"NO HALLOWE'EN DAMAGE," POLICE REPORT TODAY

Fun Without Undue Bother—Not a Single Pane of Glass Broke.

Prince Rupert emerged this morning from its most orderly Halloween night since the war without any "headaches" caused by vandalism or property destruction which characterized similar celebrations in 1946 and 1945.

"No damage at all," said Police Sergeant L. A. N. Potterton this morning after police patrols, augmented by a small group of Junior Chamber of Commerce volunteers, had come through the night with nothing to report other than minor pranks. These, too, were all of an innocuous nature.

"It is very gratifying," said Sergeant Potterton who, after the experience of earlier years, had prepared for some acts of vandalism. "There was not one pane of glass broken."

Actually, the only call the police received was a complaint that some boys had thrown firecrackers on a householder's verandah.

Kinsmen Club bonfires at Conrad Street and Gyro and Fraser parks acted as a magnet for hundreds of children throughout the evening and there were innumerable parties at homes in addition to school parties and the Gyro hoedown.

Relieved householders, who had tied down practically everything movable, began to breathe more freely as the night progressed without any unpleasant incidents. One man said: "This is Halloween as it should be—fun without damage. I hope this will set an example for decent conduct for Halloween to come."

It was a night, from the weather standpoint, in keeping with the date. Somehow, Halloween and moonlight go together—and they did this time, from twilight to dawn. The clouds were riding high and the satellite was shining in all its mellow glory.

WASHINGTON, D. C., (CP, Courtesy B.C. Dmytryk was one of 10 Hollywood figures cited for declining this information during evidence before the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities.

The government was beaten in a vital county by Sean McBride, young lawyer and leader of the recently formed Republican party known as Clann na Potblachta. McBride polled 29,000 votes to 20,000 for Thomas Mullins, who is general secretary of the Fianna Fail.

BUSY BEAVER KILLS WIRES

Gnawing down a tree which fell over the Canadian National Telegraphs line near Exstew in the lower Skeena Valley, a busy beaver industry put communications as far as land line connections in and out of Prince Rupert are concerned out of commission for two hours yesterday. There was no storm and line-men were curious as to why a live tree should have fallen over the wires just then. Examination showed that it had been dropped by a beaver.

Meat Shortage in South Africa—Early Morning Queues Form

JOHANNESBURG — Angry South African housewives are queuing up in vain for meat these days. Queues form in the early hours of the morning and by 6 a.m. hundreds are waiting outside butcher shops but they are usually disappointed and forced to serve makeshift meals, substituting omelets, fish and poultry for meat.

Butchers say that government controls over meat are responsible but the government claims there is enough meat for everybody's need "but not for everybody's greed."

The function was conducted in cabaret style and ended at 1 o'clock.

Committee in charge consisted of Reg Lavigne, who acted as master of ceremonies, Laila Husoy, Jim Hebb and Rusty Thain.

A number of the teachers, including Principal A. M. Hurst, were present.

Mrs. Nora Arnold, one of Canada's few women mayors, announced today, on being asked by the Daily News, that she will be a candidate for re-election at the civic polls next month. Mrs. Arnold, disclosing that numerous requests had been made for her to stand again, intimated that she had agreed to do so. She is completing her first year as chief magistrate after four years of aldermanic service. There has been little, if any, talk of other candidates. The mayoralty henceforth will be for a two-year instead of one year term.

OCTOBER WAS MOIST MONTH

Yet Sunshine Is Also Holding Up Well This Year

The dark clouds that scraped their wet undersides over the landscape during most of October released 15.08 inches of rain on Prince Rupert, sprinkling or pouring their loads on 27 days out of the 31. For this, October of 1947 almost took the watery crown which it recent years has been worn by October of 1942 which month gave out with 15.76 inches of rain. So far, October has been the wettest month of the year with January's 10.63 running a poor second.

An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and all communities comprising northern and central British Columbia...

Don't Be Inarticulate

THERE ARE PLENTY of good ideas in Prince Rupert. The people here are thoughtful and imaginative. There seems to be, however, a failure to follow up and get things done.

Take business, for instance. Opportunities are seen and appreciated. Services of various kinds are lacking. Some of them, it is generally agreed, present opportunities to combine the giving of essential service with profitable return.

