WAS POLITICAL KNIGHT ERRANT

Joseph Martin's Career Took in Two Provincial, Federal and Imperial Legislative Halls

KNOWN AS FIGHTING JOE

enemies—as the hero of a novel which achieved considerable circulation. He was a radical of the first water, almost an iconoclast, indeed, and was responsible for the wrecking of more than one ministry. The fact that during the last few years of his life he played no active part in politics was due to no fault of his own, but rather to his sinister record as a disruptive force which made all parties fear his support as much as they did his opposition.

Born in Ontario

Joseph Martin was born on September 23, 1852, at Milton, Ont., knight-errant. Joseph Martin, he was educated by private tutor who died yesterday in Vancouver, at the Michigan Normal was one. He travelled far and wide seeking adventure at the School and Toronto University, pols, on the hustings and in the In his youth he was a telegraph legislatures. For thirty years operator. Later, he taught where the smoke of political bat-scholar at Ottawa and finally the blew thickest, there one was studied law there in the office of almost certain to find the lance McLeod Stewart. In 1882, he went and pennant of "fighting Joe" west, was called to the bar of And, true knight-errant that he Manitoba and took up the practice, he was always concerned tie of his profession in Portage more with the zest of the contest la Prairie and later in Winnipeg, than with any end he might almost at once he jumped into achieve. He liked politics for the politics, and to such good pur-fighting policies involved; and if pose, that he was elected to the there wasn't a fight, he made legislature for Portage la Prairie. But once the battle was in 1883. This seat he held until won he was apt to lose interest the general election of 1892, in the subsequent proceedings when he declined re-election, and to turn his attention if not. In 1888, he entered the Greenway cabinet as minister of education and attorney general, and re-

During a part, at least, of the retained his double portfolio until thirty years referred to — from about 1883 to 1913—Joseph Martin was probably the most-talked-of man in all Canada. His record was unique. No one in the entire political history of the Dominion even approached it. He served in two provincial legislatures and in the cabinets of two provinces. Others have done that. But, in a Canadian legislature, and, after addition, he played his part as leader of the opposition and as premier in one of these provinces; he sat in both the Dominion House of Commons and in the Mother of Parliaments, and, he figured—if one is to believe his school measure before the Privy Council, but when the heavy fighting was transferred to Ottawa, his crusading spirit led him there. He was a candidate for the federal house in Selkirk in the general election of 1891, but was defeated by the late Hon. T. Mayne Daly. Two years later, at a by-election, he was returned for the city of Winnipeg, the first Liberal ever returned by the Manitoba capital, and he took an active part in the Remedial Bill debates. In the general election of 1896, he was again a candidate but his opponent was Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, and "Fighting Joe" was defeated.

Comes to B.C.

In 1897 Mr. Martin set his course for British Columbia. He opened a law office in Vancouver and began at once to interest himself in politics. Party lines were not very definitely drawn on the Pacific coast at the time, but the Turner government was becoming unpopular and Martin took the opposition view. A general election was announced, and the new opposition recruit secured a nomination in Vancouver, and by his vigor, practised skill on the platform, and slashing attacks, added to the interest and piquancy of the campaign. The Turner government was not exactly defeated in the election, but the Lieutenant governor forced its resignation, and in the Semlin ministry which took its place, Martin was given the position of attorney general.

The new government was not many months old, when it began to appear that it was divided against itself, Martin and F. L. Carter Cotton, minister of finance, both Vancouver men, were personally antagonistic. They quarrelled about various things, particularly about Deadman's Island, which was a live local issue in Vancouver at the time and finally, following a banquet at Rossland, at which a speech by Martin had provoked a fight, the premier asked for the attorney general's resignation. It was refused at first, but when Martin found the majority of the government supporters were against him, he left the cabinet.

