Jaffray, the Canadian head of the Christian Missionary Alliance at Wuchow, and twenty Chinese who were recently taken captive by pirates who captured the motor boat Roanoke. Two captives are American and another an Australian. They were taken to the mountain stronghold of the pirates. The story of the attack on them and their capture became public when the band released the Chinese captain so that he might give notice that the mission prisoners would be released upon the payment of a large ransom.

MACDONALD IS APPEAL JUDGE

Appointment is Officially Announced Succeeding Late Mr. Justice Eberts

OTTAWA, May 29.—Official announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of M. A. Macdonald, K.C. of Vancouver to be a judge of the court of appeal for the Province of British Columbia succeeding the late Mr. Justice Eberts.

Mr. Macdonald gets his appointment from the Government at Ottawa although the salaries of all judges are paid by the Provincial Government. He is an Ontario man, having been born at Gooderich and educated there and at Toronto University. He practised law at London, Ontario and later at Cranbrook, B.C., where he contested the local seat in the Provincial elections and was defeated in 1909. He moved to Vancouver and was elected there at a by-election in 1916 and for some time spoken of as the coming leader of the party and premier of the province. He became attorney general that year but resigned later. He was a candidate at the last Dominion election but was defeated.

Mr. Macdonald is best known to the public as a politician but he is an able lawyer and had built up an extensive practice in Vancouver and is generally looked upon as well fitted for the position which he is about to take.

The new concern will handle eight tons of concentrates a day, washed from 90 tons of sand on the beach.

Speaking of their work the president and vice-president this morning said they had no stock for sale as they were financing the project themselves. Charles Cabrera is their manager and mining engineer. They are hoping that a better steamer service will be given the islands soon, as their industry will add very materially to the business done there.

A FIRM HAND AT THE HELM

British Government in Danger of Being Defeated Tonight on a Resolution of Disapproval

LONDON, May 29.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald in a speech in the House of Commons today clearly indicated that, if the government is defeated tonight on a motion to reduce the salary of the minister of labor, it will go before the country in a general election.

That the government's fate is in the balance tonight with the issue doubtful is admitted by the Daily Herald, the Labor organ, while political writers concur in the declaration that the administration will find itself in a lighter corner than ever before.

The issue centres around the Conservative motion to reduce the salary of Tom Shaw, minister of labor, this being a technical expression of disapproval with the government's policy toward relieving unemployment.

PAUL CAMBON DIES IN PARIS

Was Instrumental in Arranging Treaty With Britain and Other Important Work

PARIS, May 29.—Paul Cambon, former French ambassador to London died last night.

Pierre Paul Cambon, eminent French statesman and diplomat, won international fame in the early days of the present century for his efforts in behalf of the Anglo-French agreement of April 8, 1904, when the powerful and far-reaching Entente Cordiale was born.

M. Paul Cambon was born January 20, 1843. He was called to the Parisian bar some 20 years later, and after ten years of administrative work in various government departments, was transferred to the diplomatic service and appointed minister plenipotentiary at Tunis. In 1886 he became French ambassador to Madrid, and two years later went to Constantinople in the same capacity. In 1898 he presented his credentials as ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Critical Stage

He was still in London when, six years later, the relations between England and France had reached a critical stage over the Fashoda incident in Egypt.

King Edward VII, working carefully and secretly, had launched his program to readjust Europe's equilibrium, and bring Italy, France and Russia together as a means of offsetting the powerful Triple Alliance between Germany, Austria and Italy. The late Theophile Delcasse represented France in the treaty negotiations while the British interests were looked after by Lord Lansdowne.

Paul Cambon acted as intermediary during the negotiations, and it was largely through him that the many difficulties were ironed out. The announcement that an agreement had been reached came suddenly late in 1904, and astounded the entire world.

Treaty Terms

The basis of the treaty provided for the French surrender to England of certain long standing rights in Egypt, while England conceded that France occupied a privileged position in Morocco. Aside from settling these cardinal points, the treaty also wound up many other matters of controversy between the two nations. The treaty was hailed as the "Entente Cordiale," or the vehicle by which France and England were brought together in political alliance. Hardly less important to Europe was the fact that Russia came indirectly into the agreement through her previously existing alliance with France, hence King Edward's original purpose of uniting the three countries through such a treaty was accomplished.