Here in the newspaper office we get plenty of free advice about campaigns we should start, causes we should support, editorials we should write, views we should express.

On the one hand many of us are inactive, lack initiative. We have ideas but we do nothing more than think about them or discuss them on the street corner.

There is one thing that the Daily News is always ready and glad to do—that is to pass along and give expression to the ideas, the suggestions, the views of the people.

A BANK'S BIRTHDAY

THE 130TH ANNIVERSARY of the Bank of Montreal next Monday recalls not only the founding of Canada's first-established bank in 1817 but the very beginning of the nation's banking system.

Because of the unsettled times through which Canada—in common with all the world—is passing, the occasion of the Bank's 130th anniversary is especially worth noting.

FLIGHTS AND CRASHES

THE THOUSANDS OF FLIGHTS made safely by large passenger planes are the ones that never make the screaming headlines. But now and then, numerous valuable lives are finished in a flash and flaming wreckage litter a mountain wilderness.

That's news. The other isn't. The world is becoming more and more hardened to crashes and plunges in the deep, deep sea.

RAILWAY TO ALASKA

A RAILWAY FROM VANCOUVER to Fairbanks, west of the Rockies! The project is heard of, again. Why not? A relative of the late F. D. R. was on the coast during the war, studied the situation, and turned in a report favoring construction whenever it might be regarded as feasible and necessary.

A FINE HALLOWE'EN

IT WAS a "safe and sane" Halloween in Prince Rupert and everybody is happy today. "No damage" is the gratifying police report and there was a minimum of bother.

After the experiences of the previous two years, it was satisfactory, indeed, to have it this way and we are glad to be able to congratulate all concerned—the authorities and service organizations for their precautions and various efforts and, particularly, the young people themselves who restrained themselves so well.

Everyone had a good time and did so without spoiling the night for any one else.

Bank of Montreal Celebrates 130th Birthday

Identified with Canada As It Grew In Stature

British Columbia's first permanent bank—the Bank of Montreal—next Monday completes the 130th year of its pioneering career. The first bank in Canada, founder of the country's financial system, and major backer of the Dominion's first transcontinental railway, the Canadian Pacific, the Bank of Montreal has played—and still plays—a vital part in the development of British Columbia and of the nation.

When the bank was founded, on November 3, 1817, the region that was to become the province of British Columbia had impressed the world as just a wilderness in the back of beyond, prized for its furs, and populated only by Indian and white traders and hunters.

Back east, things weren't much better. The Canadian colonies were primitive settlements scattered long forest miles apart. The entire population numbered only about half a million.

Since 1817, Canada has grown from colonial infancy to robust nationhood. The old bank which did so much to make possible the high standard of living and swift progress of the young country has also grown. The Bank of Montreal began with a capital of $250,000. Today, the bank's capital and reserves amount to $78,000,000, and its resources approach the two-billion level. Just as spectacular has been the increase in staff—from seven persons in 1817 to more than 8,000 in 1947! The bank has over 500 offices, including branches in Newfoundland, London, New York, Chicago and San Francisco. Its depositors number more than 1,500,000—one out of every five bank depositors in Canada.

If all these people and their dependents, plus all the others whom the bank serves, were counted together, their number would form a surprisingly high proportion of the Canadian population. In effect, Canada's oldest bank has become part and parcel of the fabric of the nation.

CANADA'S FIRST BANK BUILDING

Taken from an old hand-colored engraving, this winter scene is a view of St. James Street, Montreal, as it appeared in 1830, thirteen years after the Bank of Montreal's founding. The building on the right was the first head office of the bank, which served as headquarters for the Bank of Montreal from 1819 to 1848.

OLD AND NEW IN PRINCE RUPERT

This unique picture taken some time ago shows the old and new of the Bank of Montreal in Prince Rupert. The vertical line points to the modern, permanent building which for years has been the home of the Bank of Montreal here.

LOCAL BANK OFFICE HAS 37-YEAR HISTORY IN COMMUNITY SERVICE

The pioneering spirit of the Bank of Montreal, and which celebrates the 130th anniversary of its founding November 3, which has done so much to promote the prosperity of Canada, still characterizes its activities. One of the bank's greatest pioneering periods was during the first decade of this century when it aided in the development of so many of the new communities of British Columbia and the other western provinces.

