VANCOUVER CHOOSES CHIEF MAGISTRATE

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED CIVIC BOARD OF WORKS ENQUIRY LAST NIGHT

L. D. Taylor is Elected as Mayor of Vancouver to Serve Fourth Term

VANCOUVER, Dec. 11.—Following a rather stirring and somewhat bitter campaign in which past history was raked over and personalities indulged in, Louis D. Taylor was elected mayor of Vancouver yesterday by a majority of 562.

This is the fourth time Mr. Taylor has been chosen to fill the chief magistrate's chair in this city. He was elected first in 1919 and again in 1911. It was in 1915 that he served his third term. He has been a candidate many times since but without success until this year. Gradually he has been coming back, his showing last year being better than for several preceding.

Mr. Taylor was at one time manager of the Daily Province and later was owner and editor of the World, which he conducted for about ten years.

Mr. Taylor has always had strong support from the labor element and many business and professional men look to him to deal vigorously with the pressing questions of the day.

THIRD PARTY IN U.S. MAY NOT CONTINUE

One of Leaders Says Will Act as Independent Force in Conjunction With Other Groups

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The expected third party movement which was talked of so much through the presidential campaign may not come to a head this winter. In fact, it may not materialize at all.

This has been made plain by an interview with Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, chairman of the recent La Follette campaign. Mr. Nelson says that he will use his influence to continue the independent organization as it was built up in the campaign and gradually to enlarge and perfect it. He thinks the progressive movement can be more effective for the present by acting as an independent force, prepared to join with either party that puts up good men and measures, than it can by launching a third party.

In time, when the independents or progressives have had full opportunity to increase their strength in Congress and to perfect an organization, the third party movement can be fully launched, as Mr. Nelson sees it.

Whether the Nelson plan will be supported by the bulk of the elements that voted for La Follette remains to be seen but it is probable it will be. It is supposed here that Mr. Nelson's view is similar to the view of Senator La Follette, as they are close friends and political co-workers.

Mr. Nelson sees a strong reaction from the regular republicans and Coolidge, despite their victory November 4. Under his plan, the progressives would get ready for a hard fight in the 1926 congressional campaign.

GATHERS MUCH TOBACCO

MANILA, Dec. 11.—The greatest tobacco crop produced in the last 20 years in the Philippines will be harvested in the Gagayan and Pampanga valleys of northern Luzon this year, according to advices to the bureau of agriculture. Most of the tobacco which reaches the United States as Manila cigars is grown in the Gagayan valley.

SEVERAL BIDS ARE EXPECTED ON JOB

Contractors Will Compete for Elevator and Warehouse Foundations Here

It is expected that there will be considerable competition in connection with the bidding for the construction of the elevator and sacked grain warehouse foundations here. So far, two prospective bidders are definitely known of. They are the local concern in which M. P. McGaffery and Olof Hanson are the principals and J. S. Connell, Ltd. of Vancouver, general contractors. Jasper S. Connell, head of the latter concern, arrived in the city from the south yesterday afternoon accompanied by his associate, Stuart Cameron. S. S. Mazoffin, who built the ocean dock, is expected in the city from the East shortly and it is generally understood that he too will submit a tender. There may be other tenderers as well.

CHRISTMAS CHEER ACTIVITIES ENGAGE ATTENTION OF ELKS

The big candle in the Elks' Christmas cheer guessing contest will be lit in the window of the St. Regis Cafe on December 20 by Mayor Newton. The prizes being offered will be awarded to those who guess nearest to the actual time that the candle will continue burning.

At the lodge meeting last night, it was reported that $437 had been netted for the Christmas cheer fund as a result of the musical show recently staged. On December 19 the lodge will stage a cabaret entertainment in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, who conducted the show, and the personnel of the companies who played in this and the minstrel show.

In collaboration with the Ladies of the Royal Purple, the Elks are making plans for a Christmas tree entertainment at a date to be decided upon later.

FIRST KILLED HORSE THEN SHOT HIMSELF

Swiss Could Not Live Without His Animal

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 11.—A man's affection for his horse ended in his death recently in the little village of Dompierre, in Vaud canton. Jean Tenthorey, a great sportsman and particularly fond of his mount, had to shoot the animal to put an end to its suffering from disease. Jean went immediately to his bedroom and, with the same pistol, shot and killed himself.

