MASSETT IS CENTRE OF NEW GOLD RUSH

JAPANESE SHIPPING DISASTER RESULTS IN MUCH LOSS OF LIFE AT SEA

Gold Excitement Prevails at Massett Result of Arrival of First Shipment on Saturday

Settlers are leaving their farms and staking the foreshore and Prince Rupert interests already on the ground

MASSETT, July 28. — The first shipment of gold from the smelter on the east coast of Graham Island arrived at Massett heavily guarded on Saturday afternoon. Great excitement prevails here. Settlers are rushing to the gold fields abandoning their farms.

The returns so far are exceeding all expectations of the manager of the smelter.

For several weeks past representatives of Prince Rupert and other interests have been staking lands along the beaches in this neighborhood and today practically the foreshore along North Beach to Rose Spit and southerly for many miles has been staked. A good many of the claims have not been recorded and claim jumping seems likely to follow.

The whole peninsula from Port Clements and Tl-el northward is made up largely of black sand bearing gold and even south of Tl-el there are places where gold washing has been carried on with some success. After a storm the gold can be seen with the naked eye on the surface of the sand but it is so fine and flaky that it has been found unprofitable to separate it. Many attempts have been made within the past 20 years but without success.

The P. B. C. Company, financed by capital from the Eastern United States, chiefly Pennsylvania, seems to have solved the difficulty and progress has been reported from time to time. The arrival of the gold shipment Saturday is the culmination of the operations and has assured the people here that the gold can be obtained.

The company operating the smelter is offering to work on a share basis. Anyone separating the gold by washing can get the final operation done on a share basis.

It is understood that the company will put in larger smelting machinery since its operations have proved a success.

Two small touring parties will arrive from the south on the steamer Prince George this afternoon and proceed East by train.

The California Canadian Holiday party consists of eleven persons originating in Philadelphia. It was organized by Miss Ivy Woods, sister of Malcolm Woods, former purser of the steamer Prince George, and L. J. Santamaria is in charge.

The Raymond Whitecomb party consists of ten persons from California, bound East.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Four persons were killed when the newly built cabin monoplane crashed to the ground shortly after beginning an exhibition flight. The dead are the designer, Osmond Belcher, his wife and child and Pilot Creeth.

Another Japanese Ship Is Lost at Sea and 169 Persons go down on her

TOKIO, July 28. — One hundred and sixty-nine persons were drowned in the wrecked steamer Tairei Maru off Cape Notoro last night, says a despatch received here. The vessel which is a freighter but which was on a trip carrying passengers, is believed to have struck a rock, but a second despatch says it was due to a collision with the steamer Kambara Maru. All aboard the ship were Japanese. The dead comprise 138 passengers and a crew of 54. Eighteen of the passengers and five members of the crew survive, reaching Toyohara in lifeboats.

The disaster is the second serious one in Japanese marine annals within a month, the steamer Matsuami Maru having foundered near Formosa with a loss of 58 on July 11.

CABINET TO MEET THE TIMBER INTERESTS IN REGARD TO ROYALTIES

Public Hearing Granted For Early In September At Victoria.

It is announced by the Minister of Lands that a public hearing will be given the timber interests at Victoria early in September for the purpose of hearing a protest from the timbermen against the present system of collecting timber royalties, with particular regard to its application to the condition that will exist after the end of this year.

Representations have been made to the Government that enforcement of the rate of royalties collectable after the beginning of the year would cause a hardship to the industry and would result in a general shut down. In order to thoroughly inform themselves in regard to the situation the cabinet is prepared to meet the timbermen and hear any evidence they may have to give in connection with the problem.

MEET AVIATOR WITH SKIRL OF BAGPIPES

Proposal Made That Highlanders Should Turn Out In Native Dress.

The proposal has been made, and has met with considerable support, that the Highlanders of the city should turn out in their native dress and accompanied by as many bagpipes as possible, should greet Stuart MacLaren, the British round the world aviator, on his arrival here in his airplane.

It is pointed out that there are at least three bagpipe players in the city and a number of boys and girls, as well as men, who have kilts. These could make quite a showing and when photographed and sent out to the outside newspapers would prove an interesting souvenir of the visit.

The launch on which the Highlanders go out to Seal Cove could be decorated with the Scottish flag and the MacLaren tartan.

