CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS FEATURE JASPER PARK EMPIRE EXHIBITION

Labor will do Nothing to Weaken the Empire says Secretary Thomas

LONDON, Feb. 29.—Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for the colonies, speaking at a Canadian Club dinner here last night said he believed when Labor eventually laid down the reins of office they would be able to say that they had done nothing to weaken the prestige of the Empire generally. The British commonwealth embraced vastly more than merely British people. Great Britain to many was merely a source of ideals and institutions.

British citizenship was no empty form today, declared the Labor minister, and he hoped it would ever remain the greatest factor of peace in the world.

Speaking of the Irish question, Mr. Thomas said the Irish differences could not be settled by an outside body. The boundary question should be settled by Irishmen themselves at a round table conference.

Foreign Minister Stresemann

Hopeful of Settlement by Experts Committee

BERLIN, Feb. 29.—Foreign Minister Stresemann in the Reichstag said it would be necessary to appoint a consul general to the Irish Free State owing to the favorable development of trade with Ireland.

The minister expressed hopefulness of the results of Labor's experts committee and said they would recognize how erroneous had been the assumption that Germany had aimed at fraudulent bankruptcy.

Alluding to the question of an international loan for Germany, Stresemann said Germany must have full control over the economic and taxable resources and the unity of Germany's railways must be restored. He hoped a speedy settlement would be reached between the French and German industrialists in the occupied regions, because Germany was unable to finance this agreement beyond April 15 and failure to do so might lead to economic catastrophe.

TARIFF TALKED OTTAWA TODAY.

Much Speculation Here as to What Extent Government Will Deal With Matter

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—While members of the House of Commons were considering the speech from the throne over the week end, the debate on the address next week will no doubt turn to a large extent on tariff reductions. In parliamentary corridors it is the feature of the speech which is giving rise to comment and there is much speculation as to how far the reference in the speech will be given effect.

The Progressives regard the section as veering toward their point of view although they are waiting to see the actual government proposals before definitely committing themselves to either approval or criticism.

It appears that Rhodes jumped a Norwegian steamer in Japan, not being satisfied with the working conditions, and, not having

Canadian National Railways Exhibition Building Completed; will be Splendid Advertisement

MONTRÉAL, Feb. 29.—H. R. Charlton, manager of the advertising bureau of the Canadian National Railways is sailing from New York on the Olympic tomorrow for London, England, to take charge of installation of the exhibits in the building of the G. N. Railways at the British Empire Exhibition which opens at Wembley in April. The building is now ready, having been erected in record time, and it is generally acclaimed as one of the most artistic structures on the grounds.

Transportation, particularly steam railway, will be the central theme of the exhibit which the Canadian National Railways will have in this building. Many months have been spent in its preparation and it is felt that when installation is completed, it will represent one of the most comprehensive and at the same time, one of the most striking displays ever shown at an exhibition. The work throughout is of Canadian origin and the exhibit in its completed form will be characteristically Canadian in all senses of the word.

Mural Decorations

One of the first things to attract the attention of the visitor will be the mural decorations which will extend around the inside of the building about 14 feet from the floor. These decorations will be executed in bas relief, this indicating a true perspective to the eye. They will picture the evolution of transportation in North America from the days of the early Indian with his crude hand-drawn sled to the monster 6,000 class locomotive engines that thunder through the country with passenger trains of the National Railway today.

Illumination will be shed on these decorations from concealed lights, which give them an attractive and novel appearance.

An exhibit which is designed to attract and educate Europeans to sections of passenger train equipment on the National system. A conductor and a porter from the Canadian National railways will be in attendance at the exhibit to explain the method of

MUST BE PULP MILL HERE SOON

So Says Acting Chairman of Royal Pulpwood Commission at Rotary Luncheon

That a pulp mill was bound to be built in this locality soon was the opinion expressed at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon by W. A. Austie, chairman of the section of the Royal Commission on pulpwood which sat here yesterday. Mr. Austie said they had heard a great deal of evidence at different places and he hoped they would be able to present an intelligent report. They had investigated not only the pulpwood areas but also the waterpowers available and the information they had gained should prove useful. He appreciated the courtesies extended to them here. They were hurrying through because the Government wanted the report at the present session of the legislature.

There was a large number of visitors at the luncheon yesterday included among them being the four members of the commission party, three grain men, Bob Allen of Hanall, R. Beaumont, R. A. Harlow, and Dr. L. W. Kergin.