M. Cambon negotiated and signed the final draft after Delcasse and Lansdowne had agreed upon the essential terms. While its importance was not underestimated even at that time, there were perhaps none who foresaw the tremendous effect the Entente Cordiale would have ten years later, when the World War swept over Europe.

M. Cambon came prominently to the front in 1914, and played an important part in frustrating the efforts of Germany to separate France and Great Britain on

RAILWAY SHOWS IMPROVEMENTS

Even Merchant Marine Better Showing Than Previous Year

OTTAWA, May 29.—In terms of optimism Hon. George Graham, minister of railways, presented to the House of Commons the annual statement of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Government Merchant Marine. The statement gave a net operating revenue on the railways for 1923 of $21,187,462 and for 1922 a revenue of $3,993,237, an increase of $17,194,225.

The C.G.M.M. had a deficit last year after all charges including depreciation and interest of $9,368,670. This is an improvement of $280,808 over the previous year.

Liberal And Labor Working Together.

The Liberal group in the British Parliament is giving good support to the Labor Government in carrying out a moderate policy in that country. That gives the lie to those who have tried to say that Liberals have no sympathy with the aspirations of the labor element. British Liberals, like Canadian Liberals, believe in a progressive policy but they refuse to be led away by the rantings of the Reds and they also refuse to listen to the calamity howls of the Conservatives who profess to think that the country is going to the dogs if money is spent on those things which benefit the mass of the people.

Britain Is Paying Her Debts Rapidly.

Britain is rapidly paying her war debts. She is taxing herself heavily in order to get right with the rest of the world and she is succeeding beyond all expectations. If the country is to keep the lead which she has in the world this is necessary.

New countries find it more difficult to raise large sums of money because there is less money in the hands of rich people. When taxes are levied in this country they have to be collected from all the people and as all the people vote, objection is taken to making the taxes very heavy. The result is that Canada is slower paying her debts than the mother country.

Japan Objects To Being Excluded.

To what extent is a nation a free agent? Perhaps it is to the extent she dare be. Japan is making a strong protest at the action of the United States which affects her citizens in that country and doubtless if United States were a weak nation and Japan a strong one the protest would be enforced by at least a threat of war if not actual display of force.

At one time individuals thought they were independent of all other individuals and could do as they wished, but now they are regulated in almost everything they do. They must walk on the street as they are told, cross where they are told and always act in a becoming manner. If they drink too much they are arrested or if they honk the horn of the car to call a companion they are stopped and fined. Regulations and restrictions abound on every side.

Now the same principle is being extended to nations. Very soon it will be found that no nation lives to itself and no nation is a free agent. The action of each will be regulated by others, and there will be a community of nations just as there is a community of individuals. Matters such as migration will be regulated by an international court and no nation will have power to arbitrarily exclude any.

The world is gradually getting smaller and we today know what everyone is doing. While crime and disaster is recorded more than anything else, it is noticed that political movements are of interest and news of them is flashed around the world and printed in the newspapers. Great men of every nation are known all over the world and the affairs of one nation are of interest to the people of every other.

Mining Camps Have Their Vogue.

Today all eyes in the mining world are turned toward Portland Canal and it is being talked of and exploited. A few years ago Alice Arm was the centre of attraction. Last year Hudson Bay Mountain was it. So it goes.

Alice Arm is rather in the doldrums today from a mining point of view, but it has a number of very valuable mining properties that will undoubtedly be heard from very soon. The camp is just as rich as it was a few years ago and as soon as one or two mines are shipping regularly it will again be a centre of attraction to prospectors, miners and financiers.

SHANKS TELLS ABOUT STEWART

Well Known Barber Who Passed Through Here Recently Writes to Victoria Paper

One peculiarity about Stewart is the method of supplying electric light, says J. A. Shanks, the Victoria barber now located at Stewart, writing to the Victoria Colonist. The "juice" is turned on at the close of the day, according to the time of year and discontinued at dawn. Everybody pays a flat rate. Therefore the town's well lighted all through the night. Shut-offs on lights are as scarce in Stewart as keys were for bar room doors in the hilarious days of old.

