

CITY HALL

Closed Session Blown Wide by City Alderman

A closed session of city council two weeks ago, held in the open last night by an irate alderman who said he "strenuously objected" to the type of publicity given the occurrence in The Daily News.

Harry M. Daggett received a letter from the council to say that the session had been closed and said:

"I should like to give an accurate account of my mind. I was criticizing Don Stewart, superintendent of works, and suggesting that Mr. Stewart resign because he was not getting the full amount of his salary."

"Because of the nature of this session and because I wanted to protect Mr. Stewart, I asked for a closed session."

"I could have said, 'you're wrong,' and everyone would have known it, thus endangering the city in the future."

"Daggett then read the letter which had been published in the Daily News, and was included a statement by the mayor who had objected to the closed sessions—regardless of the problem might be."

"I believe you committed a grave error by introducing the matter in the first place in council. We have committee meetings for such things. I should think, also, that the board of works would like to hear of such a matter which concerns them before the whole council."

"I guarantee the next time I shall oppose it again."

"Ald. George Hills, chairman of the board of works, said he was 'proud that I have called for closed meetings at times to protect the identity of some people—families, in cases of social welfare. I think we were quite right also in calling a closed meeting in this instance.'"

"Mayor Whalen also reprimanded Ald. Daggett, saying: 'I believe you committed a grave error by introducing the matter in the first place in council. We have committee meetings for such things. I should think, also, that the board of works would like to hear of such a matter which concerns them before the whole council.'"

"I don't hear of closed sessions because they can become a habit. I certainly would have no objection to a closed session if it were for the interest of the city."

Outcome of the "secret" session was a "pep" talk to the superintendent of works by some aldermen who were not satisfied with the way in which the city public works was directed.

"I have had many people call me by telephone and stop me on the street asking me what it was all about, and I want to make myself clear that I asked for a closed session only to protect a member of the city staff."

Socreds Choose Leader By Secret Ballot System

CCF Strengthens Organization

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Social Credit party, which will form the next government in British Columbia, met in caucus here today to choose a leader. He will be premier and will be selected by secret ballot—the first time in history that B.C.'s chief legislative officer has been chosen in this manner.

Top mention for leadership goes to Lyle Wicks, president of the B.C. Social Credit League; W. A. C. Bennett of Kelowna, Progressive Conservative member in the last legislature until he broke ranks, and R. E. Somers, school teacher at Castlegar, and Eric Martin of Vancouver.

Decisions taken at the caucus may not be known until late tonight.

"We do not expect to make any announcement until tonight," Lyle Wicks said at press time today.

Meanwhile, the provincial executive of the CCF party has decided to put two fulltime organizers into the B.C. political field as a result of gains made in the June 12 election.

In a statement, the executive said the members regret "that thousands of voters do not realize that by voting Social Credit they were supporting a political party that differs from the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives only by name."

The executive also supported the decision of CCF organizers in Vancouver-Burrard and Similkameen to ask for a judicial recount for narrowly-defeated candidates there.

It was disclosed that the CCF election campaign cost $10,000.

There are 3.25 miles of wire for every telephone in Canada.

Tax-Payers Vote August 7 On $675,000 Phone System

Dial Exchange Planned In Complete Overhaul

Prince Rupert voters will go to the polls once again next month.

This time tax-payers will vote on whether or not they want to borrow $675,000 for a new telephone system. The plebiscite will be held August 7.

City council last night passed two readings of the lengthy by-law which calls for borrowing the near three-quarter million dollars at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent.

By the time interest and principal have been paid in 20 years the total will amount to $1,052,150.

The bylaw pdebscite on which the citizens will vote also includes expenditure of purchasing a telephone exchange building, which city council has decided will be the old government liquor store on Third Avenue.

The new telephone system—an automatic, dial exchange—will completely replace the old system and will add several thousand new telephones.

It will be installed by the Automatic Electric Co. of Canada, Ltd.

The borrowed amount is to be paid back from revenue of the telephone system which has been estimated at not less than $127,000 for 1952.

The bylaw, after it has passed the third reading at a special council meeting tomorrow night, will be sent to the Victoria department of municipalities for approval.

Then the bylaw will be published in its entirety for the public to read.

ONE PLEBISCITE PASSED

A plebiscite was passed last December by Prince Rupert voters to authorize city council to enter into negotiations for a new telephone system.

A complete survey of the present system has been made by the Automatic Electric Co. It will also loan the city a temporary connection board which will allow a few more telephones to be added to the present system while it is undergoing a change.

The new system is expected to be in operation in three years, or less.

The change over will likely be made in one day.

If the citizens reject the plebiscite, however, it will mean that a new telephone system for Prince Rupert will be delayed for at least another three to five years.

Voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. in the Civic Centre, August 7, which is a Thursday.

Aviation Council Luncheon Here For Those Interested in Flying

A luncheon will be held tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Civic Centre for all persons or organizations interested in promotion of flying—for pleasure or profit.

Seven representatives of the B.C. Aviation Council will land here tomorrow morning in four planes on a province-wide tour.

The luncheon has been arranged by city council, Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, and Prince Rupert Aero Club.

Mayor Harold Whalen and six aldermen will represent the city. Two 15-minute talks on landing field, air transport and general flying subjects will be given, and a question period held.

Railways Apply For Freight Rate Boost

16 Per Cent Increase Asked

OTTAWA.—Railways today applied for a new series of freight rate increases that would amount to more than $80,000,000 a year. Two proposed general increases totalling about 16 per cent would bring to 97 per cent the accumulation of post-war rate boosts on types of traffic to which they apply.

These make up about half the railways' $900,000,000 a year freight movement.

In a three-way move before the Board of Transport Commissioners, they asked:

1. An immediate general increase of seven per cent.
2. A further but not necessarily immediate hoist of nine per cent.
3. An increase in rates on grain and grain products moving in the west for domestic consumption, bringing them up to Ontario-Quebec levels. This would not affect the statutory "Crow's Nest Pass" rates on export grain traffic in the west.

Under two general-increase proposals coal and coke would be exempted from the percentage boost but under each of two sections of application would be subject to increases of between 10 and 20 cents a ton.

Along with the application, the Railway Association of Canada served notice that carriers will seek a further increase if current wage demands of their unions result in higher operating expenses.

Disagreement Ends Steel Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—New steel strike peace talks ended today with the industry and United Steelworkers in disagreement but standing by for further word from the White House. Move may come from Washington.

Operators Agree to Mediator

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coast lumber operators today agreed to ask Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan to mediate the strike of 32,000 woodworkers.

