Two Killed, Two Injured In Tragic Car Accident

Bishop Gibson, Wife Dead; Daughter, Friend in Hospital

One of the most tragic automobile accidents in the history of Prince Rupert, Rt. Rev. J. B. Gibson, 71-year-old Anglican Bishop of Caledonia, and his wife were killed this morning on the Skeena Highway.

The bishop's daughter, Eileen, 41-year-old home economics teacher at Courtenay, B.C., and Rev. S. C. Deacon, retired missionary from South America, were injured.

The group were enroute to the Bishop's summer home—"Guisleley"—at Kitwanga, between Terrace and Hazelton. They left their home here shortly before noon in Miss Gibson's car.

Mr. Deacon arrived here from Ocean Falls yesterday and planned to spend a few days at the camp before proceeding to Fort St. John. He was replaced recently at the Anglican parish in Ocean Falls by Rev. D. C. O'Connell, who just arrived from Ireland.

The accident occurred just past Midland Pines when their new model English car is reported to have sideswiped a truck and veered off the highway down a 20-foot embankment into a wooded area.

Bishop and Mrs. Gibson were riding in the rear seat of the four-door sedan and are believed to have been killed almost immediately.

Miss Gibson, who just arrived home last week from Vancouver with her mother, and Mr. Deacon were pinned in the front and were released by RCMP who sped to the scene. The auto ended up on its side. The truck driver was not hurt.

Police said Miss Gibson, although stunned, was able to walk away from the car after being extricated. Mr. Deacon, who is reported to have received a broken collarbone and severe cuts to his face, was carried up the embankment.

Hospital authorities reported both "resting quietly." The truck was enroute to Port Edward. It was a three-ton truck and was hauling five tons of sand to Nelson Brothers Fisheries from the city.

Both vehicles were going in the same direction. Driver of the truck attempted to right the automobile after he clambered down the embankment but was unable to move it until RCMP arrived.

The police were notified by a taxi driven enroute here from Port Edward. He contacted police over his radio-telephone and they were on the scene within a few minutes.

FORMER RECTOR
Bishop Gibson came to St. Andrew's Cathedral here as rector in 1929, was appointed dean the following year and on June 13, 1945, was elected Bishop of Caledonia. He was consecrated on August 5 of the same year.

Born at Armagh, Northern Ireland, in 1881, he received his education in the National School at Moy, County Tyrone, Ireland. Leaving school, he was apprenticed to the drapery business in Portadown in the centre of Ireland's linen trade, where he remained eight years. During that time, he took an active interest in church work and entered the Church Missionary Society preparatory college at Blackheath, London, England, where he was studying when a call came for men to carry out missionary work in Saskatchewan.

In response to that call, the young man came to Canada, arriving in Saskatchewan in 1906. The following year he entered Emmanuel College, then at Prince Albert, from which he graduated in theology in 1910, being ordained a minister the same year.

Eastern US May Buy BC Lumber

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eastern United States expect to receive an "increased volume" of British Columbia lumber.

This was predicted Wednesday by a B.C. lumber executive when he announced that 20,000,000 feet of strikebound timber has been sold to eastern American interests. Timber will be shipped by sea when the International Woodworkers of America strike ends, he said.

The transaction marks the start of increased movement to the United States, the executive added. He said it would not make up for lost overseas markets but "not much B.C. waterborne lumber has been going to the U.S."

Two Injured Crash Victims Await Hazardous Rescue Bid

NELSON—A tiny plane today threaded its way through the towering peaks of the Rockies to make a hazardous attempt at rescuing two seriously injured crash victims from a lakeshore 7,000 feet above sea level.

A light plane with three persons aboard crashed into or near Lake Magog in Mt. Assiniboine Park on the B.C.-Alberta border yesterday. The pilot apparently escaped unhurt but his two passengers were seriously injured.

The pilot made his way to a lonely forest ranger station near the lake and a call for help went out over the Forest Service's radio network. Identity of pilot and passengers was not immediately known.

Lightning Bolt Knocks Out Vancouver Transit System

VANCOUVER—A lightning bolt last night knocked out Vancouver's transit system for an hour.

Hundreds of trolley buses and street cars were lined up for scores of blocks throughout the downtown district. Gas buses were pressed into service on affected lines.

The breakdown was caused by a lightning bolt which struck a power pole at nearby Ruskin. Domestic power was not affected.

Fishermen Tie-Up Ends

Union, Brotherhood Members
Begin Fishing at 6 p.m.

The west coast salmon fishing fleet is heading for the sockeye grounds as the four-day price dispute tie-up ends at 6 p.m. today.

Following heavy voting of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union members yesterday, a two-third majority favored return to fishing. Union Secretary Homer Stevens said here today.

In Prince Rupert, however, 474 fishermen who voted favored by a slight majority to go on strike. Voting took place on a recommendation by the strike committee that fishermen do not go on strike.

"The executive believes it is very unfortunate that there was a split in the union and with the Native Brotherhood of B.C., said Mr. Stevens, "and that the union members had to vote under such circumstances.

"Going back to fishing means that the members have accepted the latest price offer of the companies, but the executive is still convinced the companies could have paid last year's prices."

Meanwhile, Chief William Scow broadcast a message at 10 a.m. today to members of the Native Brotherhood to begin fishing at 6 p.m.

NATIVES FISH
The Brotherhood had voted 85 per cent in favor of accepting the latest company offer when they voted in conjunction with UFAWU members last Saturday.

In view of this the natives made a separate agreement with the cannery. Price the fishermen now will be paid is 25 cents for sockeye (last year's price); 13 cents for coho; eight cents for pinks and five cents for chums.

UNWISE TO STRIKE
"I thought it was unwise to recommend a strike at this time," said Mr. Stevens, when he said his recommendation to union members called to a meeting here last yesterday afternoon was not to vote for a strike.

"But the recommendation was made with reluctance. It was made due to the obvious split between the union and the Native Brotherhood. Certain groups among our own union also were opposed to striking."

Of all fishermen who voted coastwise on the recommendation, 1038 voted not to strike;

Police Get Seven More On Drugs

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP on Wednesday arrested seven more persons—five men and two women—in their unrelenting crackdown on Vancouver's underworld narcotics traffic.

The crackdown started June 26 with a disclosure that "pushers" were selling or giving narcotics to juveniles.

At the same time, Patricia Badstam, a 19-year-old pregnant seamstress, was committed for trial on a charge of selling a substance represented as a drug to a juvenile. She was the third person committed for trial on such charge.

Seven were arrested, including a 22-year-old waitress, charged with illegal possession of drugs.

Man Charged On Parole, Jumps Bail

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harry McMillan, 35-year-old machinist on parole from sentence of life imprisonment, Wednesday jumped $1500 bail on two charges of false pretences.

When—or if—he is arrested, he will automatically be returned to prison to serve the rest of his life sentence, police said. McMillan was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1939.

On a charge of manslaughter following the death of a Vancouver cafe owner Woo Dack, McMillan appeared in police court last week to face charges of passing worthless cheques. He was remanded and allowed out on $1500 bail.

Time to Lose—Deadline For Entry in Soap Box Derby Set For Noon Tomorrow

The new faces will be in the annual Soap Box Derby here on Labor Day. That's the number of boys who have handed in their entries and notified their intention to race.

There were six of them—may still enter if their cars are intact. But time is running short. Deadline for entries to be made at The Daily News office is noon tomorrow.

Only one boy—Billy Watmough—who raced last year, has entered the 1952 race. Each boy will be sponsored and Doug Frizzell, owner of Frizzell Motors Limited, General Motors representative here, has assigned one of his staff to advise any of the boys wishing assistance.

