QUIT GROUSING AND BE A BOOSTER

Exception is taken to the optimistic spirit which pervades some quarters in this town and which occasionally bubbles over in the pages of the Daily News. A correspondent yesterday spoke of professionalism in spoiling as if there was anything to be ashamed of in seeing the rosy side of life. The man who sees the worst side and is always afraid that something might happen to improve things and by doing so prove him a liar is better dead. As a matter of fact he is dead, so far as his usefulness is concerned.

"If you can't boost, don't knock," but for goodness sake if you have a cheering message for the people when they need it let them hear it. You are almost a criminal if you hide it.

Some people seem to think there is merit in sitting around and telling the neighbors how bad things are. It is the small town spirit and the people who do it are simply villagers. If they had any spirit or real manliness about them they would go where things are better and prove that what they say is true. The worst enemy Prince Rupert can have is the person who is always trying to decry local people, local conditions and local prospects. It is a sign of a small mind and a weak spirit. The strong man tries to make things better or gets out and stays out.

We believe in Prince Rupert and her future. The Daily News intends whenever possible to look on the bright side of things, to boost whenever there is anything worth while to boost for, and at all times to keep cheerful and optimistic. If by any mischance it should be found that our optimism is misplaced, the next best thing will be to go and boost for some other place that is worth while and that appreciates a cheerful word. In the meantime we do not see any need for that, but in order that we may succeed, there is need that we look on the cheerful side of things and try to make them better. The grand army of boosters for this town we greet as brothers.

Lively Clashes in House over Labor Matters when Meighen Criticizes Vote

OTTAWA, March 29.—The passage of the labor estimates brought about lively clashes last night in the House of Commons and also including the minister of labor, Hon. James Murdock, because no unemployment doles were given out.

Mr. Meighen criticized the appointment of an English woman to represent Canada at the International Labor Convention in Europe and also accused the government of not putting in to effect the labor plans in the 1919 Liberal platform. Mr. Meighen also said the appointment of Tom Moore to the directorate of the Canadian National Railways was not approved by the employees of the system, although the government claimed that this appointment and the restriction of Chinese immigration were steps in the carrying out of its program.

Mr. Meighen said the emigration of Canadians to the south was relieving Canada of the unemployment problem in an undesirable way, whereupon Mr. Murdock retorted that Mr. Meighen was the most responsible for Canadians going to the United States, which country could truthfully claim Mr. Meighen as its best advertising medium in Canada.

Mr. Meighen retorted that Murdock's remark was the consummation of nonsense.

Before the Commons adjourned for the Easter recess until April 9, Hon. W. S. Fielding tabled supplementary estimates totalling five and a half millions for the civil service bonus for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1924, and supplementaries totalling $18,202,105 for the year just ended.

Stay Ordered in Execution of Catholic Priests in Russia to Deal with Appeal for Clemency

MOSCOW, March 29.—The appeal for clemency on behalf of the Catholic prelates and priests who were sentenced to death on Monday will be considered at the first meeting of the Central Executive committee to be held either tomorrow or next week. Meanwhile a temporary stay of the sentences for the condemned men has been made applicable and the priests will remain in prison.

It had been indicated earlier in the week that the execution of Archbishop Zepiak, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, and Vicar-General Butchavitch, who were condemned to death, would be carried out today if no action were taken for the extending of the amnesty for granting a stay of execution.

MARTIN O'REILLY IS LEAVING RUPERT

Martin O'Reilly, pioneer haberdasher of this city, who returned from the south on the Prince Rupert yesterday, announced this morning that he had definitely decided to close out his business here and establish himself in Vancouver. With that end in view, he will sell off as much of his stock as he can within the next month and will take the balance to Vancouver. He has leased a store at 824 Hastings Street, Vancouver, and will start business there on May 1. Mrs. O'Reilly and family will follow south at the closing of the school term in June.

Mr. O'Reilly, who went as far south as Erie and visited Portland, Seattle and Oakland as well, says that business is good in the south. Big wages are being paid and prices are higher. Generally speaking, business conditions are better in the States than in Canada.

Mr. O'Reilly resents the report that has been current that he was to be appointed government agent here. He said that no such offer was made and if it had been he would not have considered it. When he was at Victoria about a month ago, there was no idea as to who would be appointed.

