TERRIBLE STORM DEVASTATES OHIO COAST

SIX BALLOTS TAKEN BUT NO INDICATION YET OF PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

Wind and Lightning Lays City of Lorain Half in Waste; Dead Total Seventy; Hundreds Hurt

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 30.—Ninety-four persons are known to be dead in Ohio today as a result of a severe wind and electrical storm which swept the coast of Lake Erie from Sandusky to Lorain, wrecking much of Lorain and parts of Sandusky on Saturday night. Although the loss of life is not as great as was at first believed, relief workers fear that the list may grow. Several hundred persons are reported injured—several seriously—and the property loss is estimated at more than $30,000,000.

At Lorain, 70 people are dead and 120 are injured. Two-thirds of the city was ruined and the property damage is estimated at $25,000,000. Thousands of people are homeless and more than 100 city blocks were damaged.

ALL DESIRE TO RETAIN OLIVER

Opinion at Capital is That he Should Continue to Lead
Government

(Special to Daily News)

VICTORIA, June 30.—The desire among elected members of the legislature, including cabinet ministers, seems general that a seat should be found for Premier Oliver and that the government should carry on. While the premier is not saying anything, it is known that he would like to conclude his parliamentary career in some other manner than as a defeated candidate. It is also felt that any constituency in which he may decide to offer himself will elect him to represent them.

It is quite probable that no announcement will be made until after the final count when the government will be in a position to take stock of its support in the next legislature and will govern itself accordingly.

MONTREAL FATALITIES

MONTREAL, June 30.—Two killed and two found dead comprised the list of fatalities in the city and district over the weekend.

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John H. Hilditch Succumbs at His Home on Sunday Night at 11:15.

After a long and lingering illness from heart trouble, death at 11:15 last night claimed John H. Hilditch, pioneer contractor of this city, who expired at his home 236 Third Avenue West. The end was not unexpected for deceased had been sinking gradually for several days. Funeral arrangements, which are in the hands of the B.G. Undertakers, will be announced later.

The late Mr. Hilditch was about 55 years of age and was a native of Grews, England. Coming to Canada, he joined in the gold rush to the Klondike and landed in Dawson in 1897. Eleven years later he arrived in Prince Rupert to make his permanent home and he has resided here with his family ever since with the exception of a period of a year or so during the war. He built the first house on the townsite east of McBride Street on Ambrose Avenue overlooking Hays Cove. He also built the Central Hotel for Peter Black.

Active Citizen

A conservative in politics, Mr. Hilditch in the earlier days took active part in the councils of his party and found time, during the period of the building boom, to give his services to the city. He was a member of the first and second city councils and in 1912 met defeat for the mayoralty at the hands of Mayor Newton. Early in the war, Mr. Hilditch attempted to enlist but was not accepted for service. He remained in Vancouver for some time but returned about five years ago to the city and re-entered the contracting business. He built the lighthouse at Triple Island for the federal government. During the past two or three years, his illness prevented him from working actively.

Deceased was a member of the Board of Trade, Prince Rupert Club, Wanderers' Club and the Sons of England.

Surviving Mr. Hilditch are his widow and two children, Jack, who is at present in the hospital suffering from a broken leg, and Miss Nelda. The sympathy of the entire community will go out to the family in their deep bereavement.

SKEENA SALMON FISHING OPENS FAIR CATCHES

With all Polls Reported, Pattullo Has Lead of 210 Over Newton

First Week Showed an Average of About Thirty Sockeye to The Boat

Fishing in the Skeena River started well this week and already the packing rooms of the canning establishment stands at 210. This series has a fair supply of half course, does not take into account pound flats on their floors. The absentee vote, counting of boats have been averaging about which will commence on July 14 thirty sockeye each so far, which at 9 a.m. and continue until completed.

There are plenty of fishermen, so many that in some cases natives have not found it easy to secure locations.

While the Japanese were on strike early in the week, white fishermen made some big catches, but since the Orientals have been on the job the fish which came in over the week-end have been divided up and the were:

Pattullo (Lib.) 824

Newton (Con.) 614

Mackay (Prov.) 38

The outstanding returns from the river and the fishing conditions as intimately as do the Japanese with the result that the Japanese get much better results.