Led Dog's Life

From that day he was the Semlin government's most determined and vigorous opponent. For six weeks he led it a dog's life in the House, where, sometimes a majority of one, and sometimes only the speaker's casting vote stood between it and defeat. At length, on February 14, 1900, he succeeded in getting a majority of one against it on a redistribution measure. Semlin clung to office for a week or so, but the lieutenant governor dismissed him and called on Martin to form a cabinet. Martin complied, but had considerable difficulty in finding men to fill his portfolios. He had to go outside the House, and when he appealed to the country on June 7, on a platform which included an anti-Oriental plank and a proposal to build a railroad from the coast to the Kootenay, he was defeated. He had been premier a little over three months.

Mr. Martin remained in the legislature until 1903, part of the time as leader of the opposition, and later a supporter of the Dunsmuir and Prior ministries. At the general election of 1908, he ran for the House of

SUFFERED SO from Heart and Nerves LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Mr. A. H. Lee, Beamsville, Ont., writes:

"I am delighted to let you know what I have to say regarding the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did me."

"A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was so bad I could not sleep, only about two hours each night. My heart was so bad I had spells when driving on the road and would faint away, and neighbors would carry me in from my wagon. I also took these spells in the night and during my daily work on the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed, and was then compelled to walk the floor before I could settle down again, but after taking a few boxes of Commons in Vancouver as a candidate of the Asiatic Exclusion League, but was defeated and in December of the same year, he left for England, intending he said, to argue Canadian cases before the Privy Council and enter British politics. In the general election of 1909, he ran for the Imperial House as a Liberal in Southwest Warwickshire, but was defeated. Another general election came on in 1910, and "Fighting Joe" was elected for East St. Pancras. In 1911 he was back in Vancouver, though he had not resigned his seat in the Imperial House, and did some skirmishing against the government in the reciprocity campaign. He made one or two attempts afterwards to re-enter politics in British Columbia but never succeeded in getting a nomination. He was a candidate, too, for mayor of Vancouver, but was defeated. He even started an evening newspaper in Vancouver, and seemed for a time to get some excitement out of it, but it didn't prove a success, and he discontinued it after a few weeks.

rected as requested, and the business of the meeting proceeded.

On the reading of the minutes of the semi-annual meeting held in August last, it was moved by Mr. Armour and seconded by Mr. Murdoch that they be adopted as read. This motion carried.

The Chairman asked for reports from the heads of the different departments of the league.

Mr. Lowry talked on the financial statement. Mr. Noel told of the activities connected with Recreation Hall and mentioned the billiard tournaments which had proved so successful. Mr. S. Delman's report went fully into the different athletic achievements of the league, the banquet for all sport participants held some time ago, the gymnasium and the interest taken in its various departments.

Mr. Rowley stated there was nothing to report in connection with the choral and dramatic department.

Library Successful

Mr. Armour asked the chair if there was a report forthcoming from the forum department. The secretary replied that since Mr. Warwick's resignation of that office, the library, etc., had been functioning successfully, that a number of new books had been added as well as several newspapers, and that the opinion of the council had been to leave the appointment of Mr. Warwick's successor to the incoming council.

Upon a request from Mr. Rowley, the chair asked the secretary to make a general report. This went into details of the league's operations covering the year 1922. The profit and loss statement for 1922 showed a gain in commercial activities of $6,308.09, with a loss in general operation, library, social service and athletics of $3,857.55. Writing off a depreciation on equipment owned by the league amounting to $1,165.37 left a net profit of $1,648.18.

How much does it mean to you to keep your wife young?

Who hasn't met old women of 25, and young women of 40? It isn't years alone that age—any physician will tell you that undue expenditure of physical and mental energy will make the young old at 30.

It is such things as washing that soonest wear women out—handling of heavy clothes; stooping and lifting; working in cold water, and then hot; wet feet; trotting in and out from a warm, steamy room, to a cold outdoors.

More and more men are coming to appreciate that if for no other reason than that of health, it is inadvisable to permit this work by women.

And there's really no need for it—we can do the whole washing for the family, at a cost that's most moderate—less, in fact, than it costs to call in a laundress.

Rubbing Eases Pain

In his well-known Receipt Book, Dr. Chase writes: "You will allow me one remark about liniments—they ought in all cases to be rubbed in, from twenty to thirty minutes, until the part burns from the effects, instead of two or three minutes, as is the usual custom."