GOLD SEEKERS VISIT MASSETT

Another Effort to be Made to Separate Precious Metal from Black Sands

On Wednesday night a small party of gold seekers left here for Massett to make another effort to separate the gold from the black sands of that neighborhood. They go confident of success like other parties that have preceded them.

Practically the whole of the peninsula at the northeast corner of Graham Island is built up of black sand in which there is enough gold to pay for washing if the precious metal could be saved. The dust is very fine and all efforts so far to work the sands have proved unprofitable. The men who have given their time or invested their money have been disappointed and have gone away in disgust.

Controversy In Protestant Churches.

There has been a good deal of controversy in the East over liberty of conscience among those who are Protestant religious leaders. The "Fundamentalists" declare there are certain important things on which they all may differ but there are also certain fundamentals about which there can be no two opinions. One of these is the divinity of Christ. On the other hand the "Modernists" claim the right of complete freedom of thought and interpretation of the scriptures. The tendency among them is to explain away the divinity of Christ, to belittle the efficacy of the sacraments and to stress rather the value of right living and service to humanity as fundamentals to religious life.

In these days of freedom of thought and partial freedom of expression and action, no one objects to clergy holding any views they wish. The objection taken to the Modernists is that they wish to remain in the church as religious leaders while teaching and preaching a doctrine to which the majority of members of the church are opposed.

Modernists Not Anything New.

There is nothing very new about the modernist movement except that whereas formerly it existed secretly, now it has come out into the open and publicly declared itself. It has been fostered to a large extent in the universities and now that it has attained sufficient strength to brave public opinion it is making itself felt in the pulpits. At first it was so new a thing that it was taken up by the newspapers but the novelty is wearing off and yet the movement persists.

Macdonald Day Is Suggested.

The Kingston Standard suggests that Canada should commence commemoration days by setting aside a day for commemorating the memory of Sir John A. Macdonald, first premier of Canada and one of the fathers-of-confederation.

The Standard is published close to the boundary line of the United States and the people there cross the river to take part in the commemoration days on the other side, and naturally they wish to imitate what is perhaps a worthy institution, forgetting that we are a young country and that the influence of polities is still closely associated with the names of the founders of this country. There would be too much of a tendency to make it a political institution and possibly to set up a rival institution to be known as "Laurier Day." Already they have Laurier clubs, which are largely political institutions in memory of a great politician and statesman.

While most people respect the memory of Sir John A. Macdonald there is none of the glamor about his life that there is about the life of Washington, who led the rebellion which ended in the founding of the republic or in Lincoln who was one of the leaders against slavery and who died a martyr to the cause. Sir John was a clever politician and a statesman of high rank but that has no special appeal to the public. There is no romance about it. The story of his life does not thrill or fire the imagination. Such a movement as suggested would fall flat and would be better not attempted. And what applies to Sir John also applies to Laurier. On the other hand there is a glamor about the fight for responsible government put up by William L. Mackenzie, who very nearly became a martyr to the cause on more than one occasion, and whose printing press was thrown into the lake because of his persistent and outspoken campaign for the rights of the people.

Yet to commemorate the birth or death of this patriot might even be considered political and possibly so by the Kingston Standard. We are not old enough as a nation to see our great men in their proper perspective.

JASPER MECCA OF TOURISTS

New Railway Service Gives Direct Route There From Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—As a result of the recent visit to Chicago of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, announcement is made of a more direct route between Chicago, the east and south and the Canadian Rockies and the Pacific coast. The Canadian National Railways in conjunction with the Chicago and Northwestern Railway will establish on Sat., June 7, a through service between Chicago and Winnipeg and Jasper National Park, the largest national park in the Dominion of Canada, where the railway company operates a high class hotel. The introduction of this service will mark the inauguration of the first through service between Chicago, Winnipeg and Canadian Rockies.

West of Winnipeg the Continental Limited, the crack daily transcontinental train of the Canadian National Railways, will be used. Between Chicago and Duluth the route will be via the Chicago and Northwestern Railway and between Duluth and Winnipeg and the British Columbia coast via Canadian National Railways.

This new service will not only provide a more direct route between Chicago and Winnipeg and the British Columbia coast of Canada, but it will also take the passengers through a portion of Canada that from scenic standpoint is incomparable. Trains will leave Chicago daily at 5:50 p.m., arrive Duluth 8:30 a.m. and Winnipeg 9:25 p.m. next day. They will arrive at Jasper National Park at 8:20 a.m. the third morning. Eastbound will leave Jasper 9:30 daily and arrive in Chicago 11:45 the third morning.