They provide their own gear and get the fish, which is what the cannery want. The season being short it is necessary to get all the fish possible while the season is on.

The spring salmon have been plentiful this year until recently, when they have slackened up somewhat and nearly half the springs taken have been white.

The close season this year ends on Sunday at six o'clock when the boats all turn out and remain until the following week end.

HALIBUT SALES BIG FOR MONTH

Nearly 200,000 More Than For June of Last Year

The halibut sales this year amounted to $3,692,300, as compared with $2,807,000 for June of last year. Prices ranged from 47.40 on June 4 to the lowest which was 41.10 on June 7. The seconds sold frequently as low as six cents.

PREMIER DIVIDEND

Another $490,000 in dividends will be distributed by the Premier Gold Mining Co. Ltd. on July 3 bringing the total amount the famous Portland Canal mine has paid in dividends since it started shipping to $5,800,000.

BIRTH

A son was born on June 27 to Mr. and Mrs. H. Lear at their home, 150 Eighth Avenue East.

Keen Fight Being Put Up for Nomination at Democratic Convention

NEW YORK, June 30.—Voting commenced this morning at the Democratic convention to select the nominee for the presidency. After six hours of work, six ballots had been taken and there was no nominee or even an indication of one. The net result of the sixth ballot as it affected the leaders was no change in McAdoo's vote and a gain of half-a-vote for Smith of New York.

The fifth ballot totals were:

Underwood	44 1/2
McAdoo	443 1-10
Robinson	19
Smith	261
John W. Davis	341 1/2
Bryan	19
Cox	59
Ritchie	43 9-10
Jonathan Davis	28
Ralston	30
Brown	81 1/2
Glass	25
Salbury	6
Walsh	1
Ferris	30
Sulzer	28
Thompson	1

The fourth ballot removed Senator Kendrick of Wyoming from the field and the third eliminated Governor Sweet of Colorado.

The aim of the canners is to have the same fishermen come each year just as the Japanese have done in the past. They come year after year and are able to cash in on their experience because local knowledge in river fishing is a great help in securing large catches.

If the white Fraser River men succeed, as is every reason to believe they will, more of them will come north next year and possibly they may settle in this district and make their permanent homes here. So far they are adapting themselves readily to the work and with the decreasing number of Orientals allowed in the fishing these men may gradually take their places.

Mythical Reforms Not Always Advantage.

For a number of years the people of Prince Rupert worried themselves over the question of allowing gas boats on the Skeena River salmon fisheries. Under the regulations they were prohibited, the reason for the prohibition being given as a desire to conserve the fish. It was the impression among the public that this was a blind and that the real reason for the regulation was the desire of the canneries to conserve the fisheries as a monopoly.

This year for the first time gas boats have been allowed on the Skeena River, but so far there has been no change in the method of fishing. The boats are out as usual and the gas engine has not invaded the sacred domain of oar and sail.

Possibly it will be some time before a change is made. At any rate there was no great demand for the use of gas boats among the men who are directly interested or there would by this time have been many of them on the fishing grounds.

We believe that the abolition of the regulation was right and that such a regulation tends to disturb the public mind, but now that it is taken off nobody seems to be benefited and nobody is injured.

Difficulty In Caring For Tourists.

In a place as small as Prince Rupert it is found difficult to properly route tourists, providing them with suitable attractive recreations while visiting the city. As the place grows, population increases, and the number of tourists becomes greater, it will be easy to arrange to take care of them. The commercial possibilities in connection with the work will be greater and less responsibility will be placed on the Board of Trade and similar organizations.

This being true, it is incumbent upon every citizen of Prince Rupert to constitute himself an entertainer. It is desirable that everyone shall have the fullest possible information in regard to the district and shall try to make visitors feel that they are welcome.

The writer remembers that in one of the French cities during a short visit before the war, citizens would willingly walk a block or two to direct a stranger and a foreigner where to find something. This courtesy was appreciated and left pleasing remembrances in the minds of the visitors.

One Of Worst Sins On Calendar.

One of the worst sins in the world is that of being habitually late. The person who keeps everyone waiting has an exaggerated idea of his own importance. He is a public nuisance and should be dealt with as such.