The suggestion was made last Saturday that the chief justice, who settled the six-weeks-long strike of woodworkers in 1946, be called in as mediator.

The suggestion was adopted by the executive of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and it won approval at a meeting of operators this morning.

The multi-million-dollar industry has been tied up by a wage dispute since June 14.

Baby Found Abandoned In Pushcart

A tiny baby girl was found abandoned in downtown Prince Rupert this morning and taken to the Salvation Army hostel.

F. E. Anfield, superintendent of Indian Affairs here, in a radio broadcast to all natives said the baby was discovered at 2:30 a.m. in a white pushcart buggy in which there was a black overnight bag.

"The broadcast said: 'The baby is well and may have just come out of hospital.'"

He asked that the mother contact him or police.

Sees All in One Hour Whirlwind Tour of Alcan by Minister

KEMANO.—A whirlwind tour of this bustling camp at the head of Gardner Canal brought to a close the trip through North-Central B.C. by Canada's Minister of Resources and Development, Hon. R. H. Winters.

Met at the dock here at 3:30 p.m. Monday by Walter Abramson, resident engineer for the Aluminum Company of Canada's vast development here, Mr. Winters saw how a "town" of more than 3000 workers has been hewn out of wilderness in just a very short time.

The minister, who was presented from an early-morning take-off from Prince Rupert by low clouds and fog, was accompanied by his private secretary, R. L. (Bob) Elliott, and this reporter.

About 30 miles south of Prince Rupert the sun was shining brightly and the minister was awe-struck by the snow-capped mountains and scenery through the islands dotting the flight south.

A boiling sun greeted the party at Kemano, although a strong wind was blowing.

Mr. Abramson, who spent eight months on a giant tunnel project under construction in Toronto, welcomed Mr. Winters and the party was taken from the landing float by tug to the dock where they boarded a station wagon for a 10-mile ride through once-dense forest to the Kemano camp site.

A ramp, originally constructed to allow persons to move from the float to a smaller pier, has not been reconstructed since it crashed last May 10, claiming the life of Alex Hunter, managing editor of The Daily News, and seriously injuring Jack McRae, Liberal MLA in the last legislature, and John F. Magor, publisher of The News.

Dust and rocks kicked up from the wheels of the station wagon didn't bother Mr. Abramson as he sped along the well-gravelled road, all the way answering questions and describing the project to Mr. Winters, while at the same time he kept in contact with various parts of the camp by radio from the car.

During a one-hour tour, he showed the minister how a huge work base has been hewed from forest, the giant tunnel being "mended" to next year's council, constructed, and explained the vastness of the project.

A sawmill operated by the company converts all useable timber into necessary lumber and (Continued on Page 6)

If Thou Dost Rain, For Forty Days It Will Remain

The patron saint of Winchester Cathedral from the 10th to the 16th century, whose death is entered in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle under the year 861, must be looking over Prince Rupert.

St. Swithin, whose body was transferred from an almost forgotten grave to a new basilica on July 15, 971, has been mentioned in legendary literature as connected with the weather myth which reads:

St. Swithin's day if thou dost rain
For forty days it will remain;
St. Swithin's day if thou be fair
For forty days 'twill rain na mail.

Keeping Up With The Joneses

A STATISTICIAN in the Financial Post has made the discovery that the three most common names in Canada do not include Jones.

Smith and Brown are at the top, as everybody would naturally expect, but Wilson and Taylor are quite substantially more common than Jones, which ranks fifth.

The statistician's figures are supported by practically any telephone directory, but most assuredly from the metropolitan city directories where the Smiths head the list without any aid whatever from the Smyths, Smythes or other variations, and the Browns come second without any help from the Brownes.

Another theory about this unexpectedly poor showing on the part of the Joneses perhaps is that they are being worn out.

For a generation or more everybody else has been busy trying to keep up with the Joneses, and the Joneses themselves must have been equally busy trying to keep in the lead.

Without doing much statistical research we think that the Robinsons, the third member of the once famous trio of Brown, Jones and Robinson, would come about sixth place.

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Large Development Program Seen in Loan to Australia

By FORBES RHUDE Canadian Press Business Editor

Large development programs in Australia are indicated in announcement of a $50,000,000 loan by the International Bank for reconstruction and development.

The loan is primarily to supply foreign exchange to buy abroad needed machinery, while the programs themselves will be financed with Australian currency, partly out of public funds and partly by business enterprises and individuals.

Items which will be imported, and on some of which there probably will be Canadian bids, include:

Tractors for road construction and maintenance; heavy transport vehicles and components for local assembly; earth-moving equipment; graders; spreaders; agricultural machinery; mine equipment and plant for concentrating, smelting and refining; machinery and equipment for iron and steel furnaces, coke ovens, and similar installations, diesel-electric locomotives and other rolling stock and components for local assembly; machine tools for railway workshops; rail maintenance machines and equipment; track-construction equipment; equipment for power stations and transmission facilities.

The bank outlines some of the growing pains of Australia's expanding economy which, it says, can be alleviated by greater production from her resources.

Nearly half the loan will be for coal mining, iron and steel

ECONOMIC CRISIS THREATENS B.C.

VANCOUVER — A major economic crisis is threatening British Columbia today, the result of labor disputes in major industries.

Forty thousand workers are idle, including 32,000 men in the forest industry. Tradersmen are on strike or locked out of their jobs on major construction projects and thousands of other employees threaten to quit.