The local office, established in May 1910, opened here when the city's population consisted of several thousands of transient prospectors. There were few businessmen and no real industries in the frontier community.

However, the coming of the railway and the permanent establishment of the mining, lumbering and fishing industries have made a tremendous difference. Streets have been paved and sidewalks laid, so that Prince Rupert now compares favorably with other cities of like size. The local office of the bank has contributed to this rapid expansion.

G. R. S. BLACKABY ESTEEMED MANAGER

Manager of the Prince Rupert branch of the B. of M. for the past seven years, G. R. S. Blackaby has become a well-known and popular member of the community. Mr. Blackaby was born in Hertfordshire, England, on August 5, 1891, and he received his education at Ware and Hertford grammar schools. After a year or two in commercial life in London he entered the service of the London City and Midland Bank, leaving them in July 1911 to join the Bank of Montreal at London, England.

During World War I Mr. Blackaby served overseas with the 2nd Brigade Machine Gun Company, First Division, being wounded at Passchendaele and gassed at Hill 70. He was for three years president of the Central Cariboo branch of the Canadian Legion and president of the Williams Lake and District Board of Trade.

Throughout the seven years he has lived in Prince Rupert, Mr. Blackaby has taken a very active part in almost every worthwhile public effort, serving on the executive of the local Chamber of Commerce, Industrial Development Committee, Victory Loan drives and as treasurer for the Chinese and Russian Relief campaigns, as well as for the Home Front, Red Shield appeal, and as chairman of the combined War Services drive.

These interests he has shared to the full with his fellow citizens of Prince Rupert and while he has recently had to restrict his participation in local affairs since a heart attack last fall, he maintains a very keen interest in all the city's activities.

GEORGE W. SPINNEY, C.M.G., president of the Bank of Montreal for the past five years of the bank's 130-year history. A member of the staff since 1906, he joined the bank as a junior at his native town of Yarmouth, N.S. Mr. Spinney served at a number of posts in the bank before his appointment as assistant to the general manager in 1922. In 1928 he was appointed an assistant general manager and eight years later he became general manager. During the war, Mr. Spinney was chairman of the First Victory Loan campaign and for two years he was chairman of the National War Finance Committee.

B. C. GARDNER, vice-president and general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who is also president of the Canadian Bankers' Association and a vice-president of the American Bankers' Association. Mr. Gardner, whose wide experience in banking includes service in England, the United States and Newfoundland, as well as in eastern and western Canada, became an assistant general manager of the bank in 1935. In 1942 he assumed the duties of general manager of the organization and two years later became a director and vice-president.

CANADA'S FIRST REAL MONEY—One of the first steps taken by the Bank of Montreal after its founding, in 1817, was to issue its own bills. Canada's first bank bills, did much to facilitate the development of trade and commerce in the young colony. Until then, Canadians had to rely on an unwieldy mixture of foreign currencies which circulated in the country. As their rates of exchange constantly fluctuated, the transaction of business was a difficult matter, and trade was conducted chiefly by barter. The bills reproduced above are specimens of the bank's first money. On the two-dollar bill appears a picture of one of the steamboats that travelled on the St. Lawrence River in those days. It is believed to be one of several owned by the Hon. John Molson, a famous Montreal merchant of the early 19th century, who, from 1826 to 1834, was president of the Bank of Montreal.

Kin Fires Hallowe'en Magnet For Children

Contributed to Fine Night In Prince Rupert—The Prizewinners

The sun had scarcely tucked itself out of sight last night when there came a knocking at house doors throughout the city and cries of "Shell-out for Hallowe'en!" and "Apples, apples."

Hallowe'en apples!" sounded up and down the streets.

Groups of little gypsies, cowboys, pirates and strange, goblin-like creatures with false faces trooped from house to house gathering a loot of candies, apples, cookies and shell-out tickets. When the glow in the sky warned the revellers that their neighborhood Kinsmen bonfire was alight, they converged on Totem Pole Park, Conrad Street and Gyro Ball Park.

Kinsmen were on hand to collect and tabulate each child's collection of shell-out tickets and to provide entertainment and eats. A special delight to young palates were the candied apples. Armine Boas, with the aid of several volunteers, the co-operation of the city bakeries and the North Star Bottling Works, had 1500 apples dipped, skewered and wrapped for the occasion. When these gave out the busy handlers opened seven more cases of unadorned eating apples.