Mr. Garde states that he will be in Prince Rupert and district for the greater part of the summer.

Eyes On Ottawa For Further News.

Premier Mackenzie King still holds to the statements he made here before the election, that the Dominion government intends to carry out the original undertakings of the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in connection with this railway and the port of Prince Rupert. He says the railway board can depend upon the government to support any undertaking that will help carry out that policy. With this backing the delegation was to interview the railway president who has also stated in public that he intends to carry out all contracts and undertakings entered into by the railway. Further news of the delegation is awaited with great expectations.

It is known that already Sir Henry had tentative plans in mind for improvements here and these have been delayed by untoward circumstances which no one could control. With F. G. Dawson returning next week it is thought that the preliminary steps will be taken with a view to initiating such terminal developments as are thought wise.

Closer Relations With Alaskan Ports.

There is no good reason why Canada and Alaska should not have very close business and social relationship one with the other. The Canadian National Railway is really an international railway, for part of the system is in the United States. Many American citizens are employed on the road and American capital is developing the resources of Canada and especially of British Columbia. Many Americans live here, and many Canadians have gone to reside permanently in the States. Day by day in every way we are getting to know each other better and better. Yet between Alaska and British Columbia there seems to be a barrier, a false barrier set up by the transportation companies and other interests for fear Alaskan business might come this way instead of helping to fill their coffers.

It is foolish for citizens of either country to allow barriers of this kind to exist. The ideal would be to have perfectly free trade between the two countries but that being impossible just now, the next best thing is to prevent irritating legislation on either side which might tend to cause friction and interfere with the natural course of trade.

There is a freight and passenger ferry about to be established between Ketchikan and Prince Rupert. That should be of benefit to both cities and will tend to draw us closer. Divisions are usually caused by lack of knowledge.

Civil Service And The Administration.

The ideal method of conducting public affairs would seem to be by having the civil service separated altogether from politics. Yet there are difficulties in the way. It is essential that the heads of government departments who have to carry out the government policies should be sympathetic to those policies, else they cannot be successful. It is useless for the people to elect representatives pledged to carry out a line of policy if the civil servants are to put spokes in the wheel and by their independence and possibly their sympathy to some other line of policy, interfere with its working.

This is illustrated in connection with the fisheries department. Last year a commission of which Prince Rupert's member was one, took evidence and issued a preliminary report indicating what they were recommending. Before the government had any opportunity of implementing the recommendations, the fisheries department permanent officials issued regulations for the salmon fisheries and canneries, ignoring altogether the commission and the policy which the government of the day was likely to pursue. An important policy was in connection with the employment of Japanese fishermen. They were proposing to reduce the number only ten per cent whereas the commission recommended forty per cent.

That was where the government had to step in, cancel the departmental regulations in that regard and insist that the government policy be carried out. Now the canners are objecting to the short notice given of the change. Had there been a sympathetic civil service, there would have been no such objection, for the first set of regulations would not have been issued.

Similarly in provincial business it is essential that the government agents, who are the confidential agents of the administration, shall be in full sympathy with the government policy and cases may arise where it is impossible to promote permanent officials for that reason. If the will of the people is to be carried out, as expressed at elections, then civil servants have to adapt themselves to changes of policy and endeavor to carry out the will of those elected as representatives of the people. If they do not do that, it is evident that others have to be appointed, just as recently happened in the city after the last election.

 Heart Was So Bad

Milburn's

have no equal as a remedy to strengthen the heart, invigorate the nerves and build up the run-down system.
 Mrs. C. Vanhorn, Eekville, Alta., writes:—"About a year ago I had heart trouble. My husband didn't dare leave me alone, and often had to stay up at night with me. I would just feel kind of faint and my heart would seem to stop beating. I would just faint away, and it would sometimes be an hour before they could bring me back to life. Someone told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got three boxes; I took them and felt much better, so continued all winter, and now I never feel any such faintness. I surely do appreciate the good they have done for me."

Ten Years Ago
 in Prince Rupert

March 29, 1913.
 The G.T.P. steamer Prince Rupert arrived this morning from the south on time on her first trip of the summer schedule after having been laid off for the past six weeks. Capt. Duncan McKenzie was on the bridge and among the arrivals were Miss Verne Cliff, O. W. Voge, S. H. Hoskins, W. J. Alder, N. Scheinman, Mrs. F. E. Hund and son, J. H. Horne, T. A. Martin and George H. Collins.