On arrival at the dock of this coming metropolis the traveller finds still a mile and a half must be covered by foot or by jitney, as the depth of the water in the Portland Canal will not permit a closer approach by the steamer. Yet, looking from the deck of the palatial Prince George, the distance does not appear more than half a mile. That is, however, an optic illusion due to the position of the townsite. Stewart is crowded on three sides by mountains which seem to push it forward, so to speak, and the vision is arrested by the solid, dark-hued ground, thus throwing into bold relief the light-colored buildings of the town.

Road Cut From Cliff

A trail of the trestle design, floored with three-inch planking, is open to pedestrians only. This long narrow bridge affair cuts in a straight line through the low waters of the canal from the dock to the business section of Stewart. To the left, around the foot of Dolly Mountain, winds the road for heavy traffic. The construction of this rock-based avenue was an engineering achievement of no small moment. Cutting into the face of sheer granite, along the side of a mountain that stands as bolt upright as a city skyscraper, and to hew from the precipitous side a thirty-foot roadway of nearly two miles in length was an accomplishment that brought to light the determined, far-sighted, optimistic composition of the men of this line is not, by any means, despaired of.

Stewart has a well-furnished hospital, two churches and a fire hall. Therefore it is fitly equipped to look after the spiritual and material welfare of its own population and those who come from the outside.

Building Goes On

Several new store and residential buildings are under construction. The roads are being constantly improved. The dock is gradually gaining the animated and cluttered appearance that says spring is here. For as the good weather advances, mining work grows more and more active, bigger crews are put on, greater production is called for.

The population of Stewart is eighty per cent male. The majority are a combination of prospector and mine worker. Hardly anybody here but who has a claim staked that promises big returns. In the meantime, they all work on the different company properties, but their own individual holdings are the bright dream of their existence, the star-lit hope of the golden future.

Stewart people have a very kindly regard for Victoria. They claim that the bulk of financial support which has made possible the opening up of valuable properties has come with a hearty good will from the people of the Capital City. Vancouver has been more backward, yet it, too, is very well represented among the investors in Stewart's mining propositions.

Hard Pull

No doubt but the Portland Canal region is coming into its own. For many years it has had a hard pull. Merely the confidence of a few stern, unbeatable spirits have kept the fires of hope steadily glowing. Little by little gratifying results have appeared, until today with the Premier, the Dunwell and other properties of lesser dimensions making good, who would predict for the future of Stewart anything but prosperity?

The fire department was called out at 8.15 this morning to extinguish a chimney fire in the house at 620 Sixth Avenue West owned by F. W. Hart and occupied by S. McManus. There was no damage.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:

HOW can you expect to leave footprints in the sands of time if you are riding in an auto or a motor boat.

WOMAN'S first name is Dust but a man's name is Mud.

THE irresistible force of public opinion is never irresistible to a person expert in the handling of idiots.

IF your time and clothes and temper are worth nothing, paint your own boat and repair your own engine.

THE man with a motorboat has an advantage over the man with the auto. He does not have to park outside her door and wait an hour until she is ready. Instead of that he can adjust the carburettor.

ALL things come to him who waits as long as he works while he is waiting.

IF truth would not stretch how would it get so much out of it?

POSSIBLY you may not have heard about the Prince Rupert girl who asked an expert how long her hen would sit on the eggs before hatching. She was told three weeks for chickens and four for ducks. As the chickens did not hatch in three weeks, she took the hen off and sold the eggs as she did not want ducks.

"AND they lived happy ever afterwards" is believed by some ridiculous girls and moonstruck young men.

IN a town like this one can forgive almost anything in a man except Harold Lloyd spectacles, a wrist watch or a handkerchief in the cuff.

LABOR MEMBERS NOT DRINKERS

Majority in British House are Total Abstainers from Alcoholics

LONDON, May 29.—Amusement rather than indignation has been created among members of the parliament at statements made at the National Commercial Temperance Union convention at Leicester concerning alleged excessive drinking in the House of Commons. A resolution urging the same restrictions on drinking in the House of Commons as elsewhere was referred to a special committee.

There is some talk of bringing the statements to the notice of the speaker with a request that the offenders be called before the bar of the house to answer for their assertions, but it is said to be unlikely that any member of the house will give the Leicester gathering this additional publicity. One veteran member of the house declares the present house is the soberest in the history of the British parliament. Drinking, he says, has declined steadily at Westminster as elsewhere in the last thirty years.

