PACIFIC COAST SALMON PACK

British Columbia's 1947 canned salmon pack is just under the million-case mark, according to the latest weekly bulletin issued by the Chief Supervisor of Fisheries, Vancouver, and with the exception of 1945, is the greatest for the last six years.

The pack, from all areas, stands at 917,177 cases, as compared with 693,598 for the same period last year. The 1945 pack for the corresponding period of 1945 was 1,265,086 cases.

Sockeye and pinks dominated the season's pack to date, sockeye accounting for 258,270 cases and pinks 346,111 cases. There were 202,834 cases of chums put up.

Approximately half the 1947 pack to date has come from District Two, centred by Prince Rupert, and District Two has provided large quantities of fish packed in lower coast canneries. So far, 518,081 cases of all varieties of salmon have come from District Two, 209,955 of which have been packed in the Nass and Skeena districts.

NEWARK, New Jersey — A 14-year-old boy, Fred Walter Smigelski, was being held today for the slaying of eleven-year-old companion, John Preston, whom the Federal Bureau of Investigation said he admitted garroting with a leather belt in an abandoned warehouse because he wanted to prove himself "no sissy."

Bread May Rise 5c Per Loaf—Build- ing Up Further

OTTAWA, Ont. — Up to five cents increases per loaf for bread, higher prices for lumber and other building materials and probably a little more for farm implements—that is the prospect foreseen as a result of the latest lifting of price controls, a Canadian Press survey shows today. It is generally agreed that the rise in price of bread would hit the most of people hardest. Rise of at least two or three cents within a week is seen.

Contractors see hope that building supplies will become more plentiful, but with higher prices, and that black market dealings in lumber, nails and electrical equipment will end. It may cost from $300 to $500 more to build houses.

The government Sunday night swept price ceilings from thousands of individual goods and services still under control and narrowed the files of restricted items to a handful of essentials such as rents, meats, sugar, fats, oils and most grains.

A rough estimate indicates that at least seventy-five percent of goods and services under restrictions are being decontrolled, effective today (Monday).

Subsidies are being dropped on all decontrolled items, including domestic subsidy on flour and import subsidies on cotton, hides and skins, corn and soya beans.

In the food fields, it means that price ceilings are being lifted from flour, bread, peas, beans, prepared cereal products, corn and corn products and all canned goods.

It means too, the removal of ceilings on all clothing, textiles, lumber and building products, nails, wire and fencing, agricultural implements, household heating equipment, hides and leather, wood pulp and all cotton jutes, sisal and synthetic fibres.

It is learned that meat and products were to have been lifted from price control but the government revoked the decision because of the current meat packers' strike.

Sugar rationing is being continued and there will be no changes in rental or eviction controls.

ST. PAUL PARTY CANCELS TRIP

The St. Paul Association of Commerce has cancelled its proposed trip to Prince Rupert for the time being, according to a letter received by Harry V. Williams, secretary of the Ketchikan Retail Merchants Association from Fred E. Sperling, secretary of the wholesalers department of the St. Paul Association. Sperling said that the group hopes to be able to make the trip sometime next spring. Their object is to develop trade between the Middle West and Alaska via Prince Rupert and Canadian National Railways.

Prince Rupert and Alaska

S PONTANEOUSLY and without any coaching, a United States senator, head of an important committee of the United States upper chamber, which has been holding a series of hearings in most of the important cities and towns of the territory, told a Daily News interviewer at the end of the week that "Alaskans quite generally are banking on the use of transportation facilities through Prince Rupert for the establishment of a new trading route to the Middle West. The people of Alaska I found want some competition for Seattle and they all see the possibilities of Prince Rupert." A very significant and heartening statement indeed for Prince Rupert, we would say, emanating from an important American legislator, coming himself from the Middle West (Nebraska) and made after due travel, observation, listening and consideration.

When such admissions as this are made, it is to be expected that Alaskans and Middle Westerners will be doing something themselves about taking advantage of the port of Prince Rupert and the service it has to offer—something which for years modestly and with due propriety we have been trying to sell them, knowing it is a service which can be used to their own advantage and which traffic, of course, would be most welcome to use. We cannot tell the Americans and the Alaskans what to do in such matters but we can continue in every way possible our job of fostering and presenting the case of Prince Rupert and the advantages which it has in support of the claim that it is the true entry port of Alaska.

