U. S. BASEBALL SCANDAL CAUSES FURORE

VANCOUVER POLICE COMMISSIONERS ORDER CLEANUP FOLLOWING MURDER

Sensation Caused by Baseball Scandal in Which Attempt Was Made to Bribe Philadelphian

World Series Will go on, Commissioner Landis Says, Although Managers Would Cancel Games This Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A baseball scandal that threatened to cause the cancellation of the world series has just been disclosed and has caused a sensation throughout the United States, shaking the faith of the fans in the integrity of the men who are playing and casting suspicion on everyone.

Commissioner Landis declares that the big games will go on despite the fact that baseball has been shaken to the foundation by the disclosure growing out of an attempt of Jimmy O'Connell, the New York outfielder, to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, in the game that decided the National League pennant race for the Giants.

Ben Johnson, president of the American League and president Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Club, asserted that the series ought to be called off as a result of the scandal.

Commissioner Landis, however, said last night there was a clear case of bribery and it proved abortive. "The guilty men have been punished so why call the series off?"

O'Connell has been banished from the game for all time together with Casey Dolan, the Giants' coach. The latter was accused of instigating the bribery plot.

MARTIN CALLED FOR BY CROWDS

Former Head of Flying Squadron Was Object of Pandemonium of Cheering

SEATTLE, Oct. 3.—Major Frederick L. Martin, first commander of the United States world flyers, was given the biggest ovation of the day marking the successful conclusion of the flight here on Sunday. When the machines swooped on to Sand Point field, Major Martin was the first to rush out and grasp the hand of Lieut. Lowell Smith. When the flyers took the reception stand, there were cries of "Martin, Martin, we want Martin." The major then took his place and high broke down as he uttered words of congratulation for his more successful comrades. Thereupon the crowds joined in a pandemonium of cheers for the former commander.

Lett, industrial and colonization agent of the Canadian National Railways, that the Big Bay Lumber Company's exhibit, which won the gold medal at the recent exhibition be shipped intact to Winnipeg for exhibition purposes, was received in a wire to Harold McEwen, divisional freight agent, yesterday. COLD STORAGE STRIKE OVER

Men at Work This Morning Following Meeting Last Night

Following the decision of the Fish Packers' Union last night to return to work under a new agreement with the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. respecting grievances, the strike which has been in progress since the end of last week was concluded this morning and the halibut handling business at this port is today back to normal again.

The fish packers have agreed to give the company 30 days' notice in future in the event of their desire to stop work owing to any grievance arising. The former wage agreement stands, if not having been involved in this dispute.

The men returned to work this morning under this agreement. The three men, over whom the trouble started, agreed to pay their dues and rejoin the Union and the Union members have decided to work with them.

T. H. Johnson, manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., in making an official statement this morning, stated that the strike was largely settled through the good offices of two of the company engineers, Jack Boddie and A. A. McEwen, who, on their own initiative, interviewed the Fish Packers' Union, discussing the situation fully. Their efforts, after much discussion and several votes had been taken, resulted in the agreement being adopted.

JAP WOMEN ARE COMING

During Past Five Months 139 Entered Country and 101 Men

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—Immigration of Japanese women, which has been the subject of negotiations between Canadian and Japanese governments, appears to again be on the increase. RECIPROCITY WITH AUSTRALIA PASSES IN COMMONWEALTH

MELBOURNE, Oct. 3.—The Australian Parliament yesterday passed the Australian-Canadian reciprocal tariff bill, which it is anticipated will result in a considerable increase in trade between the Commonwealth and the Dominion of Canada.

Mr. Cassels, who was 102 last March, came from Ireland when he was only seven years old. Mr. Cassels is seen with his great-granddaughter.

Cleanup is Ordered for Vancouver Following the Murder Chinese Student

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—Gambling must be stopped in Chinatown, the selling of narcotics must cease, long activities must be curbed so that the fear for safety of life and limb may be removed, the sale of liquor in chop suey houses and blind pigs must be suppressed and the civic bylaws be rigorously enforced, according to the orders of the Police Commission.

"Conditions culminating with the assassination of David Lew have become intolerable in the Chinese quarter," declared Mayor Owen.

"There has got to be a cleanup, a real one. I don't intend to be satisfied with any half way measure."

Other commissioners agreed. Commissioner McPherson demanded further action to bring to justice the promoters of the B.C. Veterans football competition, saying "barefaced theft from the people must be punished."