Each fire had novelties for the youngsters and a display of fireworks. At Conrad Street special entertainment, arranged by fire captain Charles Collins, was provided by Laurie Stevens on his piano-accordion. Early in the evening he played request numbers for the children but, as the crowd swelled with adults, a full-fledged sing-song got under way and lasted until the fire died to glowing coals.

Bill Noble, directing operations at Gyro Park, had a small stage set up near the fire and conducted a miniature amateur night, offering novelty prizes to the best performers and for the most original costumes. Community singing was also part of the program.

Totem Park fire, in charge of George Dibb and his crew, attracted the greatest number of adults. Under a moonlit sky some two hundred parents gathered around the cheerful blaze to watch the kiddies receive their gifts and to enjoy the fun with the youngsters.

YVONNE NEILSEN IS WATCH WINNER

Yvonne Neilsen of King Edward School won a girl's gold wrist watch as first prize in the Kinsmen's Hallowe'en shell-out ticket contest with a total of 6,152 points. Along with the prize goes a silver cup which Yvonne will hold for a second year having won it last year with 6,065 points.

There were two prizes for each fire with an extra one going to the fire having the contestant with the highest score which in this case was Conrad Street where Yvonne turned in her tickets.

Aside from Yvonne Neilsen, there were three repeat winners—Dorothy Hibbard, Jeannette Cloutier and Jimmy Currie. Girls predominated among the winners, taking the first five prizes. On Monday the prizes will be turned over to the principals of the city schools who will make the presentations.

The following is a list of the winners, their school, the fire they attended and the prize won by each contestant:

- Yvonne Neilsen, King Edward School, Conrad fire, gold wrist watch.
- Dorothy Hibbard, Borden Street School, Totem Park fire, silver wrist watch.
- Jacquelin Moore, Borden Street School, Totem Park fire, gold filled locket.
- Jeannette Cloutier, Annunciation School, Gyro Park fire, birthstone ring.
- Anne Miljure, Conrad School, Conrad fire, camera.
- Jimmie Currie, Conrad School, Conrad fire, camera.
- Murray Boas, King Edward School, Gyro Park fire, pen and pencil set.

George Frizzell Is 87 Years Old

George Frizzell, who has lived in Prince Rupert since railway construction days and taken an active part in business and community affairs, was 87 years of age a few days ago. Considering he sustained a stroke some years ago, he is in remarkably good health for his age and his many friends wish him many more returns of the anniversary.

CHURCH

SATURDAY SERMON

RELIGION AND THE SCHOOL
(By REV. R. A. WILSON, First United Church)

Education Week this year is stressing freedom and one of the major freedoms is freedom of religion. For the sake of this freedom men have suffered persecution and death. Many of the first settlers on this continent came to its shores because they were promised freedom to worship God according to the direction of their own consciences. Today, however, to many people, freedom OF religion means freedom FROM religion. That, at least, is what freedom of religion means to our public educational system. Let us look briefly at some aspects of this curious situation.

In the first place, if you think it unimportant that religion has little place in public education, remember how great is the influence a teacher has with your children. If the teacher in Grade One makes a Jack-o'-lantern without any teeth you may find that your efforts at home are completely unsatisfactory if you include teeth in your model. For a large part of the day during his most impressionable years the child is at school. A mysterious thing called the curriculum is making the intellectual weather in which his mind must grow. We all think the thing we are doing is important. The student assumes that the important subjects are the subjects he is studying, and, granted a good teacher and co-operation on the pupil's part, any subject can become interesting. But in all 12 years of elementary and high school there is one subject about which the teacher must maintain a discreet silence. That subject is Christianity. This silence isn't the teacher's fault, for the subject can't be taught in school. Don't blame the Department of Education for leaving the subject out for this omission is one of those collective sins in which most of us have some share.

