Railway Problems are Discussed in Chicago by Sir Henry Thornton

Urges Small Terminals in Big Cities: Grouping of Systems and State Ownership of Lines, Mentioned

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The growth of transportation and the part played by industries in the advance of civilization were discussed by Sir Henry Thornton in an address here yesterday.

Sir Henry then went on to deal with what he considers to be a problem which is increasing in importance and in difficulty of solution—the handling of traffic in terminals.

Big Terminals Inefficient From the point of view of passenger traffic I seriously question the economy and the efficiency of the great and expensive passenger stations which adorn many of our large cities.

As each city increases in size the malady becomes more aggravated until it becomes well nigh insufferable. The real solution it seems to me, lies in the provision of a number of small passenger stations serving various parts of the business and shopping district of our large cities.

Amalgamating Systems The question of the advisability of enlarging the present great railway system of the United States by the acquisition of or amalgamation with smaller existing lines was next dealt with by Sir Henry, who deprecated the tendency.

The speaker first outlined the extent which led to the grouping of the British railways into four great systems and to the formation of the Canadian National Railways.

ALL CANADIAN ROUTE FOR CARRYING GRAIN

United States railways and through United States canals to United States ports on the Atlantic. The real "all Canadian" route is the westward route. Grain shipped from Alberta to Vancouver or Prince Rupert does not leave Canadian territory until it is aboard ship, and all the expenses incidental to handling it go into Canadian pockets. The western route has been opposed on the ground that it diverts traffic from eastern Canadian railways and ports. It does nothing of the kind. It keeps in Canada a share of the trade which would otherwise go to United States railways, canals and ports.

The eastern Canadian channels and ports have quite all they can do to handle the one-third of the eastward-going grain that passes through them. Were it not for the consent of our neighbors to the passage of Canadian grain through their country there would be a condition of perpetual blockade all the way from Winnipeg to Halifax.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT SMITHERS TUESDAY

SMITHERS, Oct. 24.—An event that will be long remembered by those attending was the complimentary banquet tendered to W. S. Henry on Tuesday evening by a number of his friends on the occasion of his birthday.

The affair opened with a dinner at which some thirty guests were seated, some of them more or less curious as to the eating qualities of some of the delicacies that burdened the long table from end to end, but as soon as the word, "all set" had been given, this curiosity was appeased. All pronounced the cooking really first class, and numerous compliments were passed around to the various chefs who had prepared the eatables and drinkables, and who were now seated around the table as hosts of the evening.

Billie being a bachelor it was considered in keeping that this should be a stag party and that the dinner should be prepared entirely by the hosts. These arrangements were carried out and all enjoyed the repast from grouse mulligan to dainty pastry and from soup to punch. When the candles on the birthday cake were lighted and counted it was found that there were only sixty-eight. Being taken to task about this grave blunder the pastry chef immediately produced another cake with seventy-four candles, which was declared as satisfactory by the guest of honor.

The toast master, J. Mason Adams, kept things going at a lively pitch by interspersing with the speech-making and story telling an impromptu program of songs and dances. The Gray Orchestra was also in attendance to discourse music during the evening.

Before the party came to an end in the wee small hours, Olaf Hanson, on behalf of those present, presented to Mr. Henry a set of pipes and extended best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

The Dominion Day cup, which was won this year by the Great War Veterans' football team, will be presented to that team by George Hill, president of the Prince Rupert Football Association, at the smoking concert to be held this evening in the G.W.V.A. club rooms. Also the Exhibition cup, which was won by Prince Rupert in competition by Anyoo and Ocean Falls last month, will be officially presented to the captain of the Prince Rupert team William Murray, who was a leading member of the G.W.V.A. team during the season. A number of prizes for billiard and cribbage tournaments, which have been in progress for some time at the Veterans' Club, will also be presented.

What was to have been a 12-round fight for the lightweight championship of Canada between Joe Bailey of Victoria and Tom Moore of Nanaimo at Nanaimo was stopped last week in the sixth round by Sheriff Trawford after Moore had taken the count of seven and then came to his feet again to lean against the ropes apparently dazed and all but out. The referee awarded the decision to Bailey. Harry Benson of Victoria knocked out Harry Anderson of Vancouver in the first round of the first preliminary and McPhee of Victoria knocked out Cokermonth of Nanaimo in the second of the second.

Public Danger

Caught Disease On the HANDS!

Skin disease threatens us every day. Invisible germs of blood-poison, eczema, etc., are waiting to infect the least cut or sore place. The money you use carries germs—you get them on the handles, rails and straps of the trains and street cars, and in a score of other ways.

Solely through Zam-buk, Mr. Henry C. Davis, of South 17th Street, Kansas City, U.S.A., has just escaped a virulent type of eczema, contracted, he suspects, through use of public towels.

"I had medical advice," he says, "tried in addition all sorts of so-called eczema remedies, without finding the hoped for relief. Zam-buk treatment soon gave positive results. It took away the painful irritation and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores."