CHURCHES WAR TO THE DEATH

Differences Between Fundamentalists and Modernists Extend Even to Mission Fields

NEWPORT, NEWS, Va., Feb. 29.—Taking notice of the religious controversy between fundamentalists and modernists, the report of the committee on foreign missions of the Presbyterian World Alliance, presented to the alliance today, examines the problem from the missionary standpoint to determine how far co-operative movements among interdenominational missions "can be salvaged from the wreck."

The report, submitted by the Rev. Dr. R. P. Mackay of Toronto, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, referred to the "war of the churches" that was being staged in the press these days, declaring that the atmosphere is charged with religious controversy. It continued:

No Compromise
Fundamentalists and Modernists at home and abroad have drawn swords, and it is a war to the death. "No compromise" is the battle cry, and it is heard in practically every land where Christianity is taught and Christian work being done. In China, a Bible union has been organized in defense of the faith and has in three years grown from 400 to 2,200 in numbers. Its doctrinal basis embraces all the doctrines included in the Apostles' Creed and more, and many are prepared to sacrifice co-operation and fellowship with any and all who cannot subscribe to their doctrinal statements. Others, however, repudiate the thought of separation, claiming it to be the mission to purge the church from within and not to abandon her to the uncircumcised and unclean.

"Modernists, on the other hand, are equally pronounced, and perhaps it may be said equally intolerant. They stand for liberty of thought without regard to ecclesiastical obligations. Their frequent claims to superior intelligence cannot always be charged with too great modesty.

LOS ANGELES BOOM WANING

Olof Hanson Gives His Impressions After Trip to California

SERIOUS DROUGHT

Tells of Wonderful Volcano at Honolulu and Immense Pineapple and Sugar Production

Los Angeles has been experiencing a real estate and building boom during the past two years such as this country had in 1912 and it is already beginning to show signs of waning, according to Olof Hanson who returned this week from a business and pleasure trip to California and the Hawaiian Islands. Conditions in Los Angeles are not as good as they were last year and there are too many people in the city. An abnormal inflation is reflected in the fact that the population of the city increased from 500,000 in 1922 to an accredited one million people today. There is, however, much building still in progress and Mr. Hanson states that he failed to see any signs of actual suffering, reports of which have reached this province.

Only Inch of Rain
The people of Southern California are becoming alarmed over a drought which has been in progress for twelve months, in which period there has been little over an inch of rain. Fears are entertained for the preservation of water supply and this may have its effect on the citrus and other crops. There has been little or no snow or rain in the mountains and the streams have become almost dried up.

Both from the standpoint of business and weather conditions, San Francisco and Northern California looks better than the south. Not having had such abnormal inflation, San Francisco today seems to be on a sounder footing of prosperity than Los Angeles.

While in Los Angeles Mr. and Mrs. Hanson had the pleasure of calling on Mr. and Mrs. James Carmichael formerly of this city. Volcano at Honolulu
The Kilowai volcano is the centre of attraction for thousands of tourists at Honolulu says Mr. Hanson. It has been especially active this year and it is a wonderful spectacle. The lava gushes up for 50 or 60 feet into the air from the centre of the lake of fire and at night it lights up the sky so that it can be seen for many miles. Tourists are able to approach right to the edge of the volcano and look down into the lava. Needless to say it is very warm in this vicinity and it is necessary to wear special equipment to protect the face while there. The volcano is 2,000 feet across and occupies an area of about five acres.

The great production of pineapples and sugar cane on the Hawaiian Islands was a revelation to Mr. Hanson. Thousands and thousands of acres are under cultivation in these crops. Under the government of the United States, the Hawaiian Islands have made rapid strides in recent years and the population is now about 250,000 people of which number about 25,000 are whites, 24,000 Hawaiians and the balance Japs, Chinese and Philipinos who are engaged in the pineapple and sugar cane fields.

The weather of the Hawaiian Islands is superfine, says Mr. Hanson. Mrs. Hanson, who also made the trip to mid-Pacific and California, will be home next week.

The Man in the Moon Says:

A MAN in the East the other day shot another who sold him a motor boat. There are great possibilities here in the same line.

VALUE OF OIL TO COMMUNITY

George Woodland Gives Interesting Paper on Commodity He Sells

DEFENDS INDUSTRY

Tells Rotary Club How Much More Economical It Is Than Coal

At the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon, George Woodland, manager of the Imperial Oil Co. at this centre, addressed the Rotary Club on the question of oil and gave some very interesting statistics.

There are three different kinds of crude oil in the world, asphalt base, paraffin base and mixed base," he said. "Crude oil is made up of chiefly hydrogen and carbon with various percentages of sulphur compounds.