What a common thing it is for a meeting to be held up and the time of dozens or hundreds of people wasted because one person is not on time. This is especially true in Prince Rupert. A meeting is called for eight o'clock and very few arrive until half past. A party is going out boating and one sinner makes it uncomfortable for a dozen others who are kicking their heels on the float awaiting his arrival. Women are just as great sinners in this respect as men. It is a most discourteous thing to keep a party waiting.

We all know that there are times when lateness cannot be avoided. People are delayed from no fault of theirs and cannot possibly arrive on time. It is noticed, however, that some people are habitually late while others are habitually on time.

CHAPLIN'S PICTURE BLAZES NEW TRAIL

"A Woman of Paris," a Portrayal of Life as Actually Lived—His First Serious Production

Predictions are being made that the screening of Charles Chaplin's own story in "A Woman of Paris," starring Edna Purviance, will stand forth in motion picture history as an epochal event that will exert a strong influence on the present day photo-drama. The entire story and production, conceived and produced by this master cinema genius promises to reveal a treatment of a vital problem, presented with extreme simplicity yet with an unbounded psychological force that will blaze a new trail along the highway of motion picture progress.

The theme is a startling one, and made the more so because of the utter simplicity and warmth of feeling that permeates it. It presents a problem with the basics and fundamentals of life, commenting upon it in an interesting fashion rather than attempting to solve it.

Mixed Emotions

While the story is of life as studied by Charles Chaplin, it in no wise deals with the life of Chaplin but with the lives of others as seen by him. And as in actual life, there is comedy, tragedy, passion, absurdity, melodrama, farce, emotionalism, cynicism—all these Chaplin has combined as ingredients of life in "A Woman of Paris." At the same time he has woven an exquisite tapestry portraying the sincerity of a woman's soul in all its nakedness, though clothed in its individuality.

Dealing with lives and types that he knows, Chaplin brings to the screen his first contribution to the serious drama a story as old as that of Adam and Eve yet presented with such convincing understanding and treatment that it will be a revelation in the art of photo dramatics.

This is the Dominion Day offering here.

He and His Pinto Pony to be Seen Here at the Mid-Week

Bill Hart and his pinto pony have figured in many thrilling adventures in making pictures but the most dangerous and spectacular feat of all is shown in "Singer Jim McKee," the star's latest production to be seen here at the mid-week.

Trying to escape a pursuing posse, Bill Hart and his pony tumble off a high and almost perpendicular cliff, rolling and crashing to the bottom—to where (in reality) an ambulance stood waiting. But it wasn't needed. Bill Hart and his paint horse have been through too many hazards in the making of western pictures to need any ambulance.

Too bad the pinto pony didn't wait to write "Told Under a White Oak Tree." What a lot would have to add! In that men will grip their seats during book the paint horse could do the big fight scenes between Milles and John Roche. Pictures in which he and his master bally never before has anything participated. There was, for example, the precarious business attempted on the screen, as of walking over a log across a vivid storm, flood and fire canyon, when horse and rider scenes. The hazardous ride up took a fall that both undoubtedly on a roof-top by Anna Q. Nilsson remember with shivers. Then, and Milton Sills, through a rag there was another time when the ing torrent of blazing oil, in the pony, with his master mounted, midst of a cloudburst and thundering into a cave to swim derstrom, with burning oil wells through—and nearly lost their all about them, is calculated to bring a gasp from the most hardened audience. And when the house tips over with them—but why tell you all about it?

Suffice to say the staut in "Singer Jim McKee" is the most spectacular ever witnessed in any Hart picture and one of the most thrilling stunts seen in any photoplay.

On suggestion of Ald. Morrissey, the city council last night decided to appeal the judgment given last week by Mr. Justice Morrison in the action over a sewer brought by J. Fred Ritchie, Ald. Dybbava and Ald. Maitland voted against making the appeal.

The Conservatives have again swept the province of Ontario in the provincial elections. The standing of the parties is: Conservatives, 84; Liberals, 25; Independents, 2.

The city council has ordered that eighty tons of rotten herring stored in a shack at Seal Cove be removed to sea at a cost of $125.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austria, and his wife were assassinated yesterday while driving through the streets of Sarajevo. International complications it is feared will ensue.