Many Complete Abstainers
Nearly twenty years ago when Labor members were first returned in any considerable number they made a dramatic and spontaneous gesture for temperance by pledging themselves collectively to partake of no stimulants while engaged in parliamentary work. Although this gesture has not since been repeated it is understood to be a fact that the majority of the Labor members are complete abstainers. No reliable figures are available concerning the attitude of the whole house towards abstinence but probably fifty per cent would be ready to forswear the amount of excisable liquor consumed within the precincts is no criterion either, as much of it goes down the throats of thousands of constituents and others who wait on members at the house and are moderately entertained.

The bars of the house are closed at certain portions of the day but remain open an hour and a half after the house rises. Commander Kenworthy (Liberal) declares that some of the most violent speeches proceed from "fanatical teetotallers." He ventures to cite as an example E. Scrymgeour, the prohibitionist member for Dundee.

AT 80 YEARS OF AGE WAS TROUBLED WITH SHORTNESS OF BREATH PALPITATION OF THE HEART AND FAINTING SPELLS

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes:—I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and fainting spells. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since.

I am 80 years of age and always keep them in the house, and when I feel any symptoms of my old trouble, coming on all I have to do is to take a few doses. With the help of your Pills I expect to see many years yet. I always recommend them to any one who is suffering from heart trouble.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The P. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Canadian National Railways from Toronto to Vancouver were entertained by the Saskatoon Board of Trade and Saskatoon newspapermen this afternoon. The program included a motor drive to various parts of the city, including the exhibition grounds and the University of Saskatchewan. At the latter place the newspapermen from Winnipeg and the East were received and welcomed by President W. L. Murray who showed them over the buildings and grounds, which are the pride of the city.

Later in the afternoon the newspapermen and their wives were entertained at a tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lynch. The tea was under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club. Among those who assisted in the reception of the visitors were the Mayor, A. H. Clare, Major J. D. Gunn, President of the Saskatoon Board of Trade, O. T. Stacey, Secretary of the Board of Trade, Sheriff L. G. Calder, and G. A. Laubach of the Saskatoon Star.

Early in the evening the special cars were again picked up by the westbound Canadian National train and the party left for Edmonton where they will spend today, proceeding from that point to Jasper National Park and thence to Prince Rupert.

WRECKAGE IS MYSTERIOUS

Thought That Rum Running Vessel Met With Mishap at Sea

VICTORIA, May 29.—Mystery still surrounds the wreckage of a gasoline cruising launch which was washed ashore at Otter Point, near Race Rocks, but from articles found by the Provincial Police Department, whose officers are investigating, a suspicion is held that the craft was a unit of the mystic rum-running fleet which cruises the international waters between Canada and the United States. The flotsam, which was discovered by fishermen, who reported their find to the Provincial Police office at Victoria, consists of a pilot house, painted white, and containing three brass-rimmed portholes forward.

Evidently it had been ripped clear from the deck of the craft, and from scars it contains it seems probable that the craft which carried it had been run down at sea by a larger vessel. Who manned the boat or what has become of them is a secret which the sea has not yet divulged.

Found Coat
Hanging on a nail in the interior of the splintered pilot house was found a sheepskin-lined canvas coat, and in one of the pockets was a receipt dated 4-28-24, meaning apparently April 28. The document had been issued to a motor craft bearing the registered number M-197, of Seattle, for three gallons of Mobiloil. Within the wreckage was also discovered a brass bell, a double nickel-plated foghorn and a cheaper galvanized horn, and a pair of khaki canvas overalls.

Collision Theory
Those who have seen the pilot house and have examined its condition advance the theory that the small craft was rammed by a large ship at night or in one of the dense fogs which sometimes screen the surface of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and adjoining waters. If such an event occurred there is a possibility that those in the launch were picked up and by now may be thousands of miles away. As most ships carry wireless, however, and as no such accident has been reported, the probabilities are that if the collision theory is correct, the cries of those who manned the launch were not heard and they perished.

Strange things have happened, however, in the business of running liquor down the coast, and it is difficult to make more than a guess of what occurred from an observation of the wrecked pilot house.

LONDON TALKS ABOUT MURDER

Story of Finding Remains of Woman in Empty House and Arrest of Man

LONDON, May 29. — All England is discussing the Bungalow Murder case. The dismembered body of a woman was found in an unused bungalow near Eastbourne and an arrest has been made and the accused is before the courts.

