SEATTLE, Oct. 8. — Henry Lacelle, aged 34, an advertising man recently married, was shot in a roadhouse near here early Sunday morning by Winifred Gibbons, aged 21, who claims she knew Lacelle years ago as one Bill Williams.

In a dying statement Lacelle said he never saw the girl before. He was talking with a group of men on the verandah when the girl came to ask assistance in getting her car out of a ditch nearby. She suddenly drew a revolver from her clothing and fired at Lacelle, hitting him in the abdomen. The girl is in custody.

Electors to be Given Choice of Four Alternatives—Government Control or Prohibition

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 8.—Through a preferential ballot with four alternatives, electors of Alberta on November 5, will decide whether there is to be a change in the provincial liquor laws. On the result the government will base its legislation, whether the people call for a system of government shops or for the continuation and development of the present system of prohibition.

The committee's report was the subject of a lively debate during the last two days of the session. The form of ballot will be as follows:

(a) Prohibition. — Meaning thereby continuation and development of the present legislation; that is, the abolition of the sale of all liquors other than for medicinal, sacramental, manufacturing and scientific purposes.

(b) Licensed sale of beer.—Meaning thereby the sale of beer in licensed hotels and other premises, as provided in the proposed Temperance Act.

During the seven months referred to the National lines in Canada show a net deficit of $2,232,838, but this was turned into a surplus by the net revenue on the United States lines which amounted to $5,217,299.

LIFE ENDS FOR THREE CONVICTED MURDERERS IN KENTUCKY PRISON

One Shot and Other Two Supposed to Have Committed Suicide to Escape Fumes

EDDYVILLE, Kentucky, Oct. 8. —At the western state penitentiary Monte Walters, Lawrence Griffith and Harry Fertland, convicted murderers, were found dead when the attackers entered the barricaded mess hall late Saturday. The gunmen were found on the second storey of the mess hall.

Walter had evidently been killed with a bullet during the siege; Griffith and Fertland were dead from pistol bullets through the heart and it is thought they committed suicide to escape being killed from ammonia with which the building was flooded by the attackers.

The three men tried to escape from the penitentiary on Wednesday last killing one guard, fatally wounding a second and injuring a third. State troops fired on them in their stronghold but failed to dislodge them, hand grenades were then used but without effect. Finally ammonia fumes were used. The building held by the convicts was the one in which food supplies were stored.

Tentative Agreement Reached Regarding Building of Road Prince Rupert to Skeena River

The question of the Grand Trunk Pacific Development Co. Ltd. bearing a part of the cost of a road leading out of this city to the Skeena River by turning over a portion of its land instead of paying cash and also the matter of subdividing its acreage in the vicinity of the city and allocating the proper share to the provincial government were fully gone into at a conference between Hon. T. D. Pattullo, member for Prince Rupert and minister of lands, and officials of the company in Victoria last week and a satisfactory agreement between both parties, subject to the ratification of the legislature, was reached stated G. P. Tinker, local representative of the G.T.P. Development Co. who returned to the city Saturday evening after attending the conference. The acreage in question includes the holdings of the company behind the townsite, across the harbor and at other points nearby. The property including the Salt Lake may also be included. Mr. Tinker, while declining to give out any definite results of the conference, stated his opinion that the agreement reached would be of considerable benefit to the city. The conference was held at the request of Mr. Pattullo to clear up several outstanding matters affecting the G.T.P. Development Co.'s holdings in the vicinity of the city.

Those attending the meeting were Mr. Pattullo, E. A. Field, C.N.R. land commissioner, Winnipeg; J. A. Heaman, C.N.R. chief engineer, Winnipeg; G. M. Hair, C.N.R. solicitor, Winnipeg; R. W. Hannington, C.N.R. solicitor, Vancouver, and Mr. Tinker. Mr. Heaman and Mr. Hair came north on the steamer with Mr. Tinker and took the train from here on their return to Winnipeg.