Sponsors also will lend a guiding hand, so get your entries in quickly. Remember the boys must build their own cars. The wheels and axles will be purchased for entrants by the sponsor.

After your entry is received, an official rule book may be obtained from Frizzell Motors, which with Trades and Labor Council and The Daily News are sponsoring the derby.

A list of entrants and their sponsors will be published on Saturday. Meanwhile, the chairman of the derby committee, Granby (Red) Watmough, has gone on a two-week vacation and John Dyck has taken over during his absence.

Before going, Mr. Watmough made arrangements to have some building material delivered to his home and Mr. Dyck will advise boys who want or need parts or material.

But, boys should look around their own yards or attics for items needed. Total cost of the car must not exceed $10, exclusive of the wheels and axles.

Remember deadline for entries is noon tomorrow.

7 Dead in Plane Wreck

LAC DU BONNET, Man.—All seven men aboard a Manitoba government air service plane were found dead Wednesday when two rescue helicopters eased down near the plane's wreckage on a spongy, floating bog, 200 miles north of Winnipeg.

"No one was alive after the impact," was the terse radio message from the desolate spot where the plane had stumbled into fog shrouded trees Monday and crashed.

Two Canadians Quality in Olympics

HELSINKI—Jim Lavery of Calgary, qualified today for the 400-metre Olympic semi-finals by placing second in a second-round heat. Heat winner in the preliminary heats, Lavery ran second to Arthur Wint, Jamaica, in the next heat. Three in each heat qualify.

Bill Parnell, North Vancouver, qualified in preliminary heat of 1,500-metre run. He placed third—last qualifying spot. His time 3:53.4. Heat was won by Olow Amberg, Sweden, 3:51.0.

Emil Zatopek, Czechoslovakia's great distance runner, won the 5,000-metre run in record time 14:15.4. His record was the 16th Olympic record broken so far in the 1952 games. In 400-metre, Doug Clement, Vancouver, failed to qualify, placing fifth. Shirley Strickland, De La Hunty of Australia, who set the world record of 10.8 seconds in women's 80-metre hurdles in the semi-final yesterday, won the championship today in 10.5.

15 Per Cent of All Voters Plumped in B.C. Election

VICTORIA—Roughly 15 per cent of ballots cast in British Columbia's general election plumped for one candidate or was marked with less than the allowed number of choices. Tables in Chief Electoral Officer Fred Hurley's office here show 122,276 of 765,216 valid ballots cast were plumped or exhausted. CCF supporters were the biggest plumpers, the record shows.

More Damage By New Jolts At Tahachapi

TEHACHAPI, Calif. (CP)—Continuing heavy aftershocks of the great Tehachapi earthquake injured another 27 persons in this devastated community.

New jolts also hit hard at nearby Arvin, now almost as badly damaged as Tehachapi. Several severe tremors yesterday collapsed fronts of previously-cracked buildings in both towns.

Scientists said the first giant upheaval, which caused 12 deaths and an estimated $100,000,000 damage in southern California, was caused by the earth slipping along more than 25 miles of a Bear Mountain fault.

56 Miles Of Pipeline Completed

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian Bechtel Ltd. Wednesday reported 56 miles of high-test pipe has been laid so far on the 720-mile Trans-Mountain Oil pipeline between Edmonton and Vancouver.