A man was detained on suspicion at the cloakroom at Waterloo Station, London, as he was collecting a portmanteau. It appears that some days previous one of the cloakroom attendants noticed a disagreeable smell in the office, and after investigation found that it emanated from a portmanteau, wherein the police afterwards found the blood-soaked underclothing of a woman and a butcher's knife.

Found Body

A watch was kept for the owner or whoever should call for the bag. A man eventually called, and was arrested and closely questioned regarding the bag, its contents, and his movements. From the information supplied two officers went at night by motorcar to a lonely stretch of land between Eastbourne and Langney, where there is a small row of cottages, built many years ago to house coastguards. Behind them is a small bungalow, and in it the detectives came upon the dismembered portions of a woman's body. Pieces of flesh were found in brown paper parcels, in torn sheets, and in pieces of rag, while in the grate portions of charred flesh and some bones were found, as well as in the copper in the kitchen. From the remains the head is missing.

Victim a Manchester Girl

The detained man is Patrick Mahon, a resident of Richmond Park, where he had been living with his wife, and the girl has been identified, by the clothing and strongly circumstantial movements, as Miss Emily Beihy Kaye, a secretary, whose last known address was a woman's club hotel in Guildford Street, London. Mahon is charged with the murder of Miss Kaye, Miss Kaye, who was 29 years of age, formerly held secretarial positions in Manchester, where her family resided in her earlier years. About the beginning of last month Miss Kaye wrote to friends of hers with Manchester connections saying that she was going to South Africa to be married. Wireless inquiries have been sent to outgoing liners asking for information.

Miss Kaye stayed at the Kenilworth Hotel, Eastbourne, from April 7 to April 12. The bungalow was rented by a man who arrived there about the beginning of Stenhouse, Ltd., 35 St. Francois Xavier St., Montreal, Que.

April, and it is thought that after leaving the hotel Miss Kaye moved into the bungalow, and she was seen walking and driving with the tenant.

Excavations that have been made in the grounds of the bungalow by the police have led to no further discovery. Further articles, however, which may be of use to the police in unravelling the mystery have otherwise been brought to light. They are a dead-box and a green fibre suitcase, which someone, making the excuse that he was leaving the town shortly, deposited in the cloakroom at Eastbourne railway station on April 10. The date of the crime is fixed at "on or about April 15."

Accused's Denial

On Tuesday police court proceedings were opened at Hailsham, when Mahon was formally charged with the wilful murder of Miss Kaye. On being charged Mahon said: "I have already made a statement, and it was not murder, as my statement clearly shows." The statement referred to was made to the police, but its contents have not yet been disclosed. The accused was remanded.

The inquest proceedings were only formal, and the coroner, after taking evidence of the identity of the murdered woman, adjourned the inquiry for four weeks. Mahon, who was present, appeared pale and worried, and when he was taken away later in a closed motor car the large crowd around the bungalow booed and hissed.

CONSUL SPEAKS TO GYRO CLUB

A. E. Wakefield Spoke Last Night on "Sidelights on International Relationship"

NEW PLAYGROUND SITE APPROVED

The Prince Rupert Gyro Club was addressed at its regular monthly open meeting last night by United States Consul A. E. Wakefield on "Sidelights on International Relationship." In his discourse, which was very interesting, Mr. Wakefield traced the development of the idea of international diplomacy from ancient times to modern. In the days of Greek and Roman world supremacy, envoys were in most cases little more than hostages and they accomplished very little but took great personal risk. It was shortly before the Declaration of American Independence that the present system of international representation had been adopted. The elemental instructions of the diplomatic service of the present day were that in no case should friction be allowed to develop but the representative of a foreign country must always have in sight his country's interests.

Mr. Wakefield referred particularly to the work of Walter Hines Page, United States ambassador to England, during the Great War. He declared that Mr. Page was largely responsible for the maintenance of good relations between Great Britain and the United States during the days of the latter's neutrality. With the lack of understanding between the two countries at that time, Mr. Page's task had indeed been a difficult one but he had filled his post as no other man could have done. The speaker also gave Mr. Page credit with having been an important factor towards the ultimate decision of the United States to cast in its lot against the power that was seeking world domination.