CANADA GIVES RECEPTION TO LLOYD GEORGE

Cheering Crowds Met Him on Arrival and Compelled Speech: Hoarseness Curtails Program

MONTREAL, Oct. 8.—Cheering crowds met Lloyd George on his arrival from New York Saturday night and compelled him to make a stump speech at the railway station of the Canadian National in which he said his one mission was to convey the thanks of the old time war premier to Canada for her war time assistance. There was no hostile note in the welcome anywhere.

Sunday Lloyd George turned the first sod in the Baptist Church at Westmount and spoke briefly, rejoicing that Canada was apparently escaping the wave of materialism which he said was threatening to engulf Europe.

The visitor will curtail his speaking program on account of hoarseness. He will not travel west of Winnipeg and may cancel his speech there. The United States program stands as announced.

Quick Action On Road Arrangements.

The fact that there has been quick action on the negotiations between the Canadian National Railway and the Provincial Government in regard to the building of the road from this city to the Skeena River is most satisfactory. If the legislature sanctions the work, as it is to be presumed it will, there should then be no further delay in regard to proceeding with it.

Prince Rupert people will appreciate the commencement of this road work as it is something they have been long waiting for.

Evils Of Group Government Shown.

The recent trouble in Germany with final re-forming of the coalition government under Chancellor Stresemann is another example of the difficulties which attend group government. In Germany there are several groups and no party is strong enough itself to form a government without the support of others. The present government is made up of a number of elements which usually do not mix well. The result is that all have to compromise and if there is one that is more stubborn than the rest it gets its way or the government is broken up.

Government by minority is worse than government by majority and neither are what might be called ideal.

Utilize Dock Already Here.

The suggestion that grain may be shipped from the local dock without an elevator is one that is worth investigating. If any local people have friends who are connected with the grain export trade it would be good business to get in touch with them and draw attention to the facilities here and possibly put them in touch with the grain committee of the local board of trade. Nothing should be left undone to advertise our facilities here and to try to induce shipping men to use this port. Its development depends to a large extent on the energy of the people here.

Opportunity To Dig And Farm In North

Since the founding of this city there has been no opportunity for local people to secure a piece of land which they might clear up and cultivate. Everything seems to have been tied up by the railway company or by the government because of the possibility of it increasing in value. This has tended to hold back the district. There should be a number of small truck farms in the neighborhood but the land cannot be secured.

Now that an arrangement has been made between the railway company and the provincial government for building a road through the island, it is to be hoped a good deal of the land will be offered for sale at such prices as would encourage permanent settlement for gardening or farming purposes. Many local people would like a piece of land outside so that they may work there nights and week ends.

Up to recently there has been no very great demand but now people are looking to establishing here permanently and they want more than a city lot on which to locate.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AND MORALITY

Nanaimo's Proposal to Exact a Pledge in Regard to Property Destruction Criticized

In his sermon last night Rev. G. G. Hacker spoke of the proposed pledge at Nanaimo, intended to prevent young people destroying property and urged that interest in the Sunday Schools and in religion were much more important. After the sermon a number of people remained to ask questions and to discuss the problem. Mrs. Gordon Joliffe sang two solos. In the course of his sermon Mr. Hacker said:

"While we heartily approve of any movement in our schools which will make better citizens of our boys and girls, we are not ready to admit that the youth of Prince Rupert are lawless property destroyers. The only cases reported seem to point that a few reckless or mentally weak boys break or shoot holes in windows. Church congregations have decreased in some places but Sunday school attendance in intermediate grades has increased in B.C. for some years back.

"The Nanaimo proposals really deal with the work of the Sunday school. The moral influence of the Sunday school has not lost its hold on boys and girls. Roger Babson points out that in every one thousand juvenile criminals three are regular Sunday school attendants and 997 are non-attendants. A further proof of the efficiency of the Sunday school is that Judge Ben Lindsay, the juvenile expert of the United States, suspends sentence on three requirements: 'Attend school regularly, be home at 9 p.m., and show a Sunday school attendance card.'

"France tried the teaching of morals without religion and condemned it over twenty years ago. 'It is a producer of increased child crime and also greatly increases child suicide,' is a quotation from their report. 'The belief in God is necessary as a motive for doing right. The teaching of abstract morals is a failure.' The Nanaimo proposal of religionless morals suggests Rip Van Winkle.

