ROUSING MEETING LAST NIGHT ADDRESSED BY FOUR LIBERAL CANDIDATES

Ovation Given Manson by Large Audience at Theatre Last Night Following a Brilliant Address

Discussing for fully two hours in one of the finest campaign addresses he has ever delivered, Hon. A. M. Manson, attorney-general, held the big audience assembled in the Empress Theatre at the Liberal meeting last night rapt for every minute until he concluded shortly before 11:30. Driving home point after point in rapid-fire succession, Mr. Manson received a most attentive hearing which was marred by not a single disturbance. Having his audience with him all the way, he showed in a most convincing manner why it was necessary to return the Oliver government to power for the welfare of the province as a whole. In an effective but courteous manner he dealt with the claims of the Conservative and Provincial parties for recognition and election and submitted reasons after reason why their appeals were not consistent or in the best interests of the good government of British Columbia. Mr. Manson was the speaker of the evening but addresses were also given by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands and candidate for re-election in Prince Rupert, H. F. Kergin, candidate in Atlin, Dr. H. C. Wrinch, Liberal candidate for Skeena, and T. Ross Mackay, Provincial candidate for Prince Rupert. L. W. Patmore presided. The audience filled the hall to capacity and shortly after the start there was standing room only.

CLOSE SEASON FOR HALIBUT

Treaty Ratified by U.S. Senate and Comes Into Effect in November

CANADA HAS DONE HER PART

Exchange of Documents Will Have to Take Place Yet Before Complete

Advice has been received in the city by wire from Washington that the halibut close season agreement for Pacific waters was adopted by the Senate of the United States on Saturday evening of last week. The measure has already been ratified by the government of Canada and all that is now required to put the agreement into operation at once will be the exchange of treaties between the two countries. The first close season will therefore start in November of this year for a period of three months.

JURY ASKED INDICT BOYS

Sons of Millionaires Charged With Two Crimes Each Punishable by Death

CHICAGO, June 4.—The Cook County Grand Jury today were asked to indict Nathan Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb, youthful sons of millionaires and self-confessed kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, the schoolboy son of a wealthy Chicagoan, for murder and kidnapping for ransom, each of these crimes are punishable by death.

The states attorney also ordered an investigation into the possible involvement of Leopold and Loeb in the shooting last fall of Freeman Tracy, a university student, whose body was found with a bullet in the head and mutilated a few days later by Charles Ream, a taxi driver.

Elevator to be Built Here Is Announced from Ottawa Sum Goes in the Estimates

Hon. T. D. Pattullo this morning receiving the following letter from Hon. John Oliver:

Vancouver, June 3, 1924.
Hon. T. D. Pattullo,
Care of F. G. Dawson,
Prince Rupert, B.C.

You are authorized to announce that the Ottawa Government has decided to proceed with the construction of the terminal grain elevator at Prince Rupert. Provision for this will be contained in this year's estimates. Please wire Manson immediately same effect.

JOHN OLIVER.

A letter received Saturday from Fred Stork at Ottawa was to the effect that the elevator was assured but that he preferred an announcement should not be made for a few days.

Mackay Pours Hot Shot into Ranks of both Other Parties in Humorous Vein at Meeting

"If you want someone to attend pink teas and kiss the babies, vote for Sam Newton; if you want someone to study the art galleries of Europe, vote for Duff Pattullo; but if you want a man to represent you at Victoria, vote for me." Those were the concluding words of a speech by T. Ross Mackay at the political meeting last night in the Empress Theatre in which the speaker arraigned both of the old parties at some length and urged support for the Provincial Party which is led by General McRae.

In opening Mr. Mackay said he had no paper behind him. He had neither circulation nor liquidation. While Duff Pattullo had the News and Olier Bosner, Sam Newton had the Empire and Joe Sigmund.

The question of freight rates was dismissed with the remark that Oliver was trying to draw a red herring across the trail. What Oliver wanted to do was to keep the people away from the fact that they were paying 62½ cents a head for the privilege of sending Pattullo to Europe.

Turning his attention then to the other party Mr. Mackay said that if he was opposed to Pattullo why was he not also opposed to the Conservatives? There was no more cunning politician than Joe Sigmund, Joe had beat him to it in getting Sam Newton in the field when they had been trying to induce Jim (continued on page five)

GERMAN CABINET

BERLIN, June 4.—President Ebert has reappointed the Marx cabinet.

Pattullo, Kergin and Wrinch Drive Home Wholesome Truths at Theatre Meeting Last Night

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, candidate for this district at the forthcoming election, spoke briefly at the meeting last night but he made an excellent impression. He said that the government was not compelled to go to the country at this time. They could have held on to office for eighteen months more but they wanted the endorsement of the people on a number of questions and he believed they were going to win. The charges of the Provincial party proved one of the strong reasons for going to the country.

Big Issue

The big issue in the south was the freight rates. Vancouver was being built up as a result of the fight Premier Oliver was putting up single handed against the most powerful influences. They were also fighting to get an elevator here and he felt sure they were going to get it. Then Prince Rupert would be built up in the same way. The Sun newspaper, against which Oliver had at one time brought action for libel, had now come out and said they should sink their differences because if they did not do so the freight rates fight was lost. When the fight was won it would be possible to ship grain from Saskatchewan as well as from Alberta to this coast. In the south they were looking to that issue to return the government. Large railway and other interests were opposing the government, those opposed to the forward labor legislation of the government were opposing them and big timber interests were against them. That was why they should look to the common people for support.