When you stop to think of it it is a ridiculous situation in which we are involved. The Christian religion upholds a faith which it claims brings salvation to all who accept it. By any test it is important. Historically, it has done much to make us what we are, be that good or bad. Scientifically, religion is such a universal phenomena that its presence requires some explanation. It changes the landscape, dotting it with places of worship. Even economically (the crowning method of explanation for some) it seems to have importance, for people do spend a limited amount of money to maintain its institutions. And when at last life's silver cord is broken, with few exceptions the offices of religion are sought. Yet about this, the most fascinating of all subjects, the teacher must maintain a great silence. Oh, yes, occasionally it creeps into a history course and it is discovered that in some ancient and wicked day the men of the church, overcome by human weakness, started a war or did something else equally notorious. Or, if by chance some child, made of the stuff of the poets and philosophers, should ask one of life's important questions, such as "Why are we here?" the subject must be shifted to a less embarrassing topic such as the lift pump or the steam engine. The beauty of this system of silence is that it has an immortality all its own. By training students very highly in some subjects and keeping their curiosity dulled on this controversial question it will soon be possible to say that there is no one who could teach the subject. One thing our school system is best fitted to produce is teachers. One generation teaches the next. By this process our ignorance is self-perpetuating. Soon the public mind will be ignorant enough to accept one of the bloody secular religions that defy the state or man or some equally monstrous abstraction.

Roughly speaking, there are two groups who maintain this educational taboo. There are the religious people who refuse to look at any teaching except their own and there are those educators who regard religion as a burden to be cast aside. On the other hand there is a majority who would welcome a greater use of this rich treasure of human experience. Could not a course be designed in co-operation with the various churches that would help to inform the student about the history and institutions of Christianity? Its purpose need not be to persuade but to inform. The establishment of such a course would present difficulties but there are far greater dangers in our growing religious illiteracy. Religious freedom is not found in ignorance but in knowledge. Some way must be found whereby the resources of the schools can be used more effectively.

PRESBYTERIAN RELIEF PASTOR

Rev. A. M. McColl, recently retired from Westminster Presbyterian Church, Sioux City, Iowa, arrived in the city yesterday from Vancouver, where he is now making his home, to occupy the pulpit of First Presbyterian Church until a regular minister has been secured.

Mr. McColl is a veteran of the First Great War, having joined a Canadian Scottish Regiment as a private. Later, as chaplain, he served both in France and England and for sometime after returning to Canada. He was wounded in action while serving as a private in France. His son served as a paratrooper in the last conflict.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PARTY

The auditorium of Booth Memorial High School was one of the Hallowe'en bright spots last night when 250 junior pupils gathered for a gay party which included a musical program, a period of games and skits and two hours of dancing. The big room was appropriately decorated. Fine refreshments were served.

The program included guitar selections by Molly Dixon, singing of "The Lord's Prayer" as a duet by Bernice and Eleanor Hood and solo by Maresa Windle, accompanied by Beverley Matson.

John Church supervised the affair on behalf of the staff while the junior students' council committee consisted of Tom Holt, Betty Truman and Bob Woods.

GREAT FILM AT CAPITOL

With one of the greatest all-star casts ever assembled for a motion picture, "Duel in the Sun," giant technicolor production, comes to the Capitol Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Jennifer Jones, Gregory Peck, Joseph Cotten, Lionel Barrymore, Herbert Marshall, Lillian Gish, Walter Huston and many other celebrities give full play to their talents in a stirring story of when the railroads first pushed across the wild lands of the Texas cattle kings.

Miss Jones plays the part of a fiery half-breed girl. Gregory Peck is a rough-riding cowboy who is not above murdering for the girl. He vies with his milder brother, Joseph Cotten, for the girl's affections. Lionel Barrymore turns in a great portrayal as the power-mad father of the boys who resents the push of the railroads. Lillian Gish is his gentle, aristocratic wife. Herbert Marshall is the girl's father.

All the hate, love and fears of the pioneers who settled the old West are forcefully brought out in the saga of the screen which rises to great heights dramatically.

Other first line stars seen in "Duel in the Sun" include Harry Carey, Charles Bickford, Otto Kruger, Sidney Blackmer and Tilly Tusch.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Forward are sailing tomorrow afternoon on the Chilcotin for a two weeks' trip to Vancouver Island.

Negotiating Wage Agreement At Dry Dock—Current Activity At Yard—Six Tugs For Indo-China Here

Discussions regarding a working agreement between the Prince Rupert Dry Dock and Shipyard and the unions employed at the yard, involving pay and working conditions similar to those in Vancouver and Victoria, were carried on between Robert Cameron, shipyard manager, and union officials Friday afternoon and the agreement now waits the approval of Canadian National Railways officials to be effective.

