Russia Renews Her Attack on United States

Says Uncle Sam Really Responsible for Greek Balkan Differences

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—Russia resumed her attacks on the United States today with the charge by Dmitri Manuilsky, foreign minister for the Soviet Ukraine, that the American government was trying to throw a smoke screen to cover "intervention" in Greece. He said that the United States and Britain were primarily responsible for Balkan troubles and not Greece's northern neighbors.

Liberals Favor Modification of Bill 39

Speculation Rife As To New Party Leader

VANCOUVER (CP)—Conceding public unpopularity of Bill 39, the executive of the provincial Liberal Association yesterday unanimously passed a resolution asking for its amendment early next session to make it more consistent with "recognized liberal, democratic and equitable principles" and to UNFAIR TO DAVEY JONES—An unwelcome arrival in Davey Jones' locker is this ship, loaded with lethal gas taken from the Germans at the end of the war, as it slides down to the bottom of the North Sea. Several such poison-laden ships were towed far out to sea by Allied craft and sunk where they can do no harm.

STRIKE END IS EXPECTED

Meat Supply Is 90 Percent Cut Off

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the Meat Packers' Association of America, believes that the meat packers' strike may be over within two weeks. Arbitration proceedings should not take up more than four days once they are started.

Meanwhile speculation is rife over a successor to Premier John Hart as party leader. A number of delegates, who withheld use of their names, said Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, might be offered the leadership. They said he had not been approached but they believed he was willing to be drafted. They said it would effect a compromise between rival claims of Hon. Gordon Wismer, Byron Johnson and Hon. E. T. Keaney.

The MacKenzie possibility was blown up when he rejected the proposal with the blunt "I am not in politics."

JEW SHIPS FOR HAIFA

Refugees Heading for Palestine in Two Vessels

JERUSALEM (CP)—A broadcast purporting to emanate from one of two ships headed for Palestine with several thousand illegal Jewish immigrants, said yesterday that they were surrounded "by a cluster of British vessels preparing to attack."

The broadcaster asserted that he was speaking from the "Guelia" (Redemption), name given by the Jews to the refugee ship Northland which passed through the Dardanelles Sunday. She was accompanied by the Paducah, renamed the "Medina Yehudit" (Jewish State).

The two ships are carrying about 3500 Jews who embarked at a Bulgarian port.

"provide for much more practical, speedy and efficient method of administration." The resolution also asked for immediate appointment of a public relations board as provided for in the Act.

Members of the executive expressed varying views regarding continuation of the coalition with Former Premier T. D. Pattullo opposing it. "Coalition is getting to the point where the two old line parties are sparring for position" he said.

Senator J. W. DeB. Farris came out publicly for coalition later at a meeting of the Liberal Women's Association, declaring that "we must stand together, close our ranks and make sure that Socialists and Socialism shall never dominate in British Columbia."

There is also speculation as to the future of Premier John Hart who announced his early retirement. On one hand, it is stated he will assume the presidency of a financial concern. On the other, it is predicted he will be appointed to the Senate.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE IS HEARD

Trial of Kitimaat Native Promises to be Short Session

Stanley Cecil Shaw, Kitimaat Indian charged with manslaughter, declared in Assize Court Thursday that he could not remember the period of the night of August 25 when he is alleged to have pushed Steve Albert Rachinsky into Ocean Falls harbor, causing him to drown.

The short, full-blooded native took the witness stand in his own defence at the conclusion of prosecution testimony in what apparently was to be the shortest trial of the current fall Assize Court session.

His case began at 2 o'clock and testimony was concluded at 5 o'clock after the case had been interrupted to allow the jury of a previous case to bring in its verdict.

In a clear manner, Shaw told the court of the events on the afternoon of the day in which he is alleged to have pushed Rachinsky from a float as the latter stood aside to let him pass on a narrow mooring float at Ocean Falls.

