.

Old Town

Port Simpson has one of the old wooden church structures in the north Pacific coast, built something like fifty years ago. It has the shape of an ordinary English church—a tall spire, a sharp roof and a high ceiling. It has some stained memorial windows, an up-to-date pipe organ, a basement heating system, a large choir stage, electric lights, a seating capacity of about five hundred, etc.

The town of Port Simpson has a representative form of government and is quite strict in the application of its laws. It has a water and electric light system and its roads are sand and gravel. These roads are solid and they almost answer to cement or paved streets. It has an up-to-date school and there are over a dozen mercantile stores in town. The trip back and forth on the Prince of Wales was pleasant and comfortable. For small parties on a trip anywhere in and out of Ketchikan there is no better boat than the Prince of Wales. This vessel is of 95 tons burden. Its power plant can be depended upon, and it drives the boat nine miles an hour. Coming across the bad mouth of the Nass river early Tuesday morning we noticed that the vessel was seaworthy and stout. Her deep draft of ten feet makes her ride true to the violent waves. The owners of the motor ship, Messrs. Neill and Cole, certainly have a roomy and well equipped craft. All in all we have enjoyed the trip to Port Simpson.

Her Heart Skipped Every Third Beat

Mrs. James Burleigh, 248 King St. E., Chatham, Ont., writes:—“I think it my duty to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves. I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like letting everyone know what they did for me.”

“Lotions, salves and ordinary ointments seemed unable to touch the ulcers, but the very first application of Zam-Buk was soothing and cooling. As I kept on with Zam-Buk, the swelling, inflammation and discharge was thoroughly subdued, and the sores were gradually and permanently healed with firm new tissue.”

ECZEMA, RINGWORM, Etc. “A nasty patch of eruption,” writes Mrs. W. Adams, of 489, La Salle Road, Montreal. “I started on my little son's neck and spread rapidly until his body was entirely covered. The boy was treated at three different hospitals and at last the doctor pronounced the disease incurable. Five years elapsed from the sores first appearing when a friend got me to try Zam-Buk. This great herbal balm brought a marvellous improvement. My boy got better and better until after four months Zam-Buk treatment his skin was absolutely cleared of every sore and eruption. There has never been the slightest sign of disease since.”

The swelling was reduced rapidly and before long Zam-Buk had drawn every bit of inflammation and poisonous matter out of the wound and effected perfect healing.”

LARGE ATTENDANCE
ANGELIC SOCIAL
HELD AT TERRACEProgram Was an Excellent One and Archbishop Reviewed
Work Since Inauguration

TERRACE, Feb. 6.—There was a very large attendance at the social held by the Anglican church in Progress hall, Friday evening and a splendid program was given. Rev. Archdeacon Marsh opened the meeting with a short speech. This was followed by an excellent piano solo by Mrs. Atwood. Mr. MacIntyre gave one of his popular songs. The old-timers especially appreciated hearing Mr. Hepburn recite again. Misses Gladys Kenney and Mary Wilson gave a very enjoyable duet. Marjorie Atwood a new little artist made her first appearance before a Terrace audience when she danced the Highland fling. Miss May Burrisson who rendered a violin solo was another young artist taking part.

Rev. W. J. Parsons and Rev. J. H. Young who were to have given brief addresses were unable to be present and sent their regrets.

Archbishop DuVernet gave a brief outline of the work here since its inception, giving Mr. Marsh great credit for all he had done.

The meeting was closed by singing God Save the King. Over one hundred and fifty were present and everyone had a most enjoyable time.

Ald. Mackenzie Introduces Resolution With a View to Lower Light, Telephone and Water Tolls

Ald. Mackenzie at last night's council meeting introduced a resolution asking for a thorough investigation into the present light, telephone and water charges with a view to making reductions. There was no second to the motion, however, and discussion was out of order. Mayor Newton suggested that the time for such a resolution might be more opportune at a later date when the new superintendent of utilities had established himself in office. Ald. Macdonald said that the matter was already under consideration by the Utilities Committee.

It is customary for such resolutions to be posted on the notice board but this was not done in this case.

CHEER UP!

Editor, Daily News.
Returning after an absence of a few months one is struck by the prevailing depression, verging in some cases almost on despondency, that at present exists in Prince Rupert.

When conditions are analysed it does not seem that sound reasons can be advanced in support of this gloomy outlook. It seems to be more or less a "state of mind" engendered, perhaps, by comparative "hard times," resulting from some decrease in population and other temporary and seasonal causes, but this "state of mind" is, I believe, fostered and made worse by persistent exchange of depressing comments on the present and gloomy forecasts on the future, whenever citizens meet. It is a disease passed on from one to the other and becomes more "catching" because no precautions are taken against it. The precaution indicated to combat this germ is—the avoidance of gloom. Cheer up!

"Rupert," in prize-ring speech, has often been knocked down.