INQUIRY INTO CASEY CHARGES

Much Trivial Evidence Given at Long and Tedious Sitting Last Night

MANY ARE PRESENT

Discharged Employees Tell of Grievances and Others Command Foreman

The investigation into the conduct of the city foreman, Jack McEae, following charges made against him by Alderman Casey held in the Council Chamber last night proved to be a tedious and long drawn out affair, lasting from seven o'clock to half past ten and no evidence of any importance was given on either side. Five men, mostly discharged employees, spoke against the foreman. These were Messrs. Rogers, Valpey, Jorgensen, Finnigan and Morgan, while for the foreman there were a great many more, although only eight were heard. They were Messrs. Cochrane, Jackson, Lidstone, Wingham, Wilson, Nelson, McKenzie, and Hadden, mostly straw bosses or teamsters. There was a large crowd out to watch the proceedings and on several occasions the crowd expressed its sympathies quite freely.

In the course of the proceedings there were several lively passages, one between W. E. Williams, who was acting for McEae, and Alderman Casey over matters of procedure and between Alderman Perry and Alderman Casey. The latter acted somewhat in the capacity of prosecuting attorney. There were present Alderman Perry, chairman; Mayor Newton, Alderman Casey, Alderman McMorde, the city engineer, and the stenographer, Miss Blanche Curtin.

Objects of Meeting

Chairman Perry stated the object of the meeting and asked all witness on either side to leave the room.

Alderman Casey repeated the charges which were that the policy laid down by the council had not been adhered to with the result that continuous complaints had been made from married men and property owners that they could not secure employment. The committee had laid down the rule that married men should come first and single men second. The men were to apply to the engineer who would give them a note to McEae. Since that complaints continued.

The Alderman also charged that an attempt was made to reduce wages of men employed on the scavenger wagon from six to four dollars a day.

A man named Valpey had been

SACRED MUSIC WAS SUBJECT OF CLUB

Sacred music was the subject taken up by the Ladies' Musical Club at the regular fortnightly meeting which was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. A. Hinton, Second Ave. A paper was read by Mrs. Bryant; Mrs. Hinton, accompanied by Mrs. Ward, sang "Rejoice Greatly" and "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" from Handel's "Messiah." Mrs. H. G. Fraser sang "He shall Feed His Flock," also from the "Messiah," and Miss Marjorie Lancaster, accompanied by Mrs. Hinton, played a violin solo, Handel's "Largo."

GALE LAST NIGHT DID DAMAGE TO TELEGRAPHS

This morning Prince Rupert was once more dependent on the wireless system for its communication with the outside world. The gale last night put all the telegraphs out of business, but beyond that does not seem to have done much damage around town.

MANY NEW MEMBERS FOR WAR VETERANS

Thirty-five new members were admitted to the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association last night. Business was largely of a routine nature dealing with internal affairs of the organization. It was decided to ask retail merchants of the city, in obtaining extra help during the Christmas season, to use unemployed returned men if possible.

Philip Auckland and Celina McKay, Indians, were each fined $10 and costs in the city police court this morning for intoxication.

INSURANCE BECOMES POPULAR IN STATES

Increase of Over Million Dollars in Business of Last Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Leaping far ahead of all former thrift records the American people are buying approximately $13,500,000,000 of life insurance this year, according to a report submitted at the opening of the Eighteenth Annual Convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here this morning.

Walton L. Crocker, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, who is the presiding officer of the convention, added that this year's total of new paid-up insurance will exceed that of 1923, the former record year, by fully $1,000,000,000, an increase of eight per cent. Mr. Crocker emphasized to the insurance men that this thrift record had been achieved by the people during a year in which the general business of the country has been on the whole adverse.

Two Fishermen and Owner of Bi-products Plant Speakers at Annual Fish Day Banquet

The annual National Fish Day luncheon held yesterday in the St. Regis Cafe under the auspices of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Fisheries Association took the form of a get-together between the fish dealing interests of the port and the fishermen themselves with a goodly number of ladies present to further enhance the proceedings. The nature of the affair was commended by both interests represented and it was promised that it would not be the last time that such gatherings would be held. With T. H. Johnson, president of the association, in the chair, the fishermen had the floor and interesting addresses were delivered by two well known members of their ranks—J. H. Meagher and James Coombes. The third speaker, George G. Bushby, also championed the fishermen's cause and gave some exhortations to the "battered capitalists" ashore that might well be heeded. The attendance was fair and a couple of hours were spent in pleasure, doing justice to the banquet of sea fare and listening to the speeches and musical numbers that followed.