After drinking liquor aboard two boats in the afternoon and spending part of the evening in a beer parlor, he "blacked out" and could not remember anything until he awoke the next morning, handcuffed in the Ocean Falls jail, he declared.

Shaw was the only defence witness called by Defence Counsel Roderick MacLeod after Crown Counsel J. T. Harvey had produced six witnesses, two of whom testified that they had seen Shaw push Rachinsky into the water.

According to evidence by William Walter Card, Steve Hewko, Gordon Wright and Robert L. Post, they, accompanied by Rachinsky, had emerged as a group from a beer parlor after 10 o'clock on the evening of August 25. Near a place called the "Greenhouse" they had been accosted by Shaw, who also had been in the beer parlor, and who accused them of stealing his wallet.

OFFERED TO FIGHT HIS COMPANIONS

Evidence indicated that Shaw had taken off his shirt and offered to fight the whole group "one by one." He declined an invitation to go to the police station to find out if any of the group had stolen his wallet.

Steve Hewko testified that Daniel Peppin, Shaw's companion, had told Shaw that his wallet was in his shirt pocket. Hewko said he saw it there.

Later, the group went down on a wharf known as the "Jap" float to go aboard a boat when they saw Shaw coming along the wharf. They separated to allow Shaw to pass. William Walter Card testified that he observed Shaw push Rachinsky on the chest. Rachinsky fell from the narrow float into the water. Card

HUDSON'S BAY VESSEL LOST

EDMONTON (CP)—Bleak Arctic seas today still held the secret of the fate of the little Hudson Bay Co. schooner Kotic and the crew of four which disappeared in a fierce gale 16 days ago.

The same blow wrecked another company vessel and sent a third to port.

The Northwest Air Command headquarters dispatched a Can-So amphibious aircraft from Norman Wells, 1000 miles northwest of here, but the plane has not yet reported if it had sighted the missing vessel or crew.

SENSATIONAL GAME FINISH GIVES BROOKLYN EVENING VICTORY

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn (CP)—After pitching eight and two-third innings of no-hit ball, thereby breaking Red Ruffing's World Series record of seven and two-thirds hitless innings in 1942, Floyd Bevens, 6-foot four-inch righthander from Salem, Oregon, swallowed the bitter pill of losing the fame of achieving the only no-hit no-run ball game in Series history today when pinch hitter Cookie Lavagetto came up in the ninth inning with two men down to make the only Brooklyn hit of the day and give the Dodgers a 3 to 2 victory to square up the series at two games apiece.

Bevens also made another World Series record—that of walking ten batters in a single game. It was one of World Series tensest and most dramatic games. The Yanks had been leading two to one until Lavagetto slugged the pinch double into the right field wall which brought the victory to the Dodgers in the thrill-soaked game. Until this Bevens had the no-hit game in his grasp. It would have been the first dream game in Series history.

Line-ups:
New York—Stirnweiss 2b, Henrick rf, Berra c, Dimaggio cf, McQuinn 1b, Johnson 3b, Rizzuto ss, Bevens p, Lindell lf.

Brooklyn—Stankey 2b, Reese ss, Robinson 1b, Walker rf, Hermanski lf, Edwards c, Jorgensen 3b, Taylor p, Furillo cf.

First Inning
One run, two hits, one error, four left.

Taylor was relieved by Hal Gregg who took the mound with bases loaded after Stirnweiss forced home when Dimaggio walked with the sacks full. A lightning double-play hit by Johnson to Reese to Stanky to Robinson retired the side. Dodgers scoreless. Yanks lead 1-0.

Second Inning
No runs, one hit, no errors, two left, both teams scoreless in inning of tight fielding and close pitching.

Third Inning
No runs, no hits, one error, two left.

Both teams tightened up in contrast to yesterday's game which saw a total of seventeen runs. Outstanding play was Lindell's sensational tumbling catch of Robinson's foul fly in extreme left field corner.

Fourth Inning
One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Johnson smashed triple into deepest centre field corner, coming home when Lindell doubled. Dodgers scoreless. Score 2-0 for Yanks.