The minister said this was not the first time he had put up a strenuous fight for this city. From the day when the water supply was alienated at a time when Bowser was the chief functionary of the government and the city had to buy it back there had been a fight. He had fought for a big power system and been beaten for political purposes by the same people who were trying to defeat him now. The defeat of the hydro-electro project was the worst day's work Prince Rupert had ever done. (Applause). If the agreement had been carried out there would have been 15,000 people in this city, and they would not have had to go begging people to do something for the town. He had fought and gone down to defeat on that issue. Where was Mayor Newton at that time? He was opposed to that project. It was also opposed by Joe Merryfield who was today organizer for Mr. Bowser on whose ticket Newton was running. He did not want to go into too much ancient history but if the people here supported Newton they were supporting the man who had helped to defeat that project.

Mr. Pattullo said he had always been behind any project for the advantage of northern British Columbia. He spoke appreciatively of the work of Bert Kergin, member for Atlin who, he said, had been one of the strongest members in the House and had the confidence and respect of the members of the Legislature. The development going on in the north was due largely to Bert Kergin.

Labor's Position

He was told that he was being opposed in labor circles and he could not understand that. The government of which he was a member had done more than all other provinces combined or all previous legislatures combined along the line of labor and social legislation. So much was this (continued on page five)

HOUSING PLANS FOR BRITAIN

Health Minister Outlines Policy of Government in House of Commons

TO SPEND HUGE SUMS

LONDON, June 4.—Health Minister John Wheatley in the House of Commons last night outlined the Government's solution to the housing problem. It comprises a system for the expenditure of £34,000,000 annually in state subsidies extending over a long series of years making an ultimate expenditure of £1,376,000,000.

Mr. Wheatley said the growth of population necessitated the building of 100,000 houses yearly. Housing conditions throughout the country were rapidly becoming acute owing to the lack of building.

Political Pot Is Beginning To Boil.

The political pot is beginning to boil. The big meeting last night was an auspicious occasion and the speakers dealt with a great many of the issues of the day in a satisfactory manner. Steadily the idea is gaining ground that Prince Rupert can be better served by a minister of the Crown than by an opposition member who has no standing and who would be like a voice crying in the wilderness.

We are saying nothing against S. M. Newton personally. His record speaks for itself. All we wish to say is that it is our belief that Hon. T. D. Pattullo has served the district well and that it would be a mistake to make a change. If he is defeated, we shall no longer have a minister for a representative and we shall also have much less influence with the government than we have today.

All the reports coming from the other constituencies seem to show that the government will be again elected. In any case Mr. Pattullo is a good representative and one worthy of respect.

Not Politician In Ordinary Sense.

There is one objection we take to the minister of lands, and it is one that cannot be set right. Mr. Pattullo is not a politician in the ordinary sense. He does not understand the art of fooling the people. He is just himself and nothing more. He has none of the arts of the politician. He cannot go around but-touholing people or trying to gain political favor because of anything except his record as a statesman. Because of that he loses votes. People like to be fooled. They do not seem to know any other way of running an election. The minister, however, has to be taken at his face value. If he holds his head high, he has reason to do so for his record is a good one. We would not have any other kind of representative.

Should Back Oliver To The Limit.

Opposition members are telling the people that the freight rate fight is not a party question and in that they are right. It is not. The Liberals never claimed it was. All they claim is that Oliver has been the only one to put up a real fight on behalf of the people of this province. In doing that he has incurred the enmity of a number of forces and in standing against other vested interests they have brought a number of forces against themselves which have to be met. The question now is whether the people of the province will back him or play into the hands of the enemy. We believe that Prince Rupert will do its part in returning a member who will support Oliver in his freight rates fight. This city, of all places on the continent, should support the policy of cheaper rates on grain to the Pacific Coast.

OVATION GIVEN MANSON BY LARGE AUDIENCE LAST NIGHT FOLLOWING A BRILLIANT ADDRESS.

made expression of their regret for doing so stating that they had not known what they were signing. Not much attention had been paid at first by the government to the petition but Gen. McRae was entirely intoxicated with his political ambition. Finally an audit was ordered and Premier Oliver announced that there would be a royal commission.

Mr. Justice Gallier of the Court of Appeals was appointed to conduct the commission. Following the finding of the commission, Sir Charles Tupper at a meeting in Vernon had referred to Mr. Justice Gallier as an ass.

Such statements came in poor grace and the fact that aspersions were cast in such manner against the honesty and impartiality of the judiciary of the province seemed verging on a state of anarchy.

Proved Nothing

In any case the commission was appointed and the 31 charges in the petition were embodied therein. The Provincial party was unable to prove one of them in spite of the fact that one would have believed they would have had the requisite evidence. First on the list were definite charges that $50,000 checks had been issued to Mr. Bowser and Mr. Sloan. It was subtly suggested that the return checks were in the hands of the party.