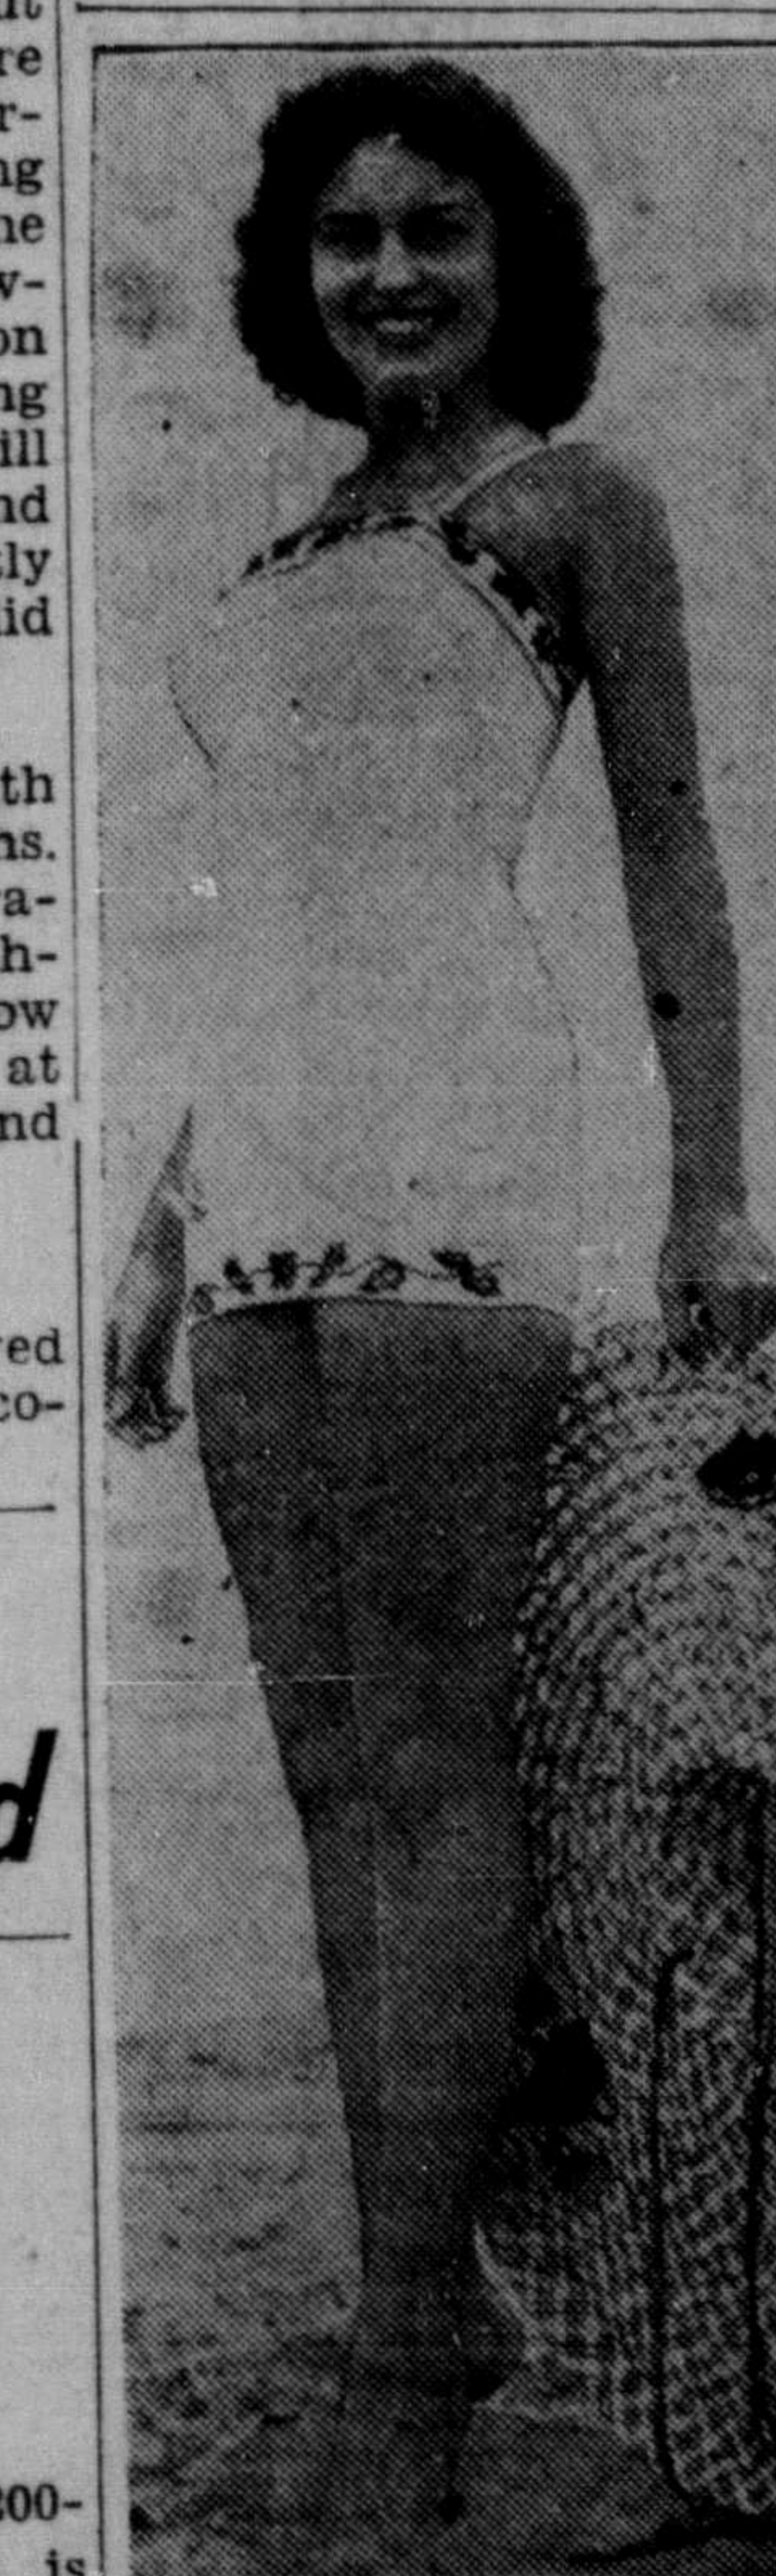

Officials of the company, agent for the owner corporation, said that construction had suffered a setback because of the United States steel strike. But indications were that three work crews in interior British Columbia would be able to continue operating into September, when it was hoped steel will be rolling again.

The fourth pipeline spread, scheduled to start July 1 at Burnaby, has been postponed until the steel strike is over and the entire situation can be re-examined. Contracts are expected to be awarded in the next few days for construction of pump stations at Edmonton and at Kamloops and Mariboro, in B.C.

Guard Our Utilities

THERE is a great deal of truth and realism offered in a recent letter to the editor by T. H. Wilford regarding operating of public utilities, especially the city telephone system.

While we do not agree with all of Mr. Wilford's statements, his caution against not holding a reserve for adequate maintenance of a telephone system is to be noted.

It would be tragic indeed if, as the subscriber points out, we would "wind up 20 years from now with another dilapidated and antiquated telephone system, as at present . . ."

To say the least, Prince Rupert has not been blessed with the best in communications—internally and externally. We have heard time and again from the city telephone department that the present system now is so costly to maintain that it defrays a big percentage of its revenue.

To support such a system is not only poor business, it just lacks the application of plain common sense.

Early next month Prince Rupert citizens will be asked to vote on the expenditure of three-quarters of a million dollars for a brand new telephone system. There is no doubt that we need it. No city can function properly without adequate communication. From the careful way city council has negotiated for installation of such a service, it is also a safe bet that should we approve the expenditure, we will get the best our money can buy.

We urge the citizens to vote "yes" when faced with the bylaw next August 7.

But in order to satisfy a growing demand on communication service and an increasing watchful public, the city will have to run this utility on a more business-like basis in the future.

Publicly-owned utilities are so often prone to fall into a state of lethargy because there are no private investments to be watched; little accounting necessary for minor failures. Only way a public enterprise can be run successfully is for management to regard every nickel's worth to be its own investment.

Matter of fact, such a sense of responsibility must be evident in all those who run city affairs, and the public is directly responsible for voting in the men that do this work year after year.

External Communication

THE Dominion Government Telegraph and Telephone System has signified its intention to sell its system in northern and central B.C. to a responsible party.

This no doubt will be welcomed with joy by all centres from here to Prince-George now dependent on DGT, which service has not been nearly adequate for some time. At the same time, we should not forget that DGT has pioneered a communication system in practically every remote part of the country, where otherwise there would have been no communication to the outside world at all.

There are many stories of loneliness, hardship and straight pioneering told in the faces of retired and some still operating Dominion Government telegraphers, who under adverse conditions mostly, never stopped trying to get messages "through." To these men of integrity, which is the basic code of communications operators, we owe much tribute.

But those days now are past and first class communications between semi-isolated areas with the heavy industrialized centres is a must.

Prince Rupert's external communications sometimes suffer failure and it is then that we realize just how helpless we are when unable to make important contacts.

Progress first depends on communications: telephones, telegraphs, radio, roads, rail and plane.

He remained at Lloydminster for eight years and then was appointed by the late Archbishop Du Vernet to Anyox. He was stationed here until 1924 when he was transferred to Smithers.

At the consecration of the late Bishop G. A. Rix, Bishop Gibson was chosen to become rector of St. Andrew's Cathedral in September, 1928.

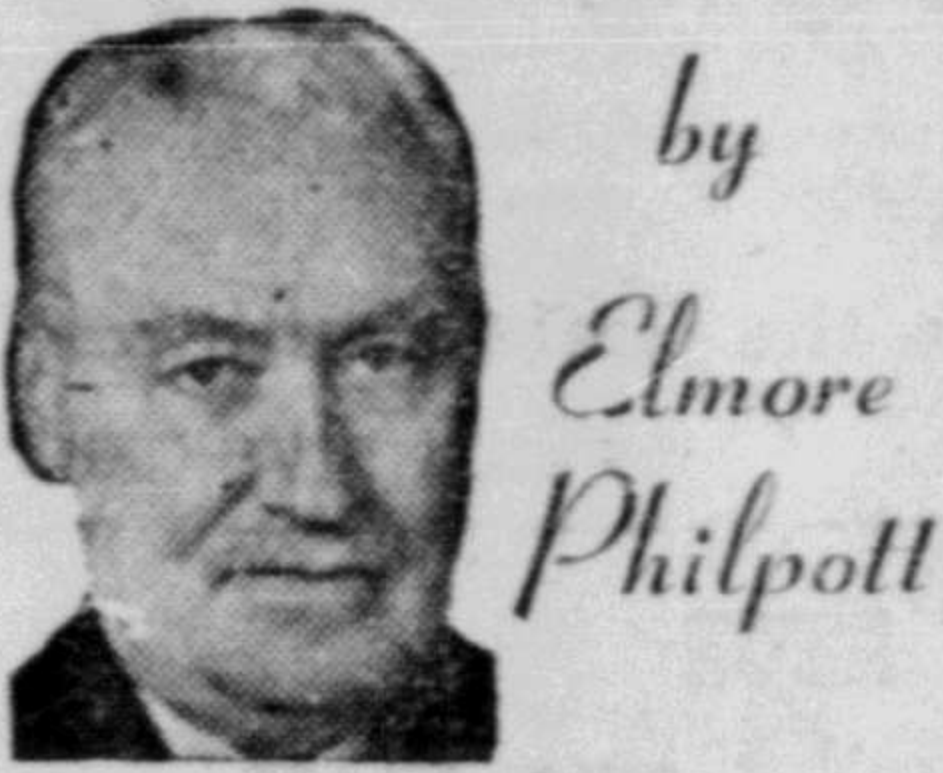

His elevation to Bishop followed the death of Bishop Rix and he was consecrated at an impressive ceremony here on August 5, 1945. The Bishop's wife was the daughter of Bishop Du Vernet. They lived at Bishop's Lodge 208 Fourth Avenue West, and besides Eileen have another daughter, Noreen, and a son, Henry, a member of the Royal Army Medical Corps in the last war who was held prisoner by the Germans for some time before his release in 1945.