Course of Instruction

"Is the character building in our school boys and girls of as much importance as domestic science, manual training, or forestry protection?" inquired Mr. Hacker. "These are in the hands of experts. Why make the teaching of morals a side line. Many teachers are already doing as much moral teaching as a side line admits time for. Why not follow the rapidly growing movement of having an expert instructor in non-sectarian religious education. Kentucky has a splendid course of study. Thousands of children have taken the course voluntarily. The teachers are approved by the education department. The examinations count on the departmental examinations. This course of study has the endorsation of the B. C. minister of education if the people will really show a lively interest in it.

"There are several problems justly deserving more attention than window breaking. What about temperance instruction and sex purity problems. We have first hand information that these would not be amiss in Nanaimo. The Sunday school does not reach all the youth as there is no compulsory attendance. Where the Sunday school fails to get the boy or girl there is not generally a very lively interest in character building in the home. The school then is the only hope for such boys and girls. Let us give them the best possible training.

"Evidently Nanaimo has scrapped the church to a marked degree. It is also evident that the experiment is a failure. Why try another method which has failed, namely 'morals without religion?' Why not increase efforts in backing up the church's great work which is the Sunday school. Also supplement that work by religious training in the day school."

ECHO FROM THE CONSUL'S VISIT

Article in Fisheries Journal Tells New Yorkers of Prince Rupert

When Consul Wakefield made his tour of the U. S. recently he lost no opportunity of telling about Prince Rupert. The Acto Fisheries News has an article in the September number in which the Consul tells about this port. It says:

The people of the United States consume 20,000,000 pounds of British Columbia halibut annually, according to Ernest A. Wakefield, the American Consul at Prince Rupert, British Columbia, who is at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Mr. Wakefield says that Prince Rupert is the greatest halibut port in the world.

"The refrigerator car has greatly transformed the fish industry of the Northwest," said Mr. Wakefield. "The fish is all solidly iced and then packed in refrigerator cars and shipped across the continent. Prince Rupert is a terminal of the great Canadian National Railroad, which formerly was the Grand Trunk line. This is the greatest transcontinental railroad in the world and its building was due to Charles M. Hayes, a wonderful railroad genius who went down on the Titanic. He intended to make Prince Rupert one of the most important ports in America, and would have done so had he lived.

"Even now it is the greatest halibut port in the world. Twenty-six million pounds were landed there last year. The American boats brought in 18,000,000 of this, and 20,000,000 of it was consumed in the United States, 5,000,000 of the 20,000,000 coming directly to New York. Prince Rupert is also in the heart of the salmon country. In the proximity of the town more than one hundred million salmon are landed yearly, but of course we do not claim many laurels for salmon. Alaska may be conceded that honor, but Alaska is only ninety miles away.

"The salmon and halibut grow to great size. The salmon return to the streams where they were born, deposit their eggs and die. But halibut live to a very old age. Halibut only grows one pound a year and the fish must be fourteen years old before it spawns. Realizing these facts and also knowing that this delicious fish will be exterminated if something is not done, the Canadian House of Commons has just ratified a preliminary agreement with the United States, making a closed season for halibut for three months during the spawning time."

CLIMBING UP MOUNT MORSE

Eleven Local Men Scale Summit and Frighten Away Game

WONDERFUL SCENERY

(By H. F. Pullen)

For five years I have been looking forward to climbing Mount Morse but there were always lions in the way. Sometimes I was too busy or had other engagements, or failing this the weather was bad or there was no one to go with or a launch was not available to take us to the other side. Yesterday, however, everything was favorable and we did it. Eleven of us, mostly boarders at the Inlander, climbed to the summit of the mountain across the harbor, some three thousand feet above sea level and found there what was to us an undiscovered country, a dream of delight. The best of it was that none of us had been there before and for that reason, perhaps we enjoyed it the more.