CLOSE CALL OF PRINCE JOHN

Passengers Had Nervous and Unpleasant Time Drifting up Coast on Wednesday

According to passengers who were aboard the vessel at the time, the steamer Prince John came nearer to disaster last Wednesday when she was disabled at Browning Entrance than was generally believed. It was 7 o'clock in the morning when the oil pump gave out and it was close to five in the afternoon when the vessel finally got under way again. The water at the point where the trouble arose and the steamer was forced to stop was very deep but the anchor, with a long line, finally touched bottom. It did not hold, however, and one passenger yesterday afternoon said that the vessel drifted forty miles from the north end of Banks Island to Stephens Island and, if the machinery had not been started when it was, the ship very soon might have been ashore. There was a strong southeast wind and the boat wallowed all day in the trough of mountainous seas.

All in all, it was not a very pleasant trip for the passage across Beate Straits Tuesday night had also been very rough. Most everybody was seasick and especially below in the steerage, where there were 65 Chinamen, were things uncomfortable. Capt. Neil McLean and his officers, navigators of long experience in the oft-times troublous waters between here and the Queen Charlotte Islands, retained their "sang-froid" but the passengers were apparently nervous and it was with some relief that the ship was brought into port at midnight Wednesday and they were able to disembark and tell all and sundry that it was a trip the like of which they would not care to experience again.

While the fishing and whaling season is pretty well over on the Queen Charlotte Islands, logging is still active and even expanding slightly.

The clam and crab cannery of the Langara Fishing & Packing Co. at Massett continues to operate in full swing. The Watun River salmon cannery is closed. Preparations are being made to close both the whaling stations at Naden and Rose Harbor for the winter.

ROTARY CLUB LOSES MEMBER

Members Express Sense of Loss in Death of Archbishop Du Vernet

That the loss to the Rotary Club, to the Anglican Church, to the city and to the whole of Canada in the death of Archbishop Du Vernet is an irreparable one was the sentiment expressed in addresses delivered at the Rotary luncheon yesterday afternoon, the whole of the time of the speakers being devoted to eulogies of the life and work of the member who had just laid down his work.

President W. T. Kergin spoke feelingly of the loss sustained. Some men shorn of their position and wealth present a sorry spectacle; others stood out more strongly. Such a one was Archbishop Du Vernet. He fulfilled in his own life the Rotary motto, "Service not self."

Dr. H. R. Grant, in moving a vote of condolence to Mrs. Du Vernet and family, asked the indulgence of the club while he spoke a few words about his old friend, the Archbishop. He was held high in the esteem of every member. No words of his could adequately express the regard in which their late member had been held in the club, in the community and throughout Canada. Some people were esteemed and not loved; others were loved and not esteemed. However, the Archbishop had been both loved and esteemed.

Broad Catholicity

Archbishop Du Vernet had started out in life with a splendid mental equipment, and he had cultivated it. The thinkers of the world were those who had influenced the ages. The Archbishop appealed to them because of his broad catholicity, recognition of the fact that every church should be given its quota of religious helpfulness. He was broad in his sympathies and had a special interest in the community to which he belonged.

Dr. Grant spoke of the co-operative work with his own church where there was no overlapping in the mission fields. The negotiations in regard to this had been carried on between the Archbishop, the Presbyterian superintendent of missions and himself and always in a most friendly spirit.

As a churchman Dr. Grant said the loss was great for it must have been a great help to the young clergy of the diocese to have a man to whom they could look for sympathy who would be always helpful.

Psychological Studies

The speaker then mentioned the studies in psychology of the member who had gone and of the effort made to support the faith of those who needed it as a result of those studies. No one was better fitted for that work. He was a good man and all admired him. His character shone as never before during the last great fight with death.

Fred Stork in seconding the resolution mentioned that this was the first break in the ranks of the club and in it they lost one of their best and brightest minds. He was one of their select men and was so regarded in the community. He had met the Archbishop sixteen years ago, one of the first he met in Prince Rupert and from year to year since that his estimate of him and admiration for his character had increased. His kindness and courtesy appealed more and more. The club and the community had lost its leading mind. To the family he wished to extend every sympathy.

RISTOTLE WAS THE FATHER OF SCIENCE

And he said "Nature makes nothing without a purpose." Man has been given and has taken a command over nature which on the whole has been for the benefit of the human race. He has not yet been able to find a beneficial use for every natural thing but he has made wonderful progress in subduing the earth and making modern life one of comparative ease and comfort. Probably the most important factor in making our lives comfortable today is an inheritance from nature, namely, coal. And man in his restless desire to discover the best has brought to the market Nanaimo-Wellington coal which is now recognized to be the best obtainable. This coal has some wonderful qualities—freedom from clinkers and rock—small ash deposit and powerful, lasting heat—equally economical in furnace, range or fireplace.

This coal is obtainable only at Albert & McCaffery's and the public will be well advised in order to make sure they secure Nanaimo-Wellington coal and not a substitute to phone their orders direct to this firm. Their phone numbers are 116 and 564.