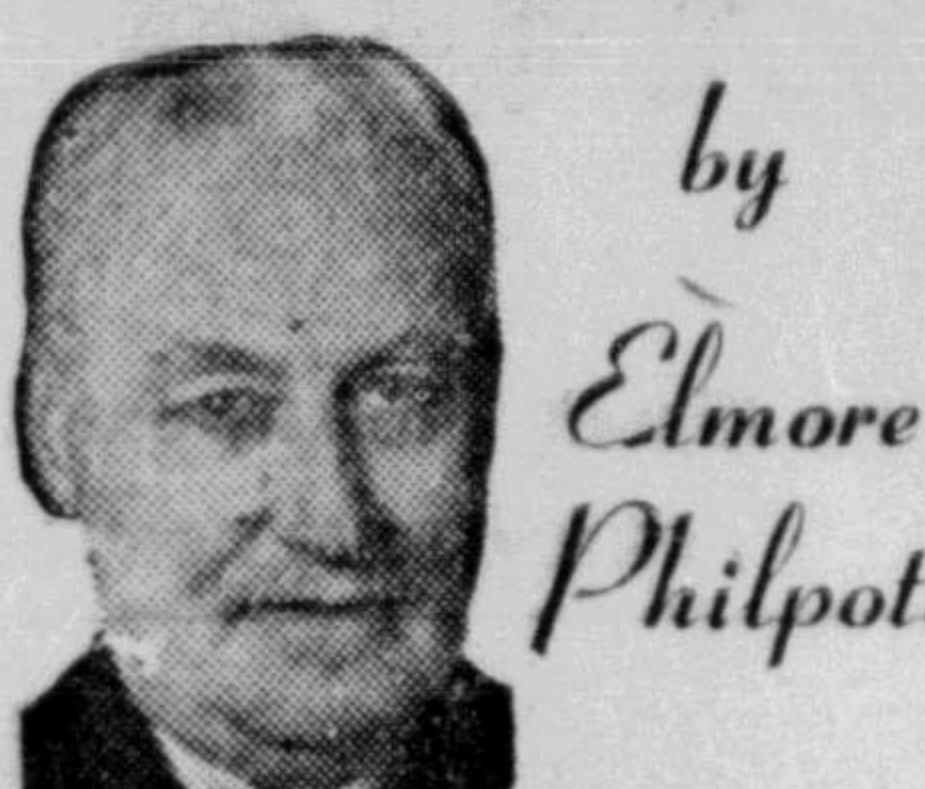

The woodworkers' strike started 31 days ago. Three thousand carpenters in Vancouver and Vancouver Island cities have been idle since June 9.

Demand for higher wages is the snag in settlement plans in all disputes.

The strike of carpenters has made another 5,000 allied workers jobless. Painters, too, are on strike in Vancouver and Victoria, 900 of them seeking higher rates of pay.

Merchants were alarmed today. All reported decreased sales as the workers' cash savings dwindled. In many cases savings had been exhausted.

As I See It

The Drive That Failed

THIS IS written before the final selection of the Republican candidate for the U.S. presidency; but after the overwhelming victory of the Eisenhower forces over the disputed delegates from Georgia and Texas.

It is not yet sure that the general Ike will be the Republican standard bearer—but it is fairly clear that Senator Taft will not be.

Taft would have been a danger to us, if only because he was pledged to slam the gates against Canadian imports. But he would have been a disaster to us, and the whole United Nations organization for by his own confession in his book 'A FOREIGN POLICY FOR AMERICANS' he is nothing but a 1952 isolationist.

WE SHALL have to wait for the full story of how the Taft drive failed. But even from the evidence that we can see and hear at long range it is clear that the delegates who held the balance of power in the Republican convention reacted against the "steam roller" tactics of the Taft machine.

General MacArthur was expected to go to Chicago and put the skids under his fellow general, Ike. Even so shrewd an observer as Beverley Baxter had predicted in Maclean's that MacArthur would stampede the convention against putting ANY general in the White House.

Actually, MacArthur said not a single word that could be construed as a direct attack on Eisenhower, or a direct boost for Taft.

I HAVE never disguised my own sympathies in this election. Normally I am against ANY Republican in the White House, for history plainly shows that we in Canada get along with our big neighbor far better when the Democrats are in.

It is also true that, if Ike does win the nomination, his popularity will carry into power dozens of Congressmen and Senators who could not be elected otherwise. These will be regular machine Republicans whose ideas was much like Taft's.

For all that I would like to see Ike in the White House for the next four years because I believe there is a better chance of keeping peace under Eisenhower than under any other possible President.

IF IT IS true—as all the realists say—that the Russian Communists respect only one thing—strength—then Eisenhower is the western leader most likely to mobilize the strength which the Russians do respect, and hence which will keep peace.

But under Eisenhower leadership I do not anticipate any of the provocations which would be certain under Taft or MacArthur. Taft talks of waging large-scale underground civil war behind the Iron Curtain. He would openly ally U.S. with Chiang Kai-shek. Apart altogether from the total illegality of this—this is explicitly forbidden under the UN Charter—the Taft people never seem to realize that recommended no change in pay rates.

COSTLY STRIKE It has been estimated the strike already has cost woodworkers and operators $28,000,000. The workers have been losing $500,000 a day in wages and the operators another $500,000.

Loss to allied industries and merchants, mounting day by day, will run into other millions. Hundreds of tugboat crews which tow log booms have been left idle.

Six thousand fishermen seeking higher salmon prices have set a strike deadline for July 19. Another 4,000 shore workers in fish packing plants have asked for a supervised strike vote.

Other labor-wages disputes involve 7,212 workers now seeking conciliation boards or strike votes. They include marine engineers, oil workers, bakers, glassblowers, stationers, clothing workers, bargemen, film workers and watchmakers.

Election Outcome Hinged On Single Candidate Who Lost

VANCOUVER (CP)—It could be said that the outcome of the British Columbia general election hinged on one Roman Catholic Christian Democrat candidate who polled only 1046 votes of the 750,000 ballots cast.

Whether Social Credit or the CCF were elected to form a minority government swung on the vital second seat in Vancouver-Burrard.

The two parties could be considered tied at 18-18 with the outcome depending on that one seat.

After the first count was complete in Vancouver-Burrard Ballot B, this was the standing: Grant MacNeil, CCF, 10,397; Bert Price, Social Credit, 9002; J. G. Gould, Liberal, 6358; J. D. Cornett, Progressive Conservative, 5615; J. M. Stephens, Christian Democrat, 1046.

Under the alternative system of voting, Stephens was dropped on the second count and his ballots distributed among the other four candidates.

Of Stephens' 1046 ballots, 480 went to Cornett, 276 to Price, 109 to Gould and 50 to MacNeil, while 131 were exhausted.

Cornett was the next candidate dropped as MacNeil still did not have a majority. Stephens' ballots for Cornett were transferred to Gould and when Gould was dropped on the final count, Stephens' ballots were transferred to Price.

In other words, Price, Social Credit, picked up the 276 ballots originally allotted to him plus the 480 transferred through Cornett and Gould, a total of 756.

On the final count, Price had a majority of 246 votes over MacNeil of the CCF. Without Stephens' 756 votes, Price would have lost to the Socialist candidate. And the CCF would have won 19 seats to Social Credit's 18.

The Christian Democratic party was formed to fight for Roman Catholic objectives in the province's separate schools dispute. Eight Roman Catholic candidates were entered in Vancouver ridings. None was elected.