Fifth Inning

Jorgensen scored on fielder's choice, making score for Yanks 2-1.

Sixth Inning
No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

Both teams bore down for a scoreless inning. Lindell, for Yanks, and Walker, for Dodgers, were only men to reach bases—both on walks.

Seventh Inning

Eighth Inning

Another scoreless inning which saw Bevens set a new series record by pitching eight complete hitless innings for Yanks. Previous record held by Red Ruffing who pitched seven and two-third innings without hit in the opener against the Cardinals in 1942.

TORIES SEE ELECTION

BRIGHTON, Sussex, Eng.—Leaders of Britain's Conservative party declared today that any split crisis-beset Labor government would force a national election by next March. An election might even come sooner, they predicted, if there was a recurrence of anything like last winter's fuel crisis when homes were unheated and millions were thrown out of work by shortage of coal and power.

ADANACS WIN

NEW WESTMINSTER—Vancouver Adanacs defeated Mimico Mountaineers 17 to 14 in the first game here last night of the best of five series for the Mann Cup and the Dominion lacrosse championship.

STRIKE IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM—General strike of Palestine Arabs began at dawn today in protest against the proposed partition of the Holy Land. It paralyzed all Arab sections today and sent hundreds of thousands pouring into mosques for prayer. Streets were crowded with Arab pedestrians since all Arab buses stayed in their garages and pickets ranged around bus stops to prevent Arabs from riding on Jewish buses.

MINISTER, C.N. CHIEF ON COAST

VANCOUVER—Hon. Lionel Chevrier K.C., M.P., minister of transport, R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways and Steamships, and N. B. Walton, executive vice-president of those companies, arrived in Vancouver yesterday to spend six days on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Chevrier is accompanied by his wife and on Monday next Mrs. Chevrier will christen the new Canadian National coast steamship "Prince George," being built at Yarrow's yard in Esquimalt.

The officers of the British Columbia district of the Canadian National Railways held a reception at Hotel Vancouver yesterday afternoon at which industrial and other leaders in British Columbia activity will meet Messrs. Chevrier, Vaughan and Walton.

Arriving with the C.N.R. presidential party were Walter S. Thompson, director of public relations, Montreal; J. L. Charles, chief engineer, western region, Winnipeg; and Bernard Allen, general superintendent, B. C. district.

The C.N.R. president will make a complete inspection of the company's railway and shipping facilities on the Pacific Coast and at Victoria on Monday he will be the guest with Mr. Chevrier of the mayor and city council at a civic luncheon.

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Resumption of Swedish fish exports to Germany is expected in the near future. Before the war, approximately 80 per cent of Sweden's fish exports, or an annual quantity of 35,000 tons, went to Germany.

ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Stanley Cecil Shaw, Kitimaat Indian, was acquitted at 2:45 this afternoon of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Steve Albert Rachinsky after the jury had deliberated for more than two hours. He was termed a "very lucky man" by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, Assize Court judge.

Edison Brian Briscoe, found guilty Thursday of retaining a stolen boat, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Mr. Justice Wilson.

The sentencing of Briscoe concluded the Assize Court hearings at Prince Rupert.

BRISCOE TO BE SENTENCED TODAY

Following Conviction On Charge of Being In Possession of Stolen Boat

Today was set by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson as sentencing day for Edison Brian Briscoe, Vancouver fisherman who was found guilty Thursday afternoon on a charge of being in possession of a stolen boat by an Assize Court jury that reached a verdict after three hours of deliberation.

Briscoe was found guilty of retaining as stolen goods the 34-foot gillnet boat "Rio II," which carried the name "Guess Who" when seized by the police at Rivers Inlet last July.

Defence Counsel Henry Castillou attempted to prove to the court that the "Guess Who" had been bought by Briscoe at Victoria last October 30, about six weeks before the "Rio II" had disappeared from a mooring wharf at Vancouver.