SWEPT FROM A FISHING BOAT AND DROWNED

John Suden Loses Life When Sailing Out to the Salmon Fishing off Tugwell Island

When sailing out to the fishing grounds yesterday on a boat belonging to the Prince Rupert cannery, John Suden of this city was thrown from the boat, having been apparently struck by the boom and was drowned. The accident happened shortly before the fishing began. There was a heavy sea running at the time and a brisk westerly breeze. A number of the boats were tacking against it and picnickers at Tugwell noticed the unusual sight of one of the boats turning and sailing back across the bar as if deciding not to fish that evening.

There was an Indian on the boat with Suden and he reports that nothing was seen of the man once he fell into the water, the inference being that he may have been stunned by the blow from the boom.

Suden leaves a widow and one infant child. He was an Austrian by birth but had lived here since the early days. For several years he worked at the Boston Grill. He was over forty years of age.

Difficulty Of Working When Weather Is Hot.

People here just now can quite understand why the people of tropical or semi-tropical countries are not as full of enthusiasm and energy as are those of the north. Often we complain of the cold but it is the coolness of these climates that makes for our progress, initiative and success. Canadians are in demand in the United States because they have been brought up to be active. They have not been trained to lethargy by example and precept. A few hot days make a pleasant change but as a steady thing, heat is to be avoided.

Let MacLaren Know This A British Country.

It has been suggested that as this is the first British soil Stuart MacLaren, the aviator, will have reached since leaving Hong Kong, he and his companions should be made to know it in some very conspicuous manner.

It is to be assumed that he will land at Seal Cove and the scheme as outlined is to have the Cove decorated with Canadian and British flags. Every available spot should be flag-bedecked. Even the float to which he is to tie might well have the Union Jack conspicuously flying, the buildings all around and the shore line and boats in the cove all would be decorated in the same way and pictures of these would be shown in such a way as to let the world know that this place is British and is out to do honor to the Britisher that has made such a splendid effort in his long and trying flight.

Details in the way of banners or streamers might be worked out that would be particularly attractive and striking and would add to the effectiveness of the scheme.

Doubtless the local regiment, the war veterans, the Daughters of the Empire and others would join in making this event a really big one. Preparations would have to be made in advance and it is possible the time may not be long before he is here. No one can say just when the British flyer will arrive but it should be within two weeks and possibly less.

If the weather is like it is today it would be a unique occasion.

Further suggestions will be gladly received and passed on by this paper. Citizens are reminded that this is an event that will be recorded all over the world and anything we can do here, if of sufficient interest, will be telegraphed to the ends of the earth.

Rupert People Will Understand.

Prince Rupert people will quite understand the sentiment expressed in the following editorial from "Overseas" published by the Overseas League in Great Britain:

"The weather is not what is used to be," so say the grumblers among us, and they call to our minds the wonderful summer of four years ago, when day of sunshine succeeded day of sunshine and from February to September we only had a dozen or so days of rain.

"But humanity has a curious way of forgetting the unpleasant things of life and remembering only the pleasant, and hence during the rest of the year, when we think of June, we call to mind memories of a month of roses, of blue skies and summer heat. As a matter of fact, despite our grumbles, if we are of a statistical frame of mind and cared to page through the past meteorological records we would probably find that a wet June was no uncommon event.

"The charm of our British climate is that you never know what quite to expect of it. Just when you have donned your summer clothing in all probability you have to put up with two or three weeks of damp or raw days. Certainly during the past four weeks we have had more than our fair share of thunderstorms and downpours of almost tropical intensity."

THREE PILLARS OF THE INDUSTRY

PROGRESS OF PROVINCE DUE TO MAINTENANCE OF HUGE PURCHASING POWER.

Vast Developments By Land And Sea Due to the Initiative Of Lumbermen.

There are three great spending forces in the British Columbia forest industries with its purchasing power of $100,000,000 per annum.

1. The Timberholder — the pioneer investor in the raw material.

2. The Logger—the harvester of the timber crop.

3. The Manufacturer — the builder up of markets.

Upon the unimpeded functioning of these branches depends the fair progress of British Columbia's vital industry. A setback to one spells disaster to all three.

The timberholders of the province, faced with fire and storm risks against which there is no insurance, have contributed over $45,000,000 to the provincial treasury during the last fifteen years. A world's record in similar taxation.

The loggers spend annually very large sums on new and costly equipment to keep pace with modern science and overcome the ever varying obstacles that nature puts in their paths. Eight hundred miles of private railroads, now in actual operation, is one memorial of this energy.