The new school at Seal Cove is nearly finished by the contractors, Meeker and Clark. The only delay now is caused by the failure of the heating plant to arrive. The building costs $5,000.

L. C. Machen, who for the past two years has been manager of the Prince Rupert Hardware & Supply Co., has resigned and leaves to-morrow on the Princess Mary for Vancouver to engage in the real estate business. H. J. W. Brooks will succeed him as manager of the store here.

Public installation of officers of Prince Rupert Lodge No. 1051, Loyal Order of Moose, took place last night in the Metropole Hall and was followed by an informal musical program and social. Junior Past B. M. Simpson has received a letter from Mooseheart, the great orphans' educational institution of the lodge in the United States, stating that 1442 children are now in attendance there, 634 boys and 598 girls. About 10 or 12 of these are from north of Prince Rupert.

Will Replace the Prince John Which Will Enter Local Dock For Annual Overhaul

The steamer Prince Albert will replace the Prince John in the Prince Rupert-Vancouver-Queen Charlotte Islands service for the Canadian National Coast Steamship Co. this week. After having been tied up in the local dry dock all winter, the Albert has been receiving finishing touches to her annual overhaul during the past few days. On Saturday night she will sail for the Queen Charlottes and Vancouver and the Prince John will go into dock here for annual overhaul. The Albert will take the run for one trip and will then, it is expected, carry on in the general freight service. The John will be laid up for two weeks then resuming her regular schedule. Capt. Harry Nodden and Purser Bert Robson and other officers will transfer from the Prince John to the Albert.

The John is due in port today from the south with 350 tons of freight for shore, principally coal.

THELMA HAD ROUGH TIME

Waves Smashed Windows of Pilot House During Heavy Sea

The halibut schooner Thelma, Captain Fritz, arrived in port yesterday morning in a damaged condition as the result of encountering a very heavy sea and snow storm while anchored 10 miles off Cape Fairweather. Heavy seas lashed the boat and broke repeatedly over the decks smashing all the windows in the pilot house. This caused the water to get inside and it was with great difficulty that the engine was kept clear. A barrel of oil, which had become loose on deck, was saved only after a dangerous chase by the skipper and deck hand Chipman. Second mate Coombs did excellent work at the wheel and held the boat head on to the waves throughout the storm. The Thelma left for the deep sea grounds today after doing necessary repair work.

LULLABY AND CRADLE MUSIC WAS SUBJECT OF LADIES' MUSICAL

Program at Home of Mrs. E. F. Doby Yesterday Afternoon Was Most Delightful

The Ladies' Musical Club, meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. F. Doby, 303 Fourth Avenue East, took up the subject of "Cradle Songs and Lullabies of Different Countries." Mrs. Joe Greer read a paper and there were several appropriate vocal and instrumental numbers. Mrs. A. T. Parkin played an Irish lullaby as a piano solo and Mrs. J. J. Anderson played a Polish cradle song. Mrs. G. A. Woodland played Schumann's "Cradle Song" on the violin accompanied by Mrs. Anderson. An Indian cradle song and "The Song of the Chimney" were sung by Mrs. W. E. Williams accompanied by Mrs. Anderson. Accompanied by Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Dorton and Mrs. H. L. Campbell sang as a duet "Sweet and Low" and Mrs. Campbell sang the solo "Slumber Boat."

Interesting Article From Pen of G. A. Woodland Appears in Current Number of Imperial Oil Review

Under the title of "Under the Midnight Sun," an article describing the tour from Prince Rupert to Skagway and thence to the Klondike by rail and river steamer written by G. A. Woodland, of this city, appears in the current number of the Imperial Oil Review. The article was written following the trip of Mr. Woodland to Dawson last summer. It gives very good descriptions of the towns passed en route and also of what is seen and experienced while getting to them. The article is freely illustrated with pictures of dog teams in the Yukon, cariboo, river craft, hydraulic operations, Dawson City and Whitehorse.

