HALL IS ACQUITTED

Second of Ocean Falls Cases Ends; Jury Disagrees in Third

George Hall, charged in connection with the assault of Provincial Constable Collins, at Ocean Falls on August 20, was acquitted at the Supreme Court Assizes this afternoon. The jury disagreed in the case of Fred Bremer, similarly charged. Court opened on the case about 10:30 and the following jury were empannelled: G. W. Nickerson (foreman), Jack Judge, W. Rance, P. J. Ryan, D. McD. Hunter, J. A. Allan, W. O. Vigor, Stanley Smith, R. Arthur, W. J. Greer, Malcolm McLeod and W. W. Wright. After the taking of evidence and the argument of counsel had been finished, the jury left the court room at 12:40 and returned with its finding at 1:30. Court was then adjourned until three o'clock this afternoon when Jack MacDonald will be sentenced and the civil and divorce cases proceeded with.

The following called as jurors were stood aside at the instance of E. F. Jones, crown prosecutor: F. Aldridge, F. Scadden, Ben Lipsin, F. W. Wesch, C. K. Treberg and James Jobour.

H. Gastillon, counsel for the defence, challenged the following: S. Darton, T. W. Silversides, Mrs. Martha Leek, John Bulzer, G. C. Walker, George Leek, Steve King and J. Bent.

The Evidence

The witnesses for the crown were Constable Collins, G. J. Fourchalk, night cook at the Ocean Falls Hotel; Wilfrid Owen, sawmill laborer, and Sam Zirlich, engineer. The only witnesses for the defence were the two accused. Their defence was by alibi.

Constable Collins positively identified the two accused as the men who had assisted Jack MacDonald in assaulting him. They held his arms while MacDonald pummelled him. According to the night cook's testimony, Owen's evidence was that an excited man resembling Hall had come to a float where he was and said he had been in a fight. Zirlich was unable to identify either of the two accused as the men who had been with MacDonald. Evidence showed that the assault had occurred in a poorly lighted lane.

Bremer, on taking the stand, denied having been the man in the alley with MacDonald. Under cross-examination, Bremer admitted having come on the day in question from a bootleg camp in the same gasboat with MacDonald. The same night a bunch including witness and MacDonald had gone to a house at the point. Accused stated he knew nothing about the fight in the lane nor had he anything to do with it.

TAX COLLECTOR MUCH MALIGNED

W. E. Fisher Explains to Rotarians Some of the High Lights of System

That the tax collector is the most maligned man on earth was the opinion expressed by Walter Fisher, local collector, at the Rotary Club luncheon when he spoke to the club on taxation. He said the subject was a vexed one and the public had little information in regard to it. Taxes were collected under eleven distinct headings: Land, income, personal property, coal and coke, mines and minerals, mining claims, corporation, banks, railways, schools and in addition there was the amusement and fuel oil tax.

Mr. Fisher told of the different kinds of land tax such as wild lands, coal lands, timber lands and improved lands, all of which had to be treated separately. The duty of the assessor was to put a value on the lands of the district, consisting of over 50,000 parcels, many of which were as much as a square mile in extent.

Absurd Statements

Speaking of the absurd statements sent in by some businessmen, Mr. Fisher said he wondered how many of them could expect to get away with them. If every person paid his just tax, it was his opinion that the rate could be lowered right now.

The personal property tax of a half of one per cent was one against which people rallied but he did not see where the money was coming from if it was abolished.

The paper says that views expressed in Government circles are that the whole question of Dominion representation in London may require to be reconsidered in the light of changed conditions.

BOOTLEGGING AT VANCOUVER

Police Complain of Inability to Enforce Laws Under Present Conditions

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21.—Vancouver police complain that they are unable to effectively enforce the liquor laws because of inability to enter private premises for search purposes. They say that liquor is being sold in Vancouver illicitly by exporters who do not even pay the Dominion duty on it and in that way they defraud the government of its customs duties and the provincial government of its profit.

The plan of handling this liquor is for a vessel, large enough to meet with the requirements of the department, to load a cargo of liquor for Central America or Mexico, clear for a port in one of those countries but lie up along the coast of Vancouver Island or elsewhere and discharge the liquor into smaller craft which bring it back to Vancouver and other points where it finds a ready sale at prices less than those charged by the government.

The Dominion duty is $50 a case. The payment of this evaded, the exporters are able to sell at a cheap rate.

BOXER WAS DUMB FOR FOUR DAYS

Swing to the Chin Affected Nerve Hitherto Unknown to Science

PARIS, Nov. 21.—The plea of enthusiastic boxing fans, "Knock him speechless," was literally complied with during a bout between two lumbering heavyweights. They had been mauling and pulling each other through round after round when one accidentally caught the other on the point of the chin with a wild swing.