The manufacturers of lumber, shingles, pulp and paper boxes and other forest products are also forced to expend millions every year on new machinery to maintain the efficiency of their plants. In that way alone can they meet the keen world competition and justify their product. The British Columbia lumber manufacturers, by dint of strenuous market extension work have increased their export shipments twelvefold in ten years. Their efforts have indisputably been the main factor in building up the sea ports of British Columbia.

This series of articles communicated by the Timber Industries Council of British Columbia.

HARD TIME WHEN BOAT BROKE DOWN

Natives of Kitkatla Rigged up Temporary Cooling Apparatus to Take Place of Pump

The seine boat Doreen N. had a difficult time getting here from Lowe Inlet. She left there yesterday at noon and did not reach port until eight this morning. Capt. John M. Nelson of Kitkatla reported that the pump broke down and in order to travel they rigged up barrels on deck and by dipping water from the sea kept a small stream of water running through the engine cooler and were thus able to make the trip. As a barrel of water was needed every fifteen minutes they were kept working hard all the time and took two hour shifts all night.

In addition to Capt. Nelson on the boat was Henry Brown, engineer, and Cecil Russ and Wilfrid Booth.

RATTENBURY TO PAY ALIMONY

Head Of Talkwa Firm Resident of Victoria. Sued By Wife For Non-Support.

F. M. Rattenbury, head of Rattenbury Lands, Ltd., a firm that within the past few years operated extensively in selling wild lands to settlers, was sued by his wife in Victoria and ordered to pay $300 a month until such time as a divorce suit against him can be heard. He is well-known in the northern interior where he purchased large tracts of wild lands from the Government during the McBride-Bowser regime, and later sold a large part of it to settlers. The case was heard in supreme court chambers, Robert Cassidy, K.C., acting on behalf of Mrs. Rattenbury and H. A. Maclean for the defendant. Reporting the case, the Victoria Times says:

Lived Apart Ten Years.

Taking the stand in support of an affidavit alleging desertion and non-support, Mrs. Rattenbury stated that she had been married twenty-six years to the respondent. The past ten years they had lived apart, though sharing the same house. This was the residence at 1701 Beach drive. The past six months, witness said, she had been deserted in the house except for the presence of her two children, a boy and a girl, both now grown-up adult age.

For four years she had received no money from respondent, continued witness, but the house bills had always been paid. Within the past two months the bills were no longer paid, and she had no money with which to carry on. The water and electric light had been turned off at the house, and even two servants formerly employed, had been taken to the four-room dwelling now inhabited by respondent in James Bay district.

Men acting on the orders of the respondent, alleged witness, stripped the Beach drive home of all its furniture. A couch and a stove, with some meagre essentials were the only articles left, she continued.

The petitioner requested alimony, even on a temporary basis, by means of which she could support herself and obtain her civil right at law. Without this redress she could not even prosecute her suit, it was pointed out by Mr. Cassidy, in an impassioned address to the court.

Husband's Earnings.

Questioned on the income of the respondent witness could not state the amount, but pointed to the professional services of her husband, who had designed the Parliament Buildings, the Empress Hotel, the Bank of Montreal, a C.P.R. hotel in the mountains, and more latterly the C. P. R. terminal building, and the amusement centre project. Witness understood her husband held $38,500 in valuable brewery stock in Alberta, but could not say for certain what income he derived from this or other investments.

Mr. Maclean challenged the assertion that the respondent was a wealthy man. He said the sum of $400,000 had been dropped in unimproved farm land in this province, and the income now was of such a nature that the one-fifth available for alimony would be negligible.