Bishop Gibson, one of the most popular and well known men in this city, was past master of Omineca Lodge No. 92, AF & AM, Smithers, and was a member of the Rotary Club here since 1928.

Hope for Cancer

CORONET MAGAZINE

for July 1952 carries an article headed The C-Bomb Halts Cancer. It gives details of the amazing results being obtained at London, Ontario, by use of the Cobalt bomb.

Good doctors are always conservative in their statements and cancer specialists are reluctant to say anything which might raise false hopes.

But from the results at London it seems clear that mankind now has made a great advance in combatting certain cancerous growth which cannot be dealt with by surgery.

HOW TRULY democratic are we in Canada? In this country the CCF is the only one of the three main parties to hold regular national conventions. Both the Liberals and the Conservatives meet nationally only when a new leader is to be chosen. The Liberals went almost 30 years between the convention which picked Mackenzie King and that which named Mr. St. Laurent as his successor. The Conservatives have met more often—because they were compelled to replace more unsuccessful leaders.

In the United States the national conventions present somewhat bizarre spectacles to the outside world. But let us never forget that they come once every four years and have the effect of keeping the parties much closer to the rank and file than is the case here in Canada.

Britain is far more truly democratic than Canada in this respect. The Labor party, even more than the Conservative, is kept closely in touch with the people by two agencies. The trades unions hold annual sessions. The Labor party, as a whole, does likewise. Every local branch in the nation has the right to forward resolutions to the national convention. These are screened, but only to avoid duplication. All pertinent resolutions are printed in advance. The result is that the party never gets far out of line with what its own rank and file supporters are thinking and saying back home.

THE Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society has given its blessing to an offshoot organization which hopes to fill a need of a different kind.

The Voice of the Handicapped Arthritis has been formed, to enable arthritics to help themselves.

VICTORIA REPORT

By J. K. Nesbitt

VICTORIA.—For the first time Mrs. Nancy Hodges and Mrs. Tilly Rolston will sit opposing each other in the Legislature. In the 1941 general election they were on opposite sides of the political fence, Nancy being a rabid Liberal and Tilly just as rabid a Conservative. But that 1941 election cooked up Coalition and so Mrs. H. and Mrs. R. found themselves together.

They didn't like it one little bit—they hated it even more than the men did—but anything to keep down the more hated CCF. Social Credit hadn't even been thought of then in B.C.

Nancy and Tilly are both good legislative scrappers. Now that they are free to go at each other there should be a few lively scenes. Legislative galleries all have themselves a fine time when female MLA's have a spat. They expect the ladies to tear at each other's hair. They never do, of course.

Mrs. Laura Jamieson of the CCF used to get under the skins of Madames Hodges and Rolston. Now she's back in the House—and each of the three can speak her own piece as she sees it. But, in the strange vagaries of politics, Madames Hodges and Jamieson are liable to find themselves more or less aligned together against Social Credit, which means, on occasion, will be ganging up against Mrs. Rolston. However, in the past, lady MLA's have sometimes forgotten about politics, ganging up on the men. That's quite a scene!

Yes, the strange vagaries of politics. This reporter has it on reliable authority that Mrs. Rolston, who left the Coalition, felt somehow a sort of traitor to the Conservative Party which she had loved and supported through the years. She wasn't happy in her independence. Of course, she couldn't get along with leader Anscomb. She had never quite forgiven him for not getting her into the cabinet in 1946. But, in those days Mr. Anscomb believed women should stay at home and leave public life to the men. He changed his mind in the last election, but too late.

When the Tories met in Vancouver in April, to plan their election strategy, Mrs. Rolston phoned to a prominent Conservative candidate who was then meeting with the party hierarchy at Hotel Georgia. She told him she was having lunch at the Sylvia Hotel and could be reached there, and to pass the word around among the top Tories. The word was passed: leader Anscomb is reported to have shrugged his shoulders—asked what he could do about it; he refused to give Mrs. Rolston the come-on. Mrs. Rolston waited and heard nothing. The next day she went Social Credit. Ah, the vagaries of politics.

Mrs. Rolston no doubt would (Continued on page 3)

Reflects and Reminisces

More are being laid off, according to reports from different parts of the province. And it is also heard that debt will not be encouraged. In other words, as social credit comes in, household credit may go out.

General Eisenhower and the people of the British Isles lived together more than once, when bombs were falling on both. This may explain why Britons disclosed more unanimity for Eisenhower than Taft, during the convention. Anyway, they like Ike. You usually do, after the sharing of dire emergencies with one.

NOW WE SPRUCE UP!

It's the proper thing these days for the clothing of the well dressed man to be unpressed. And it was only late Monday afternoon that we handed a local business man $1.90 and he handed us a pair of trousers wrapped neatly in brown paper—along with a bow.

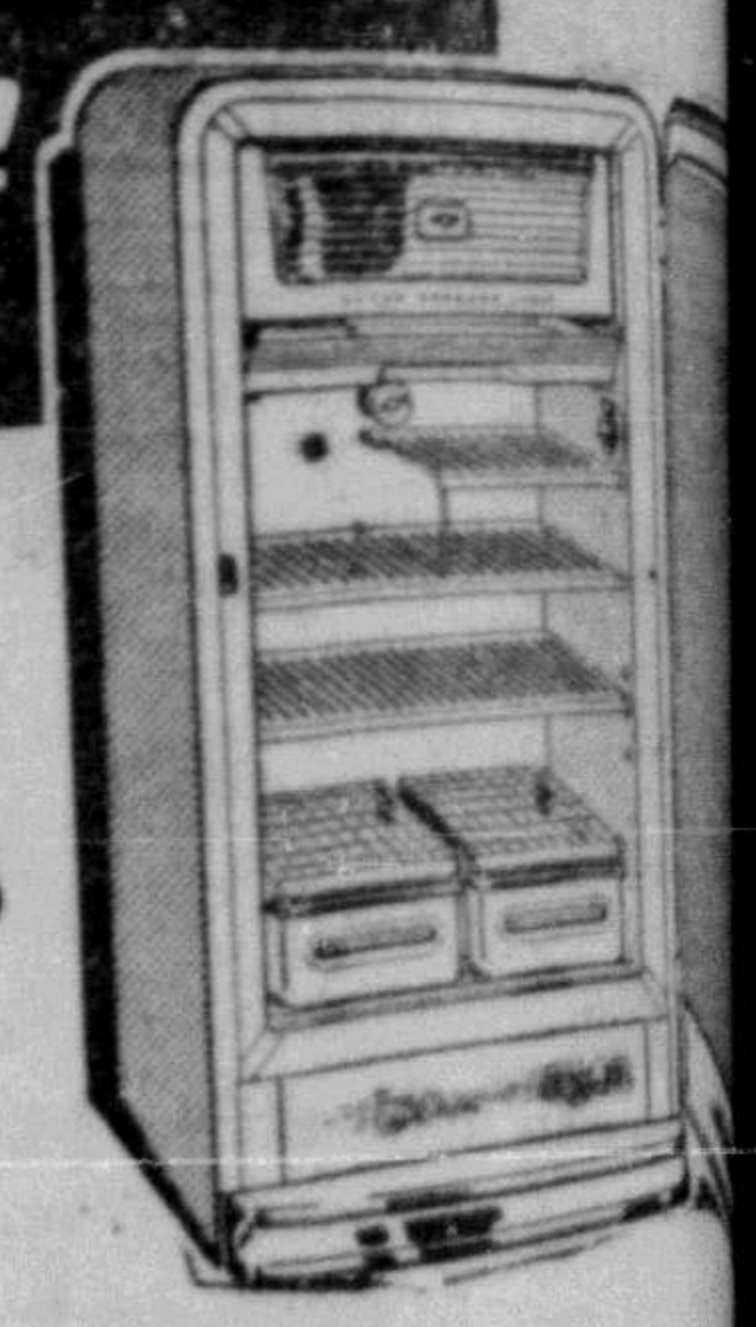

Little baseball bats are used in provincial elections. And somehow, Premier Duplessis always manages to make a home run.