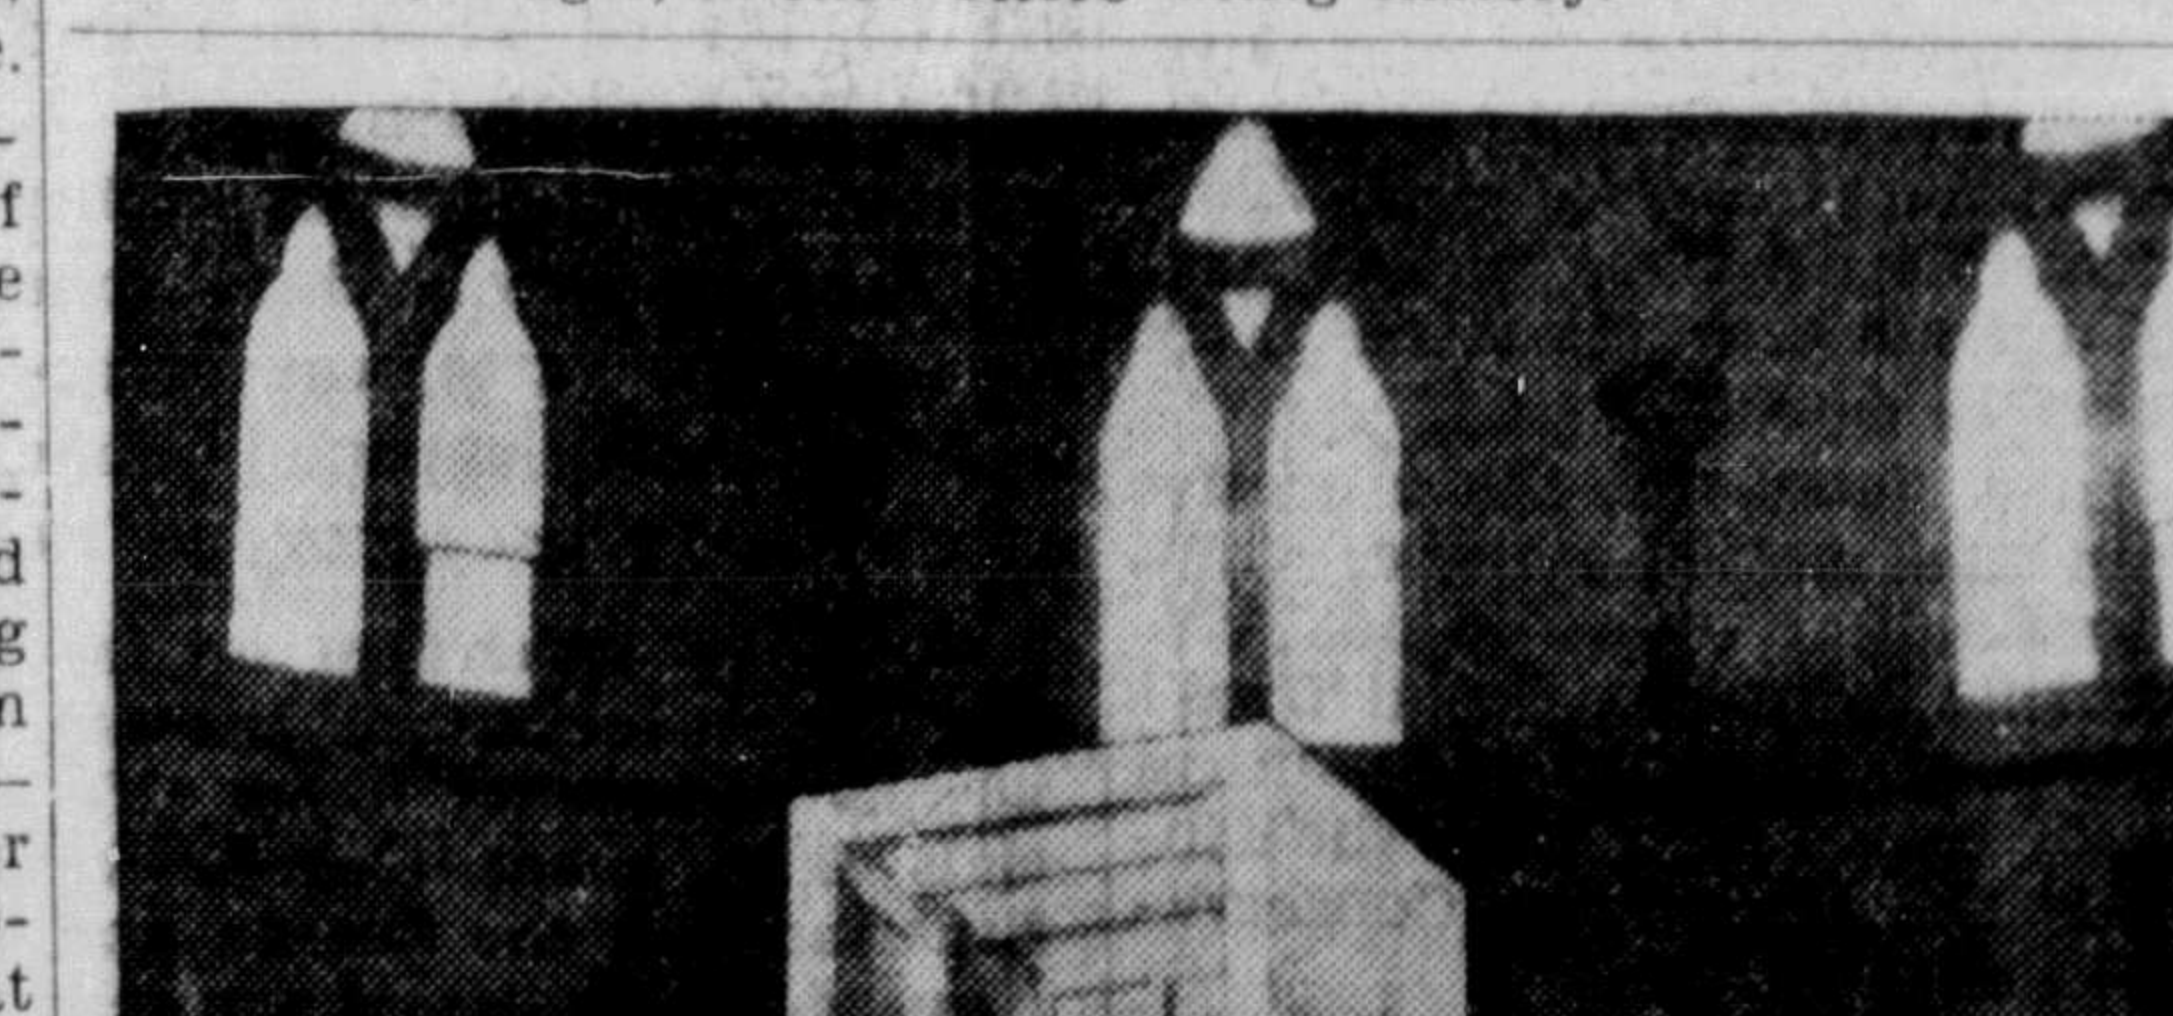

The Sunday before the election, the British Columbia Catholic Education Association distributed leaflets to Roman Catholics in Vancouver-Burrard suggesting they vote for Stephens as their No. 1 choice, for Cornett as No. 2 choice, and Price as No. 3 choice; Stephens received 1046 first-choice votes, Cornett 480 second-choice votes, and Price 276 third-choice votes.