The Provincial party likened the government to Mexicans but what had been the tactics of its counsel when the charge against

Mr. Bowser was being proceeded with? The attempt was made to put the accused in the witness stand to start with a procedure unknown in any court of justice in any country. The charges thereupon fell down. "What is one to think of men who drag names in such manner in the mire without a little of evidence to back them up?"

Bribery of Witness

The speaker then proceeded to deal with the conduct of the Provincial party's case in the general charges in connection with Pacific Great Eastern construction. Their star witness, Rossiter, admitted taking documents away from the government offices where he was an employee and later offering them for sale in Vancouver to Conservatives. He also admitted that he was in the pay of McRae and his associates, and that he had been promised a civil service job if Provincials were returned: "Can anyone lend support to a party that uses such tactics? In pure unadulterated English it amounts to bribery of witnesses."

Perjured Evidence

If the affidavits of Rossiter were serious it was high time there was a change of government in British Columbia. Mr. Manson then proceeded to deal with one affidavit in point and showed where the original document had been deliberately altered to suit the purpose and broadcasted in Provincial party literature. Such was nothing less than perjured evidence. "I wonder if my friend (Ross Mackay) knew these things when he lent his support to the Provincial party?" asked Mr. Manson.

Following the royal commission, Sir Charles Tupper had referred publicly to Mr. Rossiter as "a liar" and A. H. McNeill termed him "a man who did not know what he was talking about."

Finnerty, a walking boss, had given evidence against the government in spite and spleen as a result of interference that had been made in his own irregular mining operations. "What is one to think of a party that has no idea of the nature of evidence that it is submitting in such a case?"

Carlwright, an engineer who had been dismissed by Premier Oliver for inefficient service for the government, was the engineer who gave evidence as to an irregular rock and dirt estimate on the P.G.E. Against this evidence was that of expert engineers who testified that there was no such irregularity.

Everything Correct

Mr. Manson then went on to deal with the Price-Waterhouse audit which had found everything correct. The Provincial party had its own checking auditor, McLachlan, who after following the whole audit with close scrutiny was never called to question any point thereof. As for "the trail of burnt books and lost records," which constituted a serious imputation against the government, the Price-Waterhouse audit found that two books were missing, neither of which were essential. Mr. Gyles, the auditor, said that all documents that were necessary had been submitted but Mr. McLachlan, the checking auditor, was never put in the box. "What can one think of a party that issues such contemptible literature as this, I am not surprised at some members of the party but I am surprised to find that others whom I thought to be respectable have lent themselves to such attacks and abuse."

The report of Mr. Justice Gallier had completely absolved the provincial government.

Campaign Funds

Mr. Manson then referred to speeches of Gen. McRae in which he admitted that he was the largest timber owner in British Columbia. In 1909 he had handled the campaign funds of the timber interests when the Royalty Act was passed. Another revision in royalty charges was due next November and General McRae knew it. "Do you want to trust him?" asked Mr. Manson.

Some of Gen. McRae's own private business ventures then came in for Mr. Manson's discussion. He had purchased the Port Mann townsite and had been a party to its sale to the C.N.R. at an immense profit. Though he said that he was in California at the time, the sale of that townsite constituting the worst townsite scandal in the history of Canada had been under his endorsement. His activities in connection with the Canadian North Pacific Fisheries and the sale of Saskatchewan lands were other well known examples of his private business career.

Boodle Against Citizenship

Never in the history of Canada was money being spent on a campaign at the rate it was being spent by General McRae, said Mr. Manson. He was putting boodle against citizenship. With literature, speakers and high paid office men, etc., General McRae will have spent between $250,000 and $300,000 by the time the present campaign was over, the speaker predicted. He did not believe it was all his money.

"They drew up a petition laying the grounds for an investigation," continued Mr. Manson. "There were no charges with respect to campaign funds. If there had been we could have made it hot. I am ready to admit there are campaign funds and all parties have them. There are, however, campaign funds and campaign funds."

Talk Without Knowledge

Referring to Mr. Ross Mackay's statement that money was squandered on the Sumas dyking project when it could have been spent to better advantage in opening up central B.C. lands, Mr. Manson said the two propositions could not be compared. The Sumas lands were adjacent to a population of 250,000 people and he ventured to say that the province would get all the money it had spent there back in three to five years. Mr. Mackay, like Mr. Rossiter, talked about things he knew nothing of. Another example of the Provincial party statements was that made recently at Terrace to the effect that the Terrace bridge was being built by the Federal government. He (Mr. Manson) would be quite happy if it was, but it was not.

"Stable government is what is needed today in this country," declared Mr. Manson. "You cannot have that when you have to bargain and compromise with a third party. The two party system is admitted to be the best."

After Bowser

Mr. Manson then went on to deal with the past of Mr. Bowser, head of the Conservative party, of whom Mayor Newton, the Conservative candidate in Prince Rupert, could only be considered a follower. The speaker referred to the downfall of the Dominion Trust Co., the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the C.N.R. guarantees. A violation of the statutes had been permitted by Mr. Bowser as attorney general in connection with the Dominion Trust. C.N.R. bonds had been guaranteed by Mr. Bowser's government and money had been paid to P.G.E. contractors when it had not been earned. These actions constituted a breach of his trust.