But "Rupert" never has been and cannot be knocked out. There is something in intrinsic merit—a fundamentally sound economic basis—that has enabled this place to withstand all blows and come up smiling, aggressively advancing a bit after each one.

Carrying on the metaphor, Rupert has been kept out of the champion class not because it lacks "punch" and real worth, but because rivalry, selfishness and, particularly, ignorance of its strength have combined to keep it "outside the ring."

Cheer Up

The best is yet to come and it is coming sooner than we now expect. What if we have a temporary decrease in population? Wasn't that to be expected and didn't we discount it in advance? We knew the increase was due to an industry that was but temporary and that the workers and their families must flit—when this employment ceased! But we have merely halted, and we will go on.

Emmerson said, in effect, that if you make a good thing or have a good thing, the world will make a pathway to your door. Well, we have many good things. Prince Rupert is the ruler of a big northern principality that is tremendously rich in natural resources; and "royalties" must pay tribute because the "Prince" has command of all trafficking in these resources.

Untold Wealth

Fishing, mining, lumbering—untold wealth being and about to be further exploited are all within the principality—the last great West—and to which capital, that is ever seeking the development of promising resources, must inevitably come.

One that will come and come soon is the pulp industry. It is bound to come here because this is the most logical and economical place in B.C. for the supply of raw material that is boundlessly available and cheaply obtainable, either by water haul or by rail haul for delivery to a mill that can have a railroad in its back yard that will convey the manufactured product to eastern markets at minimum costs.

This last is one particular advantage that a mill here will have over other B.C. mills, and it will have equal facilities for loading shipments for southern or trans-Pacific ports.

We learn that eastern sources of pulp supply both in U.S. and Canada are fast dwindling. Northern B.C. has unlimited pulp material and, for the reasons named, Prince Rupert is the situation for the establishment of a pulp mill that could fear no rivalry in low production and marketing costs.

Mill Here Soon

It is fairly certain that a pulp and paper mill will be in operation here in the not distant future. When this happens it will give our city an impetus that will, with the increasing development of other resources, carry us on to the fulfillment of the prosperity that our long wait and faith have so well deserved.

H. S. WALLACE.

A report from the Utilities Committee recommending the placing of a street light on Sixth Avenue West in front of the Methodist church was adopted by the city council last night.

Wolf Man Pays Visit to Alaska Instructs Trappers and Tells of Depredations by Coyotes

Do you know that wolves have communication centers and runways—regular beats, usually keeping to the most open sections of their range? This is the great secret which has made scientific methods of trapping wolves vastly more effective than those that have been used heretofore by the average trapper, so that a knowledge of these runways—as well as a general knowledge of the animals themselves—is the first step that must be taken in securing wolf control, according to J. L. Ligon, the "wolf man" recently sent to Alaska by the U.S. biological survey, who, after spending three months studying conditions in the southeastern section, has returned home.

Wolves seek in rough timbered sections, food and protection from man. Almost all animals have runways, but the wolf seeks his in the more open sections as his range is very extensive and he travels a great deal. Travel, indeed, is a large part of the wolf's business. He pursues a circuitous route, in his own chosen path—when instinct urges him to leave his feed-run and seek communication with others of his species stopping occasionally to feed and perhaps taking ten days or more to complete his beat.

Scientific Methods

Scientific methods of trapping wolves include the use of both scent and blind settings, the latter placed in exclusive runways, and both equally effective. Scientific trapping of wolves probably requires more experience and skill than in taking any other wild animal, not only on account of his cunning but also because his range is so great.

Scent bait is made from certain portions of wild animals of that particular species. Wolf hunters have worked out a method of making bait from these portions of a wolf, for instance, that lures his brother wolves to the spot where it is placed about a runway.

While scent bait and blind settings are most successful, all who have tried the difficult art of wolf trapping are aware that success even by these methods requires skill in their execution.

One great advantage in using the scientific methods for trapping wolves is that it would make unnecessary the killing of game animals for bait, as meat is never used. Perhaps few people realize the extent of the cost, directly and indirectly, of supplying with food the hundreds of wolves prowling about the islands and adjacent mainland of Southeastern Alaska.

Wolves feed principally upon deer, which seems to be their natural food in this part of the country. It is only when this food is scarce that they turn their attention to other food, such as fish, beaver, marten and other fur bearers.

During the months of January and February wolves make the greatest depredations upon deer. At this time crust usually forms over the top of the deep snow, and, when pursued by the hungry wolf, the frightened deer who has been running lightly over the snow, commences to jump, and breaking through, is retarded in her flight so as to fall an easy victim to the wolf, who—more wary—never breaks through the crust.

Blind settings are an equally effective means of trapping wolves, a trap with teeth in the jaws being the best for Alaska on account of the prevailing characteristics of the ground, surface, such as moss and mud, which do not interfere with its free action. These traps are hidden in the runways.