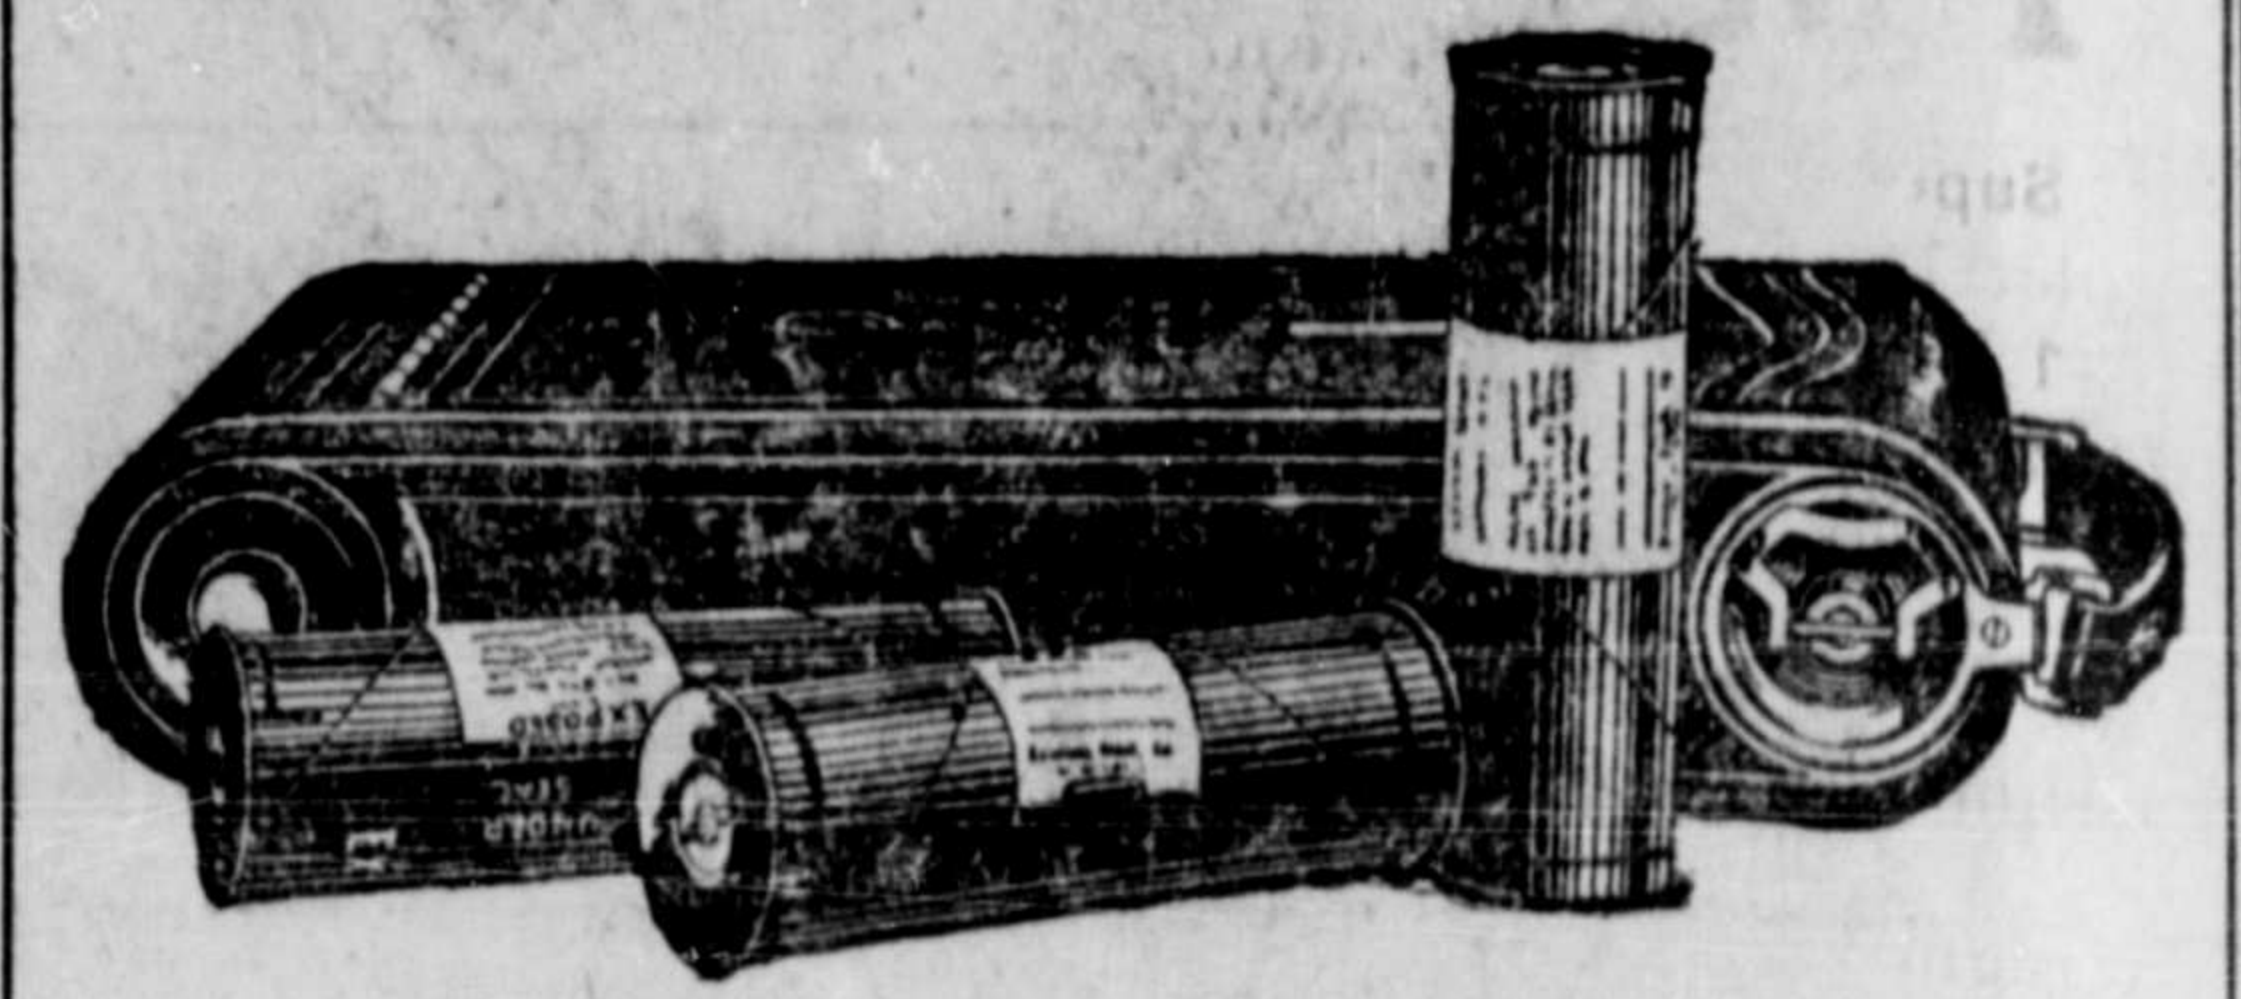

Remarking on the absence of the respondent, who did not appear to answer to the allegations made by petitioner, Mr. Justice McDonald made the award stated. The order was intended as a temporary measure, he said, not as a final solution of the problem.

ELKS VISIT TO KETCHIKAN WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Entertainment Put on Before Crowded House: Baseball Honors Divided

After a successful trip featured by the hospitality which was accorded them at Ketchikan, the Elks' minstrels, baseball players and excursionists comprising a party which numbered nearly 200 persons returned on the Prince John from Ketchikan at 4.45 this morning. The local minstrels and entertainers scored a distinct hit in the show they staged in the Alaska town on Saturday evening. Baseball honors yesterday afternoon were divided, Ketchikan winning the first game by 10 to 3 and Prince Rupert the second by 3 to 1.

Too Late for Game
Leaving here at 6.45 Saturday morning, the Prince John reached Ketchikan at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and the visitors were given an enthusiastic welcome. It was too late to stage the first baseball game as had been planned so the local people made arrangements for their accommodation at the Hotel Stedman and aboard the steamer. After supper, the minstrel party, joined by the Ketchikan city band, paraded the streets as a prelude to the opening of the show. The entertainment was held in the Coliseum and, before the curtain went up, people were being turned away from the doors. The show was similar to that