The Catholic Education Association maintains the provincial government should give financial aid to Roman Catholic separate schools. Under present B.C. law, separate schools do not receive public funds.

Before the election, the CCF said it believes in the present system in regard to separate schools. Social Credit said it believes in "equal rights for all."

used to be a rifle range not far from where a trail winds through the woods, and a stream's murmur is heard. But that meant risks, and more hazards as time went on.

UNDER OUR ROOF

Little Augie came out to the shed the other day and asked to see me. There is only one room in the shed (where my family are living on account of the guests in our house, including Little Augie) so the request seemed rather unnecessary. He couldn't help but see me.

However, Little Augie is always polite when he has something on his mind. "I think, pal," he said, "that I may have to leave you."

I should have jumped with joy. If Little Augie left, it meant that at least one bedroom would be available. Hamish and Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.) and his wife

But there was such a look of dejection in the ex-blind-pig king's eyes that, instead of joy, I felt sorry for him. I have had a soft spot in my heart for Little Augie ever since he was a big operator in the old days back East.

"Why?" I asked. "It's the Plebiscite," said Little Augie. "It passed." Well, that wasn't exactly news, but then I remembered that Little Augie never bothered to learn how to read—he was always too busy—and of course he wouldn't know anything about the plebiscite or the election unless someone told him.

"That's true, Little Augie," I said. "It's the end of an era," he muttered. "First the United States, then Quebec, then Ontario. Everybody opening up cocktail bars. And now B.C. It's the millennium, the axe."

He shook his head. "They have a union in Manitoba," he told me. "The Association of Certified Bootleggers. You have to serve a five years' apprenticeship before you can get a license. Think of it! Me, who has spent twenty years as a leader in my trade! And anyway," he added, "they don't like outsiders. In fact, they closed the border to workers when Ontario changed its liquor laws. Just like we had foot-and-mouth disease, or something!"

So the father cashes in the endowment policies he took out for Little Augie's college education and buys him the first set-up, a little room off the kitchen—a small place, true, but his very own. And Little Augie studies hard and burns the candle late at night, and sells only the best stuff, and pretty soon he has a reputation and a clientele and is a success in his trade.

And then they change the laws and Little Augie faces ruin. All his years of service to the public go for naught. Now a lot of unskilled laborers are making the money, and experts like Little Augie are thrust out in the cold.

But out on the Pacific Coast the sun is still shining. So Little Augie, courageous of heart, beats his way across the country to start a new life on the shores of the blue Pacific. And then...

I still had my hand on his shoulder when he asked: "What is the situation in the Northwest Territories?"

I made him look at me. There were tears in his eyes. "Little Augie," I said, "I've got news for you. Did you ever hear of the Alternative Vote?"

"The last word is familiar," he said. "Well," I said, "it is a system by which the people elect a new government. Only it takes a long time to count the ballots and by then nobody really knows which is the new government. It is very confusing."

"What has that got to do with me?" Little Augie asked.

"The Plebiscite," I said. "There is so much confusion about the new government that everybody has forgotten the Plebiscite."

Little Augie jumped to his feet, his eyes shining. "You mean—I can carry on?"

"Until further notice," I said. "Until further notice."

I watched him dance away, a happy man again.

Of course, there is that bedroom. But I'd rather live in a shed than see Little Augie suffer.

Wartime Executive Officer Revisits Family in Rupert

Colonel and Mrs. C. S. Von Auron have arrived here by automobile from their home at Langley Prairie to renew old acquaintances.

Col. Von Auron was the wartime executive officer of the American Port of Embarkation here and will be remembered by many citizens.

Mrs. Von Auron, the former Chris McLeod, was born and raised in Prince Rupert. Her father, R. A. McLeod, one of the city's pioneers, arrived by boat a few weeks ago and will motor back to Langley Prairie with the colonel and Mrs. Von Auron.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Hobbs of Vancouver are visiting here with their son, Dyke McMillan. They are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Duffus, completing a trip which has taken them to Edmonton, Calgary and Jasper. They will return to their home by boat on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Cheseman of Fifth Avenue West will sail Thursday evening to spend a month in Victoria, where Mrs. Cheseman's mother resides.

German Pair Married Here

Two former residents of Germany, Lieselotte Klontke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Klontke, and Ottomar Wilde, son of Rev. and Mrs. Waldemar Wilde, were married here Saturday.

The Rev. Fred Antrobus officiated at the ceremony in First Baptist Church. Mrs. W. Senff was bridesmaid and Mr. Erich Krieg was best man. Little five-year-old Angela Wilde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Wilde, carried the bride's veil.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the groom's home where a two-tier wedding cake was cut by the newly-married couple. Mrs. W. Wilde and Mrs. Maron were in charge of the reception.

Reasonable Trade With Russia Is Proposed

LONDON (Reuters)—Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said on a television broadcast last night that he favors doing "reasonable trade" with Russia and Iron Curtain countries, though he opposed sending them war materials.

Butler, first chancellor of the exchequer to appear on TV, answered impromptu questions put to him by four leading economic and financial journalists. Asked if there were any hopes of extending East-West trade, Butler said: "We depend on Russia for coarse grains and four car pigs and we want timber from Russia."

Refreshments were served by ladies of the women's auxiliary under the convenship of Mrs. W. Skinner, Mrs. L. Langair and Mrs. J. Mellor. Serviteurs and kitchen assistants were Mrs. D. Gable, Mrs. K. Mori, Mrs. J. Stokes, Mrs. H. Kellogg, and Miss Jean Norris. Highlights of the reception was the presentation by Mrs. A. Duffus of a "grocery shelf" filled by the ladies of the church to help give the rector a start in his new home.