Mr. Manson charged the McRae-Bowser administration with holding back the agricultural development of the central interior ten or fifteen years in allowing lands to be sold without settlement conditions. Land which he bought back for $3 and $6 an acre was bought back for $5 and $6 an acre.

Tear Down Policy

As leader of the opposition for the past eight years, Mr. Bowser, instead of having regard to service for the people, had never offered anything in the way of constructive assistance. Always in a most critical mood of everything the government might do, his attitude had been to tear down, tear down, tear down. He himself (Mr. Manson) as speaker had been witness to the spectacle

The provincial government has decided to pay local improvement taxes in Section Two.

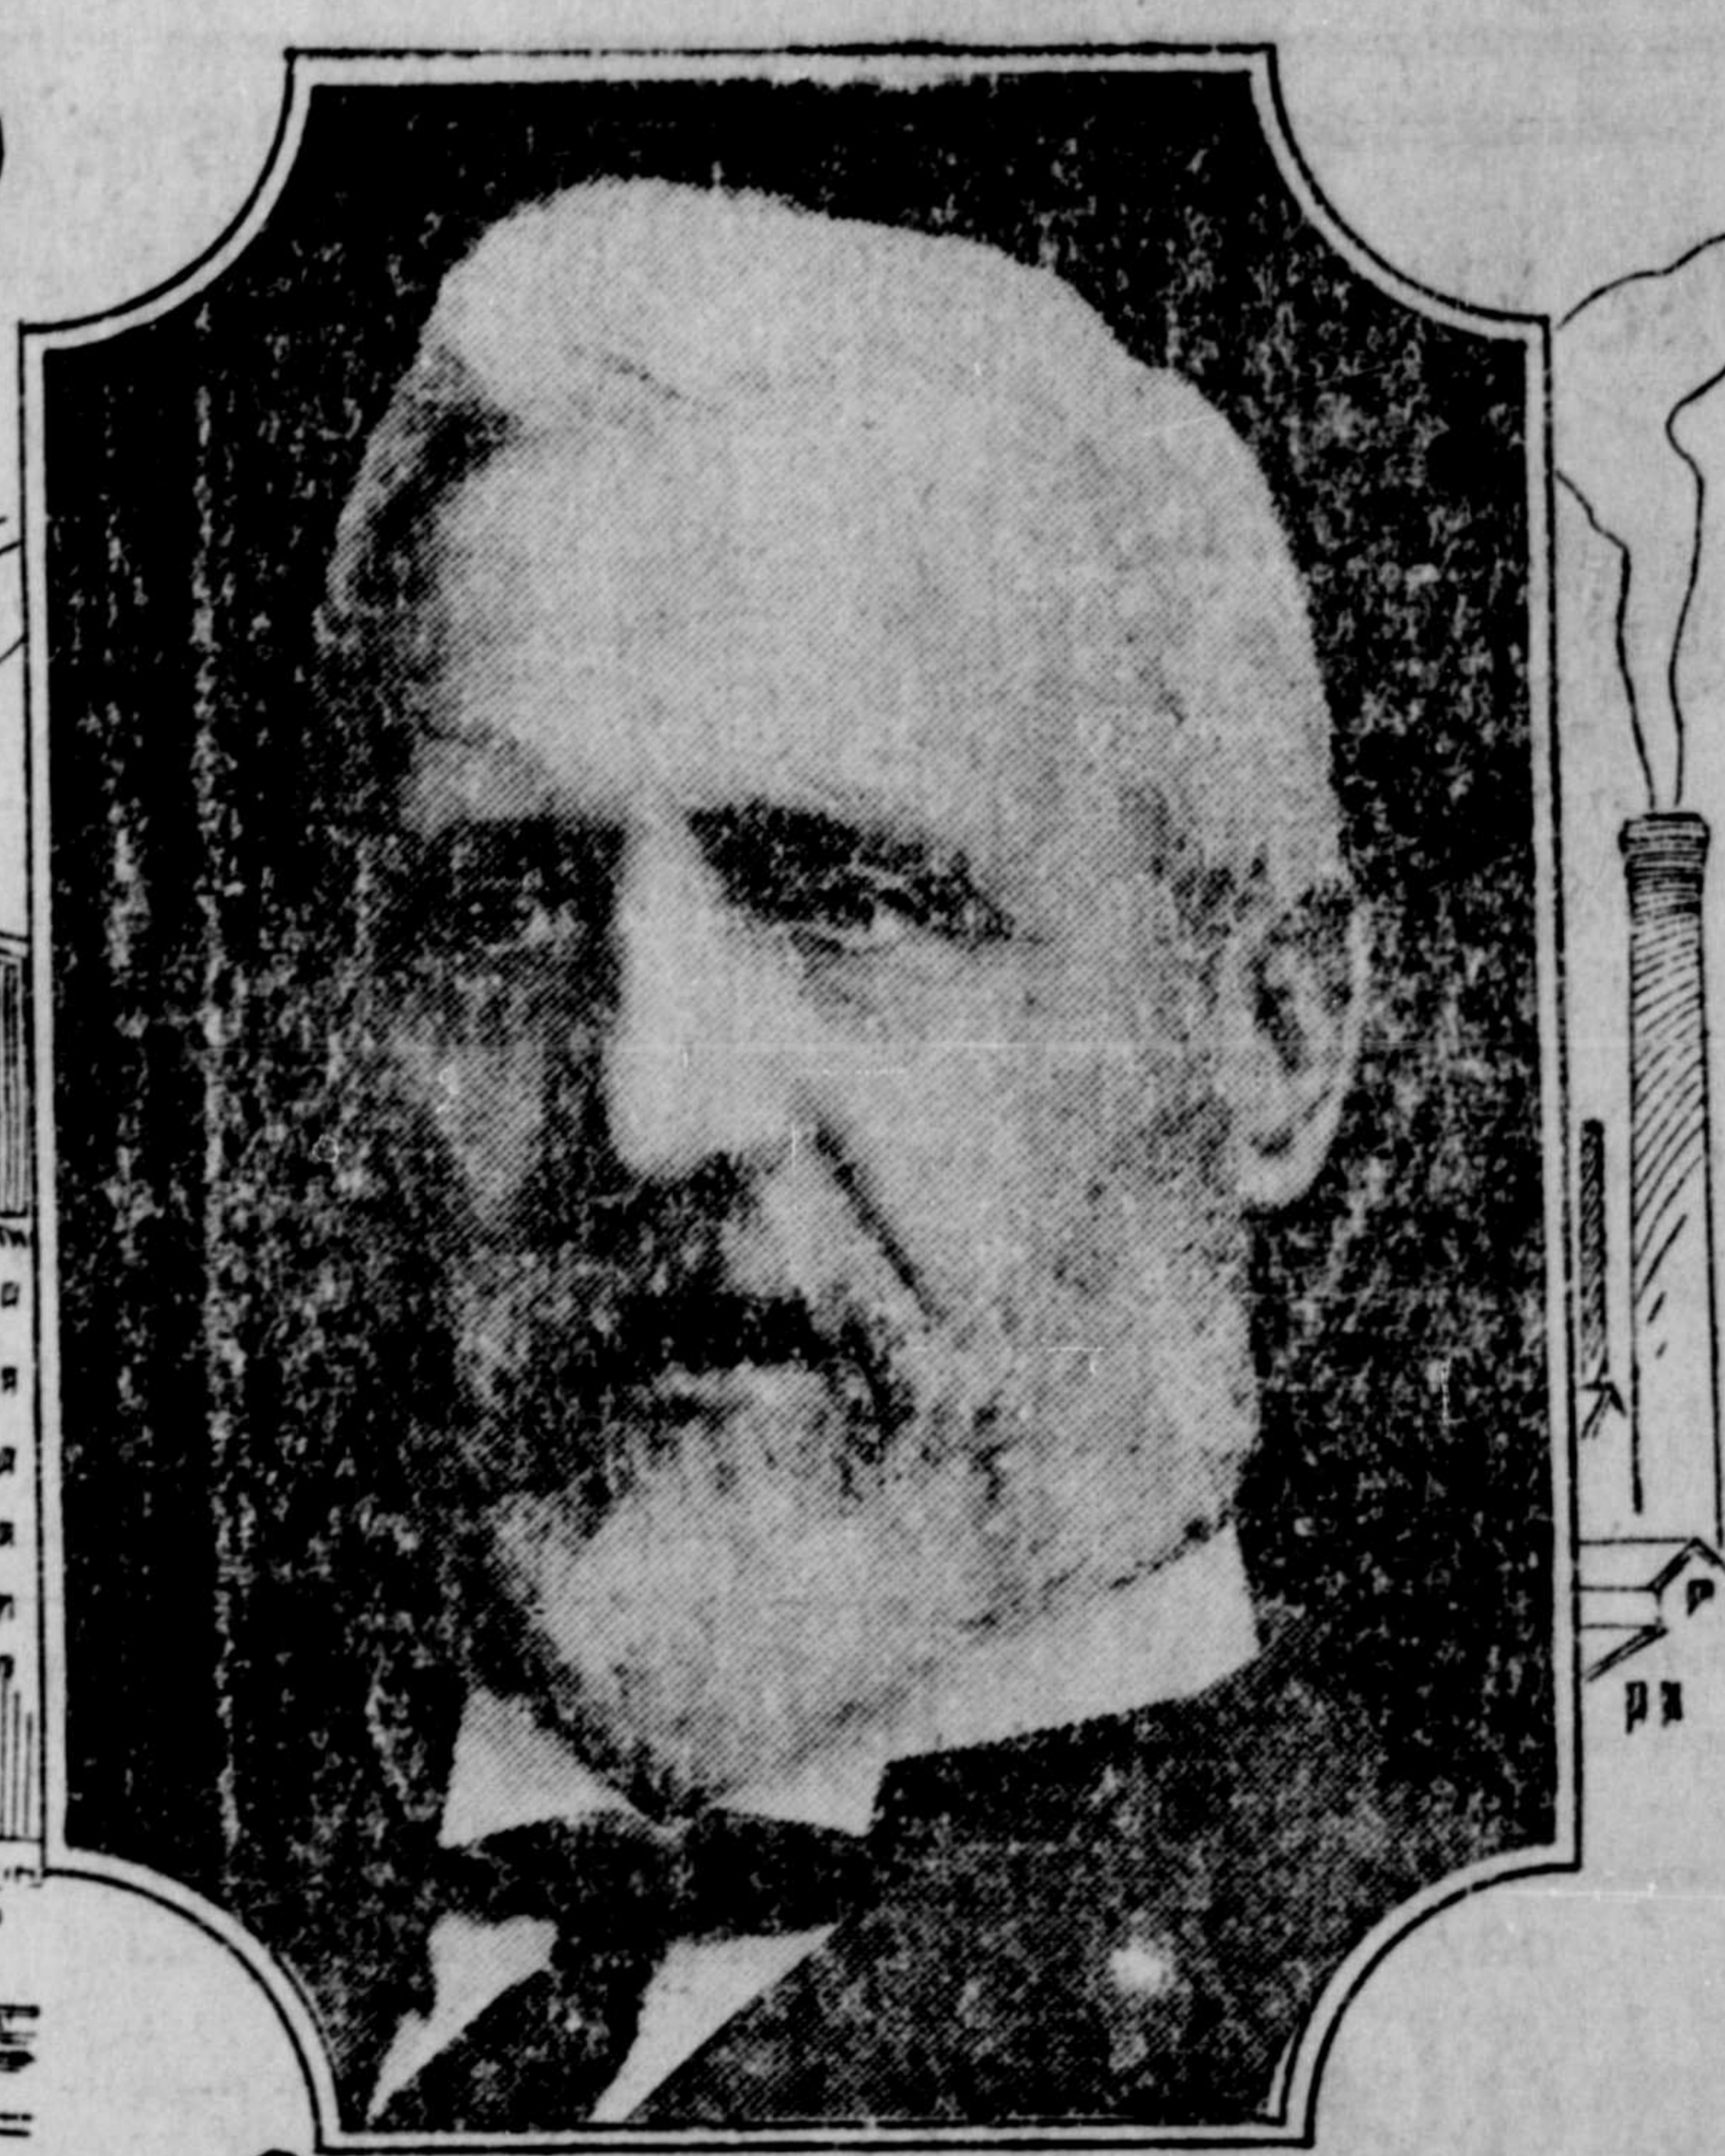

The provincial government is said to be favorably disposed towards the application of the Prince Rupert Hydro-Electric Co. for permission to enter the streets of Prince Rupert with light and power.

Get behind OLIVER'S FIGHT

for Equalized Freight Rates and Bigger Pay Rolls

ON June twentieth—Election Day—the Dominion Government, the Railway Corporations, and the Big Interests of Eastern Canada must be shown by the support that we accord the Honorable John Oliver that we are determined to grow and expand. Every vote for a Liberal Candidate is a vote for John Oliver, which is in effect an official message to Ottawa and the East that we in British Columbia are solidly behind the Oliver fight for conditions which are fundamental to the prosperity of every man, woman and child in this province.