REGRETS EXPRESSED BY ROTARY CLUB AT LOSING A GOOD MEMBER

President W. T. Kergin Refers to Loss About to be Sustained Through Stuart MacLeod, Leaving City

At the Rotary Club dinner last night at which the Gyro Club members were entertained, President Kergin of the Rotary Club referred to the fact that before the next meeting one of their valued members—Stuart MacLeod—would have left the city to take up his duties in Eastern Canada. Not only his fellow members of the Rotary Club but citizens generally would regret his departure. He asked that the gathering express its esteem for Mr. MacLeod in the usual manner. This was done with a rousing round of applause. Mr. MacLeod replied briefly stating that it was with much regret he was leaving Prince Rupert. He would always have a warm spot for the city in his heart and he hoped that it would not be too long before he might come West again to see the many friends he had made.

SHANKS THE BARBER SAYS BOOTLEGGER SUPREME IN NORTH

J. A. Shanks, the barber who recently spent some weeks at Stewart and later worked in Jack Keefer's barber shop during the fair and for a short time after, has been telling the people of Victoria what a wicked country the north is. According to a despatch from Victoria to the Vancouver province he says:

"In practically all the territory of our province which lies north and east of Prince Rupert, the bootlegger is supreme. He or she, whichever the case may be, and there are as many of one sex as the other, carry their heads mighty high, and follow their illegal pursuit without fear of law or regard for public opinion. They put on the same airs, and are received in the same society, as any other merchant or banker. In fact, it is frequent to find the leading businessman and the most influential bootlegger one and the same person."

Irish Boundary Bill Passes the British Commons but Government Likely to be Defeated Wednesday

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Political gossip predicts an early general election here. It is believed that the Government is likely to be defeated on a vote of censure next Wednesday on the question of the Russian treaty.

Opinions differ a great deal as to what will be the outcome of the election. There are many who prophesy with Winston Churchill that the Liberals or middle party will be practically wiped out and that the real fight will be between Conservative and Labor forces. Another shade of opinion sees little hope for a return of Conservative administration but thinks Liberalism will be dominant.

VANCOUVER IS AGAINST BEER

Majority Alters Complexion of Case in Legislature at Coming Session

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—The final counting of the beer plebiscite ballots in Vancouver city seemingly putting the city in the dry column changes the complexion of the returns to the Legislature. With Vancouver definitely dry twenty-two constituencies will be in favor of beer and 18 against but there will be 26 members representing dry ridings and 22 wet.

The change in the complexion of Vancouver is the result of the discovery of an error on the part of the returning officer in transposing eight "no" votes with 58 "yes" votes so that it seemed as if there was a vote for beer by the glass when as a matter of fact the majority was against it.

Fight Is On Between Vancouver Dailies.

There is a big newspaper war on between the Vancouver Evening Sun and the Vancouver Star, both published in the afternoon. The Star is the paper that was purchased recently by General Victor Odlum in conjunction with his father, Professor Odlum.

The Sun is the evening edition of the morning paper that has been published in Vancouver for a number of years.

Premier Tells How He Would Reform Senate.

Premier Mackenzie King told his audience at Fort William that he would reform the Senate by making it possible to pass a measure over its head after it had been passed by the Commons and rejected by the Senate twice.

That is similar to the law passed a few years ago in Great Britain, where the House of Lords was the stumbling block to British legislation for many years.

The change suggested by Mackenzie King is better than nothing but what many would like to see would be the Senate abolished altogether.

Protocol Is Adopted.

The protocol has been adopted by the Assembly of the League of Nations. Its adoption does not make it law until it is adopted by the individual nations concerned.

From the meagre despatches that have come through in regard to the protocol it would seem as if it is a defensive alliance to which every nation except the United States will give allegiance.

A Crash of Quiet!

"And then—quiet crashed in," said a soldier, describing the sudden stillness in the trenches when gunfire ceased on Armistice Day, 1918.

Similarly, when Remington Noiseless typewriters are first installed in offices accustomed to the rattle and bang of old fashioned machines, the quietness startles.

But it does more than startle—it delights both business executives and stenographers and enables them to do more work with less fatigue.

RE-WRITE CAREFULLY AND WATCH THE METRE

Verses Are Sometimes Carelessly Compiled and Not Revised

Some contributors to the verse competition do not carefully revise their verses and re-write them. They are sent in without that care which ought to be given. On the other hand some contributors have carefully typed their verses or written them very neatly with a pen.