IN AID OF HUMANITY

T O CARE for Canada's citizens of tomorrow and yesterday, as well as the host of today's citizens who need help, is the aim of the Salvation Army's national Red Shield appeal for $1,000,000 which starts today throughout the Dominion. While this is a national drive for this excellent purpose, Prince Rupert citizens will have the opportunity of contributing their quota to so well deserving an effort.

There are few institutions, religious or otherwise, that have built up a reputation for giving aid to the needy as has the Salvation Army and could the spirit of General Booth gaze upon efforts, he would probably be amazed. There is no field into which the members of this body are not prepared to enter, in the rehabilitation and relief of broken men, women and children, and every citizen, no matter who he or she may be, feels deep within a profound respect and admiration for the organization.

Not least of the Army's efforts is the maintenance of the Red Shield centres, which are to be found in every large city, and which are today providing food and shelter for those unfortunate enough to require the aid that is there for them. In the words of Commissioner Charles Baugh, Territorial Commander for Canada, "The Salvation Army feels certain that the public of Canada, and the hundreds of willing workers who every year give liberally of their time, will assure the success of the appeal."

Canadian Newspapers

From the Monthly Letter of Royal Bank of Canada
INSTALMENT NO. 7

CRITICISM OF NEWSPAPERS

There are several points on which newspapers are criticized. Criticism is a good thing. As was remarked in an article in the Montreal Gazette this spring: "Serious, searching and regular criticism of the press is the ultimate safeguard of its freedom. The lack of it deprives the press itself of the benefits of the very principle of which the press is, in relation to everything else, the chief exponent." Probably the charge most often heard is that the press is sensational. Reporters on a good story are reluctant to prick the bubble that reflects the world in brilliant colors and turn it to a little soap and water. Editors know that their circulation is largely determined by the brightness of their copy; some persons mistake this brightness for sensationalism. There are editors, of course, who lapse into catch-penny huckstering, but it must be admitted there are not many such in Canada.

Canadian papers are not, as a rule, given to exaggeration, though they do sometimes slip into gibberish about miracle drugs and electronic brains. Bad popularizing of scientific subjects may do great harm, not alone by giving wrong information but by destroying faith in the newspapers which print it. Readers should bear in mind that most popularizers are writing to sell, and are not, as a general rule, principally exercised about spreading good. Their statements and judgments, particularly in health matters, should be checked with a professional man.

A criticism levelled against some newspapers is that they are organs of "propaganda." Propaganda is anything you read that makes you feel some action should be taken, and it would be a poor news sheet whose articles and editorials never gave that feeling. The kind of propaganda to beware of is the insidious kind that is more often met with in "organs of opinion" than in Canadian newspapers—the kind that uses "color" or weasel words, mostly adjectives such as "ruthless, confused, bureaucratic, grasping." It would be well, when you come upon an article loaded with adjectives, to go back and read it with the adjectives left out, in order to make an unbiased judgment.

Another criticism, one that is too widely merited for comfort, is that newspapers color reports, particularly of political events and speeches. Some of us are prompted to inquire whether newspapers have kept up with the broadening education they have had so large a part in making available to the public. This education has taught people to think for themselves, to recognize that there are at east two sides to every story, and to suspect oracles. Yet some newspapers continue to spoon-feed their readers. They attempt to lead them, openly as in editorials or by subtlety in colored articles (or, as newspapermen call them, articles that are "slanted" or have particular "angles" played up).

Newspapers should, in their own interests, be their own chief critics, because it is an inevitable fact that if they fall in self-control and come to regard freedom of the press as license, the time will come when the public will demand outside control. Then, should the government be persuaded to step in to control the newspapers, our chief guard against totalitarianism would be lost. The newspapers in Canada must realize their responsibility to protect freedom, and that they can do their part by avoiding error, bias, carelessness, prejudice, and false color. As F. I. Ker said in his address as president of The Canadian Press last April: "The press holds a mirror to the happenings of the day. Unless the mirror is as flawless as it is humanly possible to make it, its

DOG STOWAWAY ABOARD SHIP

Big German Police Dog
From Butedale Has Free Trip

There was a stowaway aboard the Catala when she docked at Prince Rupert yesterday. It was not just an ordinary stowaway that keeps well hidden and out of the way of everyone. This stealer of rides had no respect for the regulations of the ship

nor fear of the master's wrath.