Let us show them by our votes that British Columbia is in earnest; that we are determined to win this fight for equalized freight rates—equal charge for equal service throughout Canada; that we must have free and unrestricted use of the Panama Canal; that by natural heritage and moral right we are entitled to representation on national directorates; in short, that we demand the right of this Province to develop and grow.

John Oliver, with his great, homely common-sense and dogged fighting qualities, supported by his Liberal Government, has carried this fight to the interests which are retarding our growth and prosperity.

John Oliver and his Government made the first real fight for equalized freight rates; equal consideration in the expenditure of public monies for harbor improvement, with the resulting grain elevators, docks, etc., for British Columbia.

John Oliver and his Government are fighting for these fundamentals of prosperity which will ensure for us factory pay-rolls; a market for our agricultural products; the development of our natural resources; all of which will benefit every person in this Province.

John Oliver, the head of the Liberal Government in British Columbia, has the ear of the Honorable Mackenzie King, the head of the Liberal Government at Ottawa; and if the people of British Columbia demonstrate by their votes that they are in accord with John Oliver's fight, we in British Columbia will benefit to a far greater extent than we would if Mr. Bowser or General McRae were placed in power.

Disregard petty issues, disregard personal sentiment, and for the welfare of this Province and its economic development, and for your own best interests, return John Oliver and his Government to Victoria on June twentieth.

ANYOX, June 4.—Owing to wet weather, the summer sports schedule has been held up somewhat. Two games of baseball and one of football have had to be postponed on account of June Pluvius. All the fans are eager to see the teams in action now. Since the opening games the Mine and Smelter baseball teams have strengthened their line-ups with highly-touted material, while the three football organizations have located and signed case that Dick Burde, member for Abernethy, was out in support of the government on the plea that they had done so much for labor. In face of this what were the workmen here going to do? He had never entered to the labor vote or the capitalist vote. He had simply stood his ground for what seemed proper. He had been criticized because he was not a good hand shaker and was too stuck up. He could not help that. He had promised to fight for the north and he defied anyone to show any occasion when he had not done that. He had always gone to Ottawa when he had been asked to do so and had fought as good a fight as he could.

Mr. Pattullo then pointed out the efforts of the Conservative government to kill Prince Rupert. Now it was being gradually resuscitated. He urged the people to take his advice and not jeopardize the future. He would address them at greater length on a future occasion when the campaign was warmer than it was that night.