COOKS WANTED

Editor, Daily News: In looking over the article by Sir Henry Newbolt in regard to education of citizens for harmony and service in social life in regard to teaching the younger generation in our schools, I notice this. Even in Prince Rupert we lack something in the training of our boys to be useful in a fishing port. In Prince Rupert we are always short of cooks for fishing boats. I have seen boats delayed two or three days looking for a cook, as fishermen will not have a Chinaman for cook on a fishing boat. I have often wondered the schoolboard never took up the matter in learning some of our boys the rudiments of cooking, seeing that a good cook is one of the most useful members of any boat's crew. There is no reason why fishing boats should be sent to Seattle to get cooks. Cooking is one of the finest professions on the Pacific coast. After all the money we have spent on our schools and with plenty of food in the country why are we not able to produce cooks? Strange to say we have to send to China to get men to cook our food for us. There must be something wrong somewhere. It should not be necessary for any stranger to say: "You have a beautiful country with all sorts of resources but you have to send to China for a cook or starve to death." ROBERT HANNA, Fisherman. P.S.—Since our schools open-

GAINED 65 POUNDS!

"Five years ago when I was first married I had wonderful energy. I could be on the go all day long without feeling the least bit fatigued. I had a great appetite and could eat anything. I weighed 147 pounds. I used to be busy every minute of the day and, when the day was over, I could go to bed and never waken once during the night. Thirteen months ago my first baby was born. After that my energy seemed to leave me. I was tired all the time. I had to force myself to do my household duties. Instead of being a pleasure as formerly, these duties became a real task. I lost all desire for food and nothing would tempt me. I had to make myself eat. I would go to bed at night and toss from side to side for hours at a time. After a while I would doze off only to find that I had been sleeping for ten or fifteen minutes. Naturally when morning came, not having slept, I started the day completely tired out. I was shaky and nervous. The least noise would startle me and make my heart race along. I could see that my husband was worried. I was losing weight every week and had almost lost 54 pounds. I tried all kinds of tonics, but they didn't help me. One night, a night I shall never forget because it started me on the way to health and happiness again, my husband brought in a bottle of Carnol. A friend told him that Carnol had saved his wife's life, so he insisted upon my trying it. Six weeks after I began taking Carnol, my weight increased from 93 pounds to 158, an increase of 65 pounds. And, am I well these days? Every morning I fairly jump out of bed ready to tackle anything and every minute of the day is a joy to me now." Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 8-622 Sold by Orines' Drug Store and McCutcheon's Drug Store.

The firemen have started repairing the municipal handball court which was partly blown down by the fall winds and this popular conditioning ground which has been put to such good use during the past couple of seasons will soon be available again. Negotiations for a bout between Alex Roy and Kid Nassau, of the steamer Prince George, are still under way but no definite arrangement has yet been reached. Fans are looking for a lively match if the two boys can be brought together. A large and enthusiastic attendance is looked for at the annual meeting of the Prince Rupert Tennis Club which takes place at 5 this afternoon in the office of the secretary W. O. Fulton. Election of officers and organization for the season will be the order of business. All persons who play or are interested in the net game will be welcomed. The balmy spring days of this week and the ever lighthearted evenings are making soccer fans look forward to that auspicious event—the first game of the season—taking place very soon. Before the season of regular games opens about the end of next month, it is expected there may be some preliminary pick-up matches. During the month of April which is now nearly here, re-organization of the football, baseball and lacrosse leagues will take place with the holding of the annual meetings of the respective Associations. There is every reason to believe that, despite the loss of players from the city since last season, interesting and attractive league series may be drawn up when the various managements get down to actual work. The trout fishing season is now formally open but so far, on account of the unfavorable weather conditions, very few anglers have yet sought out their favorite nooks. Some of them will very likely take advantage of the Good Friday holiday tomorrow to try their luck for the first time. Ad-Gustavo, the wrestler who visited here last year, still keeps in touch with the boys at the Fire Hall and letters are received there now and then from him. Writing recently from Portland, Oregon, Ad tells of having been through a hotel fire there. He lost all his clothes and belongings and only with difficulty got out himself in his night apparel. Interest is tense in whist circles in the final sudden-death playoff for the Men's Section championship which takes place tonight between the Oddfellows and the St. Andrew's Society. The winning team will meet next Thursday night with the Pythian Sisters, champions of the Ladies' Section, for the Dybhavn Cup significant of the city championship.