Mrs. Fitzgerald Succumbs in Rupert Hospital

Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, 60, mother of Brendan Fitzgerald, an employee of the Daily News, died in Prince Rupert General Hospital this morning after an extended illness.

The family came to this city about 10 years ago from Newfoundland. Mr. Fitzgerald died a short time ago.

Besides Brendan, there are two other sons here, Desmond and Brian. Two daughters, Mrs. Walter Sedgewick and Mrs. James Stuart live in Vancouver, and another daughter resides in Newfoundland.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Studied English, Sent To Siberia

HAMILTON — Mrs. Berta Kittler is again taking lessons in English, a language which cost her much 15 years ago.

At that time in her native Russia Mrs. Kittler and her husband began studying English. The result: five years in Siberia for Mrs. Kittler and death for her husband.

The Soviet high tribunal imposed these sentences for what is described as "treacherous behaviour," in learning the language of the "capital imperialists."

Mrs. Kittler, a university graduate, speaks seven languages and now that she is safe in Canada has begun again to study English.

Now a cleaning-woman in Hamilton, she says she is very happy. Her 17-year-old son attends high school.

"Nothing will stop me now from studying English," she said in an interview when she recalled her experiences.

SENT TO PRISON CAMP

Following her conviction she was shipped to a prison-camp in the middle of the Siberian desert where she shared a room with two other women, one of them Dr. Hanna Silberberg, who for many years acted as Stalin's personal physician.

Dr. Silberberg dropped suddenly from Stalin's favor when her husband was suspected of "sympathizing with the west."

Later Mrs. Kittler was transferred to a jail in Pawlowska, an old fortress which had the reputation of being the "worst prison in the Soviet Union." It was there that she learned that her husband had been executed and her 10-year-old son George was safe at the home of friends.

On her completion of her sentence Mrs. Kittler and her son followed refugees trying to avoid the Soviet army and slowly moving toward Germany.

For the next seven years the two lived on a German farm near Frankfurt where Berta found a job as a farm-hand. They came to Canada last September.

Full Petticoat Sets Off My Summer-Time Dress

MURIEL NARRAWAY Canadian Press Staff Writer

—This is the season of the "petticoat," said British fashion designers as the Court came mourning. And events there were not.

and frothy organzas, chiffons, fine lace and nylon, broderie Anglaise, nylon voiles have floated away from garden parties and royal Ascot to cocktails, and balls.

Ants with limited bank-accounts quick to realize the smartly-styled, wide-eyed, expensive petticoats, a model look to simple run up at home at small fully-finished crinolines of cambric, lawn and formed a day-time fountain of chiffons or voiles with flower patterns of rose-hips and poppies, or tracery of leaves. Night-time them swishing beneath with cocktail and evening in dark organza de-embroidered with white eyelet and given a Gainsborough look by the face-framing beauty shawl collar. One useful petticoat outfit is a sheath-like black taffeta dress, underskirt beneath after-neck overdress in white abraded cotton, its waist-ribbon by wide black cummerbund belt. For evening wear one wears out in the underskirt, with without an overskirt of sequined tulle.

ANDY UNDERSKIRT

Such a petticoat gives at least three completely different reasons—and there are few limitations to its capabilities. It is, for instance, equally successful under white broderie Anglaise or the silverest nylon overdress with floating fullness to a gathered skirt.

This is the first year that nylon garments in quantity—at least acceptable to many pockets—have been available on the market. There is ample choice in everything from lace-trimmed panties at under-10s., to filmy pastel-shaded dresses with matching underskirts for just over 14.

The choice of sheers has also been noted in the royal family. During a recent London heat-wave, the Queen in pale grey organza gown with wide skirt, cap sleeves and deep-V neckline, inspected members of the two-year British North Greenland expedition, sweltering in wind-cheater packet with fur collars and fur-lined boots.

On the same day, Princess Margaret visited a hospital for incurable children in Folkestone. She wore a grey organdie dress with three-tier cape sleeves, its flared skirt flounced with tiered frills.

Reception Held For New Minister

A pleasant "get-acquainted" reception to welcome their new rector, the Reverend J. S. Twining, was held by members of the congregation of St. Peter's Anglican Church at Seal Cove, following the evening service Sunday.

A short program was enjoyed, consisting of community singing of hymns accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Denning, interspersed with several monologues by W. D. Griffiths.

Refreshments were served by ladies of the women's auxiliary under the convenship of Mrs. W. Skinner, Mrs. L. Langair and Mrs. J. Mellor. Serviteurs and kitchen assistants were Mrs. D. Gable, Mrs. K. Mori, Mrs. J. Stokes, Mrs. H. Kellogg, and Miss Jean Norris.

Highlights of the reception was the presentation by Mrs. A. Duffus of a "grocery shelf" filled by the ladies of the church to help give the rector a start in his new home.

Air Pioneer Prefers Old Type Airplanes

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Royden F. Foley of Hamilton, a Canadian pioneer in aviation, prefers the old type aircraft as compared with the modern jet.

"We used to joke about taking off, flying and landing, all at 40 miles an hour," he said in an interview here, "but we got a great thrill out of those 40 miles—just as big a thrill, I'll bet, as those jet pilots get out of 600 or 700."

The former Saint John resident, visiting a sister in this district, considers the jets a great advance in flying but says that in the old days a pilot required more skill and had a more intimate knowledge of his plane. He has no desire to go up in a jet. "It's just a machine. There's nothing human about it. You work the dials but you don't know what's going on under the hood. I'll bet most of those jet pilots don't even know how the engine operates."

Mr. Foley learned to fly with the Wright brothers in 1912 and 1913. He served with the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War, became commanding officer of a navigation school at London, Ont., in 1940, was later a wing commander overseas and remained on active duty as a pilot until his retirement from the service in 1946.

Mr. Foley created a sensation in the United States in 1916 when he made the first flight from New York to Philadelphia. "Flying from New York to Philadelphia doesn't sound like much now, but you should have read the papers back in 1916. You'd think I'd gone to the moon and back."

TV For Scholars

LONDON (CP)—Two-way television for schools is recommended by educational officer C. E. Gurr following a four-week experiment in one-way educational television. Gurr said the children were "comparatively inactive" during the lesson, whereas two-way TV would afford a question-and-answer session.

Abel's Two Club Calls Leaves Mrs. Keen Free

"You made a free bid on that trash?" said Mr. New, the avid kibitzer, when Mr. Abel bid two clubs in today's hand.

