Three Ministers and one Federal Member Address Meeting Saturday Night

That the provincial government would never go down to defeat by the "liquor route" was an interesting statement made by Attorney General Manson at the public meeting Saturday night in the Empress Theatre. Another interesting statement was that he believed this province to be on the threshold of the greatest development ever seen and all that was needed was to have faith in ourselves and our province and abundant optimism. The meeting was called under the auspices of the local

Keep One Moving and See What it Will Do for Community

PAYS MULTITUDE OF DEBTS

It is a rather wonderful thing, when you stop to think about it what one lone dollar will do, if it is kept at work. This has been illustrated in a striking manner on several occasions by means of a very simple experiment. If you want to see just how important a role a silver dollar or a dollar bill plays in the life of a community here is the way to do it. Just attach a tag to the dollar and turn it loose, with the request that every person who receives the dollar make a note on the tag as to how he received it. The result will be an eye-opener.

Here is the way it works: Smith, the lumber dealer, who first possesses the dollar, buys some groceries from Brown and pays for them with the dollar. About that time Jones, the plumber, who had done work for Brown, sends his collector around and Brown pays the bill with this dollar. Jones owes Green, the printer, a small advertizing bill, so he sends this dollar with possibly some others, to Green to pay his bill. Green had just put the dollar in his cash drawer when in comes Black, the milkman, to whom Green owes a dollar for milk delivered at his house. Green takes the dollar out of his cash drawer and pays Black. For some time. Black has owed White, the carpenter, for some work done on his dairy house, so now he takes the dollar that Green has paid him and pays up what he ewes White. White still owes for some lumber that he bought from Smith, the lumber dealer, so he takes the dollar and squares up his account with Smith. Smith now has his dollar back. Brown has been able to pay his plumbing bill. Jones has squared up with the printer, and so on, all around the circle.

What Might Have Happened Now suppose that Smith, instead of buying his groceries from Brown, had purchased them from a mail order house in a far distant city and sent his dollar to pay for them. Brown would not have had that dollar to pay Jones, the plumber; Jones could not have paid his printing bill; the printer would have had to stand off the milk man; White, the carpenter, would not have got the money for the work he had done for the milkman, and Smith would not have got the money which White owed him for lum-

This is all so simple that it requires no student of economics or professor of mathematics to figure it out. Anyone can see that when Smith sends that dollar to some city where the mail order houses flourish, that dollar is gone so far as Smith and Jones and Green and the rest of the people in Smith's town are concerned. That dollar will never come back to pay any bills in Smith's town. And the thing that stands out most strikingly, but is most often overlooked, is that Smith, the man who first spends the dollar is hurt just as much when he sends that dollar out of town as is the home grocer from whom he might have bought his groceries.

Now just multiply this one dollar by a hundred or a thousand or ten thousand. One dollar may not seem to make much Aifference in the average town, but a thousand dollars or even a hundred dollars does make a difference. Just as one dollar will pay a dozen or a hundred small bills, a hundred or a thousand dollars will pay a dozen or a hundred big bills. When Brown, the grocery man, owes a thousand dollars and can't pay it, he is headed for the bankruptcy courts. When Jones, the plumber, can't collect the money which is due him from Brown or maybe a dozen Browns, he is headed in the same direction as Brown. And so it goes all around the circle until it hits Smith or a dozen Smiths who have sent their money out of town to add to the fortunes of the mail order men.

Buyer One Who is Hurt Thus, it will be seen that this buy-athome proposition is really a selfish one with the man who buys the goods. He is not hurting the home merchant when he sends his money out of town, any more than he is hurting himself.

MILD CURED SALMON BALMORAL CANNERY

Beatrice Consigned to East Over C.N.R.

The C.P.R. steamer Princess Beatrice, Capt. Cliffe, arriving from Vancouver and way ports at 8.15 Saturday evening, tied up at No. 3 G.T.P. wharf instead of at The Secret of the government wharf, her regular mooring place. This was be-cause the Beatrice had on board Its Success two carloads of mild cured salmon from Balmoral Cannery Skeena River, which was discharged here for trans-shipment East over the Canadian National Railway. The steamer also had a number of passengers for here. She sailed for the south at 9.30.