Bart Kergin

H. F. Kergin, member for Alberni, said four years ago when he had been elected he had been timid, but he found that at Victoria were 16 sincere members, all trying to improve conditions. The group that had taken over the government were not weak men or they would not have been able to resuscitate the finances when they were at such a low ebb. At that time the P.G.E. was strangling the government but today the credit of the province and the financial condition compared favorably with any other in the Dominion.

At Victoria the policy of the government had been one of co-operation. It was a credit to the northern B.C. members that they had worked together. When the government came into power Vancouver was the government. Today that condition had ceased. They were now going into the fight against big interests and were going to win. The mills had been compelled to sell paper to Canadians at the same price they sold to the States and they were against them. The eight hour day had brought opposition from other quarters. What support could they expect from the interests against which they had been fighting. They should be supported by the people they were fighting for.

Mr. Kergin referred to the Searchlight charges and the probe in the public accounts committee yet they had never yet proved anything wrong. Melroe had asked for a royal commission and they all knew at that time they would say it was fixed. Judge Gallier, however, was not responsible for parliament and did not care whether the government was re-elected or not.

The speaker compared the present members with the rubber stamp that formerly represented the district and who had betrayed them over the railway question.

Casey asked how long he was going to be silent and see the Dolly Varden railway idle.

Kergin replied that anybody could have the railway who wanted it.

Dr. Wrinch

Dr. Horace C. Wrinch of Hazelton said it was an inspiration to face a happy audience as the one before him. He hoped they would take the matter seriously and think out the questions that were before them. He was new to politics and had never before attached himself to any party or attended a convention. He was free to admit he had voted Conservative when McBride went in but he had voted Liberal when he went out. Now he was a candidate because he thought the Oliver government had done good work and should be returned again. He was again on the winning side. He was proud to be allied with the Liberal party on this occasion. He would still retain his independence. Every British subject had a right to think and act as he thought fit. He proposed to give allegiance to the party as long as they carried on in a manner that met with his approval.

Thompson to become a candidate.

Mayor's Record

The speaker said Mr. Newton was one of the most pleasant, genial men they could ever meet at a card party or afternoon tea. If they thought of electing him, however, they would have to reconsider his qualities as a businessman, a politician and a mayor. He had been mayor for a number of years—a year and a half now and several terms previously and he did not know anything the mayor had done in that time or attempted to do. Newton in his paper had promised he would give a square deal. When Pattullo had challenged him in regard to starting the road he had missed one of the finest opportunities, but now Pattullo had beat him to it. He drew attention however to the fact that another Government had sent out a gang of men just before an election and had not got far with it.

Delving into city affairs Mr. Mackay asked: "Who is the man that controls the council?"

Mackay: "I believe he does. Did Newton ever say anything about a road for the island? Newton's leader, Bowser, four years ago was opposed by the present mayor but now today Newton has swallowed the bait, sinker and all."

Enemy of Rupert

Mr. Mackay said they heard criticisms from time to time, but if any one man had been a deadly effective enemy of Prince Rupert it was W. J. Bowser. If the C.N.R. had not gone to Vancouver Prince Rupert would have been the real terminus of the G.T.P. It was built to take the business to Vancouver and the P.G.E. was built for the same purpose. Bowser is the man who raises the deuce about the building of the court house at Prince Rupert. No matter who else was in the field the Bowser candidate should be defeated.

Mr. Mackay then examined Mr. Newton's attitude toward labor. He said he would ask those who say that Sam Newton is a friend of labor to point to any time when he fought for them. Sam Newton took ten days to consent to ask for a board of consultation when the labor trouble with the city was on, although he had been continually urged to do so. When he had spoken to him about it he had replied: "Now, Ross, if you were in my position and had six aldermen in opposition to you, would you do anything to antagonize them?"

Bayonet and Rifle

"Bowser is not the kind of leader I want," declared Mr. Mackay. You know the Bowser method. It is the method of the bayonet and the rifle. Does Newton subscribe to that?

Mr. Newton is a clean, moral, good man. There was at one time a lot of talk about Manson and the liquor administration and Newton had told the people here through his paper that it was a criminal shame. If they only elected a man, the like of him he told them this would be remedied.

"If the Attorney General is guilty, Sam Newton is equally guilty," he said, "and I do not think I should lend him any support in this fight."

Mr. Mackay then turned his attention again to the member for the district and said he had been a stranger here. He jested at the member not coming here often enough and said that when he did come he always brought his bunk with him.

Mr. Mackay then went on to criticize the reclaiming of the Sumas lake and urged that more industrial concerns like those at Anyox, Ocean Falls and Swanson Bay be established. There never had been such opportunities for development but nothing had been done since the Government came into power. He said rigid economy was required and he debt of the province was $71,000,000. That might be true but the statement did not go far enough. Against the debt was the sinking fund of $12,000,000 and $8,000,000 more of liquid securities. The debt was increased through the necessity to rehabilitate the soldiers after the war, the housing scheme, the department of industries, assistance to the water systems of southern B.C., several of which items might be directly credited to the member for Prince Rupert. All the money so expended might not come back at once but it was laid out in the finest of security. The truth was that the province actually owed $38,000,000.

The government was charged with increasing the civil services but the increases had been made in giving new services. The old departments, Mr. Manson claimed, were carrying on more business with reduced staffs as compared with 1916. There was more efficiency.

