FLEWIN-KEVIS CASE REACHES LAST STAGE

ARRANGEMENTS ARE UNDER WAY FOR BETTER LOCAL STEAMSHIP SERVICE

Defence of Port Simpson Boys is They Were No Where About When Boyd Young was Set Upon

The final stage of the Clarence Flewin-Raymond Kevis attempted murder trial was reached in the Supreme Court assize late this afternoon when Mr. Justice Morrison charged jury and retired it to consider the verdict. Commencing at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, the trial has occupied the entire attention of the court for four separate sessions—yesterday afternoon and evening, and this morning and afternoon. The prisoners pleaded not guilty and evidence for the crown was commenced yesterday afternoon and ran into the evening. The defence witnesses then took the stand and the crown brought in rebuttal witnesses this morning. L. W. Patmore, for the defence, and G. W. Craig, for the prosecution, made their addresses to the jury immediately before noon.

To prove the case against accused, prosecution witnesses gave evidence identifying Flewin as being a party to the assault. Other crown witnesses testified that he and Kevis had been seen rushing away from the scene of the assault immediately after the outcry of the man who had been set upon went up. Defence witnesses, including accused and members of Flewin's family and others, adduced evidence that Flewin and Kevis, at the time of the assault and for some time before and after it, were safe at home in the Flewin house. The suggestion was also advanced that Naas River Indians, troublesome and refractory, had been at Port Simpson on the night in question and two of these, bearing striking resemblance to the A. M. Manson which had been seen made public and at which the members of the Senate took offence. Mr. Manson then wrote the speaker that the honor of that body was not imputed by him and he regretted if any such meaning had been taken from his letter.

The Jury
The jury was as follows:
C. H. Thomas, foreman, H. A. Green, Robert McKay, E. A. Morgan, Robert Gordon, Samuel Wood, J. G. Moody, John H. Meagher, James Hampton, Harry Day, Sidney A. Bird and James Sturgeon. Jurymen challenged by counsel were J. A. Murray, W. E. Williscroft, B. E. Webster, George Ambrose, John Rank, Ernest Unwin, H. E. Astoria, Herman Capstick, W. W. Wright and John M. Buckley.

After accused had pleaded not guilty to the counts of the indictment, G. W. Craig, crown counsel, reviewed the evidence that would be adduced, stressing the fact that it would be shown that accused had been in the vicinity within half an hour of the assault, that Boyd Young positively identified Flewin and that human blood of Boyd Young's characteristics had been found on the clothes claimed by accused.

Crown Witnesses

A. J. Watkinson, Dominion constable, the first witness to be called for the crown, submitted a sketch of Port Simpson and the various points to be referred to in the evidence. He also told of making the arrest and turning the accused over to the provincial police.

Robert Boyd Young, the main witness for the crown, told of having lived in Port Simpson for 17 years and knowing Clarence Flewin ever since he had arrived there. At 10 o'clock on September 11 he had been in his store making up the mail for the next morning's boat when he received a telephone call asking him to go to the old Boys' Home where friends were giving a send-off to Mrs. Riley. He went and was returning to his shop about 10:30 when, about 100 feet

JURY INDICTS CAPT. FREEMAN

A true bill against Hoynes K. Freeman, charged with obstructing an officer in the pursuit of his duties, was brought in by the Grand Jury at the Supreme Court assizes yesterday afternoon. The case will be heard on the completion of the Kevis and Flewin trial which is now in progress. G. W. Craig will prosecute and Capt. Freeman will conduct his own defence.

Mr. Justice Morrison relieved the Grand Jury from further attendance yesterday after they had brought in the Freeman indictment.

from his store, he heard swift footfalls behind him. Before he had time to turn around, he received two sharp blows on the head almost simultaneously and was clutched by the shoulder. Looking up, he immediately recognized Clarence Flewin whom he had no hesitancy in identifying. He said "Quit, Clarence" but accused hesitated for a moment and then brought the club down on his head again. Wheeling around to get towards the store, he saw the other man a few feet ahead of him. Flewin got a hold of his clothes and told the other man to "close in." He recognized the voice of Flewin then. The other man then gave him a blow on the head with his club. There was then a general mix-up in which he (Young) tried to shield himself and at the same time get in front of his assailants who tried to remain behind him. He found himself weakening and tried to get into a culvert. As he was about there he received blows on the back of the neck and the top of the head which staggered him. He fell into a ditch on his back and Flewin jumped down into the ditch and he got another good look at him against the sky line. Again aim was being taken at his head, against which all the blows were directed. He could plainly see Flewin's features without doubt then. Flewin got in another good blow and the blood blinded him so that was all he could see. He received more blows on the head and side of face and was by this time fighting against unconsciousness any lying still. He fell a heavy breath against his face and somebody feeling as if towards his pockets.