Kindred Interests

Concluding, Mr. Wakefield referred to the kindred interests of the two great Anglo-Saxon nations. What was best for the one was best for the other and there could never be a possibility of outbreak between the two.

Contributing to the musical program of the evening were H. S. Hurn with a vocal solo and a quartette consisting of J. E. Davey, Gyro S. K. Campbell, A. E. Wakefield and S. C. Jackson. Gyro W. Vaughan Davies was accompanist.

Toy dogs were presented by Gyro Douglas Stork to Gyros Lew Kergin and Leo Waugh in appreciation of their duties as judges at the recent Gyro dog show.

Scheme Approved

The proposition of the city council that the site in McLynn Park where a swimming pool is to be established be used for the club's playground equipment was approved by the club on the condition that the city puts in the pool, prepares the site and appoints a supervisor.

Guests of the club were A. E. Wakefield, J. E. Davey, Jack Barnsley, H. S. Hurn, L. W. Patmore and Dr. H. R. Grand of Prince Rupert; Hugh Boswell of Georgetown; Mr. Morris of Juneau; J. D. Henderson of Chicago, and S. C. Jackson of Digby Island.

Few youngsters today ever saw a horse-hair sofa. They wouldn't know what to do with a fire taper, carpet stretcher, or coal oil lamp. They couldn't braid rags into a rug, or wind yarn without tangling. Their education is as modern as the advertisements they see. They have no more use for the lamp and chimney of yesterday than you for the wick and tallow of the day before.

Advertisements induce such progress. They urge wide use that means improvement. They help you lift the out-of-date into the attic—rid you of the water buckets and soap kettles of slavery. They bring late improvements within your reach.

RADICALS SEEK GIRL'S RELEASE

Maria Spiridonova Has Been Centre of Trouble for Many Years

BERLIN, May 29.—Maria Spiridonova was saved from the gallows in 1906 by a world-wide protest.

The czar's government did not dare execute the 18-year-old girl in the face of universal protest against the abuse she had suffered at the hands of brutal soldiers and she was sent to Siberia for life.

With the abdication of the czar Spiridonova returned to Russia to become an effective leader of the peasants. But she soon ran foul of the Bolshevik leaders with whom she tried to work, and now another world-wide movement has been launched to rescue her from Soviet imprisonment and make it possible for her to leave Russia and regain her health in some quieter land.

General Appeal

The International Workers' Association is behind the movement to effect the release of Spiridonova and also hundreds of other revolutionists, socialists and workers who are in Soviet prisons and concentration camps. A general appeal has been made to all labor and revolutionary organizations throughout the world to help in the campaign for the release of non-partisan revolutionists held in Russian prisons.

Social revolutionists, anarchists, syndicalists and various other sorts of so-called liberals and radicals are joining the movement and broadcasting their appeals in terms which denounce the communist regime in Russia as a "dictatorship over the proletariat" rather than a "dictatorship of the proletariat."

Denounced Treaty

Since July 6, 1918, Maria Spiridonova has been in disfavor with the Bolshevik government. When she returned from 11 years of Siberian exile she was welcomed as a leader of the peasants, and worked with the Soviet regime until the ratification of the Brest-Litovsk Treaty, which she denounced as inimical to the interests of the peasants.

With many other Left Social revolutionists she was arrested after the murder of Count Mierbach, the German ambassador, and her life since has been one of constant persecution, according to the organizations which are seeking for Maria's release.

MAY SHOOT DOG IF INJURING ANIMALS

OTTAWA, May 3.—Is a man justified in killing a neighbor's dog if it trespasses on and attempts to destroy his property at night? This question came up in Hull Police Court the other day when Isidore Dubau, of Danford Lake, sued Clifford Gibson, of the same place, for $99, the value he placed on a dog which the latter acknowledged he had killed on the night of June 3 last year, when he found it attacking a collie in the field adjacent to his home.

Judge Millar was of the opinion that the act was justified and dismissed the case against Gibson. Judge Millar stated in dismissing the charge that if a man might shoot a thief who entered his house at night with intent to steal or destroy he was certainly entitled to do the same to a dog, and the onus of responsibility rested on the owner of the animal.

Certain external architectural features will be added to the building and there will be some alterations internally so as to meet the requirements of the new use to which it will be put. The interior is of dignified proportions and contains decorations of artistic merit and many of the rooms will be adaptable to Canada's requirement with comparatively little change.