Rubbing with Dr. Chase's Liniment improves circulation, draws the blood to the skin away from the inflamed parts, and stimulates the blood vessels of the skin to healthful action.

Used in this way Dr. Chase's Liniment affords quick relief from Pains, Aches, Rheumatism, Lameness, Sprains and Strains.

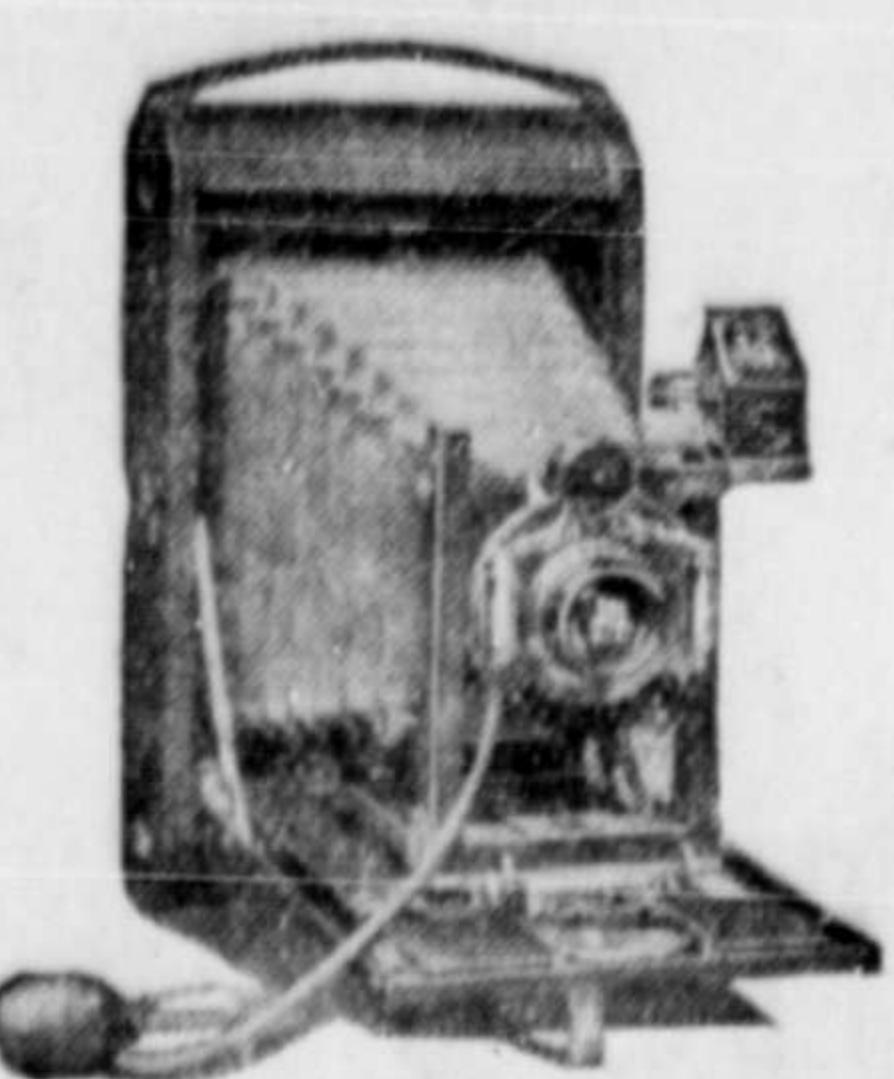

Since it reduces inflammation and congestion it is used with good results in the treatment of sore throat and chest colds. Rub thoroughly until a red glow appears on the skin.

EXCELSIOR CLUB HAS SOCIAL EVENING AT CHURCH LAST NIGHT

A social meeting of the Excelsior Club was held in the lecture room of the Baptist Church last night, when the "Helping Hands" Society was entertained by the boys, some 40 young people being present.

A very attractive program was provided. Violin solos were rendered by William Murray, Edward Walters and Bennie Windle—all were creditably rendered and most enthusiastically received, encores being called for in each case. W. Vaughan-Davis accompanied in his usual masterly manner. Readings also were given by Arthur Phillips, president of the club, and Bennie Windle.