Indian Voices
The next he heard was Indian voices asking who he was and what had happened. The assailants had gone by that time. Some small Indian boys attempted to pick him up and he was packed to the back door of his house where he recognized the voice of William Beynon. He gave orders to have the door broken in and sent for a doctor. The doctor came and he was taken to the hospital.

In answer to Mr. Craig, Mr. Boyd Young said that he had been elected president of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

NOMINATIONS IN ONTARIO

Candidates Officially Off for Election today — Principally
Straight Fighting

TORONTO, June 14.—Candidates are officially off in the marathon for the sixteenth legislature of Ontario. Nomination day today in the rural and urban ridings in the province brought out a large field of candidates for 111 seats. In many cases, there will be three-cornered contests but, in the majority of ridings, it will be a straight fight between the Farmer-Labor coalition government and one or the other of the old line Liberal or Conservative parties.

Queen Charlottes and Stewart May Soon Get boat Service Doubled

Recommendations have been asked of Reginald Beaumont, local superintendent of the C.G.M.M. in regard to the possibility of operating the Prince John out of this port to nearby ports in order to give an increased service. Accordingly a recommendation has been made which it is quite possible may be acted upon. The service as suggested proposes to operate the Prince John out of this port giving a weekly service to Queen Charlotte Islands and Stewart, supplementing the services already given those places. It is also proposed to have a weekly service to the cannery on the Skeena River including Port Essington.

The institution of such a service would be a great boon to Prince Rupert. If it is brought about, it will have been very largely the influence of F. G. Dawson who has been planning with this end in view for some time. It will also prove of much value to the Islands and Stewart and also a convenience to the cannery. It would give a weekly service to Stewart and a weekly service to the Islands.

money on his person but it was not in his coat pocket as usual but in his hip pocket. The money was not taken.

He had continued to make an outcry until he had utterly collapsed. He was bleeding profusely.

Mr. Craig—Had there been feeling between the Flewin family and you?

Mr. Young—Yes, there had been strained relations for years.

Mr. Craig—When the men first came up to you, did they ask you who assaulted you?

Mr. Young—Yes.

Mr. Craig—Did you tell them?

Mr. Young—Yes.

Identified Clarence

In answer to Mr. Patmore, Mr. Young said that before he saw Clarence Flewin he had suspected it might be a Flewin attack. He had been warned that he might be damaged by them. He was astounded, however, to see that it was Clarence for he had never had trouble with him. He identified Flewin by his voice, his figure and his face. He did not recognize Kevins for he was concentrated on defending himself and getting away.

William Tait, native, testified to seeing Kevins and Flewin just before ten o'clock on the night in question while he was on his way home from Johnson's store. Joshua Ryan said he saw two men about 10 or 10:30 coming from the island to the mainland. One he took for Clarence Flewin but the other he did not recognize. Wilfrid Booth said he also saw the two men. One of them was Flewin and he did not recognize the other. He recognized Flewin by his voice and did not see his face.

Heard Cries

William Beynon, who said he was engaged in research work at Port Simpson, told of hearing the cries on the night in question shortly after 10 o'clock. Mr. Young had made a statement as to who assaulted him. It was a foggy night but bright in patches. He could see a quarter of a mile. There was no secret at Port Simpson of the relations between the Flewin and Young.

Miss Winnifred Jennings, matron of the hospital, told of hearing shouts and seeing some one come across the brook on to the path ahead of her, turning into the first walk at the right which led to the post office and Flewin's house. They were running until they crossed the brook but walked on the path ahead of her. She could not swear exactly who they were but one resembled Clarence Flewin two years ago when Boyd Young was referred to. Mr. Patmore objected to such evidence at this point (5:40 p.m.) until 8 o'clock.