staged here with a few changes. H. Astori, Joe Hatchford, J. Mitchell, Jack Cobb, Art Easson and Harry Seaton were end men in the minstrel circle. In connection with the plantation scenes, Mrs. Jarvis McLeod sang solos, H. Seaton played banjo solos, W. Balagno, violin solos, Miss Louie Fisher saxophone solos, sextette by Jimmie Mitchell, George Waddell, Bert Morgan, J. Pinder-Moss, H. B. Stiles and Harvey Fraser while Harry Astoria gave barnyard impersonations which brought down the house. Frank Balagno of Victoria played the cello in the orchestra. The large audience seemed highly pleased with the entertainment offered.

After the show, a dance was given by the Ketchikan people in honor of their visitors. There was a large attendance and the affair was in progress until 2 o'clock in the morning.

Baseball Games
Sunday afternoon was devoted to the baseball games. In the first match the Prince Rupert infield was off color and, due to the errors of the locals, the Ketchikan team got off to an early start ending up at the close of the seven innings victors by 10 to 3. Fortin and McKeown comprised the Prince Rupert battery and Bennett and Ireland pitched and caught respectively for Ketchi-

Returning Home
Immediately after the ball games, the excursionists made ready for the return sail home, leaving Ketchikan at six o'clock. Some 40 ladies made the trip and they had the first claim on the sleeping accommodation of the boat last night. On their arrival home this morning, many remarks of appreciation were made by the local excursionists on the hospitality that had been extended them at Ketchikan.