During the evening numerous games were entered into with youthful zest, after which refreshments were partaken of, and a most enjoyable evening brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Pastor J. J. Smithson has charge of the Excelsior Club, which is in a flourishing condition.

Doings of the Mosquito Fleet which is the chief source of Prince Rupert's prosperity

A general of the Mosquito fleet on the death of his royal highness certain rich court treasures would be hidden on an island and a chart of the exact spot given to the captain. It is this remarkable chart that has come into the possession of the local mariners who claim that it is well, which speaks of the excellent sailing gift.

The boat is to be fitted with wonderful treasure hunting contrivances including a powerful unipneumatic horse power shovel capable of tearing up the whole of Siberia, if necessary, in a given time. The power of the boat will be derived from a Morse-Code hair oil engine of inter-combustible type which will give a speed of remarkable velocity when in reverse. The idea of the reverse speed is that the skippers can return to port with the treasure at a fast clip without turning round.

Building New Storehouse

Capt. A. Swanson, of the Prince Rupert Boat House, is building a new warehouse at the back of his present premises and near the railroad track. The building measures 20 ft. x 40 ft. and will give excellent additional facilities for storage room and thus afford extra space in the boathouse building to take care of public nautical requirements during the coming summer season.

Mosquito Fleet Had Rough Trip

An American halibut schooner, Capt. B. Hanson, arrived early in the week, returning from an extremely rough voyage through the high spots, and it was not known whether the barque would make safely. From the time the Chimera heading for home tied up at the fish dock that the sea ran so that it was impossible to get the stern of the boat.

While fishing off Cape Town, Alaska, that the struck. At the time the were practically at the end of their fishing and Capt. Hanson headed for port. The home passage became so rough that it was impossible to light the cook stove for purposes and the crew on whatever cold food band. The skipper him on the job constantly sized on his feet for 36 hours. However, all's hat ends well, and it was some crew that tied up the fish dock.

There was not a thing from chasing fish and hauling wood to burn, that the Gayeon was not sailed to sea its oil and fuel to earn. "Though women must work and men must weep" the doughty skipper cried "We've got to earn something to keep in the heat," and at that he went inside. The engine was running hard at the nose, and the stern was shimmery good as the Isle of Porcher hove in sight, the home of the free man's wood. The wind blew hard, the rain went up, and the skipper was black with rage, when someone suggested a drink of grog, a vintage of fine old ale. "Heave ho" Jim cried as

BOILS Made Him Sick and Miserable

Mr. Richard Zalenowski, Melean, Sask., writes:—I had been suffering continually with boils, for three years, and during that time I tried many different remedies without any success whatever. In spite of all my efforts I was compelled to go to the hospital. This was in the fall of the year, and right in the busiest time of the season. Upon my return home it just took about two weeks until my neck and arms were again occupied by the boils which made me feel very sick and miserable.

One day one of my friends advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitter, and after I had used less than two bottles I was very much surprised at the result.

It is now over two years since I got in touch with B. B. B. and I have had no bother with boils since. I will recommend it to all persons suffering from any defect in the blood."

he sighted the mast of a troller in distress. "Here's my handkerchief, wipe the engine's nose" then he turned his bow to the west. No matter how rough the weather may be or how many boats on the bum, to rescue a mariner and give him your grog takes the "f" out of all the fun. So the good ship sailed, and sailed and sailed, till the shore dove close in sight, when darkness fell with a terrible crash and some idiot struck light. That woke things up with an awful start and something went off with a bang. "If that's the propeller returning home" said the skipper "I don't give a damn." It was not the propeller by any means but the anchor of good tough steel which had slipped from the deck to the engine room and got caught in the flywheel. Nothing daunted at such a mess the skipper rushed below, and grabbing the anchor in both his arms stopped the engine with one foul blow. Just then the whole works came up to a stop, and the trees loomed up at the side, for the boat had climbed right into the bush to get away from the tide.