The soloists were Miss Jones who sang "When the Great Red Dawn is Breaking" and "Duna" and Mrs. Jarvis McLeod who sang "Callie's Herrin'" and "Sweet and Low." W. Vaughan Dayies was accompanist. The proceedings opened with the singing of "O Canada" and closed with the National Anthem.

In the course of his introductory remarks Mr. Johnson read a telegram from J. A. Paulhus of Montreal, president of the Canadian Fisheries Association and initiator of the National Fish Day idea. The telegram stated that the observing of a National Fish Day had done much to popularize the consumption of fish and develop the industry. Congratulations were offered to the local Association and the continuation of zeal was urged.

Mr. Johnson stated that, commencing with this Fish Day, a Fish distributors' advertising campaign was to be started throughout Canada. To finance it, $10,000 had been raised by the fish distributors themselves and a similar amount had been voted by the Dominion government. Mr. Johnson drew attention to the menu cards which contained valuable statistical information regarding the fisheries and urged that, after memorizing these figures, those present mail the cards to their friends.

It had been decided, Mr. Johnson said, on this occasion to hear the fishermen's side of fisheries problems instead of those who were engaged in the business of buying, storing and marketing. Therefore Capt. Meagher and Capt. Coombes had been asked to speak.

Referring to his own 26 years experience as a fisherman both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts prior to 1917 when he had become agent for the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union here, Mr. Meagher spoke of the dangerous life of the halibut fisherman. He had started fishing in 1888 out of Gloucester, Massachusetts, and had worked on sail boats on the Atlantic coast and on steam and gasoline vessels on the Pacific. To tell in any kind of an adequate manner of all he had gone through in those years including the stories of men—shipmates of his own who had lost their lives—would take the whole afternoon. During the Great War he had received a postcard from a fisherman at the front. It significantly stated that one's chances in the front line trenches were just about as good as the chances of a fisherman in a dory off the Alaskan coast in a November or December gale.

"You people, when you are comfortably settled in your homes while a southeast gale rages in all its fury and the rain pours down in torrents, when the windows and doors rattle and every moment you expect your house to come down over your head, do you ever think of the halibut fishermen engaged in their trade? When some accident happens and all are called on deck in the middle of the night in bare feet or otherwise handicapped, it is the fisherman's duty to save his vessel from foundering and himself from a watery grave. Some of you may say we earn too much. I would advise any who make that statement to try a season's fishing. You would soon find that we earn and are entitled to ever dollar we get."

Value of Union

Mr. Meagher went on to speak of the activities of the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union and the progress it had made from the time it was organized in 1912 at Seattle by some 40 or 50 fishermen. Now it was one of the best organized bodies on the Pacific Coast and its representatives (continued on page 7, col. 2) threatened with a beating if he did not hurry. McRae was not efficient and did not know how to handle men or to outline work.

Alderman Casey said he had been driven to make the position he had by the workers. He wanted to know if there was any foundation for the complaints.

Witnesses

J. H. Rogers was the first witness. He had gone to work in the scavenging department believing he was to get $6.00 a day taking the place of a regular man who was sick. A bald man in the engineer's office had told him that was the rate of wages. He had been let out although he had been told his work was satisfactory.

Alderman Perry said he had told the engineer to get a laborer. He thought four dollars sufficient to pay while they were waiting for the other man to get back.

It was just here that the pass took place between Alderman Casey and Mr. Williams. The latter drew attention to the fact that the chairman had taken the blame to himself for the reduction of wages on the scavenger wagon.

Inquiry a Farce

Alderman Casey said if he had known the inquiry was to be balled up by a legal man he would have got a legal man himself. He thought it was a farce.

Alderman Perry: "It was a farce from the beginning." Mutual recriminations followed in which Mr. Williams charged that Alderman Casey did not know what British fair play was and this was followed by the heated retort: "Neither do you."