At the ball games, the Prince Rupert team was given great support by local rooters under the leadership of Jimmie Mitchell. Arrangements are already under way for a return excursion to Prince Rupert from Ketchikan. This will likely take place at the time of the fair in September. A baseball team will come here if the arrangements are successfully carried through.

Sport Chat

The following is the outdoor sport card for the week:
Monday—Callies vs. G.W.V.A., Stuart Shield series.
Wednesday—Lacrosse.
Thursday—S.O.C. vs. S.O.E., Stuart Shield series.
Friday—Trap shooting at Park Avenue.

Jack Burns the Spokane wrestler, who is to meet Nels Jepson, the Canadian light-heavyweight champion, here, on August 5, is taking his training very seriously and is leaving nothing to chance as far as his physical condition is concerned. He has taken over the Elks' gymnasium and puts in some hard work every afternoon from 4 o'clock. It is very interesting to see the Spokane boy going through his stunts and gives the amateur a good idea of what the professional has to contend with in preparing for a match. Burns has everything to win, and Jepson has everything to lose in the forthcoming encounter, which should put a rattling wrestling bout "on ice" for the fans. Burns certainly shows up in his training as someone not to be treated lightly when it comes down to the winning of championships.

It would seem that the game of lacrosse has taken a decided setback this year. For the past two weeks the scheduled Wednesday night game has been called off. The lacrosse association has been badly handicapped by the unfortunate illness of Harry Lipsell, who has worked hard to bring the game before the Prince Rupert public. Another aspect of the case is the number of athletic meets held locally while the number of players is somewhat limited. However, probably when Harry gets around again, and it is to be hoped he will soon be back with us, that some impetus will be given to the sticks and pads and arrangements made for the finishing of the series.

DAVIS LIKELY FOR PRESIDENT

Broad Gauged Foreign Policy Would Follow Election Of Democrat in U.S.

Washington, July 28. (By Canadian Press)—Should John W. Davis, the nominee of the democratic party for President, be successful in the election, this country may look forward to a broad-gauged foreign policy. This is the opinion of men best acquainted with Mr. Davis. He has had an unusual experience as a public man and has had the advantage of extensive diplomatic training.

In addition to this, Mr. Davis served in the House of Representatives and made a remarkable record as an advocate while Solicitor General of the United States. As Solicitor General, he ranked next to the Attorney General and was the active law officer of the Department of Justice. In most of the great cases before the supreme court, in which the government was involved, Mr. Davis, as Solicitor General, presented the arguments for the government. Besides, Mr. Davis has been head of the American Bar Association and until he was nominated was connected with one of the foremost law firms of New York.

Such an experience, it is pointed out, ought to qualify an able man for the presidency and for handling the international affairs of that office in a broad way.

League Of Nations. Mr. Davis believed the United States should enter the League of Nations. How far he will urge this if he becomes President cannot be said. However, he will undoubtedly support adherence to the world court, and his friends say he may be relied on to do everything in reason to help in clearing up the European situation. Good relations on the western continent, with Canada, and with all of Latin America, are things Mr. Davis thoroughly believes in.

It is too early to tell whether Mr. Davis has a real chance of election. One thing which is certain is that the Republican leaders have decided to shift their plan of campaign to a considerable extent by reason of his nomination. They will pay much more attention than they intended to the campaign in the east.

This is in recognition of the fact that Mr. Davis will make a great effort to win New York and New Jersey, and a few other eastern states, and that he may prove to be strong there. As the South, plus a few eastern states, would bring him right up to the point of election, the Republican leaders recognize the need of precautions in the eastern territory.

WEEK AT THEATRE

Monday and Tuesday 'The Law Forbids' Cameo Comedy: 'Rain Drops' International News. Wednesday and Thursday 'Strongheart' The wonder dog in 'The Love Master' Comedy Cartoon 'Felix Revolts' Fox News-Gazette. Friday and Saturday Reginald Denny in 'Sporting Youth.' Fun from the Press.

THE LAW FORBIDS IS COMING TONIGHT

Divorce Problem Play to be Seen at Westholme Has Baby For Central Figure

A problem play with a baby as the central figure, or perhaps a Baby Peggy play with a problem as a background—it is difficult to decide just which of these descriptions best fit 'The Law Forbids,' which comes tonight.