The one on the receiving end of the swing went down like a log. He was revived after a few minutes, but was amazed to find that he could not articulate a single word. Realizing that he had gone completely dumb he fell off into a swoon.

It was four days before the defeated boxer recovered his speech. Doctors attached to the French Boxing Federation declared that his jaw was not dislocated, but that the blow affected a nerve hitherto unknown to science. They are making a further study of the case.

BOAT OWNERS TAKE STAND

Ask For Exclusion of American Fishing Boats From Port While Duty Remains

OFFICERS ELECTED

Meeting Endorses Proposal to Fill Cow Bay Out as Far as the Bridge

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Halibut Fishing Vessel Owners' Association held in the city hall last evening, four important resolutions were passed having a bearing on the fishing industry here. It was decided to again ask the Dominion government to close the port to non-resident fishing boat owners in the event of the duty remaining may be necessary.

The musical part of the program was of high merit. There were selections by Art Fasson's orchestra, songs by Mrs. P. J. McMillan, Mrs. Fraser, and S. K. Campbell; a duet by Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Larsen; a trombone solo by Mr. Tisdall and a piano solo by Mrs. Kenny. George Munro presided.

FILL COW BAY

The third resolution was different altogether from the others, having no international significance. It asked that the Dominion government build a breakwater at or near Cow Bay for the protection of fishing boats.

The fourth resolution was an interesting one in that it showed a total change of front from the old stand of waterfront habits. It endorsed the plan for filling in Cow Bay out to the bridge, there not being a voice raised against it.

There was some discussion on each of the resolutions but each was carried unanimously when the vote was taken, following explanations. Officers for the coming year were then elected as follows:

President—John Morrison.
Vice-president—G. W. Nickeison.

Secretary-manager, H. M. Daggett.

Trustees—Dr. W. T. Kergin, George Fritz and M. F. Nickeison.

STORY TELLING WAS FEATURE OF CONCERT

Presbyterians Close Day of Bazaar With Entertainment In Church Hall

Story telling was the great feature of the concert given last night in the Presbyterian Church hall. A contest was staged in which Thomas McClymont, Dr. Grant, George Rorie, Consul Wakefield and T. H. Johnson took part. Major Taylor and H. H. Little were the judges and they decided that Mr. Johnson was the winner. One reason for the decision was that he spoke only five minutes yet never looked at his watch.

The musical part of the program was of high merit. There were selections by Art Fasson's orchestra, songs by Mrs. P. J. McMillan, Mrs. Fraser, and S. K. Campbell; a duet by Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Larsen; a trombone solo by Mr. Tisdall and a piano solo by Mrs. Kenny. George Munro presided.

FINE CHURCH BAZAAR HELD

Failed to Recover From Attacks Presbyterians Ladies' Aid Was Very Successful at Annual Affair in New Church Yesterday

CONCERT IN EVENING

The first function to be held in the new Presbyterian Church which is now nearing completion, the annual bazaar of the Ladies' Aid took place yesterday afternoon in the well appointed social hall in the basement of the edifice. The place was prettily decorated and, in addition to the bazaar attractions, the many ladies who patronized the affair were interested in inspecting the handsome premises for the first time. Financially the affair was as successful as it was socially, over 8900 having already been realized.

The bazaar was opened by Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant who also took occasion to dedicate the hall to the glory of God and the use of the congregation. The pastor read Solomon's dedicatory prayer from I Kings, Chapter viii.

With Mrs. R. M. Taylor, president of the Ladies' Aid, as general convener, those in charge of the various departments were as follows:

Fancy work—Mrs. Joe Greer, Mrs. F. W. Pearson, Mrs. William Millar and Mrs. H. R. Grant.

he heard.
Under cross examination by Mr. Jones, Miller denied having discussed with anyone the evidence he was to give. He had heard no foul language.

J. B. Mayville, boom foreman, gave evidence corroborative of Miller's. He did not hear Collins warn MacDonald that he was a police officer. The crowd was shouting at MacDonald to "jump on him." "I said 'stand back,'" said witness, "and that cost me $100."

"Who took it out of you?" asked Mr. Justice Gregory.

"Judge Hill," replied witness.
Mayville said he had not seen the gun. Under cross examination, witness said he was as sober then as he was now. He was not a heavy drinker. He had not seen MacDonald drinking nor did he hear loud talk from him. He denied that he had been drinking at Ocean Falls on Tuesday night when he had left the steamer for Prince Rupert to attend the trial.