MURDER LIKE A FICTION STORY

Killing of Halifax Grocer Seems Likely to be Solved in Court

CONFESSION ALLEGED

Bootlegger to be Tried For Shooting Which Took Place in November

HALIFAX, N.S., March 28.—(By Canadian Press)—Apparent grim cold bloodedness which could find no explanation in the usual motives of crime, and certain elements of drama, caused the murder here of Leslie A. Corkum on November 30 to grip the public imagination in a manner more compelling than is usual even in murder cases.

Leslie Corkum was a young grocer, about twenty-nine years of age, who carried on a prosperous, though not large, grocery business on Spring Garden Road, a Halifax thoroughfare of unusual beauty which is only slowly yielding its select residential atmosphere to that of business. Apparently his life was the tranquil one of the average citizen who tries by industry to rise in his community.

Last Halloween night, November 30, the young storekeeper prepared about 11.30 to close his shop. The store lights were blazing and the street was brightly lighted without. A steady procession of homebound pedestrians went tramping over the concrete walks. Young girls and boys at intervals raised the customary Halloween alarms.

A stranger entered the Corkum store. His clothes were torn and his general appearance dirty. Three or four days' beard was on his face. He wore a brown army mackinaw and had pulled a ragged grey cap over his eyes.

Murderer Disappeared

Without warning he pointed a gun at Corkum and told him to put up his hands. Before the astonished grocer had time to comply or refuse, and without his making any offer of defiance, the gunman fired. Corkum fell with a bullet in his abdomen. The bullet made his escape. The crime attracted no attention from passers-by. Some heard the shot but associated it with Halloween celebrations. The murderer went into the street and disappeared although the earth had opened up and swallowed him.

The wounded man retained consciousness and dragged himself to the entrance, where he attracted aid. He was taken to hospital and for several days it was thought that he would recover, but perforations of his intestines gave rise to complications which caused him to die in great agony.

A feeling of outraged "fair play," even as applied to banditry, seemed to possess the public mind in addition to the usual horror of a murder. An outlaw who shot after giving his victim the customary "man's chance," or the choice of yielding or fighting, might be forgiven in kind if not in law, but one who killed so inexorably when what he wished might have been gained without bloodshed violated all conscience. Each one felt in a very personal way that he himself might as easily have been the victim, as Leslie Corkum. With such a bandit at large no life seemed safe. And no hope offered that the bandit would not remain free.

Blank Wall

The police found themselves against a blank wall. They had nothing to suggest where they should look. Just the faintest ray of light came from the fact that a man answering the description of the one who shot Corkum had entered another store on Spring Garden Road previous to the shooting and asked for a particular brand of essence of lemon. It immediately became a matter of suspicion to have purchase or tried to purchase essence of lemon and there was a round-up of many addicted to it. Also the city treasury was enriched in at least one case by a man who was fined, following his arrest in connection with the murder, for illegally carrying a gun. But the essence of lemon men and gun carriers were all able to prove their innocence.

Time went on. People speculated on the shooting and guessed at everything from insanity to the eternal triangle to find a motive. But the murder slowly started to fade from mind as an "unsolvable mystery."

Great detectives have said that they depend on chance for a large percentage of their success. Perhaps chance was responsible for what followed or perhaps to a persistent watchfulness and combing which the police continued must be given the credit. Perhaps both together combined to lead to what may prove success or may prove a wild-goose trail.

Raided Premises

On January 1 the premises at 229 Market Street had fallen under the suspicions of Sergeant Michael O'Halloran, of the police department, as a possible booze resort. He raided the place but found no liquor. Just as he was about to give up, however, he noticed in the front room a trap door. He opened it and started down. As he did so the occupant of the house, Alister Munroe, bolted to the rear of the building and disappeared into the darkness.

It was announced later by the police department that quantities of goods taken from various local stores had been found in the Market Street building. Immediately, however, they showed a concern to take Alister Munroe which was unusual in the case of a man wanted for ordinary burglary. Two hundred and fifty descriptions of him were sent out to centres in Canada and the United States and these said that he was "badly wanted."

As brought out at the preliminary examination Sergeant O'Halloran found not only a cache of stolen goods from various stores but also discovered a coat which answered the description of that worn by the man who shot Corkum. Also a revolver was found and it developed that it was of an uncommon calibre and the same as was the bullet which was taken out of the exhumed body of the dead grocer.