It is not that climbing Mount Morse is any great feat but it is one that so few people undertake and that it is so well worth doing that I feel bound to tell about it in the hope that others will share the enjoyment which it gave us. A number of young ladies have reached the top at different times, but we were a stag party. There was Jimmie Farquhar, ball star, and J. W. Hamilton, better known as Hammie; Jack Johns, the commercial genius; Howard Pringle of the Cold Storage staff, well known as a sportsman; Ed. Jenner, merchant prince; S. Wrigglesworth, budding banker; A. Radbourne, another finance juggler; W. T. Battersby, wielder of the big knife; W. M. Watts, of Stork's emporium; and G. E. Foster, a tall athlete with a good voice.

Off on Time

For a wonder everybody was on time, this fact being due probably to the matitudinal efforts of Battersby who has a habit of getting Inlander boarders out of bed at unholy hours. Sharp at eight o'clock the party boarded the good launch Gwen and the little Easthope went thug-thuging up toward Tuck's Inlet, reaching the cannery at nine. Some little time was lost inquiring the way, but the best instruction we could get was to keep to the right of the creek and follow the deer paths. That is what we did.

There was great eagerness to be off but it was not very long before heavy breathing could be heard. The going was good but it was all uphill at varying angles from almost level to nearly 75 degrees. And there was very little of it anywhere near the dead level. Being on the level does not get you uphill.

Three Nimrods

I forgot to mention that there was three nimrods in the party. They carried wicked looking rifles and at times caused much worry to those who had no such implements. Their chief value, however, lay in their use for signals, although in the course of the trip a young porcupine and several Ptarmigan were exhibited as examples of their prowess. Deer and bear, the two kinds eagerly wished for, kept carefully out of sight. Eleven irresponsible and reckless youths shouting and snorting and breathing hard and snapping off boughs and breaking dead trees, do not conduce to success in deer hunting neither do they attract bears.

Coffee at Last

After climbing nearly two hours and a half, the leaders who had been showing off somewhat in keeping well ahead of the rest, decided that it was noon and the regularity of their eating habit could not be broken. When the rearguard arrived on the scene a little curling smoke was finding its way up among the pines and lunches were being produced. Alas, however, for all the calculations of the athletes. There was no coffee and what is lunch without coffee? The reason there was no coffee was that there was no water. Although the immortal Wiggs had labored throughout to carry an empty lard container to this point, investigation proved that the water was far below. We could hear it in the distance. However two noble patriots essayed forth with the pail and after about three quarters of an hour returned and the coffee was made and everybody happy. What was our chagrin, however, to find later that right at the top of the mountain within a few feet of the highest peak, there was the finest clear water awaiting us. We shall know better next time.

It is difficult to tell of the scene that breaks on one as he reaches the topmost peak of Morse. In one direction may be seen Kaien Island and surrounding country all laid out before him with the various waterways and lakes. Southwesterly is Digby and the Islands beyond. Toward the Pacific is the Dundas archipelago and Georgetown and Port Simpson and Alaska beyond. Northerly is range after range of mountains, with the gorge of Wark Canal well defined and splendid. Beyond it peaks and glaciers. We estimated that at least one hundred mountain peaks could be plainly seen but perhaps there were more. One glacier seemed to fill what looked like a volcano crater a mile or more in diameter. For more than an hour we drank it all in and tried in a futile way snapping of a dozen or so kodak films.

Alpine Scenery

The beauty of the view from Mount Morse is much enhanced by the alpine scenery of the mountain itself. There are crags and dells and much open space carpeted with verdure. Small meadows where deer browse were numerous. Open glades and picturesque formations—these all were in themselves sufficient attraction to induce one to climb to the top. Prince Rupert people should all go there. It is the one beauty spot that excels all others I have yet seen in this neighborhood. It can be reached by anyone who has stamina and muscle. We scarcely got wet feet and most of the travelling was on fairly dry ground. At the top there was no muskeg.

Coming down was rollicking fun for a while but toward the end there was a slowing up. I had hurt my leg and had to hang back as I got near sea level. It took me two hours to descend but some made it in a hour and a half or less. On reaching the cannery we found our launch high and dry on the mud and two hours to put in before it would be possible to get away. Happily we were able to get dinner at the cannery, through the courtesy of Manager Sutherland and Store-keeper George Ackerman. It was a wonderful dinner. Jack Johns presided and made the speech of thanks at the close and at 8.30 or thereabouts we reached home happy and rather proud of ourselves.

