OTTAWA (CP)-The government parried through a two-hour morning session of Commons today a C.C.F. amendment which the Prime Minister said amounted to a want of confidence motion in his administration, involving dissolution and election. Duplicating a delicate situation which arose on the last day of the last session, the C.C.F. moved for immediate government consideration of increase in rates of the War Veterans Allowances Act and was supported from Progressive-Conservative and Social Credit benches in a request for a free vote that would ignore party lines.

The vote was 84 to 54 against the amendment.

Adverse Road Reports

DEPORTS PERSIST of incidents of misinforma-A tion being given out to motorists wishing to drive through to the coast at Prince Rupert, adverse statements in regard to the condition of the highway having actually discouraged automobile tourists from coming this way. Not only have false statements been made in the south about the condition of the road but word has now reached here of motorists being told even in the central interior itself that the road to Prince Rupert is unfit for traffic and nigh impassable, something which all motorists who have been over the road, of course, know for themselves is entirely untrue. It appears that the time has now come when local organizations should take the matter up with various agencies such as Automobile Association, tourist bureau, etc., who give out the road publicity, to counteract these adverse reports. At last year's convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia, a resolution was passed seeking to set up a system of regularly publishing road condition reports for the benefit of motor tourists. Little seems, however, to have been actually done in accomplishing this end.

Boards of Trade of Upper Vancouver Island have been complaining at the adverse publicity their roads have been getting, even to the point of discouraging motorists from coming. It appears that Prince Rupert and Central British Columbia is well justified in a similar complaint.

REVIVAL IN MINING

THERE IS EVERY indication that the mining I industry is once again coming into its own as one of the principal economic mainstays of these northern districts. Prospecting and mining development having been almost washed out during the war owing to manpower shortage and lack of priority, the people of this part of the world have come to lose almost all mining consciousness. However, a visit to such camps as Alice Arm and Stewart impresses one with the renewed interest and activity. Prince Rupert stands to benefit greatly from this development and, when great new camps come into being again, such as Stewart, Anyox and Alice Arm once were, business people of this city, if they are aggressive enough to go after it, should share in the trade therewith.

TALKING OF FAKIRS

CTORIES ARE RECALLED not unlike that told J by the Ketchikan man, Gerald Anger, whose fanciful yarn about having sailed here from the South Seas fooled the coast.

Particularly during the war, many were the hoaxes which crept into print. Some bore a resemblance to the fabrication invented by Anger who, before showing up at Prince Rupert, hoodwinked California yachting men into thinking he was entering his "big yacht," the Lee, in the Los Angeles-Hawaii race.

Speaking of other imposters, there appeared in British Columbia during the war a stranger who posed as a French naval officer. In due time, he was caught by a shore patrol. He was wearing a steamship steward's uniform, which sported a number of fleur-de-lis.

Another fakir practised deception, and was active in Victory Loan drives. He managed to marry a Canadian girl and not long after, it was discovered he was a British Navy deserter, with wife and family in England.

Still another ingenious four-flusher let it be known he had been torpedoed nine times, the truth being that he had hardly ever been to sea. People were also asked to credit the tale of another stranger who spun fantastic yarns about his exploits on the ocean. One was that he had, in a submarine, performed a delicate operation, using a pen-knife as a scalpel. He knew nothing about ships or surgery, yet he tried to borrow money on the strength of such impossible claims.

It takes a mighty good rule to work even one way.

Theatre. Joan Fontaine is starred as the young wife, and Mark

Stevens is featured in the role

Young Bill Cummings believes

in security, and with the horrible example of Susan's in-laws before him, he doesn's want to marry Susan until he can promise it to her. Susan, however.

holds that if they really love

each other, nothing can hurt them. Bill gives in and they are

Bill doesn't want Susan working, especially when he is on a swing shift, and they hardly ever see each other. Sometimes,

Bill is laid off and Susan's salary has to keep things going.

This irks Bill, too, and on one occasion, he comes home drunk.

This they survive, and also when

Bill has a brush with the law.

Then comes the war and Bill