The Love that never Dies

You can buy Independence

—financial independence in old age and freedom from worry in the present,—by making small payments nicely adjusted to your age and circumstances.

No good citizen would sell his independence if he knew it, but each day that he lives without providing for the future, he is truly selling—on the installment plan—his most precious possession.

Some day he will have to surrender his independence, or his family may have to make good his default when he dies.

Life Insurance is the solution of this problem,—safe, scientific, secure in every way.

Why not call in the Life Insurance Man and discuss this vital matter today?

Wednesday—Prince Rupert vs. Ocean Falls, Japanese baseball team.

Friday—City League baseball, Gills vs. Columbus Club.

As far as the planning is concerned, the Sons of Canada have done all that is possible to make the celebration tomorrow as big a success as ever. Everything now depends on the good graces of the Weather Man. The day's proceedings will open with a parade of children at 9:30 from Second Avenue and McBride St. to Acropolis Hill. The parade will be led by the North B.C. Regiment Band which will dispense music all day. The children's sports, finals in the elimination races already run at the schools, will commence at 10 o'clock.

The features of the day will, of course, be the final of the Dominion Day soccer cup between the Great War Veterans and the Sons of England and the two baseball games between Prince Rupert and the crack Japanese baseball team from Ocean Falls. The footballers are all keyed up for the contest,

SECOND PRIZE FOREST ESSAY

Written by Miss Sheila Stuart in Forestry Department's Recent Competition

After listening to a lecture on the Prevention of Forest Fires by the Assistant District Forester, certain facts are imprinted on my memory. They are that in the past five years there have been 7843 fires, that the loss caused by these fires reached the enormous sum of five million dollars and that 6740 or eighty-six per cent of them were due to human agency.

There are three kinds of forest fires, namely, crown, ground and surface fires. Crown fires burn in the tops of the trees. Ground fires burn deep in the ground destroying any seeds that may be there. Surface fires burn up the brush and undergrowth and may develop into either crown or ground fires. The ground fire is extremely hard to extinguish and often it is necessary to dig trenches to get the flames under control. In dry weather these fires travel rapidly and the fire fighters have a hard time to master the "Red Enemy."

Awful Results
Let us think for a moment of some of the awful results of a forest fire. There is loss of life and habitation, destruction of shelter for the birds and wild animals, and often of the birds and animals themselves. The country has lost its beauty and has no attraction for the tourists thus affecting the traffic of trains and boats. Another bad effect is on the land itself. Forest land is like a sponge and retains the moisture so giving the streams a constant supply of water but land denuded of its trees does not hold the moisture. In the spring the water flows away in turbulent floods often causing much destruction and in summer the streams dwindle away and periods of drought are frequent.

In addition to the revenue from timber, we have that arising from the fur trade, an indirect product of the forest. For the past two years the revenue from this source was two and three-quarter million dollars which shows the great importance of the fur trade to our province.

Chief Industry
Lumbering is one of the chief industries in British Columbia.

There are about four hundred lumber and shingle mills besides several pulp and paper mills employing directly in the industry over 25,000 people. The yearly cut is about two billion feet worth about sixty million dollars.

If our forests were burned, these mills and logging camps would have to close down and thousands would be thrown out of employment.

How can we prevent any further damage to our forests? Prospectors, campers and sportsmen should see that their fires are completely out before they leave them, and they should never throw lighted matches away. Settlers should observe the laws laid down by the Forestry Department for clearing land.

We should remember that a tree which may be destroyed by fire in a few minutes takes a century to grow. Let us make "Save the Forest" a household word so that green forests may be handed down to posterity.

Note—The foregoing essay, written by Miss Sheila Stuart of Prince Rupert, was awarded second prize in the intermediate Grade classification of the Forestry Department's recent essay competition. The writer is 16 years of age and was taught last term at Borden Street school by Miss M. I. Weatherhead.

FRED STORK URGED CUT IN NUMBER OF ORIENTAL LICENSES

Despatches to southern papers recently state as follows: A recommendation to the minister of marine and fisheries in favor of a further cut of fifteen per cent in the number of commercial fishing licences issued in British Columbia in 1925 to others than white and Indian fishermen was adopted by the Marine and Fisheries Committee of the House.