He went where he pleased. He toured the dining saloon, the first class decks and took a look at the officers' quarters with complete disregard to threats until the Captain spotted the intruder

and ordered him secured or thrown overboard. After a chase the crew captured the stowaway and tied him to a stanchion on the freight deck. But he didn't stay there long. He chewed the rope that bound him and roamed
free for the rest of the trip.

According to one member of the crew, the stowaway came aboard at Butedale and is well-known to the ship's personnel.
Every time the ship stopped at the cannery settlement during the summer he came on board and had to be driven off when the ship was ready to leave. This trip he wasn't found until the vessel was well on her way to Prince Rupert.

The stowaway was one of the first passengers ashore when the ship docked here and immediately set about having the time of his life barking at cars, probably the first to ever enter his canine existence.

The crew were hoping the German police dog would return to the ship before it sailed, so he could be returned to Butedale. Try a Classified Ad in The News

DIED HERE, BURIAL HELD AT KITSELAS

TERRACE—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Wright of Kitselas were grieved to hear of the death of their youngest child, which took place Saturday, September 6, in the Miller Bay Hospital at Prince Rupert. The child was just eighteen months old. Funeral services were held for the first part in the chapel of the B.C. Undertakers, with Brigadier Gillingham of the Salvation Army officiating. The Brigadier gave a very sympathetic address, and the hymn "Jesus Loves Me" was sung. The little boy was placed on the train on Monday evening and taken to Kitselas for burial. Services were held in the Salvation Hall at Kitselas with Mrs. Gillingham in charge. The hymn "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was sung by the congregation, Mrs. Gillingham being at the piano. She was also the soloist for a solo, choosing a children's hymn.

At the graveside, the hymn "When the Roll is Called up Yonder" was sung by all present, with Dave Mason and Freddy Mackenzie acting as pallbearers.

Following the service, friends and relatives assembled at the home of Chief Walter Wright, supper being served to all. According to custom, Mrs. George Wright, was the hostess. Mrs.

NORWEGIAN MILL MAN PAYS VISIT

Oslo Industrialist Has Been Touring District With Brother From Premier

Sawmill operator from Kongsvinger, a Norwegian industrial town about ten miles from the capital city of Oslo, O. K. Stordale is at present in this district in the course of a tour of British Columbia. He arrived in the city at the end of the week after having motored from Vancouver in company with his brother, Con Stordale, well known employee of the Silbak-Premier mine, and Harry Orm, superintendent for the Hanson Timber & Lumber Co. of Smithers and an old friend. Today Mr. Stordale is making the round trip to Stewart aboard the steamer Coquihalla and will be proceeding south to Vancouver on that vessel tomorrow. Mrs. Stordale came out from the Old Country with her husband and has been making a motor trip to California with their son who is studying forestry at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Mr. Stordale's mill near Oslo is a 50,000 foot a day plant. It operated steadily throughout the war but Mr. Stordale says that they managed to keep a minimum of the production away from the Nazi invaders. He reiterated many accounts that have been heard of the passive resistance and the lack of cooperation between the Norwegians and the German occupiers. Norway is coming back satisfactorily today, he says.

This is Mr. Stordale's first visit to Canada in thirty-two years and he notices many changes in British Columbia in that time. He speaks English very fluently.

Modern Etiquette
By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When passing a plate for a second helping, is it correct to leave the knife and fork on the plate?

A. Yes. Under no circumstances should silver be placed on the table cover.

Q. Is it proper for a woman to assist a man, with whom she has been dining, with his coat?

A. Such conduct is forward and unconventional. The waiter or the butler assist the man with his coat, or he puts it on without assistance.

Q. When a woman makes a social call, how long should she stay?

A. About twenty minutes.