The agreement has been approved by four American Federation of Labor Unions and one Canadian Congress of Labor group and, according to the union men, is the same as adopted in southern yards last August. The unions involved are the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, the Electricians, Plumbers and Steamfitters and the Steam Operating Engineers in the A.F.L. group and the Shipyard General Federation in the C.C.L.

The agreement involves a general pay increase of 12½ cents an hour for the 70 men employed at the dry dock and contains clauses formalizing the 40-hour week which already has been effective here for the last year.

Union representatives say that their signatures are already on the documents and that they wait only the approval of the railway company, parent body of the Prince Rupert Dry Dock, to be made effective. Mr. Cameron, who represented the company at Friday's discussions, said that "nothing has been signed" here but that the documents must go to Vancouver. Each of the unions involved have separate agreements, which however, will be similar in nature. Malcolm McLeod of Vancouver, president of the Shipyard General Federation, arrived in the city Friday morning on the Chilcotin, representing that group at the talks. With him was J. W. Prusky, local representative. J. S. Black, business agent for the Carpenters, Joiners and Shipwrights, represented that union, while James Forman represented the electricians, George Weatherley the plumbers and steam fitters and S. L. Peachey the steam operating engineers.

Work at the dry dock has slacked off somewhat from its summer level which was one of great activity, although there is still a considerable amount of repair work. About 40 small vessels are docked at the various wharfs obtaining hull or engine repairs. They include many well known names, such as the Dovere B. Skeena Maid, Strafen, Advance II, Joe Baker, Harry H. Frisco, Svalbard, Clipper II, Five Princes and many others.

In Number One pontoon at present is the Nelson Bros. boat repair scow Bobolink, undergoing repairs following her adventure 10 days ago when she was blown onto the beach in a gale. Originally thought to be badly damaged, a survey shows that she actually sustained only a small amount of damage. The scow itself was twisted from the strain of riding a rock ledge but her bottom suffered only slightly. Replacement of a few planks and stringers and re-caulking ought to make her seaworthy again.

During the last couple of weeks, three sections of the former No. Two Wartime Housing staff house have been moved from location and placed on a scow at the dry dock. The scow can take, at most, one more section. There are four more sections still to be moved to the dry dock. The staff house, and its companion, Number One, are being moved to Vancouver by Miller Cannery Co. for the accommodation of cannery workers. It was estimated that it would be more economic to move them in sections than tear them down and then re-assemble them in the south.

Two more steel tugs, built at Owen Sound, Ontario, arrived here this week for shipment to Indo-China. This brings to six the number of the 40-foot vessels now here awaiting a deep-sea vessel to load them. So far, there has been no word of a ship coming. The first pair, each loaded on a railway flat car, arrived almost two months ago.

Vessels seining dog salmon are having a fair run of luck in Johnson Strait, apparently the only place on the coast where they are showing. Some of the fish are being brought to Prince Rupert in packers. Friday afternoon the Embla brought 4,300 pounds to Atlin Fisheries, while earlier in the week, the Combat brought 10,000 pounds to the Co-op.

OCEAN MOUNTAIN Paramushiro, northernmost Japanese outpost in the Pacific, has few attractions as a place to live; it's a mile-high mountain sloping directly into the sea and is fog-shrouded.

TEA TASTER'S TESTS An expert tea taster can identify between 1,500 and 1,600 different teas, telling where a particular tea was grown, its variety, season picked, how it was processed, its cost and how it should be blended.

POINTED CUSTOM The word turnpike originated from the early custom of blocking toll roads with pikes or poles—when the toll was paid, the pikes were turned around.

BIG CRWD AT GYRO HOEDOWN

Hallowe'en Celebrants Converged on Affair of Service Club for Playground Fund

Hallowe'en celebration converged in a big way on the annual hoedown dance of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club in the auditorium of the Civic Centre where 500 or more persons had a gay time at this traditionally jolly affair.

The walls were decorated with Hallowe'en colors and motifs as well as balloons and other adornments.

Spirited music was provided by Andy McNaughton's Orchestra which dispensed its tune-some strains from the stage which was adorned with bales of hay and other rural symbols. One of the features of the evening was the Purple and Gold drawing in which the first prize winner was George Ferguson.

A. J. Dominato was convener of the hoedown. Maurice Brydges was cashier and George Dawes presided at the door.

Proceeds were for the club's playground fund.