Pacific Milk Is Not Satisfied

Yesterday we got a letter from a lady in which she said she buys Pacific Milk because it is put up in British Columbia. We are grateful, of course, but seriously this explanation is not enough. The merits Pacific Milk have rest not upon local sentiment but quality. It is 43% cream.

HARVEST SUPPER AT TELKWA THURSDAY

Anglican and Union Churches Combine Efforts With Very Good Results

One of the most pleasing events held in Telkwa for a long time was a harvest supper held in the Union Church on Thursday evening. This was a combined affair, the Anglican and Union churches both taking part and showing their true community spirit in the way they worked together. Large tables were spread and the collection of good things to eat would have tempted the most dainty palate. After everyone had obtained that feeling of satisfaction which comes at the close of a hearty meal, the tables were taken out and a short program of speech and song was enjoyed.

Mr. P. Spouse made a most entertaining chairman and kept the audience in a happy frame of mind by leading in a good deal of community singing. Solos were rendered by Mrs. T. M. Ovens, Rev. Mr. Lees of Smithers, and P. Spouse.

A quartette of "colored folk" gave a very pleasing number in which singing was the chief item. H. H. Phillips, with his usual cleverness gave a couple of monologues, the first being the story of a woman who had her husbands numbered so as to keep track of their doings. Short speeches by Dr. Wrinch of Hazelton, and Reverends Lees, Brayfield and Mawhinney were given during the evening, and the highly successful gathering broke up with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Sport Chat

Twice have the New York Yankees been favorites over the Giants in the world's series and twice have fans been disappointed. This year the Yanks are bigger favorites than ever before in view of the great machine which they have worked up which throughout the American League season has been able to maintain a lead seldom if ever before equalled. Miller Huggins seems to have the advantage over John J. McGraw this year. Certainly the Yanks are the superior aggregation of baseballers. With Babe Ruth in shape and playing with the frenzied zeal of a snare drummer and with the whole Yankee team imbued with the same spirit, it does not appear on paper that the Giants can repeat this year.

The Gotham garden party, once again an exclusive New York feature, opens on Wednesday of this week in the Yankee Stadium. The games will alternate between the Stadium and the Polo Grounds. General opinion seems to be that this series will not be long and that the Yankees will come out on top without giving the Giants much of a show for it. The suddenness of last year's affair may be repeated this year but with the tables turned.

In their third attempt to win the world's baseball championship, the Yankees will be aided by a staff of pitchers rated second to none in either of the Major Leagues. Herbert J. Pennock, lefthander; Samuel Pond Jones, righthander, and J. Robert Shawkey, righthander, have been the Yankees' three best bets on the hurling mound. Waite Hoyt has had a good season, finishing well up on the winning side, and Leslie Joseph Bush, while erratic at times, won the majority of his games. Carl Mays, the underhand flinger, was not up to his best form and had little to do. It is unlikely that Mays will be started in the series and it is probable that Bush, the fork ball man, may be used only in emergency. Pennock, Jones, Shawkey and Hoyt appear as likely mainstays and may work in that order.

RIFLE SCORES

Only six North B.C. Regiment Rifle Association marksmen turned out at the McNicholl Creek range yesterday afternoon so no spoon was awarded for the day. W. Brass turned in the highest score his total being 91. Scores were as follows:

Griffith's "hite Rose" is said to be an absorbing story.

"If Winter Comes" is drawing big houses at the movie theatres. It's a curious yarn but attractive withal.

"Pioneer Trails" is an Indian story with plenty of war paint and feathers.

During the newspaper strike in New York town criers were used in advertising the pictures.

"Hollywood, I hear you calling me," is the latest hit.

"Her Dangerous Path" features the problem of picking a husband. This should appeal to the girls.