"The products of crude oil are gasoline, kerosene, gas oil, lubricating oils, paraffin wax and asphaltic coke, and these products are again broken up into many biproducts.

"The United States produces approximately 62 per cent of the world's crude oil, the production of these fields in 1922 was about 550 million barrels. In the oil industry of the North American continent there is invested about eight billion dollars.

"Since 1859, the year of oil, the growth of the business has been something phenomenal, each succeeding ten years have produced more oil than the entire preceding period since the discovery of the product. The production from 1900 to 1923 has increased nearly 800 per cent; and at this time we have the greatest production in history amounting to more than 4,700,000 barrels daily. This oil is produced from approximately 282,000 wells.

Immense Quantity

During the year 1923 there was manufactured and used from crude oil and gas about 180 million barrels of gasoline and 50 million barrels of kerosene. Most of this gasoline was used in 12,000,000 motor vehicles.

If the world were to be deprived of gasoline and lubricants made from crude oil it would be turned back at least a quarter of a century. More than that we have become so dependent on these that our whole industrial development might be said to revolve around oil. This generation is without training in the ways of our forefathers in doing our tasks in their more primitive ways.

"Oil is not only now one of our very great industries but is becoming of greater relative importance every year. We have had many calamitous predictions of its early exhaustion, but if we are to judge its future by its past it will be but a few years until the annual production of oil will reach one billion barrels and it may be even then in the swaddling clothes of infancy.

"Never yet has the oil producer failed to bring forth the hidden deposits of this invaluable commodity when needed and a fair prophecy is that they will not fail until some other substitute is found that will better fulfill the requirements of the times.

The Statesmen's Viewpoint

"One would think that an industry of such supreme importance to our civilization would receive the consideration from all people to which it is entitled; but if we are to form our conclusions from the tirades against the industry which have been made by supposed statesmen, and by the tax measures to which this legitimate business is unjustly subjected, it borders very close to penalization.

"The public generally speaking have very little knowledge of this very vast and important business. It hears of gushers and of the fortunate ventures and greatly exaggerated account of these; but it does not know that the 1,000 barrel wells are usually greatly magnified as to size, or that they do not last long as such. It is not advised as to the much greater number of wells drilled or of the dry holes, which add so much to the costs of the operator. The public does not know of the money spent for equipment, labor, leases and lease rentals, nor of the manufacturing and marketing costs; and as a result it cannot see why gasoline and other products of crude oil should cost so much.

Cost of Dry Holes

"There were approximately 23,000 wells drilled in the United States during the year 1922. Accurate figures as to the cost of these cannot be obtained. One company operating in the State of Oklahoma, with average drilling conditions, drilled scattered over different parts of that state, 24 wells in 1922, costing $552,000 or about $23,000 per well. In these wells it drilled a total 67,844 feet of hole, or an average 2,827 feet a well at an average cost of $8.14 per foot, but in states such as California and Texas the cost was much greater. When you come to consider the enormous costs in boring for oil at Fort Norman which amount to approximately $500,000 one gets some conception of the outlay for occasionally dry holes.

Cost of Gasoline

"Take the product most discussed by the public—gasoline. An estimate of Dr. Edwin G. Slosson, director of science service, Washington, states that the best estimate of annual expenditure on motor cars in the country for 1921 was a total of $7,783,000,000 distributed as follows:

New cars	$1,448,000,000
Depreciation	1,800,000,000
Interest	295,000,000
Tires	350,000,000
Gasoline	823,000,000
Oil	175,000,000
Garage	552,000,000
Repairs and Supplies	1,000,000,000
Insurance	185,000,000
Taxes	275,000,000
Drivers salaries	600,000,000
Road maintenance	180,000,000

$7,783,000,000

Out of Proportion

"This is approximately eight billion dollars. Of this huge sum the gasoline costs amounts to $823,000,000 or about ten per cent, yet the ten per cent causes more agitation and comment than all the rest of the 90 per cent which the public spends.

Why? For the reason that it is the factor that propels the car, hence the most apparent necessity, and concerns more people than the owners, namely those for instant who ride with him. This comprises so large a part of the population that the public interest naturally follows.

"I will quote some excerpts from a speech made by A. G. Bedford, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil of New Jersey before the American Petroleum Institute convention at St. Louis.

"Every one knows of course that the oil business has been faced this year with unprecedented conditions. There has been an enormous production of oil, far in excess of current requirements, and yet current requirements themselves have been very great. With such conditions on the one hand and evident requirements of the future facing us on the other, it has been but natural that different opinions should have developed as to the wise policy which should be followed in meeting the situation.