The witness named Valpey was difficult to understand. He told of having applied at various times for work and the last time was told to "get out of here."

J. W. Jorgensen claimed he had been unjustly discharged. He had written a letter to the council but this had been discredited or denied by the engineer.

Mayor Newton said he had gone to the engineer and asked

International Dog-Sled Derby For February

In a guide to "The City of Quebec" one reads that among other things Quebec is celebrated for its horse races, which for more than a century were organized and kept going by the wealthy officers of the British crack regiments stationed there on garrison duty, and that the organization of the Quebec Turf Club dates back to 1789. Horse racing is still a seasonal attraction to the Ancient City. The Fall meet brings horses and racing enthusiasts from practically all over the continent, and has done for years, but the native Quebecker is inclined to enthuse more over the trotting races that take place when the snow is packed hard on the courses. Then there are horses he knows and really belong to him. Horses from "way back", perhaps.

One has only to attend a trotting meet in Quebec to know just how much of the true sporting spirit is inherent in the French-Canadian. It is not always the one who has placed most money that is the most vociferous as the trotting nags near the post. Racing is in their blood. They excitedly shout their favorites name, and wave their arms for its encouragement, and if it wins,—all right. If not,—all right, it's a darn good horse, anyway. It is perhaps the enthusiasm for the race shown by the people of Quebec that is responsible for the continuance of the Eastern International Dog-Sled Derby, held annually in that city. The Derby is supported by winter sportsmen from all over the continent, and entries are made from all parts of the continent upon which snow falls to stay for the season; but without the support of the people of Quebec the event could not be the great success it is. On the three days for which the Derby is scheduled, everyone who can declare a holiday and gets as close to the starters' stand as is possible for the crowd, and when the dogs come panting home, it is not so much the visitor at the Chateau as it is Jean Baptiste of Quebec who cheers them in.

This season's Eastern International Dog-Sled Derby has been definitely scheduled to take place February 19, 20 and 21st. As in former years the distance to be covered will be 120 miles, at the rate of 40 miles more or less each day. Earl Brydges, winner of last year's Derby with the Ontario Paper Company's team, will defend his honors in the face of much competition. An American team won the gold trophy in 1922, and it is expected that several teams will try to regain it for the United States. Possibly fifteen or more teams will try to keep it from going across the border, including one of five Alaskan huskies which is being entered by two McGill students. This is headed by "Dan Jo" which led three teams to victory in three sweepstakes in the Yukon district last year.

that Jorgensen be given an opportunity and this was agreed to. What had happened after that? he asked.

Must Hit The Ball

Jorgensen said he had been told he could go to work on condition that he "hit the ball." In other words he was expected to work harder. He was a married man but he did not return to work on those conditions.

In answer to Alderman Casey witness said he had never gone to sleep on the job. He had managed to keep awake most of the time.

McRae said he had given more chances to this man than to any other.

T. Finnigan said he was removed from rock work because he was told he talked too much. He was told to get in a mudhole and this looked to him as good as being fired. He then asked for his time. McRae had said he was doing his work all right. He wanted to know if they were to be treated as convicts in prison.

R. B. Morgan said he had been told by the foreman that he was not using the shovel right. A strawboss named McKenzie had been told to stand over him and watch his work and see that he handled the tools right.

Objects to Casey

A. Coghane took exception to Ald. Casey's remarks on a former occasion about floaters. He said it was the floaters who built the railways. He came here in 1910 and again in 1914 and he had worked on the tar when married men would not do it. Now the married men came into town after making big wages all summer and asked that the single men should quit and let them go to work. If they had depended on the men who were hollering their heads off, the streets here would still be planked. He claimed that Casey was getting hostile and a squabble between them ensued. He said he had worked under McRae for nine months and the foreman had never said anything to him. He had worked for the city for fifty cents an hour when the other men were getting six bits outside.

John Jackson, a powderman;

Dan Lidstone, a teamster; P. Wingham, a shovel man; Thos. Wilson, Alfred Neilson, Alex. McKenzie, straw bosses; James Hadden, a truck driver, all gave evidence favorable to the foreman, whom they said they had nothing against. He did not interfere with a man as long as he did a good day's work.