Evidence revealed that when the name "Guess Who" had been scraped from the bow of the vessel, the name "Rio II" was revealed painted beneath.

The vessel was identified by James William Barnett and Mat Nybo as one which they had purchased at Steveston earlier in 1946.

The jury left the court room to consider the evidence at 12:45 returning with a finding of "guilty" shortly after 4 o'clock. The jury of a succeeding manslaughter case had to vacate the jury box in order to allow the theft jury to bring in its verdict.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson announced that he would withhold sentence until today. He told defence counsel that in passing sentence he would consider the background of Briscoe whom Mr. Castillou described as "a useful and intelligent member of society." Briscoe age 29 is a former Prince George man.

Mrs. Willa M. Ray was appointed by Castillou to sit for the defence during the sentencing. Mr. Castillou left on the Prince Rupert last night to return to Vancouver.

John Hart

BRITISH COLUMBIA, since she entered Confederation in 1871, has had twenty-one Premiers and some of them have been very illustrious men. We think of McBride, Oliver, Pattullo and some of the others and we can say, with no discredit to them, that John Hart has been as talented and as capable as any of them. Possibly he combined the distinctions of them all—the affability and diplomacy of McBride, the color to a measure at least and downright integrity of Oliver, the drive and administrative capacity of Pattullo. Therefore, in paying tribute to Mr. Hart, as he prepares to step down to his retirement, well enough earned and richly deserved, we must admit that he going to be a very hard man to replace and that British Columbia will be the poorer as it yields to necessity of seeing him go.

John Hart shone in financial affairs, which were his private business, and it was, as has often been said, in his capacity as an able, adept and astute financier, that he served this province best for the nearly thirty years he was in public life. The name of the Irish immigrant lad who became the province's first coalition Premier will long be associated with the financial history of British Columbia.

While finances and administration thereof may have been his natural forte, Mr. Hart had qualities of diplomatic leadership and the ability to bargain and compromise. Accordingly, when it came time for the political coalition, he was the logical choice to form and lead. That was in the early years of the war and he was amply fitted for the position in which he found himself—of guarding and conserving the finances of the province until the time should come when spending might again be the order of the day. Now, as he retires, he leaves a rich financial legacy upon which the succeeding administration may draw to carry on the extensive and useful expenditures of the new postwar era of improvement and development.

Despite his long and active career as financier and public servant, Mr. Hart never lost the capacity to play. A footballer of note in his younger days, he became a champion golfer in his later years. He is still an ardent devotee of the course and, unlike many men who may have worked hard and well, he has kept his physique and mind such that he will be in a position to enjoy the many years of retirement he will be generously wished by the friends than whom no man in British Columbia has more.

In expressions of appreciation and well-wishing to Mr. Hart the Daily News feels privileged to join in a happy and personal sense.

ELIZABETH DECIDES

THE ARGUMENT has been settled. Stylists have been differing over whether skirts shall be low or high. Now Princess Elizabeth has come out in her new suit with the skirt's end at the knee line. So that will probably be where it will be for women and girls the world over.

It is just that way and there is no decree or order about it—just the falling in line with the example of our gracious royalty. And it will not be the first time.

Was it not a former Elizabeth who set the fashions of an era that still has its influence on the styles of today? Did not Victoria, in her younger days, too come forth in styles that, for their day might even have been considered startling if not daring and which were speedily adopted? And who, might we ask, was it who created the still favored off-the-face hat fashion if it was not our own charming Queen Elizabeth?

So when mother, sister and daughter show their knees—creaky, bony or comfortably plumped, as they may, she will be doing just as her ancestral sisters and responding to regal favor in the serious business of prettying up.