The metre is also something that should receive attention. As will be noticed, some of the verses are very ragged in their metre and rhythm. It is well to remember that rhythm as well as rhyme is necessary.

The Elusive Duck

"Bang" said the gun, "Quack" said the duck, "Dang" said the hunter, That's just my luck.

The Seagull

What so glorious to me As the gull winging free Where the wild waters roar 'Gainst our isle's rocky shore; Or at rest on the breast Of the wave it loves best, When the winds lie asleep Harbored safe on the deep.

The Bull Frog

Hark, I hear the bull frog singing O'er in yonder slough. Hark, I hear his voice aringing Every note so true.

He sings at morn, he sings at night, He sings at noon with all his might, His voice comes ringing through the trees From early spring until the freeze.

If the bull frog could not sing, Just think what we should miss, Of all the singers, he's the king In this old world of bliss.

Two Little Birds

Two little birds were discussing The topics of the day; Do you think that you will migrate this year, said one, Or in Prince Rupert stay.

The other little bird said with a shake of his head,

'Twould be folly to go elsewhere, For other little birds have gone away, And are just wishing they were in Rupert today. For great possibilities are coming this way, So in Prince Rupert I think I will stay.

Erotic

The Indians say that long ago, An eagle mated with a raven. Quite a mesalliance I know, And I don't hold with such behavior. The offspring of the amorous pair Were bound to be unique, you'll say, But they are birds by no means rare. The idle, senseless, chattering jay.

The verse must have to do with some form of animal life such as a bird, fish, animal, insect or germ. It may take any form desired such as an ode, a quatrain or even the popular limerick. Three prizes will be offered. $5 for first, $3 for second and $2 for third.

The verses will be published as submitted but the name of the author will be reserved to be used only in case of his winning a prize.

The verse should be neatly written on one side of the paper only and addressed to "Competition Editor," Daily News. No manuscripts will be returned.

The big professional baseball classic of the year, the World's Series, will open tomorrow with the Washington Senators at home against the New York Giants. While the Senators have been the favorites to win, the stock of the Giants has risen this week with the announcement by Manager McGraw that he expects to have Frank Frisch second baseman captain of the team, and Heinie Groh, his veteran third baseman, in shape to play after their recent injuries. The second game will also be played at Washington and the third and fourth at New York. If more than four games are required to decide the series, they will be turned about at Washington and New York respectively. The first four victories will decide.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who nearly won the National League baseball pennant this year, will play an exhibition game in Vancouver on October 23 according to announcement made in that city by Bob Brown. Providing the amateur union leaders are willing, Hammond Cedars, B.C. champions, will be sent up against the Dodgers. Piloted by Jack Fournier, leading first baseman in the National, and accompanied by Reuther, Dazzy, Vance, and the constellation of stars who almost made the grade in the senior league this year, the Robins are touring the country, and will reach Seattle on October 21. They will play there one day, then jump north

IN ICELAND

Darkness Prevails for Many Months; Growing Period
Three Months

In Iceland for three months of the year it is continuously light. For about two months of the year there are alternate periods of light and day and for seven months darkness prevails. The annual growing period in Iceland averages about three months.

The people of Iceland subsist principally on salt mutton, dried fish and pea-flour cakes with the addition of kelp. During the long period of darkness, the average Icelander studies by the light principally of fish oil lamps. It is interesting to note that the records of the universities of the world show a very large percentage of honor men among the Icelander students. This is due to the fact that the long periods of darkness are conducive to study. The Icelander has a natural aptitude for languages.

Whaling Port
Reykjavik is the chief city in Iceland. It has the modern facilities of electric lighting and similar conveniences. It is the most important whaling port in the world. This community of 15,000 inhabitants is the capital of Iceland.

Throughout the 1050 years of Iceland's occupancy by people of European extraction, it has been practically a country without cities. Life has centered in the scattered farmsteads, many of which today are feudal establishments, sufficient to themselves. The characteristic farm buildings are encased in sod and appear to be set partly in the ground. No grain can be grown because of the short growing season. The farmers raise turnips and potatoes, but give most of their attention to hay and their herds of cattle and ponies and their flocks of sheep. Fishing is carried on along the coasts. Another industry of importance is the collection of eiderdown from the nests of the eider duck.

During Iceland's long townless period Reykjavik was a tiny fishing village and local trading centre. When it began growing the lack of timber in Iceland was made good by the use of corrugated sheet iron. Many substantial buildings have arisen recently, including the large stone House of Parliament. Tied down for centuries by galling trade monopoly laws, Iceland has won almost complete independence in recent years under what amounts to a voluntary and limited partnership.