NO RIVALS

Speaking of advertising, our friend Mr. MacDonald, now at Banff convention, never handled a more noble article of commerce than that monster salmon from Prince Rupert. A few fish, every now or then, may swim in the Bow River, but never anything like this.

Development of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway, by Canada, appears certain in the judgment of some American papers. For example, the Milwaukee Journal says: "Go ahead Canada and the best of luck. Charge us tolls and make us pay for the seaway we won't help to build. We hope Canada goes ahead as soon as possible. Go to it Canada. If our senate speaks for America, we've lost the spirit of the frontier."

THE EXPERTS SAY

New Ingredients in Bread Authorized Will be Listed on Outside Wrapper

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Homemakers soon will be assured of purchasing the best bread for their families simply by reading the bread wrapper.

Regulations concerning bread manufacture were approved recently by the National Council of the Baking Industry. Effective Jan. 1, 1953, major ingredients which go into the manufacture of a loaf of bread will be required to be listed on the wrapper.

The Canadian Association of Consumers is pleased. For the last three years the 13,000-member organization has campaigned for improved bread standards.

Now the consumer has a "sporting chance" of knowing what kind of loaf she is buying, the C.A.C. President, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Oakville, Ont., said in an interview.

"Now it is up to the woman to read this information and to direct her purchasing to the type of loaf which will be best for the health of her family."

have been elected in Point Grey as a Conservative, or as an Independent. In desperation, she joined Social Credit; her action gave Social Credit a great boost. Now she finds herself headed for a cabinet position, which she thought she was entitled to in 1946.

Now that Social Credit will be the government, most people are horrified to hear Mr. Bennett say there's going to be some kind of voluntary hospital insurance. Everyone knows this will mean no hospital insurance at all for thousands and thousands of people, particularly in the older brackets. Well, Social Credit was honest enough; before the election Social Credit had no hesitation in saying compulsory insurance would be thrown out. But nobody expected Social Credit to win; but it did and now the Social Crediters are embarrassed about hospital insurance and most of the public is terrified it's going to be wiped out. Perhaps Mr. Bennett will be able to find some way of saving both face and hospital insurance. Let's hope so. Hospital insurance is too valuable to be thrown back to a hodge-podge

At Labrador's Great Iron Deposit

Huge Expenditures on Initial Project

(This is the second of a series of stories by Forbes Rhude, Canadian Press business editor, after a trip to Northern Quebec and Labrador. He introduces you to the men and the companies which are opening up that vast wilderness, potential successor to Minnesota's Mesabi Range as the main source of North America's iron—Editor.)

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

More than $200,000,000 will be spent in Labrador-Ungava before a nickel will be earned from its iron ore—before a ton of ore will be moved to market in 1954.

Before such a development can be undertaken many men must do many things: trappers and Indians bring in reports of mineral indications; geologists spend months and years in canoes and in the bush; airplanes fly over land with the latest scientific gadgets; financial markets are persuaded that the project is a sound investment.

But most of all, perhaps, men must dream and act upon their dreams. Men must explore in far-away places. Others must believe in opening up a country for the sake of opening up a country—in accomplishing something from which others will benefit in the years ahead.

We might look back to 1894 when A. P. Low, Dominion government geologist, travelled Labrador-Ungava by canoe and reported finding iron-bearing rock. We might look at a more recent day in 1936 when an Indian prospector with Dr. J. A. Retty, Quebec geologist, showed him a sample of high-grade iron ore.

Basically, however, Labrador-Ungava had to await the airplane, the bulldozer and the jeep; the fighting of two world wars and the threat of a third, before it could keep its date with destiny.

Who cared if there might be iron in distant Labrador-Ungava as long as the accessible Mesabi Range of Minnesota poured its ore into the furnaces of North American steel plants? By 1945, however, came the whisper:

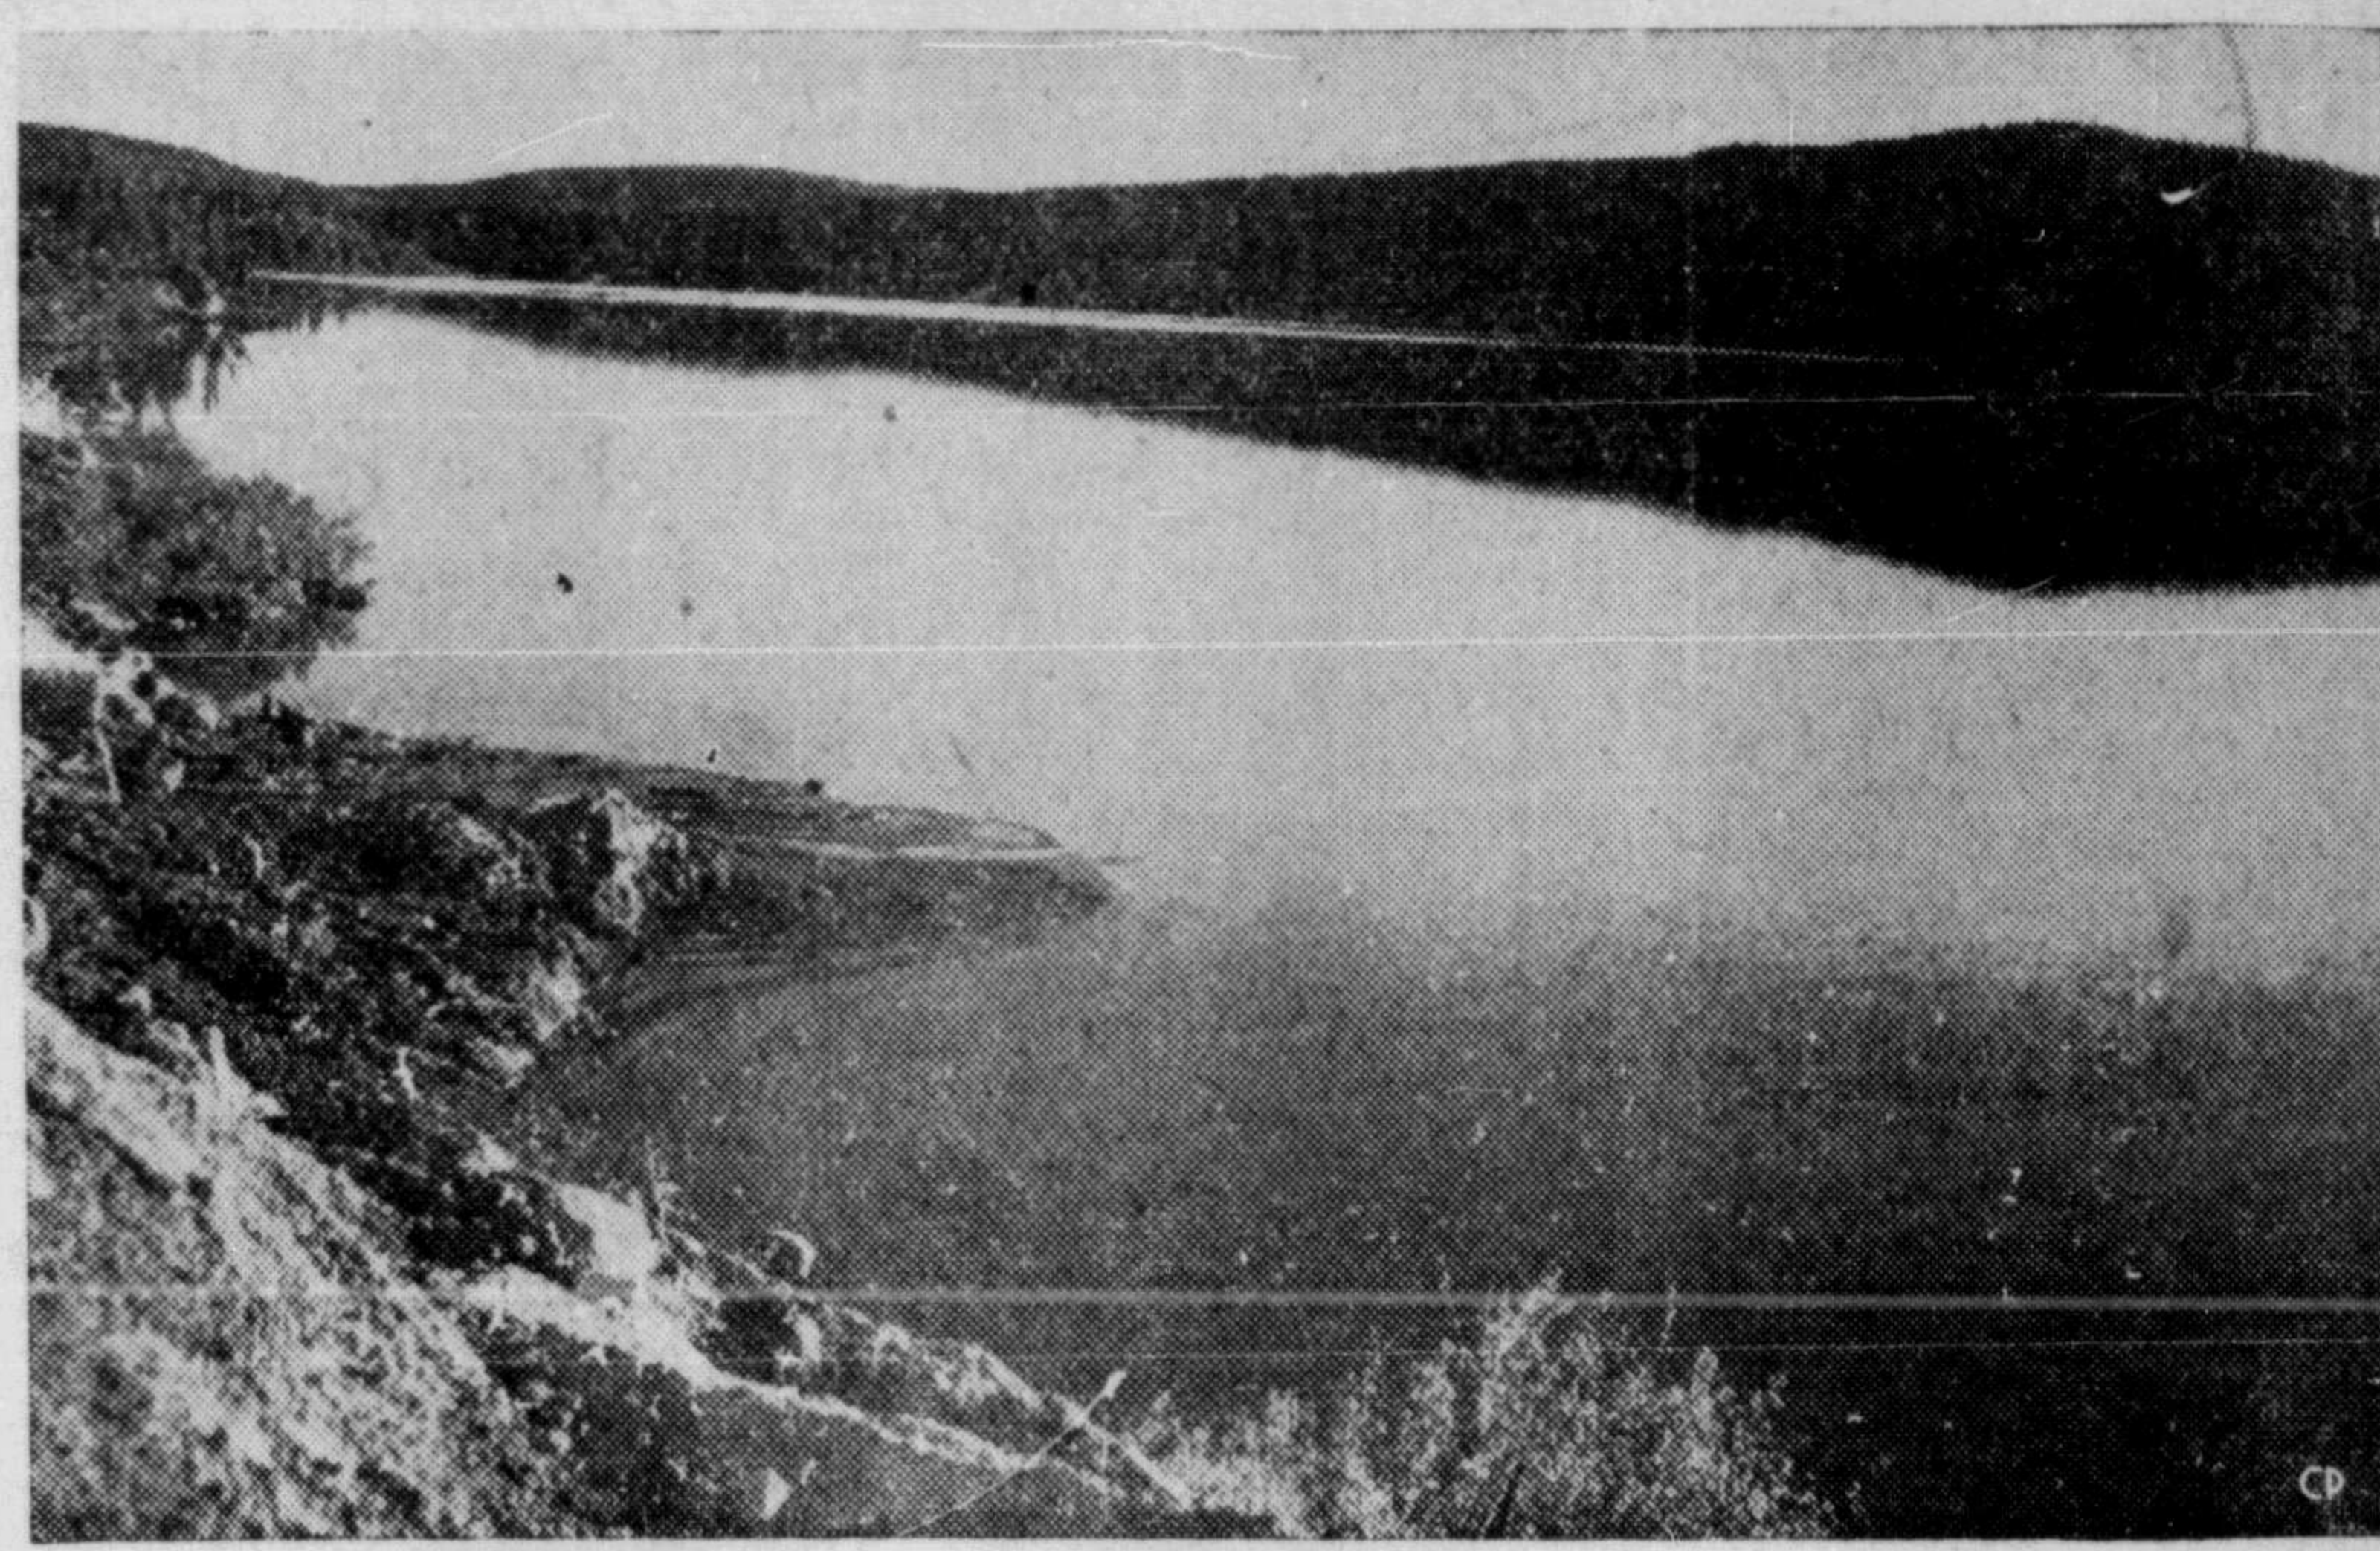

"Mesabi has fought its last war."