Foreman Questioned

Jack McRae then was questioned by Alderman Casey and he told in detail about the work. He followed out the policy laid down by the city. Married men with families were hard to get in the summer. He often had to take single men. It was difficult to break in men, especially when they did not speak English. Most of the men who applied for work said they were married and he had no way of finding out. Now the married men were given a slip by the engineer but they could not all get work. He had always given work to men brought to him by Alderman Casey. He told of having sent a man to George Casey telling him his word went a long way in getting employment. He had to get a fair day's work for a fair day's pay. If the men were loafing on the job the taxpayers complained that he, the foreman, was not doing his work.

SHARKS TEETH STAND RAVAGES OF CENTURIES

LONDON, Dec. 11. — Shark's teeth and fossils, believed to belong to a period of at least 10,000 years ago, have been found in a 1,400 foot well at Virginia Water, near Windsor. The discovery bears out the supposition that at one time the British Isles were inundated and that they were formed by the changing of the Gulf Stream.

HE SURE FELT MEAN BUT MENDED HIS WAYS

Said a well known local man the other day "Well, Sir, the meanest feeling I ever had come over me was last Christmas morning. I had passed up the Christmas card idea entirely and of course was deluged with all sorts of lovely Christmas greetings from relatives and old friends. And there, I hadn't sent out a single one. I thought then if everyone had been like myself a lot of real joy would have been lost. I determined to see that nothing of the sort occurs this Christmas. I am going to dispense sunshine on the "glad morn" as well as receive it. granted and other matters for the benefit of the industry had been considered.
"I am proud," concluded Mr. Meagher "to represent the men of the Union in Prince Rupert and will continue to fight for their cause. There is another candidate this year for the position I fill in the Union and, if I am defeated, I can only hope that my successor will do his duty as I have tried to do."

James Coombs

This unusual occurrence where the fishermen themselves were the guests of the fish handling interests, James Coombs stated, was fully appreciated by the members of the Union. It was, as it were, a gathering where man and master were brought together to converse and he thought it could do no harm. He hoped that such affairs in the future would take place more frequently than in the past.

were called into consultation by both Canadian and American authorities whenever important matters affecting the fisheries were being dealt with. The Association received marked consideration and respect from the officials of both governments.

The Union had been instrumental in obtaining through Fred Stork, the local member of parliament and the department of marine and fisheries, an order-in-council passed making it necessary that no cull fish could be marketed except with the knowledge and consent of the fishermen owning it. The Union had requested that the 2c duty on Canadian halibut and the 1c duty on American be removed or remedied so that fish of both American and Canadian fishermen could be sold on an equal basis. The close season, which the Union advocated, had been fishing industry on the Pacific Coast from the time the New England Co., operated the one and only boat until the present day. "It is wonderful where the fish goes and the money comes from," he said.

Not all Flowery

"Day after day," said Mr. Coombs, "we read about the great trips and the money made by the fishermen. However, one might remember that it is only the big trips that are talked about—not the many times that a man goes out and does not make a single cent. I want to tell you this fishing industry, as far as the fishermen is concerned, is not as flowery as it is cracked up to be. This year it is true some men may have made $1,000 but I think I am safe in saying that the average has not been over $2,000 at the outside. When you take into consideration the money investment that is required, it is quite a gamble.

"In my experience, I have fished from Vancouver Island to Cape Nome and I have met many a stiff breeze which I more than once thought would be my last. It is a hard, rough life but it is robust and healthy and I am glad to throw my lot with the fishermen. While you people stay safe ashore on your piles and concrete foundation, you might sometimes remember that we have only a small boat under us and, sometimes, we don't come back."

George Bushby

George G. Bushby, in his characteristic breezy and optimistic manner, said he had been interested in halibut fishing since it was started on the Pacific coast and he had a great and deep admiration for the fishermen. They were not only fishermen but seamen, riggers and carpenters. At first it had been considered a terrible distance to go from Vancouver to Hecate Straits. Now the fishermen were going to Nome and the Arctic circle. Ashore they were quiet and matter-of-fact individuals. One had to go to sea with them to find out what they really went through. "Why, their experiences would make your very hair stand on end and, if any of us went through them, there would be countless columns about it" (continued on page 8, col. 5)