Hot Springs
Reykjavik means smoking creek. As in many parts of volcanic Iceland, there are hot springs near the city. A characteristic sight in the Iceland capital is the procession of women carrying tubs and clothes going to and from this natural laundry.

IN THE CONCRETE

The Professor was putting his finishing touches to his new concrete pathway. Tommy, age six, had been watching the proceedings with great interest, and at length, deeming the time right for trial, started to cross before the mixture had time to dry. When the Professor displayed his annoyance, a passer-by observed: "Why, Professor, I thought you liked children." "I like them all right in the abstract," the Professor replied, "but not in the concrete." — Yorkshire Post.

SOMETHING LIKE A BAND

Prince Henry is maintaining his reputation as the humorist of the Royal family (writes a correspondent of the Daily Express).

I hear of a joke he made while he was on manoeuvres recently with his regiment, the 10th Hussars. He was telling a group of officers during a brief rest of a jazz band he had heard somewhere or other. "When it is in full blast," he remarked, "you could not tell whether it was playing Wagner or Aston Villa."

GYROS GUESTS ROTARY CLUB

Junior Service Club Entertained

Discuss Possible
Program

ATHLETIC CLUB NEEDED

Speaker Mention Possibility of Two Bodies Uniting Efforts to Attain Object

Members of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club were guests of the Rotary Club at a well attended and enthusiastic get-together banquet held last evening in the St. Regis Cafe. The principal item on the program was a discussion between speakers of both organizations. Many suggestions were made and plans submitted as to how objectives might be carried out. The establishment of an athletic club or gymnasium in the city was advocated by the most of the speakers and was approved by others. Another suggestion meeting with favor was that something in the nature of a community council should be formed to take charge of the raising of funds for various public undertakings which citizens were being called upon continually to contribute to. The meeting was presided over by Dr. W. T. Kergin, president of the Rotary Club.

Joe Greer, chairman of the Gyro Club's playground committee, was the first speaker of the evening. Pointing out that his suggestions should be taken as personal ones not emanating officially from the Gyro Club, Mr. Greer stated that it was altogether likely that the Gyro Club during its second year which was just commencing would decide to confine with its playground program which had already been started. He also suggested that the establishment of a bowling green in the city was a matter that might well be considered.

The thing that Mr. Greer thought was badly needed here, however, was something in the nature of an athletic club for the children as well as the grown-ups. A building for the purpose might, he thought, be obtained. It would be necessary to fit it out and provide for instruction and supervision. Such a project as this, Mr. Greer felt, should receive the support of every citizen of Prince Rupert. Either or both of the service clubs should not be called upon to bear the burden of it.

A broader organization might be brought into being, the speaker suggested, being—a 100 per cent community club admitting to membership every man of Prince Rupert. Such an organization would be able to obtain assistance from authorities such as the city council. The project, he suggested, Mr. Greer said, might cost $5,000 or $6,000 to establish and $2,000 or $3,000 annually to maintain. It should and would, he thought, be supported by the public at large as all people would benefit therefrom. Mr. Greer expanded on the idea of the community club and felt that it might take charge of much work which, now in the hands of various organizations individually, naturally caused duplication of effort and expense. It had been estimated that in the past 18 months something like $41,000 had been raised from the public of the city for various causes. If the raising of such money came under the jurisdiction of a community service club, a good deal of this might be saved and there would not be at least so many separate demands.

Need of Club

M. P. McCaffery, the first Rotary Club speaker, drew attention to the many efforts that had been made to obtain business advantage for Prince Rupert. A point that he thought had been lost sight of was the making of the city a better place in which to live in and raise families. Mr. Greer had suggested that a building be obtained for athletic purposes. He would go one better in suggesting that a building which would be a credit to the city be erected. The proposition might be a little too large for the Rotary or Gyro Clubs individually but he was certain that if the two organizations get together it could be done. With the two clubs united behind such an effort, they would have influence at hand and, for the site at least, might well be able to call upon the railway company, the government or the city for some favorable proposition. Unity was the thing that was required and certainly there was no place where unity was more in order than in Prince Rupert. In fact the very life of the place depended upon it for there were always the outside influences to be combated. Optimism was another requisite attribute here. There was neither cause nor room for pessimists.

