Bringing a message of good will and expressing a desire for co-operation between British Columbia and Alaska and with special reference to Prince Rupert and the mutual interests of that city and the Alaskan territory, Hon. In opening, Mr. Rustgard said it delighted him to see the flags of the two nations tied together and flying side by side as he saw them there today and he hoped nothing would ever be done which was inconsistent with

Relationship With Mother Country.

For years past there has been a gradual readjustment going on between the Dominions and the Mother Country. Gradually the outlying portions of the Empire have been assuming the country, but just as soon as more powers and privileges and this readjustment is still going the most northernly destination on. From time to time the people hear of friction over some of was reached, signals, instead of these changes, which all tend toward the assumption of a greater being heard in New England, were degree of independence on the part of the Dominions.

The main difficulty in connection with the readjustments is the matter of the navy and air services, most of the cost of which is met by Great Britain. Canada does very little and yet if there should happen to be friction between Canada and some other power we should at once look to Britain for help. The navy is ours but Britain pays for it. This condition cannot continue in- up at widely distributed points definitely. The British taxpayers will not consent to go on paying the big bill for our protection.

Greater Control Of Foreign Affairs.

The Saturday Evening Post, discussing the matter in relation to the Lausanne Treaty says:

Canada's attitude in refusing to ratify the Lausanne Treaty is likely to force an open discussion of the relationship of the British oversea dominions to the mother country. All the wellknown British adaptability is going to be needed to keep the Commonwealth of Nations, as the empire is now called, running smoothly.

The chief bone of contention is the demand of the dominions for a voice in foreign affairs. They are not disposed to let certed effort to dodge the Westminster run the whole show when they have to share the consequences. In other words, mother may be a very shrewd and farseeing person, but they would rather make their own bargains, choose their own friends and pick their own quarrels. When the recent and rather disastrons Turkish episode was brought to a close by the Treaty of Lausanne, London referred the document to Canada for ratification. Having had no hand signals and copied a message in drafting it, the Canadian government refused. As far as can be learned, there was no particular objection to the terms of the treaty, which was, perhaps, the best way out of a rather bad sitnation. The whole point was that Canada objected to a rubberstamp role. The situation has been dragging along for some time, but it received its first public airing a few weeks ago when Premier Mackenzie King explained the government position in the course of a speech in the Canadian House of Commons.

No Radio Messages from McMillan Expedition for Many Months; Jack Barnsley was the Most Successful

HARTFORD, Conn., July 18 .- Now that a year has passed since Captain Donald B. MacMillan on board his "radio rigged" schooner "Bowdoin" left Wiscasset, Me., on the first leg of his Arctic journey, it is interesting to review the extent of his radio contact with amateur operators of the American Radio Relay League. Out of this period, including the complete cycle of Arctic daylight and darkness, positively reliable communication was maintained for nearly seven months, while intermittent contact was held at various-periods the remainder of the trip.

Much information regarding radio conditions in this region to straggle and they have conhas been gathered that will be of tinued to fall off with the apuse in future expeditions of the proach of daylight in the Arctic kind, but some of the phenomena except for an occasional short experienced cannot be ex- message containing the inforplained with present knowledge mation that "all's well." This peculiar condition continued through last winter, except for brief periods when the barrier was lifted temporarily and short messages from Mix were picked all over North America.

Bourne, operator of station LANA at Chatham, Mass. From July 28 until August 27, when MacMillan was making a floes, moving southward, there was a period of complete silence. This was a cause of considerable concern until Bourne, who had been keeping a regular early morning vigil, picked up WNP'S saying that the "Bowdoin" had

Hog Tied

At present, said the attorneygeneral, they were hog tied by discriminatory legislation born of the fear that somebody would benefit. It was unscientific and immoral. In this matter a transfusion of a little of the Rotary spirit was needed.

During the time he had occupied the position of attorneygeneral he had taken the position favoring co-operation between Alaska and British Columbia. If the principles which had been applied to Jugo-Slavia and Dalmatia had been applied here, Alaska would have been cut off from the United States and given to British Columbia. The people of Alaska, however, did not wish to transfer their allegiance. As a taxpayer, I wish to protest against the Swimming Club being allowed to commercialize the Salt Lakes for the special privilege of the Prince Rupert Boat House.

The Salt Lakes are being kept up by the collections and donations of the public, city and therefore is the property of the public.

In advertising the Old Timers picnic, which is to be held on July 20, it is stated that the public will be carried free from the Prince Rupert Boat House, but that a charge of 25c and 50c will be made before the citizens will be allowed to enter their own grounds.

The officials of the Swimming Club pulled off a stunt last year similar to the one they are trying to pull off at the present

The general public know from past experience that the Prince Rupert Boat House are not in business for their health, so it is natural to suppose that a large portion of the entrance fees are being handed over to them for transporting the public to the lakes. On July 14, J. Saskatchewan and Alberta Suffer and Manitoba Later Than Usual

WINNIPEG, July 18 .- Manitoba crops appear to be in excellent shape, although somewhat late, but lack of moisture, high temperatures and hot winds have taken a very heavy tell of the crops, both wheat and coarse grains in Saskatchewan and Alberta, according to the crop report issued by the Manitoba Free Press today.

There is little complaint made from Manitoba points, the crop is admittedly about two weeks later than last year, but present conditions are quite favorable and with showers from now till harvest to enable the heads to fill out, a good average yield may be expected.