Evening Session

Dr. C. A. Eggert told of handing a sample of Boyd Young's blood to Dr. West and also of Boyd Young's general condition after the assault. He would say without hesitation that the wounds might have caused his (Boyd Young's) death.

Clarence Watson, native, aged 16, was brought to the stand and was asked by Mr. Craig regarding a conversation with Clarence Flewin two years ago when Boyd Young was referred to. Mr. Patmore objected to such evidence at this point (5:40 p.m.) until 8 o'clock.

We have been making tanks for boats during the past ten years and we have yet to get a complaint of faulty workmanship.

WHAT WE HAVE DONE FOR OTHERS WE CAN DO FOR YOU.

ROWE'S SHEET METAL WORKS

The objection was sustained by His Lordship and the witness was retired.

This completed the evidence for the crown at this stage.

Mr. Patmore intimated that the defence witnesses would show that accused had not been near the scene of the assault during the period or for some time before or after. The accused, it would be shown, had arrived at the Flewin home shortly after 8 p.m. and had remained there until 5 the next morning. It would also be adduced that the blood stains on the clothing of accused had been the result of a boxing bout and the fact that Kevins nose bled freely.

Defence Evidence

Mrs. Esther Flewin, wife of William Flewin and sister-in-law of accused, said she had been a patient in the Port Simpson hospital on September 11. Both accused had come to the Port Simpson hospital at 7 that night to say good bye to her on the eve of their departure for the south and to make some purchases for her. They stopped for a few minutes and went to do the shopping. About half an hour later Clarence Flewin had come back with an undershirt, a writing tablet and a brush. He stayed about ten minutes. The next day in the hospital she heard Boyd Young say that it was Clarence Flewin who had committed the assault. He knew that because he was so much taller than the other.

Agnes Brentzen, aged 13, told of meeting Clarence Flewin on the night in question and walking with him to the gate of his home where Kevins was also entering. Leaving them she arrived home about 8:30.

Had Been Boxing

Mrs. Dora Flewin, wife of G. B. Flewin and daughter of Dr. J. C. Spencer, testified that Clarence Flewin and Kevins had come home on the night in question about 8:30 and had remained there. She had heard the shouting in the village and at the same time had heard the boys talking in their room. There was no way the boys could leave the house without her knowing. A few days prior to this the boys had been boxing outside the house and Ray had come into the kitchen sink with a bleeding nose. She and her husband lived at the John Flewin home where the boys had stayed.

John Flewin, father of the accused, Clarence Flewin, said the boys had been at his house a week or more. Clarence had been in Australia and had come home to visit him and his mother, Ray coming along as his chum. About 7 in the night in question Clarence had gone to the hospital to see his sister-in-law and had returned at 8:30, not leaving the house thereafter until the next morning at 5 o'clock when they left on the Chelobsin.

There were six or seven boats in Simpson that night with Naas River Indians aboard.

Mr. Patmore—What is the reputation of these Indians?

Mr. Flewin—They are considered not law abiding and refractory. I was government agent for 24 years and have had some experience with them.

In opening his cross examination, Mr. Craig enquired why witness had remained in court when he (Mr. Craig) had asked that all witnesses be excluded.

Mr. Flewin said that he owed Mr. Craig an apology for that. He had been busy with Mr. Patmore when the request had been made and did not notice.

Flewin's Letters

Mr. Craig showed Mr. Flewin a letter and asked if it was his handwriting. Mr. Flewin admitted that it was. Mr. Craig read from this letter, which was addressed to Mrs. Kevins, a statement that Kevins had not left the Flewin house that night. In answer to this, Mr. Flewin admitted that Kevins might have left the house but he had not known it when he wrote the letter.

Another letter Mr. Craig read and which Mr. Flewin admitted was in his handwriting was addressed to Hon. A. M. Manson. This letter said that "the boys were the victims of a miserable conspiracy of vindictive elements."

"Who do you mean?" asked Mr. Craig.