It is a dramatic story of a separated couple with a child, told from the child's standpoint. She wants the love of both her parents; they embark on a 'trial separation' with various legal regulations regard the baby's custody. The law doesn't consider the child, of course; courts are more concerned with property settlements and alimony claims. But the court decides that the child is to remain with each parent for a six months' period.

'The Law Forbids' tells the child's side of the average American divorce problem; Baby Peggy voices the plea of thousands of children of divorced parents; a plea that has never been heard before. It is this that makes Bernard McConville's story one of the outstanding features on the screen, especially when the futility of hasty divorce is portrayed by the child's parents realizing their mistakes immediately after parting.

The baby romps through the dramatic action that forms a background for her tricks with a pet rooster and other endearing little things that lead up to the big climax. Then she turns tragedienne, and in the simple and direct way of childhood settles the problem that jurists and sociologists can do nothing with but debate over, or quibble endlessly without showing definite results.

STRONGHEART IN THE LOVE MASTER

Wonderful Dog Hero of Story of Far North; Plenty of Thrills

Ever since Strongheart jumped into fame as a star in 'The Silent Call' fans have been writing, 'Give him a chance to do more,' and in 'The Love Master' Laurence Trimble, his trainer and director, gives a full hearted response to this demand. For 'The Love Master' is Strongheart's story from the beginning to the end. He is there 'doing his stuff' every foot of the film and developing one of the finest dramatic productions that we have ever had the pleasure of seeing. Strongheart makes his first appearance in the opening scene and retires only to give the final fade-out to one of his sons, a quizzical, little, floundering puppy who tempts you to hold on to your seat and stay for the next show.

Sally Comes In Strongheart has deserted his legal master to go with his love master to seek refuge in a northern trading post. His master, played by Harold Austin, is attracted immediately by Sally, the niece of the two men who own the general store, and Strongheart sets about winning the heart of Sally so that he may turn it over to his master. This accomplished he turns to the satisfaction of his own heart tugs, and there follows a splendid sequence of comedy and pathos with no human appearing in any of the scenes. Strongheart gains his heart's desire and so returns to find if there is anything more he can do for his master.

Fight With Death There is plenty. His master is down with pneumonia. Strongheart nurses him through that

Vision as Applied to Railroading

Are you color-blind? Short- or long-sighted? Slightly deaf? You may be, without knowing it. If you have never been tested.

These physical deficiencies, in some walks of life, are of little importance. But in railroading certain responsible positions require perfect vision, color-sense and hearing.

The examination of applicants to positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, watchmen and others directly concerned with the safety of trains, and the periodical re-examination of successful candidates, in these vital matters is the business of the railroads. In the Canadian Pacific, which provides an outstanding example of the care with which they are conducted, there is a special department charged with this work. It is called the Time Service and Vision, Color-Sense and Hearing Department.

All applicants for the positions already referred to, which demand a high standard in vision, color-sense and hearing, are required to pass an applicant examination and, if successful, must pass a further examination at least every two years thereafter, and in some instances more frequently, according to the diminution of their vision or hearing. They are also re-examined after any accident in which they are either directly or indirectly involved and which may have been caused by defective sight, hearing or color-sense. In addition, following any serious injury or illness or severe inflammation of either the eyes or eyelids, they are again re-examined and, not content with this, the regulations of the Canadian Pacific require them to face the examiner whenever they are slated for promotion.

Caution and regard for the public safety could hardly go further than this!

The tests employed are exhaustive and are so arranged as to approximate as closely as possible to actual conditions likely to be met with in their work by those examined. Applicants for positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and others similarly employed are required to pass the near and far vision tests without glasses. If, at first of the periodical re-examinations, employees in these positions are found to be in need of glasses, they are allowed to wear them, provided they bring the vision up to the required standard. Applicants for other positions may wear glasses for near or far vision, depending on their work. All glasses must be approved by the company and every employee using them is obliged to carry a second pair for emergencies.

The vision test, which is held indoors, involves the reading of Snellen test types, including letters of varying sizes, at a distance of twenty feet or less, and the reading of an American Railway Association standard reading card for testing near vision.

Applicants and employees examined for hearing must have normal hearing in each ear. They are obliged to repeat correctly train orders given in a normal voice at a distance of twenty feet. How important this is will readily be recognized by those who recollect the difficulties of making out conversation through the noise of a locomotive with steam up or through the clamour of wind or rain. A mistake in a few all-important syllables under these conditions may easily be made unless one has perfect hearing.