Mr. New has many things to learn and this is one of them. Mr. Abel's bid was correct even though he had only a queen and a jack. It was correct because he had a fairly respectable five-card suit and because he bid the "next" suit over Miss Brash's spade bid.

In other words, if he had held the same weak hand, but with a five-card heart or diamond suit, it would not have been proper to bid either of those suits. The reason is that such a bid would have "cut out" one bid which Mrs. Keen might have wanted to make—namely, two clubs.

Mr. Abel's two club call cut out nothing. Mrs. Keen could either accept clubs as trump or she could bid any other suit at the two range.

Miss Brash had to play well to bring home her four spade contract. Mrs. Keen opened the king of hearts which was permitted to win, Mr. Abel playing the deuce.

Mr. Abel was not starting a high-low and therefore apparently did not have a doubleton. If his deuce were a singleton then Mrs. Keen had started with seven hearts, a suit she had not bid. Very unlikely. So Miss Brash decided to play Mr. Abel for at least three hearts.

She ducked the second heart lead also, then won the third one with dummy's ace and discarded a diamond from her hand.

She extracted trumps, then cashed two top diamonds and ruffed a third diamond. When the suit broke 3-3, she had a parking place for the deuce of clubs.

If the diamonds had not broken she always could have led up to her king of clubs as a last resort. As you see, that would have cost her the contract. As it was, she lost only two heart tricks and a club.

Timely RECIPES

Serve "Layered Olive Aspic" at your next bridge luncheon. It's a distinctive salad and one which tastes particularly delightful in warm weather. Cold slices of ham and finger sandwiches go well with it. A frozen dessert is always welcome and your menu is complete.

Layered Olive Aspic

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) plain gelatin
 - 2 tablespoons cold water
 - 1 2/3 cups hot tomato juice
 - 1 tablespoon vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - ½ teaspoon grated onion
 - 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
 - 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
 - ¼ cup ripe olives
 - ½ cup chopped celery
 - Salad greens
- Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot tomato juice. Blend in vinegar, lemon juice, salt and onion. Cool to consistency of unbeaten egg white. Soften cream cheese and blend in mayonnaise. Gradually blend in 2/3 cup of gelatin mixture. Divide among 6 to 8 individual molds and chill until firm. Meanwhile, cut olives from pits into large pieces. Stir olives and celery into remaining clear gelatin and pour over cheese layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens.
Serves 6 to 8.

American Draws Russ Competitor

HELSINKI (AP)—Lee Yoder, 400-metre hurdler from the University of Arkansas, today drew the honor of being the first American athlete to meet a Russian rival in the 1952 Olympic Games.

Pre-Olympic competition started today in basketball as 13 teams began a round-robin to determine six that will enter the Games competition next week.

Canada overcame the second-half rally by Italy and won the match 68-57. Philippines, Cuba, Hungary and Bulgaria also were winners in eliminations.

Ten countries, U.S. 1948 Olympic champions, Russia European champions, and Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, France, Finland, Czechoslovakia and Uruguay already have qualified. Canada placed ninth in the last Olympics.

Meanwhile, the political situation simmered. An East German team, mostly yachtsmen, arrived. West Germany has been recognized, and the Olympic committee tried to set up a procedure whereby a single German team be chosen, but East Germans would have no part of it.

Nationalist China is due this week and Red China is reported en route. Both Red and Nationalist China have been denied entry on the grounds that their dues aren't paid. The German-Chinese problem will come up before the full Olympic committee Wednesday.

Number Ones Push Win Streak

Rusty Ford Pitches Fifth Winner; Millers Walloped

Rusty Ford pitched No. 1 nine to a one-sided 11-2 victory over CCC 300 in a city softball league game last night to score his fifth victory without defeat.

The win was the seventh for No. 1.

Ford gave up two unearned runs on five hits and one walk while striking out six.

Losing pitcher was Harvey Deary, who allowed six earned runs to cross the plate, gave up seven hits, walked eight and struck out 10. With better support he might have made the game a little closer.

Ford also smashed out the longest hit of the game when he smashed a ringing triple over the right field fence. Deary was the big batter for CCC 300, with two for three.

For No. 1, Don Scherk collected two for four.

Firemen clash with Hawks, who are still looking for their first win, in another game tomorrow night.

Bums Dump Cards With Shutout

Carl Erskine, the little right-hander, pitched a three-hit shutout as the Dodgers won 6-0 in St. Louis.

The Giants hit freely behind Jim Hearn and the steady right-hander pitched his 10th victory of the season, a 6-2 verdict.

In the American League, second division clubs had the field at bay.

Last-place Detroit Tigers hauled off to thump front-ran 1g New York Yankees 8-2. Washington Senators, in fifth place, routed runner-up Cleveland Indians 15-4 and St. Louis seventh-place Browns took Boston Red Sox 7-5.

Other scores: Chicago 1, Philadelphia 1.

Coke Best Seller But Kids Like Colors'—Soft Drink Man

In more than 15 years of manufacturing and bottling soft drinks in Prince Rupert, John (Johnny) McLeod, of North Star Bottling Works) has made a host of discoveries, but he numbers among the major ones:

That Coke, or Coca-Cola, outsells his other drinks two to one; that Prince Rupert soft-drink drinkers are exceptionally hard on the bottles; and that Prince Rupert weather is exceptionally hard on the business.

To illustrate what he means, Mr. McLeod pointed at dull skies today and said:

"For three days it was really hot, good soft-drink weather. We were doing a good business, when she clouds over. Last two days we've done little but catch up on a few back orders and building up stock."

Now, if there only was a way to tell the weather ahead—even just a little . . .

Summer time is the briskest season for the soft-drink trade, but in Prince Rupert it is due mainly to the fishing season, says the bottler.

Fish camps do a major business, as do the fishermen in individual boats, but such trade is also hard on the bottles, which represent a major item in the industry.

"We can charge only a percentage of what the bottle actually costs us, otherwise we'd have a hard time moving our product. That's why unreturned bottles are one of our biggest headaches."

COKE SELLS BEST

Most fishermen throw their bottles overboard, when empty.

Mr. McLeod, who is the only distributor of Coke west of Prince George, and operates the only bottling works north and west of Quessnel, maintains that the pioneer soft drink will always remain the most popular of all drinks.

The greatest number of those thinking other "pop" than Coke are children, he says, who like to try out different colors.

Among the most popular with the kids" is ice-cream soda (red), lime (green) and grape (purple)—about in that order.

Adults drink most of the orange that is bottled, but by far the majority are those who prefer Coke.