Voice Master Appreciated

Opening with Marc Antonio Cesti's Seventeenth Century Italian love song "Ah quanto e vero," which he rendered with energy and spirit, Gorin at once demonstrated his perfect control of volume and breathing and showed his splendid musical understanding. His second choice was "Non lodiro col labbro" from Act I of Handel's opera "Tolomeo," which he sang in English under the title of "Silent Worship." Clarity of enunciation and perfection of pitch marked this number. Next followed Rossini's exacting number "La Danza" (Tarantella Napolitana) in which Gorin exhibited his fine showmanship in portraying the excitement of youth with feet itching for the dance. This item closed the first section of the program and an appreciative and insistent audience brought Mr. Gorin back to the stage three times to acknowledge their unrestrained applause. It was quite apparent that he had "captured the house."

The second part of the program consisted of a group of four German "lieder," a special form of song in which the music interprets the words which are the most important factor. Most music lovers prefer to hear these songs in German but Mr. Gorin wished the whole audience to know exactly the meaning of each song and chose to sing them all in English translations made by the famous English operatic Soprano Florence Easton. The first of the lieder was Hugo Wolf's "Verborgenheit" (Morike; Lass, o Welt!—English title—"Secrecy," to which the singer brought all the tender pathos of the words. A jovious number "Mein Liebe ist Grün" (Brahms; Op. 63 No. 5) (My Love Is Green), followed, then Heine's tender song "Die Lotosblume" (The Lotus Flower) set to music by Schumann. The fourth and last of this group was "Cecilia" (Cecilia) Op. 27 No. 2 of Richard Strauss, a sprightly number of which Mr. Gorin made the most.

By this time both singer and audience were "en rapport" and sensing the mood of the latter, Mr. Gorin made an alteration in the third section of his program, substituting the moving aria of Germont from Act 2 of Verdi's "Traviata"—"Di Provenza il mar, il suo!" in which the father pathetically pleads in vain with his son to return with him to their home. The interpretation given this number so pleased the listeners that the artist was brought back by applause to render an encore—the rollicking "Largo al factotum" (Room for the factotum) from Act I of Rossini's "Barber of Seville." This proved to be the piece de resistance of the evening, Gorin's mimicry and dramatic art, coupled with the dexterity of his flexible and resonant voice, bring the crowd up to a tip-toe of excitement and appreciation.

Following the intermission, Fritz Kramer, who accompanied Mr. Gorin at the piano throughout, and who, by the way is an artist in his own right, rendered three pianoforte numbers which were excellently presented, (1) Debussy's "Clair de Lune"—Suite Bergamasque No. 3, (2) A medley of Tschikovsky Excerpts which included several from the well-known "Nuttercracker Suite," (3) Schubert's Moment Musical, Op. 94 No. 3. The third number represented a well merited encore.

Mr. Gorin then took the stage for the fifth section of his concert which consisted of four Russian songs. The first "My Beloved" (Shepherd's Lament), in Russian, was sung with deep feeling and restraint. In this number he showed remarkable control over a beautiful mezzo-voce tone.

"The Drunkard" (Burlak)—Ukrainian folk song, which followed, once more afforded the singer an opportunity to demonstrate his remarkable power of characterization.

Gorin's versatility was never more dramatically demonstrated than when with hardly a pause following the previous song, his marvellous voice commenced Tschikovsky's poignant grief-laden lament "None But The Lonely Heart Can Know Mine Anguish" (Nur wie de Sehnsucht kennt—Op. 6 No. 6). Mr. Gorin succeeded in conveying to his audience all the pathos of Tschikovsky's tragic melancholy and a deep hush followed his last note.

A robust "Caucasian Melody" of Mr. Gorin's own composition followed in which he demonstrated his dynamic range and perfect control. As an encore he sang a humorous number composed by an ex-American "G.I."—John Sacco—entitled "You Can't Take it With You."

The closing section (vi) of Mr. Gorin's program opened with "The Lament of Ian the Proud"—C. T. Griffes, Op. 11, No. 1, a contemporary American composer's setting of Fiona McLeod's (Wm. Sharp) poem "What is This Crying I Hear in the Wind," "The Roadside Fire" from Songs of Travel by Robert L.

