

Labor Party Ends First Session And Remains Fairly Popular in Country But Lost Among Members

LONDON, Aug. 8—Punch's main cartoon this week depicts the Labor government in the guise of a servant girl going on her first holiday. Approaching her mistress, she says: "I hope, mum, CHOOSE LEADER I have given satisfaction so far."

Mistress Britannia, replying, says: "Well, I will not say you turned out quite the treasure you represented yourself to have turned out quite the treasure you represented yourself to be but I will say that there have been fewer breakages in the pantry than I had expected."

Probably this is a fair estimate of how the country views the Labor government's first session which ended last night. Critics among the party's own SCOTTISH FAMILIES members, however, assert that, while the Labor party remains fairly popular among the electors at large, if has lost ground at Westminster itself.

The present is a good opportunity for Prince Rupert to get started in the grain export business. Victoria is making an effort to get started. The president of her chamber of commerce in a recent press announcement uses the same argument which would apply very well to Prince Rupert, he says:

Two Captains in One Boat

Being an account of a trip to the Ecstall River as recounted by Newton Pullen of Victoria under the nom de plume of Marcus Drexell in the Victoria Colonist. The next article of the series appears next week.

PRINCE RUPERT TO ESSINGTON . (Continued from last week)

TING-A-LING-A-LING. Ten more lings, two groans, and then the sound of someone turning off an alarm clock. Both the Other Captain and myself rose at once. That is remarkable only in view of the fact that it was 5.30 a.m. We dressed in what you might term mission style-substantial, sturdy, but not fancy. After paying a last concession to civilization by shaving and brushing our hair, we had breakfast, rode down to the Prince Rupert waterfront in a bakery car, and loaded our mass of baggage aboard the launch Gwen. We had borrowed a canoe, a tent, a hunting knife, a hunting jacket and a pair of rubber boots, and someone had left a rug in our boat by mistake. Otherwise, the stuff we had was our own.

Under a beautifully blue sky and with no wind to disturb us, water kicks up into quite a sea we started on our long-discussed sometimes, as it is open to the trip which was to take us up the winds coming up the mouth.