When the contemplated alterations are completed the building will be one of the finest architecturally in London. The spacious ground floor rooms, after remodeling, are to be used as public rooms, including reading and writing rooms and a library, where Canadians and others will find every convenience at hand for their use as headquarters when visiting London. The building is centrally situated for all the important steamship, railway and transportation offices and immediately opposite on Cockspur Street are the offices of the Canadian National railways and Canadian Pacific Railway.

When the alterations referred to are made all the Canadian government activities now scattered over London will be housed in Canada's new building, with the exception of the Canadian National Railways. The activities of the government, in London, except the railways, are now under the Canadian High Commissioner, and he will thus be able, as never before, to keep in close touch with all the branches of the work, including emigration, trade and commerce, soldiers' civil re-establishment and pensions, and it is thought that in this way economies may be effected.

HISTORIC BUILDING IS CANADIAN OFFICE

George IV. Used It a Century Ago for His Pleasure

LONDON, May 29.—(Canadian Press)—The new Canadian offices in Trafalgar Square occupied by the Canadian High Commissioner and his staff as well as other representatives of Canada are historic to a degree. As already published, the property was purchased by the Dominion Government through the Canadian High Commissioner, Hon. P. C. Larkin, from the Union Club, practically adjoining the National Gallery.

The building as it is at present was built from designs by Sir Robert Smirk in 1824. In the great drawing room on the first floor, looking over Trafalgar Square, George IV. dispensed himself with his friends nearly a century ago. The Union was George IV's favorite club. The drawing-room was a sort of holy of holies in those days and there was a ban on smoking in this room.

When the contemplated alterations are completed the building will be one of the finest architecturally in London. The spacious ground floor rooms, after remodeling, are to be used as public rooms, including reading and writing rooms and a library, where Canadians and others will find every convenience at hand for their use as headquarters when visiting London. The building is centrally situated for all the important steamship, railway and transportation offices and immediately opposite on Cockspur Street are the offices of the Canadian National railways and Canadian Pacific Railway.

When the alterations referred to are made all the Canadian government activities now scattered over London will be housed in Canada's new building, with the exception of the Canadian National Railways. The activities of the government, in London, except the railways, are now under the Canadian High Commissioner, and he will thus be able, as never before, to keep in close touch with all the branches of the work, including emigration, trade and commerce, soldiers' civil re-establishment and pensions, and it is thought that in this way economies may be effected.

Sport Chat

Gil's baseball team will make its first official appearance of the season in tonight's league game against the Knights of Columbus.

The tobaccoists seem to have been allotted a good share of the players available and should be able to field a pretty strong aggregation from among the following who are at their disposal: Sidney Bazell-Jones, George Hill, Jr., A. R. Lane, Art Easson, Howard Frizzell, George Shaw, Tom Clarke, J. W. Hamilton, W. Lambie, Douglas Frizzell, Mike Borden, J. Sims and G. Foster. The Knights of Columbus line-up will be similar to that fielded in the opening game last Saturday with the exception of Fred Henning who will take the place of Bob Frizzell who has hurt. A good contest is expected and there should be a big turnout of fans.

A survey of the progress of the "Royal and Ancient" game of golf has revealed the fact that there are twice as many golf courses in Canada at the present time, than there were before the war. It is estimated, by authorities closely connected with the sport that more than 825,000,000 had been invested in land and buildings and that the amount spent each year on playing golf in Canada easily exceeds that figure. There are now nearly 350 golf clubs in the Dominion. On the first of May, 1923, a census was taken by officials of the Canadian Golfer and the figures showed that 315 clubs were then listed. But many new clubs were opened during the present season and the end of last year.

Ontario has more golf links than any other part of Canada. That province had 104 courses last year. Strangely enough Alberta comes second with 51; Quebec has 44 and Saskatchewan 41. The golf bug seems to have bitten a large portion of the people of western Canada than elsewhere in the country. The other provinces rank as follows: Manitoba, 29; British Columbia, 25; Nova Scotia 12; New Brunswick 8 and Prince Edward Island 1.

The city of Toronto leads with the number of golf clubs, showing a total of 21. Winnipeg comes next with 16; Montreal has 13 while western cities such as Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver are well up in the list.