FAMOUS MRS. FAIR IS A MELODRAMATIC PLAY

Deals With Lives of Those in Highest Social Circles

Although Fred Niblo's picturization of the great American play, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," coming to the Westholme Theatre, deals with the lives of persons moving in the highest social circles, this production has more than enough thrills and good fast action to keep it from being confused with the ordinary tea party plot.

Blending into the main theme of James Forbes' famous stage creation and affording exciting contrast to the quietly tense developments of the story are a number of big melodramatic scenes which will bring a thrill to the more blase of theatregoers.

Probably the most spectacular event in the Fred Niblo production is a race in the dead of night between a through passenger train and high-powered roadster. Cullen Landis, at the wheel, took several chances in getting realism for the screen. Roaring along at breakneck speed on the state highway that parallels the railroad tracks in Santa Barbara County, dodging cars along the route, making sharp turns on mountain roads, scaling steep grades, Mr. Landis gave the cameraman something to talk about.

Flirting again with fate in his roadster, Mr. Landis, in another episode of the picture, skids his car on a wet pavement at a forty-mile gait, making a sharp hairpin turn in his pursuit of the despicable Dudley Gillette. His overtaking the villain precipitates a fight that for bitterness and realism is rivalled only by the famous battle in "The Spoilers."

CHRISTIAN BY SIR HALL CAIN

Famous Play is to be Week End Offering at Westholme Theatre

Goldwyn's super-feature, "The Christian," adapted from Sir Hall Caine's most famous novel, directed by Maurice Tourneur, is coming to the Westholme at the week end. This photoplay is a credit to everyone concerned in its production; it takes rank among the really big films of the year. Tourneur was selected by Goldwyn production executives to make the film because of his fine record of achievement in adapting famous novels to the screen. He has done a finished and inspiring job.

Director and principals were sent to England to make exteriors in London, at Cambridge, at the Derby at Epsom Downs and on the Isle of Man where the big thrilling climaxes of the story take place. The author gave his assistance to the director in obtaining the correct atmosphere and in getting the consent of the London officials to photograph the big mob scene in Trafalgar Square—the first time such permission had ever been granted.

The story of "The Christian" is well known to readers and playgoers—it concerns the efforts of one John Storm, become a Christian Socialist, to live as Christ would live, and his struggle to free himself from his love for Glory Quayle. He meets the usual end that bomes to all reformers and prophets— is mobbed to death.

NOVEL THEME IN SCARS OF JEALOUSY

Story of Kidnapping Rich Boy in Order to Make Man of Him

The story, Scars of Jealousy, to be shown at the Westholme Theatre follows:

Jeff Newland, son of Colonel Newland, a rich Alabama planter, has degenerated through luxurious living into such a ne'er-do-well that his father disinherits him.

In the hills of the "Cajans," lineal descendants of the French Acadians who were driven out of Nova Scotia by the British, the Colonel meets Coddy Jakes, a young mountaineer absolutely ignorant of civilization. The boy is the descendant of Count Cartier de Jacques, and when he is adopted by the Colonel as "Carter Newland" and given the advantages of education, his blue blood triumphs over sordid hill generations. He develops into a credit to the Newland name.

Chancing to overhear a conversation between Jeff and his father, who refuses to listen to Jeff's pleas that the "Cajan" boy be cast off, the adopted son realizes that the old man's love is bound up in his true son. There is one way he can repay what has been done for him—by making a man of Jeff.

Kidnapping him, he carries him into the hills and forces him at the point of a gun to work in a cornfield. Jeff's moral fiber hardens with his muscles and when Carter is seized by a lynching party, falsely charged with the murder of a revenue officer, Jeff escapes from the hills and organizes a rescue party with the aid of the Colonel.

Helen Meanix, Jeff's cousin, who has fallen in love with Carter, rescues him from the lynchers, but they are trapped in the forest fire from which they finally escape by means of a timber flume. The rescue party finds them at dawn and there is a happy reunion of the entire Newland family.

The latest Griffith picture is to be named "America."

J. P. Forde, district engineer for the federal department of public works, Victoria, made the round trip to Stewart on the Prince Ruperet yesterday returning south on that steamer this morning.