Rough Trip Reported

Capt. P. Jensen, of the Canadian halibut steamer Prince John, Capt. H. Neden, arrived in port early on Thursday morning and discharged, among other cargo, 300 tons of coal and 20,000 feet of finishing lumber for the Albert & McLaughlin interests.

The Union steamer Chilean also arrived with 300 tons of coal for the same interests.

bridge, returned to port on Tuesday last after a long cruising trip down the coast. After a while it is Cap's intention to take on another tour in distant waters on the same errand.

Oyster Bed Found

An oyster bed measuring three miles long has been discovered in the vicinity of Captain's Cove, Pitt Island, by Jack Toner of the Toner fish cannery, Seal Cove, at least Jack says he has found one. In addition to the oyster bed a nice nest of razor-back clams has been found nearby. These fields of salt water shell game are to be exploited in the near future and for that purpose Jack's cannery is to be towed from Seal Cove to Captain's Cove. It is understood that a safety razor making plant will be installed to work in conjunction with the cannery which will turn all the shells of the razor-back clams into safety razor blades. This is a very ambitious idea and given a good sprinkling of luck it should be a very productive industry.

"Keyhole" Hanna Returns

Our old friend Bob Hanna, alias "Keyhole" Hanna, returned to port all safe and sound last week after many exciting experiences. Bob has been skippering the tug Henry Revillard between Seattle and San Pedro hauling lumber, etc. Bob says that while things are very good across the line there is nothing doing in Vancouver. Summing up condition in Vancouver, he says: "I've heard of men trying to break out of jail but never heard before of men trying breaking into jail and that is what is happening in the sister city." The future activities of Bob are obscure at the present time but it is understood that the Admiral of the fleet will engage him temporarily on his staff as assistant advisor to the admiralty board.

Rough Trip Reported

Capt. P. Jensen, of the Canadian halibut steamer Prince John, which arrived in port during the week, reports having encountered some terrible weather while off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands. It was one of the roughest storms that Cap. has ever had to tussle with and it kept him and his crew humping hard to make port in safety.

Marguerite Doing Fine

The halibut boat Marguerite, the property of skipper Jack Morrison, had a successful trip on her last voyage to the high spots. Marguerite brought in 7,000 pounds of the finest halibut in the sea which was sold at 15c, 1c, and 10c. This was the first trip of the season and augers well for the season's business. Marguerite behaved herself so exceptionally well that she is undergoing a thorough manueuvre on the N. M. McLean ways before another dash for the nickels is made to the deep sea grounds.

Steve on the Bum

Yes sir, Steve is on the bum right this time. The sidewalk got up and struck him in the ribs, dislocating his vertebrae-tumitus which has sort of fouled his propellers and made his sorely felt absence at the Booth premises a necessity. The bloomin' place seems to be in mourning. All the hammers have got black crepe tied on the handles and the nails are all bent with grief while the milk is sour tempered. Each evening his colleagues sing the old familiar dirge "Oh Where is My Boy Tonight" before going home for their nightly handout.

Week's Business

During the week 160,000 lbs. of halibut has been marketed through the Fish Exchange.

The highest price paid was 17.9c. and 10c. and the lowest 13.5c. and 9c.

WHAT TO HAVE IN THE FAMILY MEDICINE CHEST

A Safe Remedy for Colds Absolutely Essential; the Capsule Form Ideal

In the home of practically every reader there is some member of the family with a cold. These are the days when colds are common; too often they are looked upon as "mere colds," and nothing is done to prevent further trouble. Yet a cold which at first seems to give no cause for alarm will sooner or later bring in the jitters, and then the trouble begins.

At the first symptoms of a cold or grippe, start taking Grip Fix. You will be surprised at the relief it gives and the quick results with which it completely breaks up the most tenacious cold. Grip Fix has been used everywhere in Canada for ten years, and no remedy is better or more favorably known. Grip Fix comes in capsule form, convenient to keep or carry, easy to take. In this way a cold can be cured in a single night. Thousands of cases prove it—an unfailing record of success. Get Grip Fix from Orme's Drug Store Ltd. 25¢ a box.