An end to its rich ore could be seen approaching. Many millions of years ago, Mesabi and Labrador-Ungava ore had been built up out of similar rhyolite. American steel plants had been built to take Mesabi, and they could take Labrador-Ungava. But they could take ores from other parts of the world, too, and Labrador-Ungava had to compete for their attention.

Finally, however, Labrador-Ungava, its ore, the companies and the men found one another with the co-operation of the Quebec and Newfoundland governments.

THE HUNT BEGINS

Hallinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd., big Northern Ontario gold producer headed by Jules Timmons, and the M. A. Hanna Company of Cleveland, headed by George M. Humphrey

WILDERNESS BEAUTY—Labrador-Ungava has a tranquil as well as a rugged side. One hundred miles north of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Wacuna Lake presents an inviting picture of wilderness beauty, serene and peaceful but only experienced woodsmen would venture into the wilds which surround it. (CP PHOTO)

(coal, ore, shipping), joined forces in 1942 to see what could be found.

For three years they looked primarily for other minerals, not iron, but for seven years they conducted exploration, geological surveys, mapping and—from 1947—extensive drilling.

In 1949, Iron Ore Company of Canada was formed to handle the iron concessions, backed by Hollinger-Hanna and five American steel companies: Republic Steel Corporation, National Steel Corporation, Armco Steel Corporation, Wheeling Steel Corporation, and Youngstown Sheet and Metal Company.

Hollinger-Hanna and the steel companies put up $100,000,000 and persuaded 15 American and four Canadian insurance companies to put up another $100,000,000.

From that day, Labrador iron ore might be said to be on its way to market, though only a wilderness lay where a 360-mile railway must be built.

It was too big a job for one contractor, so a group was formed of Cartier Construction Ltd., Montreal; McNamara Construction Co. Ltd., Toronto; Mannix Ltd., Calgary; Morrison-Knudsen Co. of Canada Ltd., whose head office is in Boise, Idaho. On the job, it is known for brevity as CMMK.

The financing of the undertaking has been hailed as a great accomplishment. Around Iron Ore Company, the names of Timmons and Humphrey are spoken with a mixture of affection and awe as the architects of the enterprise, with Humphrey getting a special citation for his selling job in the United States.

W. H. Durrell, who headed the wartime construction of Goose Bay airport in Labrador, became general manager of Iron Ore.

"The job was 'too interesting' to pass up, he explains; and he wound up his affairs in his own private company to take it, he says.

"It is the opening up of an entire new country in which there must be all kinds of minerals. We haven't looked at it yet. People will be finding mines there for 100 years."

Mr. Durrell was born in 1903 at Portage du Fort, Que. He attended Halleybury, Ont., School of Mines; and was a partner, 1921-41, in Sutcliffe Co. Ltd., consulting engineers specializing in mining developments across Canada.

A. J. Le Blanc, native of Grand Falls, N.B., who served as colonel in the Royal Canadian Engineers during the war, is assistant general manager.

Navy Still Finds Mines On West Pacific Coast

VICTORIA (CP)—The Second World War ended seven years ago, but the Royal Canadian Navy is still battling with tricky Japanese mines which drift on the British Columbia coast.

These old mines are still dangerous having no automatic devices to render them harmless after a time despite the fact that the Geneva Convention demands this safety measure.

Actually, age often adds to the peril of mines, making the explosives more sensitive.

Forty mines have been reported and investigated on this coast since 1944. In all cases where actual mines were found—more than 30—the mines have been defused or exploded.

Occasionally a citizen does not realize he needs protection. In 1946 a Queen Charlotte Island farmer found a mine high and dry on the beach. He dragged it 15 miles on a stoneboat to his farm and was on the point of sawing it in two to make drinking troughs for his cattle when a provincial policeman chanced by.

The Navy was notified and a disposal team exploded the mine, leaving a 20-foot crater in the barnyard.

CHRISTIAN CONVERTS

Since the Japanese Emperor abandoned divine claims following the Second World War, many of his people have turned to Christianity.

MINE OUTPUT

There were 8,401,455 ounces of silver mined in Canada in the first four months of this year as compared to 6,826,132 in the corresponding period of 1949.

Just press the colour button on the bag—knead—and—Presto!—Blue Bonnet is golden-yellow, ready-to-use.

CPR Unions Resume Wage Talks

MONTREAL (CP)—Negotiations resumed today between Canadian Pacific Railway officials and representatives of 17 non-operating railway workers unions seeking to work out a new wage contract with two Federal conciliators sitting in on the sessions.

The negotiations are behind closed doors and sessions are expected to continue all week with little likelihood of any immediate statement from either side.

Widow Rebuilds Blitzed Home

LONDON (CP)—More than 50 proposals of marriage and a stream of congratulatory messages have poured in on 74-year-old Mrs. Edith Binge, of London's working-class district of Poplar.

It all started when word got around she had single-handed and without a government permit completed the re-building of her blitzed home—a 12-year task.

The house, reconstructed from a pile of rubble, was one of many destroyed by a high explosive bomb dropped during the Battle of Britain in 1940. Mrs. Binge, a widow whose only son was serving in the army, was in a nearby shelter when the bomb struck.

When she emerged she found only one room of her home habitable. The next day she put up a waterproof roof and set about re-building. It took her a year to clear the debris and sort it out. Then she cleaned the retrieved bricks, bought sacks of cement and sand, re-shaped the timber and did the plumbing and electrical work all by herself.

Mrs. Binge insisted the job could have been completed much sooner but for the fact she had to confine her operations to what was left of her meagre old age pension.

Member of the Poplar Housing Committee, Councillor E. H. Smith, said Mrs. Binge had established something of a precedent in getting her home together without once filling out a form and seeking permission from the authorities. Normally, a minimum of five permits is needed to start building.

As for the proposals of marriage, Mrs. Binge put them away.

"For the rest of my days I think I shall prefer my own home," she said.

Puzzling Play May Be Suit Preference Signal to Partner
 "If only I were twins," said Mr. Champion modestly, "the team of Champion and Champion would be unbeatable."

This remark stemmed from the fact that Mr. Champion had told Mr. Abel, by means of a suit preference signal, how to beat the hand. But Mr. Abel had muffed it.

One way to "catch" suit preference signals is to be on the alert for unusual plays by partner, plays that puzzle you, plays which seem downright silly. Of course, you have to have a good partner. If Mr. Muzzy made such a play, it would be silly.

But playing with Mr. Champion, you know that any unusual play he makes is for a specific purpose, probably the purpose of giving you information.