A Little Ambitious

E. A. Mann, director of the Gyro Club, was not in favor of an amalgamation that would cause individual effort to be lost. Though he was in favor of the Rotary and Gyro Clubs joining in achieving some such object as was suggested, he thought that competition between the two organizations towards achieving that objective should be fostered and maintained. More effective work would then be done. He was in accord with the suggestions of Mr. Greer and Mr. McCaffery. He thought, however, that their plans were a little too ambitious. He felt that something along these lines might be started immediately on perhaps a smaller scale.

S. D. Johnstone, secretary of the Rotary Club, suggested that the handicapped boys of Prince Rupert and under nourished children needed attention. The establishment of a permanent camp might or might not be conducted by the club or clubs installing it, but it should be provided. In connection with the under-nourished child, Mr. Johnstone was then of the opinion that the example of Vancouver might be followed in providing them with food.

Gyro R. F. McNaughton approved the athletic club or gymnasium idea. Some such establishment for children over 12 years of age was badly needed here.

Trail up Mountain

Rotarian D. C. McRae's proposal was the building of a trail up Mount Oldfield which would be an attraction to tourists as well as something of value for local people. He would not be in favor of calling upon any authorities for financial assist-the service clubs organize the work and, with the assistance of the citizens generally, actually do it.

In connection with the gymnasium proposal, S. W. Taylor, secretary of the Gyro Club, pointed out that the all important matter would be that of instruction and conduct. Such institutions had failed in other places because they were not conducted properly. He suggested that a community council for the control of collecting money be established instead of the

In the meantime, assistance that some steps be taken to prevent the retrograde movement of boys. Some healthy means of diversion should be found for them to replace the temptations that they were offered at every hand in the city. He also spoke of the "back-to-school" campaign and the advantages to be obtained through the continuation of education.

In summing up the discussion of the evening, President W. T.
Kergin of the Rotary Club declared that the influences for the bringing up of boys in Prince Rupert were not as good as they were a few years ago. The discussion had brought forward the need of something being done and the two clubs would go back imbued with new ideas and impressed with the valuable work that might be done by them.

The program of speeches, which was punctuated with community singing and selections by an orchestra consisting of James L. Lee, G. A. Woodland and W.
Vaughan Davies, was followed by a bridge tournament in which the Rotarians won over the Gyros by an aggregate score of 1280 to 1180.

Before the meeting adjourned with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," President Milton Gonzales of the Gyro Club expressed on behalf of the Gyros, appreciation for the most enjoyable and valuable evening that had been spent as the guests of the Rotary Club. The discussion, he felt sure, would be productive of tangible results. The Gyro Club would go back with many good suggestions to cogitate over and possibly co-operate later with the Rotary Club in carrying out.

COMMISSIONER COMING HERE

Hopkinson, Now in Seattle; Consul Wakefield Speaks of Halibut Close Season

General satisfaction is felt by officials of the United States Treasury and State departments that the international halibut close season treaty is at last going into effect. A. E. Wakefield, United States consul here, who is just back from a trip East which included a visit to Washington where he conferred with a number of the government officials including Charles E. Hughes, secretary of state.

Mr. Wakefield, who has been away a month, visited his native state of Maine and then proceeded to Washington by way of Portland, Boston and New York at each of which cities he had occasion to make investigations into the salmon and halibut business. After Washington he went to Chicago, thence to Omaha where he visited his son, Mark, to Portland where another son, Lawrence, is located, and then to Bellingham where his daughter, Mrs. Moore, and son, Bartlett, are residing. Mr. Wakefield was joined at Bellingham by Mrs. Wakefield who had been visiting there.

Hopkinson Coming

Following up an announcement recently made by Fred Stork,

M.P., that a commission was coming from Washington to investigate the 2c duty placed by the United States on Canadian halibut, Mr. Wakefield said that Mr. Hopkinson, head of this commission, was now in Seattle and might be expected here very shortly. Mr. Hopkinson comes from the United States treasury department.

While in Bellingham, Mr. Wakefield met Major Martin, late commander of the United States round-the-world flight. Major Martin, still appreciative of the assistance that had been given him by local citizens and of the sympathy extended him when he was forced out of the world flight, asked to be kindly remembered to all the friends he had made in the city. Major Martin expects to leave shortly for Virginia to take a special course in aerial administration.

Business Improving

Business in the Eastern States seems to be gradually improving, Mr. Wakefield states. The corn crop in the Central States, for which some anxiety had been felt, is now perfectly safe. On the Western slope business is good and conditions are brisk in Portland and Seattle. A good year is looked for in 1925 on the entire Pacific Coast including British Columbia as well as United States.