Referring to Mr. Bowser's criticisms of the liquor administration, Mr. Manson gave figures to show that the conduct of the business in B.C. was much more efficient than in Quebec where there was a similar liquor control law.

Needs of B.C.

What British Columbia wanted now was more consumers, more payroll, more people, better transportation and lower taxes.

There had been a large increase of industries under the Liberal regime. The timber business had greatly increased due largely to Mr. Pattullo's efforts. Agricultural production had increased. There was an improved system of roads and trails. With trunk highways and laterals, one would be able this fall to motor from Hazelton to Mexico.

Freight Rates

Mr. Manson then referred to Premier Oliver's fight for the removal of discriminatory freight rates. An increase of rates a few years ago had killed the mills between Prince Rupert and Yellowhead and had seriously affected agriculture in the same district. The time had come when some consideration was due the government for its work in this respect. The province could not tie down until a complete victory had been won. It was admitted in Vancouver by Conservatives that Premier Oliver's fight had already meant between four and four and a half million dollars for the province.

Audience Cheered

Referring to the statement of Ross Mackay that Premier Oliver in his fight for equal rates was drawing a red herring across the trail, Mr. Manson said simply "Poor Boy." This brought the audience to its feet with cheers while Mr. Mackay vainly attempted to interpose.

Speaking of attempts to reduce taxation, Mr. Manson declared that the province of B.C. was recovering more rapidly than any other. Taxes had not been raised for fun and the government knew that such action was unpopular. At the last session some success had been attained in making reductions of farmers' taxation, personal pro-ment an attack was made on the annual grants to the Canadian Press of $50,000 for the leased wires across the three sparsely settled gaps and $8,000 toward the supplementary cable service from Britain. Your management heard that an attack was coming, but, having in mind the unsavory flavor this governmental assistance had to many of our members, the only step taken to meet it was to provide the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance with a memorandum explaining fully and clearly the original reasons for these grants and the manner in which the money had been spent from year to year. The attack was participated in by only two members of Parliament and the grants were defended on the ground of national advantage by both Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Fielding.

The two items went through Parliament, but at the close of the session we were notified that the grants would not be renewed on the following year. Even if we had not been notified, I believe your Board of Directors would have found it necessary to recommend you to decline the grants in future so that the Company would never again be in the position where it could be made the subject of such irresponsible and slanderous statements.

Pay Own Way

In comparison with other burdens that Parliament had imposed upon the daily newspapers of Canada in recent years—increased postal rates and sales tax on newsprint involving many hundreds of thousands of dollars—the $58,000 which thus had to be absorbed is a small amount. But it was an addition to an overload and the temptation to chuck it was great. To drop the leased wires between the East and West—wires that run for hundreds of miles through a "No Man's Land"—would have materially reduced the opportunities for the interchange of news, information, and opinion between the widely spread peoples, and the national disabilities and dangers growing from out that no one can estimate. But the newspapers, it was recalled, existed before the Canadian Press and before there were leased news wires, and if Parliament thought so lightly of the value of the leased wires and of the direct British cable connection, was there any particular reason why the newspapers should retain them? Some of us thought what a nice thing it would be to give an object lesson to loquacious members of Parliament on the futility of winged words that wouldn't fly—into newspaper offices. There was also the seductive argument that the abandonment of the leased wires and British cable service would affect all the newspapers more or less alike, and inasmuch as circulation could be secured on other accounts than telegraph news what mattered if some of the outside stuff were left out? There were a few who expressed the opinion that the Canadian Press had been a little too sensitive or squeamish about the Government grants and who said that if we went after a renewal of these grants they believed the Government would accede to the unanswerable arguments in favor of them; but there was always an overwhelming majority to applaud and support the emphatic opinion of your President and Board of Directors that never again should this company of the Canadian Press accept Government grants to defray the cost of news services.

No government in the Empire had given such advanced social legislation as had the Liberal government in B.C.

Labor Behind Him

In Skeena and Omineca districts, Mr. Manson asserted, labor was behind the Liberal candidates. The Trades Union Journal, organ for the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, paid tribute to the legislation in favor of Labor that had been given by the B.C. government. That journal freely admitted, in a statement read by Mr. Manson, that the Liberal government in B.C. had beat all others in Canada in legislation for the benefit of the workers. B.C. was the first province that had adopted the eight-hour day statute. "Every man who is true to the cause of Labor cannot have a moment's hesitation in supporting and sending back to power a government with a record like this one," declared Mr. Manson.

Tribute to Pattullo

Concluding Mr. Manson paid tribute to the work of Mr. Pattullo as minister of lands at Victoria. As ministers of the crown they could not meet the people as often as they might wish but they were giving their best and some appreciation he felt was due.

"Canada has no other statesmen that stands up to Premier Oliver in ability," Mr. Manson said. "Having worked himself up from the lowermost to the uppermost rung of the ladder, it is reasonable to believe that he is a disreputable thief and a crook or a 'classy idiot' as the Provincials describe him. It is not reasonable, I say, for you to fairly face the issue and show that you resent this Billingsgate and the insults upon yourselves by sending to the legislature not a single supporter of General McRae?"