James D. Muir gave further detailed evidence of the incident for the defence. Under cross examination, he admitted that he had met MacDonald about an hour after at the point, a couple of miles distant, where there was a sporting house. The next day he took MacDonald to work at Lutz' camp. He understood that Collins had told MacDonald he would not bother him. Mac-Donald later had said that "Collins was a pretty good fellow" having told him that he would not bother him. Witness said he had not been drinking. He had heard no bad language from MacDonald.

Accused's Story

MacDonald, called to the stand, said he was 29 years of age and had never been in trouble before.
On the night in question, after having a soft drink with a couple of fellows, he took a seat beside the wall. He got up and, feeling good at getting to town after being in the woods, lifted up the chair and set it down heavy and then went out. A stranger came up and grabbed him by the shoulder. He had not previously come into the hotel and told him to "keep hold of himself." He had never tried to break a window with his chair. Collins pulled him and struck him on the chin. Not knowing he was a constable, he struck back and knocked him down. He came up but he knocked him down again when he had come at him. Outside, he saw Collins had a revolver. He took the gun away and he (Collins) came at him with a rush. He threw down the gun without attempting to fire it.
He had no intention of shooting.
After the fight in the hotel, he (MacDonald) went down the lane with a couple of strangers. It was dark but he heard footsteps behind him and somebody hit him on the back of the head. It was the same man who had attacked him in the hotel. He (Collins) made a couple of swings with his club before he took it away from him. Then he struck Collins in the face and he beat it. It was not until two hours after the fight that he

Fight in Lane
Wilfrid Owen, sawmill employee, gave his account of the fight. About 10 o'clock he came from the bunk house to the verandah of the hotel where the fight was finishing. The taller man (MacDonald) knocked down the shorter one (Collins) and jumping astride of his neck, asked if he had had enough. The latter said "Yes" and went out, the other man following him and telling him to keep moving. Then the accused and two men went out into the lane and the shorter man came back from the street and followed them up. More blows were exchanged and Collins came out with his face covered with blood while MacDonald's hair was tousled and his face flushed. Under cross-examination, Owen said he had had a clear and unobstructed view of the fight. It was dark in the lane.

This concluded the case for the crown.

Defence Witnesses

In opening the case for the defence, Mr. Castillou stated that he intended to call the accused to tell his own story and also other by-standers to give their account of what had happened. Asked by Mr. Justice Gregory what the accuse was to be, Mr. Castillou replied self-defence.

The first witness for the defence was George Miller. He had been shooting billiards in the hotel. MacDonald was at the soft drink stand. He picked up a chair and dropped it down softly and then walked out by the verandah. He appeared as if he had been drinking but created no disturbance. Then some man (Collins) came through the pool room after him, caught him by the collar of his coat and shook him with both hands. Both men were strangers to him then and he did not know their names.
MacDonald said "Who in the Hell are you?" After Collins had pulled MacDonald to him, the latter hit Collins. MacDonald knocked Collins down on the verandah and the latter had hold of his leg. Collins got to his feet and started the fight again, this time outside the door. The next thing MacDonald had hold of Collins and they were tussling.
He saw that MacDonald had the gun in his hand. He had his arms around Collins and the gun was pointed away from the latter, saying "I don't want this thing to fight you with." MacDonald threw the gun down and Zirilich picked it up. They went up to the hotel and were fighting again.
The policeman went into the hotel first. Then they went outside. The constable had never spoken to MacDonald as far as he heard.

Under cross examination by Mr. Jones, Miller denied having whole unfortunate affair had been caused by the over-officiousness of the officer. If there was a doubt it should be given in favor of accused. He asked for the acquittal that accused was entitled to.

Mr. Jones argued that the defence had devoted its efforts not so much to proving it was a case of self-defence but that Collins had been drunk and that Mac-Donald had not known he was a police officer. Insinuations and suggestions had been resorted to thus showing the weakness of the defence. In spite of this, there was nothing in the appearance of Collins to indicate that he was a drinking man. The witnesses for the crown gave distinct evidence giving the lie to any suggestion that Collins had been under the influence of liquor. It was conclusively apparent that he was perfectly in sober senses. It was shown that he was an exceptionally good officer and a reasonable one. Accused had not given a very good explanation of why he had picked up the gun.
The jury could take the evidence of the defence for what it was worth. A police officer had been assaulted. This was not to be countenanced and it was the duty of the jury to see that justice was done.