Peak production day, says Mr. McLeod, has run to 1000 bottles of Coke and 700 of other combined drinks.

The history of Coke goes back a long way. It is the beginning of the soft drink and started three-quarters of a century ago in the quaint kitchen of Dr. J. C. Pemberton. There the patient experimenter worked over a concoction, stirring its contents methodically and measuring the ingredients with exacting care.

And each day, he hurried down to the corner drug store where his friends gathered to find their reaction to his new drink. Day after day he tried anew, until one memorable day the response was striking.

DISCOVERY

The "tasters" with a new enthusiasm told him he had achieved a flavor that satisfied.

NORTH STAR BOTTLING WORKS

Johnny McLeod purchased the Beaver Bottling Works from Eddie Clapp in 1937 and changed the name to North Star Bottling Works.

The business was then situated behind the Royal Hotel. In 1940 the firm moved to a location across from Bob Parker Ltd. and in 1945 Mr. McLeod decided on the present location.

Largest step in the progress of the firm was in 1941 when Johnny McLeod took over the Coca-Cola franchise.

Coca-Cola is made on the premises as are all other soft drinks. Each drink has to be kept to a high standard and the bottles and the product must be inspected to insure cleanliness. After washing the bottles are inspected three times; automatic inspectors do a thorough job but the last inspection is carried out personally by members of the staff.

The rate of production is 60 bottles of soft drinks a minute. Biggest single day recorded at the plant saw 1,000 cases of Coca-Cola delivered.

All bottling and washing equipment was renewed in 1951, making everything fully modern.

Increase in business since Mr. McLeod took over can best be told in figures.

The staff has increased from two to 13. The number of trucks has increased from one to five.

Territory covered in sales and services includes Prince Rupert, Queen Charlotte Islands, Stewart, Anxox, and all the interior up to Burns Lake.

The office staff consists of Mrs. R. Foster and Miss Judy Nilson. Plant Manager is Ed Garner.

Try Smelt Fishing as Winter Industry

TORONTO (CP)—An experiment in winter smelt fishing will be tried at Blind River, Ont., early next year by Omstead Fisheries of Wheatley, Ont.

The experiment is a new one for Canada, although smelt fishing during the winter is done in Green Bay, Wis. The Blind River area, 90 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, was chosen because of its similarity to Green Bay.

Generally, smelt are caught in nets and scoops in creeks and along the shore during the April-

May spawning run. Omstead will try catching the little silvery fish before they spawn, using pound nets lowered through a hole in the ice.

Fishing would take place in fairly deep water, from 60 to 90 feet, in the north channel of Lake Huron under the supervision of the fish and wildlife division of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department.

WINTER EMPLOYMENT
If the experiment is successful, a processing plant will be probably installed at Blind River. Fishermen in the old lumbering town, who now do little during the winter, would be employed catching the smelt.

W. H. R. Werner, an official of the Fish and Wildlife division, attended a recent meeting of the Algoma-Manitowlin Fishermen's Association to explain the pound net and to put forward a request from Omstead that they be allowed to carry on their experiments in smelt fishing during the winter months.

E. Carlson, chairman of the association, said: "This looks like a very efficient way to get rid of the smelt in the north channel and Omstead Fisheries look forward to our full cooperation."

RUSHING REVIEW
In blazing sunshine, he drove the minister through the camp—composed of dozens of quonset huts, which include a hospital, theatre, recreation hall, post office and dining room that seats more than 600 men at each sitting.

Rushing at all times in an effort to give Mr. Winters a picture of the work, he drove the party up to the tunnel, in which, he said, there would be an office several miles inside built into a space as large as a six-story building.

The visitors did not enter the tunnel but were shown towers more than 2500 feet up the mountain that will carry energy to Alcan's city and smelter at Kitimat.

Mr. Abramson said the present campsite will be eliminated and permanent homes erected after work is through at the tunnel. While there are more than 3,000 workers in the area now, only about 50 will stay on permanently.

Everyone was working. Few could even be stopped to meet the minister and the numerous trucks and road equipment all appeared to be moving at maximum speed.

After a speedy trip back to his plane, Mr. Winters congratulated Mr. Abramson for the "mammoth undertaking" and thanked him for the tour.

"But," he said as he boarded a QCA Canoe for Vancouver, "I wonder how fast he travels when he's in a hurry."

Edo Vanni, rightfielder, was made pro-team manager.

Japan Named Market for B.C. Lumber

VANCOUVER (CP)—A prominent British Columbia lumberman today forecast Japan will become a "substantial and permanent" market for B.C. lumber.

But Walter C. Koerner, managing director of Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd., cautioned that this would not happen in the immediate future.

"I would think," he said in an interview, "that Japan may eventually become a substantial and permanent market for lumber exports from British Columbia, if trade and currency restrictions will allow a free flow of goods."

Mr. Koerner has just returned from a month's visit to Japan.

He said the Japanese demand for B.C. lumber will not develop until a successful solution of the political situation has been reached.

"There is no trade at all with the mainland of East Asia except at Hong Kong, which is a very restricted market."

Although the Japanese consumption of lumber is very high, he said, the country has not "been importing any lumber of any consequence."

'Fridge On Wheels From CNR Shops

MONTREAL — A new electric refrigerator on wheels, the first of its kind on the continent, came off the assembly line at the Canadian National Railways car shop: yesterday and underwent a standing test of its icing equipment.

On its running tests, scheduled to begin this week, officials expect the temperature of the car to dip to 10 degrees below zero. This is 15 degrees lower than the average temperature obtained in iceed refreezers.

A. C. Malanson, CNR chief of motive power and car equipment, said that it is the first time that a mechanical reefer car has been built with its refrigeration equipment suspended beneath it. The standard practice has been to locate it inside the car.

The innovation is made possible by using suspension and an air circulation system both designed by engineers of the CNR's car department. In addition to its refrigerating qualities the new car also provides heat in the wintertime. A flick of the switch transfers power from the cooling apparatus to a bank of electric heaters located in the ceiling.

Equipment slung under the car includes a four-cylinder diesel engine, an electric generator, air compressor, fuel tanks and thermostatic controls. A feature of the suspension gear is a device which permits the diesel and generator to be swung out from under the car for convenient servicing.

The car's first running test will begin next Friday when it leaves Toronto for Halifax carrying a load of fresh beef. On its return to Montreal it will carry a shipment of frozen fish.

Later this summer it will run eastward from British Columbia with a load of peaches. The tests will be made under the supervision of K. L. Townshend, general supervisor of perishable traffic for the CNR.