DANCING AND DRESS BOTH ARE CHANGING

Graceful Gliding Takes Place of Syncopated Wriggling

Should the modistes who are endeavoring to revive the crinoline prove successful, we may see something in the nature of a revolution in modern dancing, for dancing has always been enormously influenced by dress, and its various phases may be traced through the feminine modes of the moment, says Kathleen O'Shannon in the Glasgow Herald.

A few years ago when we felt victims to the jazz mania women's clothes bore testimony to its influence. The bodice descended and the skirt ascended in a wild effort to ensure freedom

GOOD NEWS FOR BUYERS OF COAL

Some fifty years ago a remarkable coal was discovered on Vancouver Island. This coal caused a sensation at the time and quickly established a reputation for greatest heat, very little ash, no clinker or rock. It was called Wellington coal. Many other mines have since been opened on the Island and the name "Wellington" has been given to them. But the public should not be confused. "Nainaimo-Wellington" coal has the reputation of being the best domestic or steam coal mined on Vancouver Island. The mine has an output of 3,000 tons per day which is surely satisfactory evidence as to its quality.

The public is cautioned against substitution and in order to make sure that they get the real "Nainaimo-Wellington" coal they should order direct from Albert & McCaffery, Ltd. who are sole agents for this coal in Prince Rupert. Their phone numbers are 116 and 564.

You can buy a ton or a sack. We have our own trucks and team and can give prompt service.

SHOULD HELP CANADA TO ATTAIN GREATNESS

Could Have Bought Whole West For a Million Dollars a Few Years Ago

C. A. Magrath, who first saw Edmonton forty-five years ago told the audience that he addressed here the other day that, when he came to the West, a million dollars could probably have put a person in possession of all the developed wealth that lay between Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountain says the Edmonton Journal. There is no exaggeration about his statement and, when such a change can take place in the life of one man who is still full of vigor, he is surely justified in sweeping aside as he did all the doubts which he has heard expressed as to the country's future. We should give up brooding about it, he maintains, and do something "to help Canada attain that greatness and that prosperity that is within her reach."

His chief need, to his mind, is a little more "intelligent plunging." The trouble with most people is that they do not plunge intelligently. When they are optimistic at all they are over-optimistic and come a cropper as a consequence, while when conditions warrant initiative, they sit back and pity themselves. One should have to look back over what has happened in the course of the western career of a man like Mr. Magrath to get a proper perspective and to follow the advice which he gives.

for the devotees of the jazz in their eccentric movements.

The wildness of the music and movements echoed itself in bizarre color schemes—reds, yellows, purples, and greens rioted in an endeavor to typify the craze of the moment.

The dances of the present time have grown out of the jazz as a graceful soft-voiced girl may develop from the hoisterous hoyden, and, like the hoyden, dancing has marked its progress by a putting up of hair and a letting down of skirts.

There is a little likeness between the sleek heads and lengthy skirts of the present dance room, and the frizzy "bobs" and abbreviated garments of the jazz, as there is between the graceful gliding that constitutes dancing now, and the syncopated wriggling of a couple of years ago.

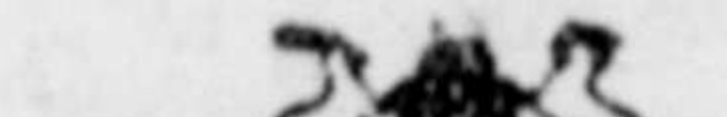

Now it seems that, with the revival of the crinoline, we may expect a return to the demure dances of our grandmothers.

Possibly corkscrew curls will once more hob to the lively music of the polka, and hooped skirts undulate gracefully through the stately steps of the minuet.

The imagination is ravished by the picture until one visualises the partners for this garden of Victorian rosebuds.

It will be interesting to see what men will do to avoid striking the anachronistic note in the ballroom. Perhaps their tailors and barbers will rise to the occasion and provide them with breeches and Dundrearies to suit the feminine environment, although it is hardly to be hoped, for man is a conservative creature.

Any radical change is anathema to him, and he is encouraged in this attitude by his tailor, who never spends sleepless nights worrying out new designs, as the fashionable dressmaker is compelled to do. No, it is extremely unlikely that man will change his style of dress, however willing he may be to adapt his method of dancing. More probably he will save himself trouble by withholding his approbation of the crinoline, and in this way destroy its charm in feminine eyes.