JIM WEST SAYS

ABOUT PRICES...
It seems to me that the Government did a pretty necessary job in too sudden a way when it tossed off most of the remaining price ceilings and cut away a bunch of subsidies with one big swoop.
A lot of people think it could have been done by stages.
But one thing is certainly true: If you don't pay a man enough money to interest him in working, his heart won't be in his work, and if you don't pay a company enough money to interest it in producing something people want, then it won't be much interested in turning out that particular thing.
When you get right down to it, the way to get rid of shortages is to produce and the way to get production is to give men and companies an incentive to pitch in and do a job.
Under price controls you build up scarcities. Lift the controls and you naturally get a jump in prices—then, sooner or later, enough production results to bring prices back to the level where they belong.
Trouble is that a war is an economic earthquake and you don't suddenly go back to normal when a war ends.

SIGNING MONTREAL'S GOLDEN BOOK—L. Philip Davis, publicity director for the Alberta government, is shown, left, as he signs the city of Montreal's golden book on the invitation of Mayor Camillien Houde, right, during his visit to Montreal after concluding a trip to eastern Canada and the U.S. Mr. Davis is a native of Valleyfield, Que., and speaks fluent French.

Stevenson, set to music by the modern English composer Ralph Vaughan Williams, followed and exhibited the singer's command of a very wide repertoire.

Next another modern English composer's setting (Benjamin Britten) of Hilaire Belloc's tender poem "The Birds" was reverently and feelingly rendered to be followed by "Safe by De Lawd" by Rodger Collins, a new American composer.

This number formed a magnificent climax to the program and a hushed audience paused a moment or two before breaking out with thunderous applause.

JAMES DOWEY OF SMITHERS PASSES

Former Contractor, Later Hotel Proprietor, Had Lived Thirty-five Years in Interior
Pioneer contractor and hotel man of the central interior, James Patrick Doweay passed away at Smithers last Saturday afternoon, the funeral taking place on Tuesday of this week.
Mr. Doweay was 63 years of age and was born in Owen Sound, Ontario. Coming west as a young man, he first arrived in this district in 1912 to take up contracting for Foley, Welch & Stewart at Hazelton in connection with the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Next year he moved to Smithers and later built the Hudson Hotel for his brother-in-law, the late Fred Watson. This property he later acquired himself and operated it for many years until he sold out and took over the McKee House Hotel. During the last few months he had been at the Lejac industrial school as an instructor in carpentry. There he contracted the illness which culminated in his death in the Smithers Hospital.
Predeceased by his wife five years ago, Mr. Doweay is survived by two sons—Jack Doweay of Courtney, Vancouver Island, and Pat Doweay, Port Alberni—and two daughters—Mrs. W. R. Eby of Smithers and Mrs. Douglas Kerr of Prince Rupert.
Father E. M. Leray, O.M.I., officiated at the Roman Catholic funeral mass in St. Joseph's Church at Smithers and interment was made in the family plot of the cemetery there. Miss Margaret Macdonald presided at the organ and there was a solo by Mrs. Jack Dunn. Pallbearers were J. Turner A. Bruce, J. Wallace, J. Carr, P. Berg and G. Magden.

TEACHERS AND PARENTS MEET

Borden Street School P.T.A. Entertains
To give parents of pupils who began school in September of this year an opportunity to become acquainted and see the classrooms the Borden Street School Parent-Teacher Association was host at the school on Thursday afternoon.
The parents visited the Grade One room and saw their children at work and also thoroughly enjoyed the program put on by them. The progress made by the children in even a month provided the parents with many pleasant surprises and the function gave them a good opportunity to meet Mrs. Stone, the teacher in charge of Grade One.
When the parents were able to get themselves away from the interesting displays of work they were entertained at a tasty tea by the association through the refreshment committee convened by Mrs. Flood, Mrs. Cheeseman and Mrs. Phillipson.
Some of the parents also took the opportunity to visit Grade Two where Mrs. Rutherford had a colorfully attractive room, while a few visited the other rooms. Over 40 signed the visitors' book.