Judge's Charge
In charging the jury, Mr. Justice Gregory concurred with the counsel in that the defence seemed more to prove that Collins was drunk than to establish self defence on the part of MacDonald. Even if the officer were drunk it was no justification for MacDonald to assault him.
There was no doubt Collins had received serious bodily injury. The fact that accused did not know that he was assaulting a police officer was no excuse for doing so.

That point might be brought up if he believed counsel in asking for an acquittal of sentence, in case of a verdict of guilty being returned.

In the case of self-defence, in more serious injuries than necessary should be inflicted.

Neither should the offensive be resorted to if retreat were possible.

It seems to me that the evidence of drunkenness of the officer is exceedingly slim," said His Lordship.

It was up to the jury to make its decision as it would in its own private affairs. If any prejudice was shown by himself

Mr. Justice Gregory warned the jury not to take this into consideration but decide the case in its own mind.

GEORGE HALL IS ACQUITTED

Bella Coola hospital where he had been a patient following the breaking of his leg in a logging accident. It was with considerable difficulty that he walked. He did not know MacDonald nor Bremer and had never seen them before. He saw the first fight between Collins and MacDonald in the hotel and had got out of the way. He knew nothing of the encounter in the lane. He was arrested in St. Paul's Hospital whether he had gone to get further treatment for his injuries. He was a returned man and had been three years in France. He had not had a drink for three months prior to the fight.

Mr. Castillon asked for dismissal on the ground that the only positive identification of either of two accused had been by Constable Collins himself. He himself was severely jarred from the previous fight. It was also dark. There was no degree of certainty that the accused men had been involved. Both absolutely denied it and he asked that they be acquitted.

Mr. Jones briefly summed up the case for the crown. Collins' evidence was clear and positive and might be taken at its face value. The jury might be reasonably certain that Bremer, at least, was guilty.

Charge to Jury

Mr. Justice Gregory complimented Mr. Jones on the brevity of his address which had adequately covered the ground. In his own charge to the jury, His Lordship pointed out that Constable Collins, under the circumstances, might have been wrong in his identification even though he felt he was telling the truth. It was dark and he (Collins), it might be assumed, was more concerned in defending himself from MacDonald than in observing who was holding him. It was, of course, up to the jury to decide if these were the men who had assisted MacDonald. The defence did not deny that Collins had been assaulted. He did not expect that it would take the jury long to reach its verdict.

On discharging Hall, after the verdict of acquittal was returned in his favor, Mr. Justice Gregory agreed that he would have come to the same decision if he had been a juror. He would not comment on the other case in which the jury had failed to agree. If there was any chance of reaching an agreement, however, he would urge the jury to further consider the case. Mr. Nickerson, the foreman, said seemed to be no chance of reaching an agreement. The jury was therupon discharged by His Lordship.

In the course of his remarks on the verdict, Mr. Justice Gregory described the attack on Collins as a wretched and unjustifiable affair. Collins had shown strength of character and bravery.

SOME BEAR

Here's a story now that beats any of those told on recent hunting expeditions. It seems that a bear was recently noticed digging worms. When he had a good supply he strung a worm on each claw of his right paw and started to fish and in half an hour had caught twenty tons.

THE SUBSTANCE AND THE SHADOW

The great objection to the pre-war timber Royalty Act of 1914 which is still on our statute books, is, that unless it is revised before January 1st, 1925, it threatens to upset completely the present relations between the people of British Columbia and the industrial force that is the principal mainstay of their prosperity.

The British Columbia lumber industry is seeking no reduction of the existing royalty rate, it is merely asking the right to carry on the great task of harvesting the timber crop of this Province and distributing it in the competitive markets of the world. The Act of 1914, unless amended, would throw the monkey wrench into this whole machinery of progress.

The 300 per cent. increase in rates it contemplates would force British Columbia lumber industry to abandon the development of the Province's timber resources, in which case the public treasury which now receives a third of its revenue from its forest lands, would not draw sufficient to pay for their maintenance. In other words, the measure would decree a huge phantom increase in forest revenue which common sense warns us is quite uncollectable. The two sides of the situation may be briefly summed up as under:

On the one hand there is a basic industry representing capital of $200,000,000 invested primarily on the security of the good will of the people of British Columbia. This industry, with an annual purchasing power of $100,000,000 has a payroll of over $50,000,000 and employs more than a fourth of the Province's male working population.

On the other hand, there is an immense mature—in some cases overmature—stand of timber which undeveloped, threatens to become a losing proposition and a charge upon the public instead of its greatest source of revenue.