"Two fundamental opinions have been held, and in the working out of the consequent policies pursued lies the explanation to the public for the various price movements in which they have been so interested.

Maintain Stable Prices

"One school has said that it was the duty of the industry to maintain a fairly stable and reasonable price for crude oil in spite of the flush production taking place in California and the Mid Continent field, and in spite of the fact that regard for temporary conditions only would justify a lower price.

"The idea was that such a level of prices would enable producers of the older and smaller producing wells to continue production, and that a vigorous reduction in prices would result in a loss of a considerable proportion of the production itself, a loss of that stable production which may be regarded as the backbone of the industry.

"Those holding that view held that it was better to pay a price which would keep these settled wells in existence, on the theory, that, if these wells had to cease production and that oil was lost, the public in the long run would have to pay a much higher price for its oil. It was felt that the public interest would be actually promoted by the maintenance of a somewhat higher price than the immediate economic conditions warranted rather than a very low price should prevail now, and a much higher price have to be faced in the future.

"There was another school of thought in the industry which maintained that the economic

Why?

WHY waste time in useless "shopping around" when the advertisements lay before you the choicest wares of every progressive merchant in town?

WHY use needless effort in an endless store-to-store quest when the advertisements enable you to make your choice of the finest merchandise without even leaving your home?

WHY pay more than you ought when you can stretch your dollar to the elastic limit by taking advantage of the bargains and good buys that are daily advertised in this paper?

WHY risk dissatisfaction by buying unknown, unbranded goods when you can assure yourself complete satisfaction by buying an advertised product, backed by the integrity of a man who spends real money to establish his name and to build up public good-will?

travel in Canada. Transparent photographs showing the full exterior and interior of these cars as they appear in actual service will supplement this exhibit.

Jasper Park

A display calculated to attract the attention of the tourist to Canada will be a gigantic revolving model of Jasper National Park, the scenic sea route along the north Pacific coast and the Rocky mountains. The three scenes comprise, in part what is known as the triangle tour of the Canadian National Railways in British Columbia and the western fringe of Alberta. The table revolves automatically and silently and the visitor has presented to him in panorama and in sequence Jasper Park Lodge and environs, a scene from the north Pacific coast and a typical mountain scene in British Columbia including Mount Robson, the biggest of the Canadian peaks.

In order to display the magnitude of Canada and of the National Railways, there will be displayed a map 34 feet long and 13 feet high. By a system of electric control this map will flash the various routes of the system across the continent, its branches and connections with other railways. Immediately in front will be an illuminated map of the world showing the various trade routes of the fleet of the Canadian Government Marine.

Trophy Exhibit

The centre of the building will be given over to a huge trophy exhibit, showing specimens of Canadian fruits, grains, grasses, etc. Surmounting this will be animal heads including different big game found in Canada. A full-sized buffalo from Wainwright Park and a giant Moose head, the third largest in the world, will be outstanding features of this exhibit.

TEA AND SALE BROUGHT $30 TO LADIES' AID OF LOCAL BAPTIST CHURCH

There was a tea and sale held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Baptist Church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. There was a good attendance and a ready sale was found for the good things offered. The home cooking was looked after by Mrs. Frank Morris and Mrs. George Hibbard. Those in charge of the tea tables were Mrs. Bert Morgan, convenor, Mrs. Joe Gay, Mrs. B. M. Newell, Mrs. J. Thurber and Mrs. S. Hamblin. Mrs. W. T. Muse was cashier.

The tables were prettily decorated with tulips and daffodils.

SURPRISE PARTY AT THE LINZEY HOME

Last night members of the Corner Club of the Baptist Church, which meets every Tuesday night in the Church parlors, invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Linzey, Rand Block, on the occasion of Mr. Linzey's birthday. There were about thirty in the party and during the evening they presented Mr. Linzey with a silver cake plate. Games and music made the time pass pleasantly. Refreshments were served and the party passed a most enjoyable evening.

saving such as difference in cost of hauling coal as compared with oil, increased locomotive efficiency, etc., estimated to produce a additional saving of not less than $100,000, making the total savings from the use of fuel oil as compared with coal approximately $900,000 per annum.

From the advantages just enumerated it is evident that oil is the logical fuel for economical operation of railroads and affords a natural outlet to the refiner for fuel oil.

In conclusion I wish to say I have only touched on one phase of the oil industry. There are, as you know, many others which affect this port, viz., oils used for the fishing fleet, lumber mills and mines, etc. But time will not permit, in this instance, to deal longer on the further ramifications of the oil industry.