Reminiscences and Reflections

There is a Prince Rupert man named Charles... will be closely associated with the opening chapter of the history of the Canadian Pacific railway. He was middle-aged, and at all times... and affable. He was then the... of the time was spent... with the engineers... for himself as far... the possible, the... of a vast un-few predictions. He said there would come a day when fish, not in carloads, but by the train would roll away from Prince Rupert. Those who heard him doubted it but chose to remain silent.

In the spring of 1912, the Titanic, last word in ocean liners was due with distinguished company aboard to sail for New York. Mr. Hays had gone to England planning to return home on the vessel that surpassed in size, power, beauty and general equipment and fittings anything ever attempted before in the long history of the White Star. He had, according to what was heard at the time, been contemplating a service out of Prince Rupert, for completion of the railway was now little more than a year or so away.

On a morning in April there was heard in Prince Rupert a brief story people always at first call impossible. The mighty Titanic had sunk, and Mr. Hays, with hundreds of others, had gone down with her. The tragic truth! It was exactly that. A few hours before midnight, out on the starlit Atlantic, there had been warmth, luxury, laughter, behind the bright portholes.

An iceberg cut, then sliced along the black hull. Speed slackened. The great steamship, rising-falling on the deep swell, began to settle, not rapidly but with a merelless deliberation.

Some were destined to die before daybreak and Hays was among them. It was fated that one who could so ill be spared, one whose capacity as an executive and builder had an international significance and meaning, one whose life meant so much to thousands of others, had lived his last day.

Two years later, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, its final spike safely driven home, reached the terminus at Prince Rupert. The time was early summer and the hour about mid-day. Sunlight sparkled across the harbor. Officials of varying degrees of consequence shook hands with smiling citizens. About everybody was there, except the man whose indomitable will and guiding hand had served so well.

The four lots on Third Avenue opposite the post office recently turned over by the government to the War Assets Corporation for eventual sale once served as sites for buildings in a small way. The ground was well above grade. The residence of the late V. W. Smith stood there. It was a two-story frame structure and convenient. In those cheerful days, no one could tell what might occur from one half hour to another and one morning it came the Smith family's turn.

Being went the blast, up went the rocks, and one of the weightiest passed through the roof, landing on the parlor floor not more than a few feet from the piano. No one was injured, but everybody admitted there had been a good old fashioned scare, for there was reason enough. "Oh," remarked V. W. S., with fitting philosophy, "it could have been a lot worse."

There was another, and smaller home on that piece of ground. It was a one-man establishment, occupied by J. E. Melvin, a watchmaker, whose sole companion was a parrot who dwelt in a cage in the front room and who pretended to be able to talk. The tenant was well along in years, welcomed any chance visitors. Finally, he was not seen or heard of for days. His little home was investigated. He had passed away in his sleep, a burnt out match in his hand.

Arthur Ellis, public executioner, was in Prince Rupert twice a good many years ago. It was when he was on his way back home after a professional engagement in Yukon. Mr. Ellis spent a day or so in New Westminster this week. The day he slipped quietly through Prince Rupert was slushy and chill. The steamer was in port but briefly and, if Mr. Ellis sauntered up town, few indeed knew it. The plainly dressed quiet little man lingered by the deck rail. Now and then, he would make a small snowball and idly toss it overboard. There was nothing about Ellis that would single him out from the crowd. He was just ordinary. That sums it up.

Ellis' predecessor in office, Radcliffe, was different in appearance. He had a friendly way with him, if encouraged. In fact, he liked to chat. If he ever happened to be in the town you called home, an easy place to find him would be a bar. Like many another, he enjoyed a drink. Radcliffe was inclined to be dark, with florid complexion. In the matter of hats, he seemed to have a preference for the sailor's cap, with glazed peak. Years ago, executions took place, not at the provincial penitentiary, but in the city or town where the trial was held and conviction returned. The sight of a scaffold was something that shook the composure and nerves of plenty of good people who could not help seeing it unless they remained at home until after the P. E. had performed his duty and gone his way.