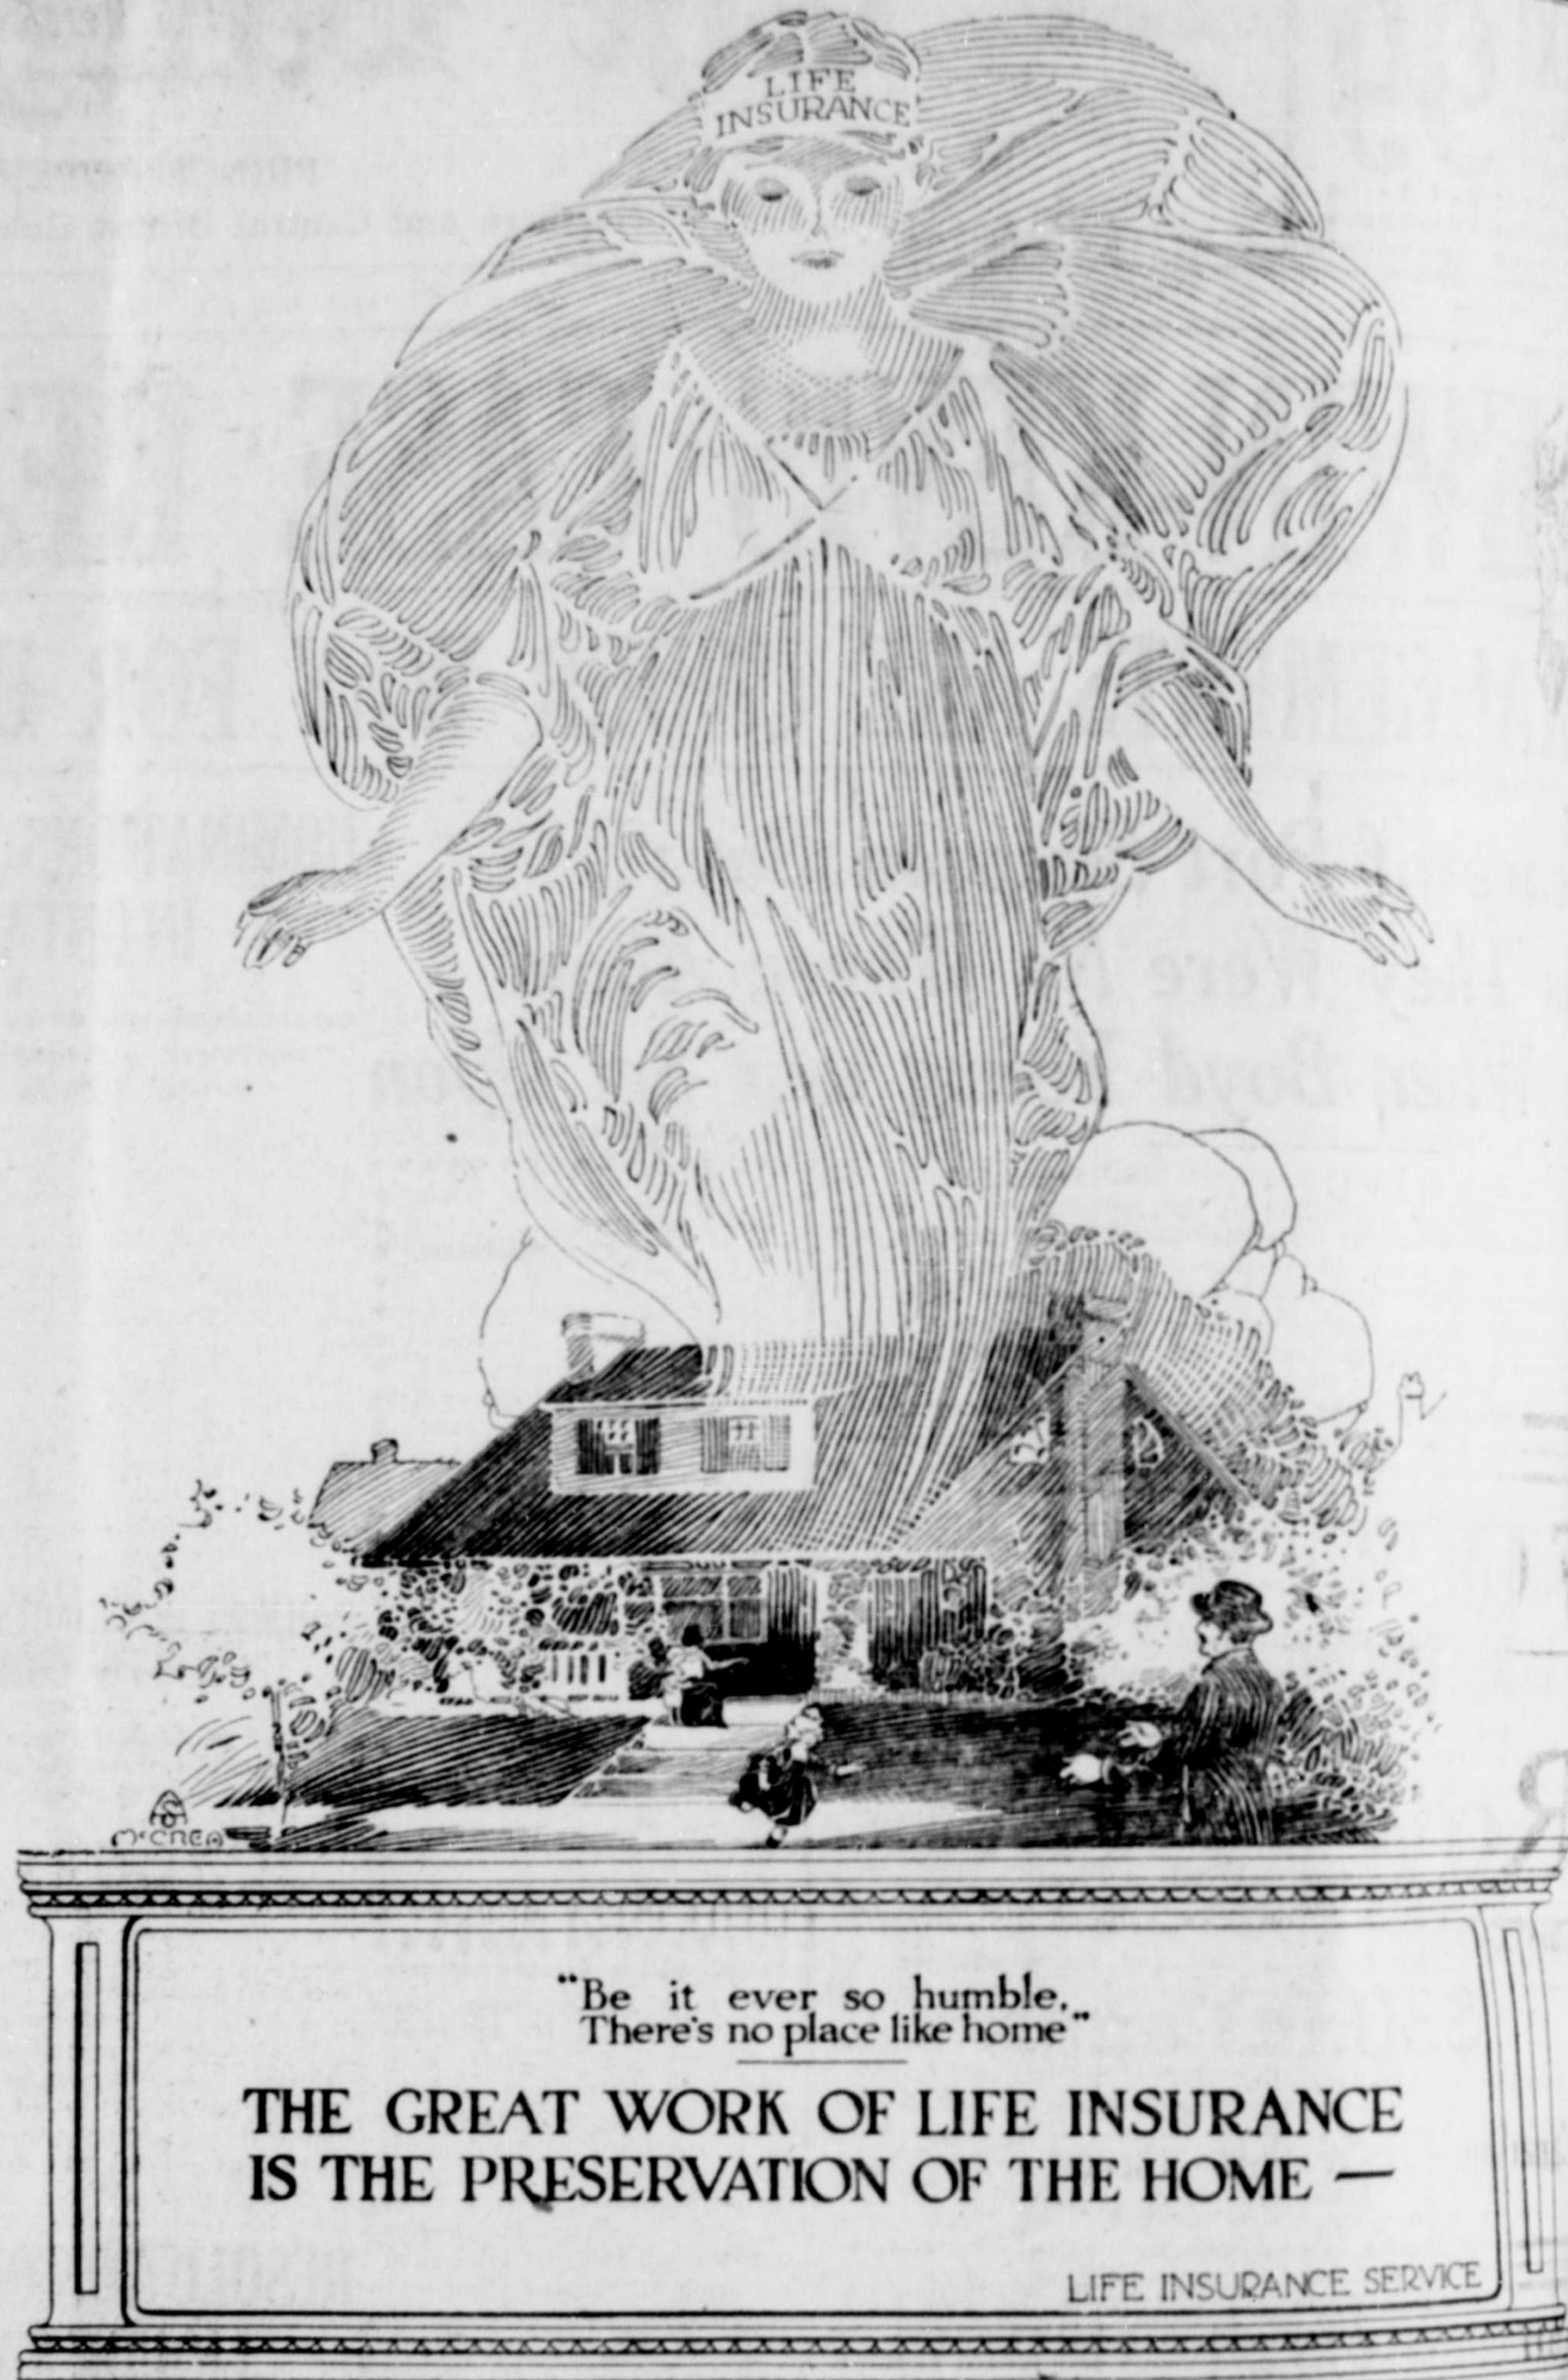

Mr. Flewin said that he meant parties in Simpson who had circulated calumnious statements about his family—Boyd Young and Watkinson not Ryan, Booth, Tait or Miss Jennings.

Another letter of Mr. Flewin's to Mrs. Kevins was alluded to. This referred to Mr. Flewin's re-

Mr. Patmore examined the letter to Mr. Manson and asked Mr. Craig to complete the sentence referring to Mr. Flewin's trouble with Mr. Young as a J.P. The balance of the sentence was "He was a pro-German and has been systematically lying against us."