A close game is expected in spite of the fact that the Elks had an easy win over the Colts while the Canucks only won by a narrow margin. The Intermediate League game will be between the Grotto and Regiment. It will be the first victory of the season for one of these two teams, both having already been beaten by the Intermediates. ### FATHER KASHEVAROFF TELLS ABOUT ALASKA

Interesting Story of How British Government Saved Town of Sitka from Massacre

Father Kashevaroff of the Russian Greek Church, Librarian and curator of the Alaska Territorial Library of Juneau, delivered a lecture of rare interest on the early peoples of Alaska and the remarkable resources of that country, before an audience composed of members of the B.C. Historical Society and others in the Girls Central School, Victoria, a few days ago. The speaker for nearly two hours held the attention of his audience with the charm of his narrative.

The 600,000 square miles of Alaskan territory with its vast coast line, which equals the circumference of the earth, was vividly and concisely portrayed, with its varied climatic zones and long hours of sunshine. The different theories of the origin of the nine races, or tribes which inhabit Alaska were explained, and though nine separate tribes with nine different languages, the persistence of certain legends in the traditions of each tribe would seem to prove them to have been at one time a single race. The totems of Alaska are borrowed from the Canadian Indians of Queen Charlotte Island, and are found in use principally among the coast tribes. A generous measure of praise was given to the early missionaries of the Greek Church.

Town with a Past

The past glories and industries of Sitka were referred to with pardonable pride. Here in 1826, the first shipyard on the Pacific was in operation, and boats came all the way from California and further south for repairs. Grain was milled at Sitka, a tannery dressed prepared hides shipped from California; tallow also from the south was made into candles and shipped for use in the Spanish missions of California. A foundry was also established and bells were cast. After Alaska was purchased from Russia by the United States for $72,000,000 there was a period when the country was governed by a single customs officer.

A thrilling story of a threatened massacre of all the white people by the Indians belongs to this period. Washington refused to consider the danger seriously and the people in desperation sent a message by the late Capt. George to the authorities in Victoria. Five days after the message reached here H.M.S. Osprey arrived at Sitka, with decks cleared for action, east anchor directly opposite the Indian village, and all forms of hostility ceased. The people of Alaska cherish a strong friendship for the Canadian government because of this prompt action.

Wonderful samples of the arts of the natives in basketry, copper, ivory, split whalebone and spruce were shown and explained by the speaker.

Prince Rupert Women Register Interest to Save Money and Lessen Work

It is a sign of the times that women should demand more authority in their homes. Not that they want all their own way but that when comfort and economy are at stake they are usually better judges than their husbands.

They are at home all day and know more about the things that go to make for the comfort of the home than the husbands who come home at night expecting everything to be just so. This is why so many Prince Rupert ladies insist on having Nanaimo-Wellington coal. They have made a study of coal and have discovered that Nanaimo-Wellington is far superior to its competitors. Very little lasts a long time. If drafts are shut off at night the fire will be there in the morning. No rock, very little ash and no slack are other points in favor of Nanaimo-Wellington.

This famous coal is sold only by Albert & McCaffery. They have their own team and trucks and assure prompt service. Order direct from them and be sure you get the only coal—Nanaimo-Wellington. Their phone numbers are 116 and 564.

Sunlight—for your Washing Machine

A WASHING machine is made to wash your clothes without rubbing or boiling—and it succeeds just in proportion to the value of the soap you use.

Sunlight Soap dissolves quickly and completely in hot water and works up into an abundant suds. This is very necessary so that its rich cleansing ingredients may search through and through the meshes of the clothes and dissolve the dirt and soil spots. Then, when rinsing comes, all dirt and soapy matter runs entirely away, leaving your clothes sweet, fresh and snowy clean.

Put half a cake of Sunlight into hot water in your machine and stir into generous suds. Put in the clothes and operate the machine—your clothes will be clean.

The pure lather of Sunlight Soap cleanses the clothes naturally, not chemically. The $5.00 Guarantee of Purity is stamped on every tablet of Sunlight Soap.

POLA NEGRI in

"LILY OF THE DUST"

The story of a woman who gave and had to fight for a fair exchange. Flashing, vibrant, lovely Pola was never so wonderful as in this photo-play, which contains a thrill, a laugh and a tear for anyone who has ever loved anybody. Daughter of a regiment; toast of a great city, dragged to the depths, the mistress of emotion runs the whole range of life and fights back for the one great love that can lift her to happiness. The fascinating love-drama of a girl who found she couldn't fight Fate. You have never seen a Pola like this one—gowned in silk, clad in rags, loving, fighting, hating. Gorgeous, glittering scenes and settings. Superb cast: Pola Negri, Ben Lyon, Noah Beery, Raymond Griffith, William J. Kelly, Jeanette Daudet and many others.