On Zerambo Island

Recently Mr. Ligon trapped seven wolves on Zerambo Island. These included five black ones and two grey ones. The black ones are more ferocious than the greys but are of the same species, Mr. Ligon thinks. In all he trapped eighteen wolves, although catching them was only incidental to his work of determining if the scientific methods that have been employed successfully in other parts of the country would be also applicable to Alaska.

Although conditions are quite different here, M. Ligon has proven that they can be used quite as effectively and considers that it would be a comparatively easy matter to exterminate wolves on the islands. However, the mainland offers a more serious problem because of the vastness of the infestation and the difficulties in travelling over so great an area.

In order to promote the fur industry it is imperative that first the wolf be exterminated. It is nothing less than disastrous, Mr. Ligon declares, to allow the wolf to remain in a country among whose chief assets are its game and fur bearers.

In the case of the promising new industry of blue fox farming, the wolf will doubtless prove a great menace, he says, as, if it does not prey upon them for food, it will invade the fur farms and seriously interfere with foxes either by killing them or driving them off the islands.

Coyote Menace Also

"It is my prediction," Mr. Ligon stated, "that in the near future this condition will be more serious unless the most stringent methods are employed to exterminate coyotes, as they have moved from the interior and pushed well down to the coast of Southeastern Alaska. These aggressive wanderers are even a greater menace when once established because of their adaptability to civilization and because they are more numerous. During the winter in the Northland, the coyote is little less destructive to deer than his larger brother, the timber wolf. In recent years, he ate with Alaskans and increase has made his appearance on the Stikine river and in valleys leading into tide water or streams.

"In showing the superior advantages of scientific methods," Mr. Ligon explained, "no criticism of local trappers is intended, as I am actuated solely by the desire to carry out the aims of the biological survey to co-operate with Alaskans and increase the efficiency of any method in use."

During the three months he has spent in Alaska Mr. Ligon has instructed trappers in scientific methods as fully as so limited a time allowed. A detailed report of his work will be available in about a month. He thinks that steps should be taken at once for wolf control in Southeastern Alaska.

Stomach Trouble "Indigestion"

Relieved by Burdock Blood Bitters

The sufferer from dyspepsia, indigestion or other stomach troubles who has to pick and choose his food is the most miserable of all mankind.

Even the little that is eaten causes much torture, and is digested so imperfectly it does but little good.

Before you can eat heartily and enjoy your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

Mr. Wm. Kruschel, Morden, Man., writes:

"Some time ago I had quite a serious case of stomach trouble, indigestion, could scarcely eat anything, outside of some light food, and even then I generally had pains after each meal. I tried many different medicines, but without any improvement, and had almost given up hope of ever being well. A neighbor recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it a short time I felt much better, so I continued to use it until I was completely relieved. I can honestly say that B. B. B. has done wonders for me after all other medicines failed."

ALASKA SHIPS VALUABLE FUR

Total Catch of Year is Estimated at $1,800,000; Muskrat Leads

According to figures compiled by the bureau of biological survey, furs shipped from Alaska to the states, exclusive of seal skins, for the year between December, 1921, and November 30, 1922, were valued at $1,800,- 000. In the same period seal skins shipped were valued at approximately $1,000,000.

Pelts of muskrats are the largest single items in the list of skins shipped, having a value of $191,431.25. This, however, did not equal the combined value of all kinds of foxes, listed separately, which is shown as being $193,306.50.

Many Shipments

The shipments aggregated 395,247 individual skins of all kinds, of which virtually 90 per cent, or 343,145, were muskrats.
Marten skins shipped during the same period numbered 10,385, valued at $285,587.50; beaver, 12,216 skins with a total value of $250,428; mink 31,983 skins, valued at $223,881.

The bureau's statistics show that blue fox pelts shipped by private individuals, firms or corporations had an average value per skin $16.82 higher than the pelts shipped from the government's farm on the Pribilof Islands. In the former class of shipments there were 1,080 skins, averaging $110 each, aggregating in value $118,000; the government shipped from the Pribilofs, 712 blue foxes, averaging $93.18 each, totalling $66,341, the grand total for blue fox pelts being $185,141. Government white fox skins exceeded in value those shipped by private individuals or firms, the former getting $46 and the latter $40 per pelt.

OTTAWA RIVER IS VERY DEEP STREAM

Lecturer Says Its Depth is One Mile in Places—One of Greatest River Canyons

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—That the Ottawa River is a mile deep in some places was the interesting statement made here recently by Rev.
George Bousfield, a member of the Ottawa Arts and Letters Club, lecturing before the Carnegie Library students. Taking as his theme "The Mysteries and Beauties of the Deep River Section of the Upper Ottawa," the lecturer described the many scenic and geographical features of this portion of the river, and he stressed the fact that many Canadians were too often prone to travel far afield in search of the beauties of nature, when matchless charms lay in their own scenery close at hand.

Rev. Mr. Bousfield pointed out that the mysteries of this section of the Ottawa River lay in its remarkable depth, at certain points it being found that in places it is a mile deep, and that it was therefore one of the greatest river canyons in the continent.