George Brown, fish packer and assistant to G. B. Flewin as postmaster and who resided at the Flewin home, gave corroborative evidence as to the boys being at home on the night in question. He also told of meeting that night in the village two men whom he had at first taken for Clarence Flewin and Raymond Kevins. On closer view they turned out to be two Naas River Indians.

Time to do the many things ordinarily put off on wash-day. For Rinso does not keep you standing over the wash-tub, rubbing until your back aches and your hands are red and sore.

Rinso, an entirely different kind of soap, soaks clothes clean. Rubbing and boiling are unnecessary. The big soapy Rinso suds gently loosen the most ground-in dirt without weakening a single thread.

NOTE: In hard water it takes from 1 to 1 package of Rinso to a tub to make good suds. In soft water you need from 1 to 2 packages to a tub to get the big lasting suds that loosen all the dirt.

SUNDAY GOLF AND CONCERTS OBJECTION TO

Edmonton City Has Received Protest from Ministerial Association

EDMONTON, June 13.—Protest has been registered by the Edmonton Ministerial association against the action of the city in operating a golf course, swimming pool and conducting band concerts in the parks on Sundays. A delegation of the Ministerial association which waited upon the attorney-general Thursday morning demanded that immediate steps should be taken by the government to put a stop to these amusements or the grounds that these public places of amusement had been operated contrary to the regulations of the Lord's Day act.

REFERRED BACK

The attorney-general has given no decision on the matter and has referred the whole question back to the city to deal with as they see fit, and it is expected that the matter will be considered at the next council meeting.

In the past the city council has repeatedly been requested by the Ministerial association and other organizations to discontinue operating skating rinks for profit and other amusements on Sundays, but little or no attention has been given to the matter as most of the members of council were of opinion that the young people or, as a matter of fact, anyone at all would be better off at a skating rink or on the golf course than elsewhere.

May Duggan is by no means favorable toward the request of the association, and it is not expected that he will recommend to council that the request should be complied with.

Band Concerts

The band concerts which are held in the parks on Sundays, it is said, are for the most part approved by the public and do much to make a visit to the parks more pleasant. It was also pointed out by the mayor that a large number of persons who are members of choirs also assist in the musical concerts in the parks and are well paid for their services.

As for the swimming pool and golf course, it is contended that a large number of people would be deprived of the use of these utilities entirely if they were not given an opportunity to make use of them on Sundays, which is the only time in the week when they can get away from their work.

A fair sized crowd was in attendance at the Moose whist drive and dance held last night in the Metropole Hall. The early part of the evening was enjoyably spent at cards, refreshments were served and dancing then commenced to the strains of music furnished by the Westholme Orchestra.

The prize winners at whist were: First ladies, Mrs. Alf. Christiansen; second ladies, Mrs. Florian Brochu; first gents, W. Bance; second gents, H. D. Reynolds.

Joe Slaggard was master of ceremonies, Ralph Kiehaber was on the door, and other members of the social committee were N. Mussalem, W. Postulo, George James, James Bacon, Percy Cameron, Sam Antonus and N. D. Sweet.

Donors of cakes were Mrs. Seadden, Mrs. Foss, Mrs. Bacon, William Postulo and R. Kiehaber.

SWIMMING CLUB NEED OF FUNDS

Season Advancing and no Improvements Yet Made at Salt Lake

A meeting of the Prince Rupert Swimming Club was held in the city police court last night for the purpose of devising ways and means for repairing the floats and dam, and filling in the children's pool at the Salt Lakes. The meeting was well attended. J. Boddie, president, occupied the chair and C. Westaway acted as secretary in the absence of A. McEwen who was appointed secretary for the ensuing season.

With the rapid advancement of the swimming season it was thought expedient that the work at the Salt Lakes should be undertaken as soon as possible. It had been found impossible to obtain the necessary financial support of the public to enable the repair work on the floats and dam to be carried out, therefore to provide for the work being done it was decided to instruct the secretary to write a letter to the city council asking their support to the extent of $500 and also to approach the Rotary Club to ask for their financial aid. E. H. Shockley stated that the lumber from the old Bays Creek bridge would be floated through the creek and placed in the bay ready for towing to the lakes in the next few days. J. Boddie undertook to assist in towing the lumber across the harbor.