In today's deal Mr. Abel opened the king of spades and Mr. Champion followed suit with the deuce. Mr. Abel wondered momentarily whether that deuce had any deep, special significance. Finally, he properly decided that it showed nothing but a complete lack of interest in the spade suit.

He could see no reason to shift at this point and continued with the ace of spades. On his trick, Mr. Champion played the NINE of spades. This puzzled Mr. Abel.

His partner surely had not started with only two spades and surely did not have the queen of spades because, in either case, he would have played high-low to ask for continuation of the suit.

Of course Mr. Champion was giving a suit preference signal. Having got it in the record that he was interested in the spade suit itself by the play of the deuce at trick one, he next played the nine, an unnecessary high card. He was trying to say, "Lead the higher of the other two plain suits."

After puzzling over this for a while, Mr. Abel came to the conclusion that he didn't know what the nine of spades meant and he shifted to the eight of clubs.

Mr. Dale won with the ace, cashed three top hearts, then the king and queen of clubs. On the third club lead he ditched his diamond. Mr. Abel muffed but that was just the third and last trick for the defenders.

Alberta Premier Announces $48,500,000 Municipal Aid

MEDICINE HAT (CP)—The Alberta government this year will pay out $48,500,000 in overall municipal assistance, Premier Manning said here last night in a campaign speech for the Aug. 5 Alberta general election.

Premier Manning spoke for 45 minutes on behalf of Industries Minister J. L. Robinson. Some 700 persons attended the meeting.

The premier said the government this year will pay out in grants, including school grants, $10,000,000, will loan $7,000,000 to municipalities at two per cent interest for self-liquidating projects, and will buy $12,500,000 worth of municipal debentures at 3 1/2 per cent interest.

"I do not say we are being generous to municipalities," Premier Manning said. "I know something of civic problems and we must have municipalities as well as provincial finances on a sound basis. Our policy of municipal assistance has steadily expanded down through the years."

In answering an opposition charge that municipal debt had increased to "an unusual degree," the premier said that per capita municipal debt in Alberta was $192 compared with $328 in 1957.

TOTAL DEBT
The total municipal debt is $500,000,000, yet in British Columbia, one of the richest Canadian provinces, it is $152,000,000 with a population only 25 per cent greater than in Alberta.

The premier said that over the last five years B.C. collected revenues of $136,000,000 more than did Alberta in the same period even with all the oil royalties.

The premier said that more than 95 per cent of Alberta's residents now are covered by the provincial-municipal $1-a-day day care hospital care scheme. He said to remove the worry about what the costs of extras

Canadian Soldiers Convicted

TOKYO (CP)—Two Canadian soldiers have been convicted of court martial on charges of selling army property. The Ottawa man was sentenced to five years imprisonment and Pte. D. Brophy of Halifax to three years. Both belong to the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. Evidence was that they were arrested one night in an army depot moving bales of army clothing toward an open window.

Thomas was convicted of selling and shopbreaking. He pleaded guilty to being absent without leave. Brophy was convicted of breaking and entering and theft. He also pleaded guilty to being absent without leave.

Pulpwood Worth $100 Each Cord

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada adds to her income every time a cord of pulpwood is converted into a ton of pulp and paper. As A. Vance, president of the Canadian Forestry Association, said in a statement released today:

"Until we place a high value on the living forest, the chief paymaster of the nation, we cannot properly gauge the enormity of the forest fire damage." Mr. Vance said in a prevention message. "An average woodland acre was worth $1,500 to Canada through the export of its wood into pulp and paper. The annual loss of 438,000 acres by fire was a chain of tragedies."

For Unwanted Doukhobors Promised Land Doesn't Exist in S.A.

KRESTOVA, B.C.—A promised land for Canada's unwanted Doukhobors doesn't exist in South America.

After a five-month tour of South American countries, bearded Steffan Sorokin, 40-year-old spiritual leader of the Sons of Freedom, today told his followers it would be unwise for them to flee Canada for South America.

He visited Uruguay, Paraguay, Bolivia and Chile seeking a new home for the Doukhobors.

All he found were people who were "amazed" that any group should want to leave Canada.

"Canada is best, Canada is best," he told newspaper men during a press conference at the Sons of Freedom headquarters in this ramshackle village in the Kootenays.

He had met Mennonites, Russians and other European colonists during his tour. All wanted to come to Canada.

British Columbia has some 10,000 Doukhobors. The Sons of Freedom of which Sorokin is leader number about 2,500. They, the radicals of the strange religious sect, are blamed for 50 years of terrorism in the Kootenays.

It was reported when Sorokin left here he had a fund of $49,000 to finance his tour. It was, said the report, subscribed by both peaceful orthodox Doukhobors, some of whom are wealthy, and the Freedomites, who eke out a sparse living on the dry Krestova benchlands near Nelson.

He now believes that re-education of his followers within Canada offers the only peaceful solution.

It has been estimated it will cost $1,000,000 to relocate them in B.C. on suitable farmlands. Several sites have been proposed. Each time protests came from residents in the district.

Now Sorokin has advised his followers: "You must improve your reputations so that you will be able to leave Canada."

Sorokin came to Canada from Germany about a year ago as a displaced person. He claimed he had escaped from a Siberian labor camp.

Russian-born, Sorokin, who came to the Kootenays as a travelling evangelist, was accepted by the Doukhobors as a "messenger of peace, sent by the Lord."

Shakespeare Returns to Movies For Production: Julius Caesar

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—William Shakespeare is being given another whirl in Hollywood. It is hoped the old boy won't be shirking in his grave after this try.

The Bard has never fared too well at the hands of the Hollywood film-makers. But this time MGM is exercising the utmost care to make sure Shakespeareans as well as movie fans are satisfied with its version of "Julius Caesar." Witness the facts:

1. John Gielgud, ace Shakespearean actor of England, is being imported to play Cassius.

2. Greer Garson and Deborah Kerr are playing virtual walk-ons.

3. Marion (Mumbles) Brandt will talk plainly as Marc Antony.

HAPPY CAST

Producer John Houseman, who produced Shakespeare with Orson Welles on Broadway, reported that it was easy to persuade Gielgud to play his first United States movie. Miss Kerr volunteered for her tiny part and Miss Garson easily acceded.

"While the roles of Portia (Kerr) and Calpurnia (Garson) are only about three pages, the scenes are important," Houseman explained.

Completing the cast are James Mason as Brutus and Louis Calhern as Julius Caesar.

PAST ERRORS The producer said he encountered some opposition to a Shakespearean project, largely due to past mishaps. He explained their errors:

"Midsummer Night's Dream" (1935) was a mishmash of a play to begin with. "Romeo and Juliet" (1936) suffered, I believe, because it was largely created by movie people, instead of those connected with the stage. Also, Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard had no Shakespearean experience.

"Orson Welles' 'MacBeth' (1948) had three strikes against it: A limited budget; the Scotch accent; and Orson was too busy to concentrate on his performance."

But Houseman added that Laurence Olivier's "Henry V" and "Hamlet" blazed the trail for Shakespeare on film.

HONORED BY POPE — Msgr. John O'Neill, vicar-general of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Ottawa, has been made an Apostolic Prothonotary, one of the highest honors given by the Pope. Msgr. O'Neill is pastor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help parish in Ottawa. He formerly served at Saskatoon and Victoria. (CP Photo)

New Shocks Break Dishes At Tehachapi

TEHACHAPI (AP) For the third day, earthquake shocks continued in southern California, with a fairly strong shock striking shortly before 1 a.m. and lasting about 20 seconds in this devastated community.

It was the strongest shock since the big tremor on Monday morning that left 11 dead in Tehachapi and caused damage estimated at 2 million dollars.

More bricks were shaken from wrecked buildings and dishes were broken.