Varied Evidence

A taxi driver testified that he had seen a man whom he believed to have been Munroe running across the street not far from the Corkum store on the night of the shooting. A woman witness told that she had seen a man standing under a tree near the scene of the murder on the fatal night. She believed he was Munroe.

It was also told by witnesses that Munroe, said to be "broke" before the shooting, had money after it took place. An acquaintance of Munroe's testified that the accused had asked him a few nights previous to the shooting to join him in a raid on Corkum's store.

And most startling of all, and rather a poignant feature in that perhaps Munroe's most intimate acquaintance testified against him, was the evidence of Captain Walter Kramp, of Lower Water Street. Captain Kramp told that Munroe came to him the day after the murder and said:

"I was the man that fired that shot."

"Cap., I went inside. When I came in the door fitted tight. Mr. Corkum said, 'Never mind the door, I'll shut it afterwards.' I walked up to the counter, took out the revolver, gave him a chance to put up his hands and he said, 'Cut out the comedy.'"

"It may be comedy to you but it is serious to me and I began to count one, two, and immediately after Corkum made an action of putting up his hands, the revolver went off."

"I never intended to shoot Mr. Corkum."

Left Revolver

Captain Kramp also told that Munroe had left a revolver with him but afterwards came and took it away.

The Easter Breakfast

Premium Ham or Bacon

THAT breakfast on Easter Morning should consist of Bacon and Eggs has become almost as honored a national institution as Turkey for Thanksgiving.

But on this Easter Morning, bright with the promise of Springtime—vigor—and joy—the Bacon certainly should be "Premium"—the world's standard—as befitting the occasion. Substitute ordinary Bacon or Ham for Swift's "Premium" and you dull the joy of the meal.

For Swift's "Premium" Bacon is of characteristic and distinctive quality. Firstly, by its choice selection—for "Premium" Brand must have just the right proportion of fat and lean. Then next it possesses an unmatched succulence and savoriness due to the exclusive Swift process of curing and smoking.

Be careful to get Swift's "Premium" when you buy Bacon or Ham—make sure of it this coming Easter Morning. Order from your Butcher or Grocer.

SYNTHETIC IMITATION BOOZE IN MANITOBA

Drugs and Essences Used for Making Liquor Found in Lumber Shed

WINNIPEG, Mar. 29.—Drugs, ether, essences, and oils of various kinds—sleep inducers and kick producers—are among the discoveries made by Ontario law officers in the old premises of the Rat Portage Lumber company at Rainy River, occupied by the United Shippers, Limited, whose alleged illegal activities have brought down on them the displeasure of the law, according to a special despatch to the Free Press from Fort Frances. Thousands of bottles, unwashed, but with labels on them, are among the finds, and it is the opinion of authorities these have been collected from Winnipeg and other centres with a view to their use in the bottling of the company's goods.

After a visit of investigation to the premises, at Rainy River, one of the prohibition enforcement officers said he did not believe there was a pint of liquor on the place that was "honest liquor." He said the stuff shipped away was made up of the oils and essences and water, the water being taken direct from the river, without even going through any cleansing process.

This liquor, he said, was made by the admixture of the various drugs and essences named, in order to give the drinker the impression he was getting the real thing. "But," he added, "there is not a drop that is not synthetic, imitation booze. I know, because I've—". The smile with which he ended the sentence was entirely innocent, quite synthetic, as it were.

TAILORED SUITS ARE DISCARDED BY WOMEN

English Use Less Rigid Styles With Browns and Tans as Favorite Colors

LONDON, March 29.—The tailored suit for women, in the making of which the English have always taken pride, is seldom seen nowadays on the sidewalks and in the parks. It has been killed, or at least knocked out, by the comforts of the low waist. In its stead, one now sees the less rigid style that leaves no doubt as to the movement of the figure. The dressmakers are chasing back and forth between London and Paris almost every day, apparently trying to make up their minds as to what the ladies ought to wear this spring. So far, the styles have not been set; they seem to be changing every hour. The current tendency is to have the entire outfit to match—hat, suit, gloves, fur, shoes and stockings—and the favorite colors are strong tan, bright henna and golden brown, but grey, beloved by the English, is not yet in the discard.