Adult Lake Trout Being Transferred

WINNIPEG—Under the supervision of the Game and Fisheries Branch of the Manitoba government, 350 Adult Lake trout have been transplanted from a lake north of the Pas to Crow Duck Lake in the northern portion of the Whiteshell Game Preserve of Manitoba. It is another of the game fish stocking experiments that have been carried out for some time by the provincial government. The trout, in large square tins of fresh water, arrived in Winnipeg from the north over Canadian National lines and were immediately transferred to Lac Du Bonnet where they were flown to their new home. They were large-sized lake trout weighing about 3½ to 4 pounds and according to officials would be spawning very soon.

LETTERBOX

HAS THE WORM TURNED? Editor, Daily News:

It is doubtful if baseball fans can recall a more discouraging stroke of fate to confront a ball team than that which befel the Brooklyn Dodgers in the third game of the 1947 World Series. As in the present series they were opposed by the New York Yankees, who, as was the case this year, had won the first two games. The Dodgers had the game cinched in the ninth when pitcher Hugh Casey, who had two men down, put the third strike on the batter but the catcher, while stopping the ball, did not catch same and made no effort to pick it up and first it, taking it for granted that the game was over as it didn't appear as though the batter was going to run. However, the coach or somebody, noticing the situation, got the batter started for first and, in the mix-up and excitement, the Dodger's catcher just couldn't seem to put his hand on the ball until it was too late. The runner was safe. With the Yankee's big artillery, including Joe DiMaggio, coming up the laughter that followed was not only disheartening to the Dodgers, whom history records lost the game, but to any Henrich smashed double off Stanky's glove, scoring Brown. Side retired with bases loaded.

Seventh Inning
One run, two hits, no errors, one left. Yankees climbed to within one run of tying game when Berra, pinch hitting for Lollar, smashed home run over right field scoreboard. Casey replaced Branca for Dodgers.

Eighth Inning
No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Ninth Inning
Dodgers held slim margin one run lead by keeping Yanks scoreless to win game 9-8.

said he was standing about five feet away when it happened. Gordon Wright said that he was "positive" that Shaw did put his hand on Rachinsky although he was not certain whether he struck or pushed him. ACCUSED WAS "CRAZY DRUNK" Constable J. N. Hicks, who arrested Shaw later, told the court that in his opinion the accused was "crazy drunk" at the time of his arrest. When Hicks attempted to take him into custody he reported Shaw as saying: "Leave me alone or I'll throw you in, too."

He said that Shaw was so violently drunk that outside help was required to put him in custody. He was handcuffed and taken to jail. Daniel Peppin, who is now under sentence for supplying liquor to an Indian, told of buying liquor for people aboard a boat in the afternoon and of accompanying Shaw into the beer parlor in the evening. When he and Shaw left the beer parlor at closing time, they carried three cases of beer which Shaw had purchased.

Testimony by Crown witnesses indicated that when Shaw approached the Jap float, he appeared to be chasing Peppin. Peppin climbed aboard a boat and then jumped into the water. He said that he "didn't want any trouble with Shaw."

TRIED TO AVOID DRINKING FRIENDS Shaw said that when he arrived at Ocean Falls at noon on August 25 from the fishing grounds, he had purchased supplies and had made an effort to avoid his partner and others who were drinking on a nearby boat.

He finally yielded to an invitation and thereafter consumed "six drinks of straight liquor" aboard one boat and more aboard another. He said that he was under the impression that he was going to a restaurant to eat when he accompanied Peppin up town.

Jurors hearing the case are H. F. Glassey, foreman, J. Ciccone, Victor Basso Bert, W. A. Armstrong, Angus Bruce, Lionel Kurtz, William Keith, R. W. Long, F. M. Kempton, Jack McRae, A. E. Field and C. P. Balagano.