Most interesting of the examinations is that for color-sense. The men are asked to identify colors displayed by a Williams lantern and to pass a Holmgren or Thompson color-selection test. The latter test is held in broad daylight. A large number of skeins of wool of varying colors, called confusion colors because they are specially selected with a view to confusing the color-blind, are placed before the examinee. The examiner tells him to pick out all the wools which have red, green or some other color in them or perhaps to match them in shades. The man obeys and in a moment reveals his weakness, if he has any.

In the Williams lantern test the applicant is taken into a dark room. At one end of this room, twenty feet away, is the apparatus, consisting of an electric lantern on the front of which is a revolving disc containing a number of segments of glass, each in a varying shade of red, green, yellow, purple or blue, as well as white, all colors employed by the railways in their signals. The examinee switches on the light and turns the disc, requiring the man to name the colors displayed as the segments pass before the lens. In turn, small red, green, yellow, purple, blue or white circles of light, in varying shades, singly or in combinations of two or three, become visible. 'What are they?' asks the examiner. 'White—blue and red—light green and dark green,' says the applicant, and so on, naming the colors as he sees them.

These wool and lantern tests reveal to an astonishing extent the prevalence of color-blindness. Fully four per cent. of the applicants are color-blind without knowing it and will not believe it when the examiner gently but firmly points out the fact. As it is, of course, vital that all men whose positions involve or might involve the reading of signals and all applicants for those positions should have an accurate color-sense, no color-blind person has the slightest chance of passing.

The number of men, applicants and employees, examined on a system so enormous as the Canadian Pacific is very great. Approximately nine hundred appear before the examiners every month on the Eastern lines alone, and between 13,000 and 15,000 employees on the Eastern lines come up for re-examination every two years. The figures for Western lines are approximately the same. It will readily be understood that the entire system would be disorganized if these men, many traveling long distances, had to report to the offices of the Chief Examiners for their tests. The Canadian Pacific therefore retains two special cars, one of the Western and one on the Eastern lines, which are specially fitted as travelling-test rooms and are continually on the move. It takes these cars two years to make the round of the stations within their jurisdiction, examining applicants and the employees of the company. So, year in and year out, the Canadian Pacific continues these exhaustive tests which have as their object the maintenance of safety and efficiency.

HUMOROUS SCENE IN SPORTING YOUTH IS COMING THIS WEEK

An inherent trait of human nature that is perhaps universal is the faculty for seeing humor in another's misfortune, in reducing to comic triviality affairs or happenings which may be of tragic import to the person directly involved. 'Another's hard luck is always great fun' is the sense way it was summarized by Reginald Denny, the popular film actor.

This phase of human nature has been cleverly capitalized for a laugh in a sequence of Denny's latest feature, 'Sporting Youth,' to be played here at the week end.

CHINESE RAIN GOD BRINGS MUCH NEEDED AID TO PEASANTS

Tablet is Brought To Peking And At Once The Welcome Showers Commence.

PEKING, July 25.—The first rainfall of any consequence in Peking and vicinity during the present year occurred May 21. It rained again May 22. The drouth was the most prolonged for several years.

There is little of the unusual in the above facts. Springs are apt to be dry in north China. The noteworthy feature is the fact that the rainfall coincided with a solemn ceremony performed in Peking to Yu Shen, the god of rain.

Sent Invitation.

Prompted by the distress of agriculturists whose crops have been all but ruined by the drouth, Peking official and religious bodies issued an invitation to the officials of Shantung to send to the capital a historical iron tablet of the Ming Dynasty which is said to have a record for producing rain. According to a story which is widely accepted by the Chinese, a magistrate of Hantiansien, Shantung, in the days of the Ming emperors, became so concerned over the sufferings of his people because of drouth that he cast himself into a well as a sacrifice to the gods.

On the following day rain fell and the drouth was broken.

Out of gratitude for their deliverance the people built a temple and enshrined in it an iron tablet inscribed with the name of the martyr and a record of his deed. The then emperor, when the facts were related to him, was so impressed that he conferred upon the magistrate's name the title of Yu Shen. In the years following the tablet has been brought at intervals to Peking when the necessity for appealing to the rain god became acute, as in the present instance.

Placed in Chair.

A day or two ago the tablet arrived. It was reverently placed in a yellow sedan chair, and with much ceremony borne to a temple inside the Forbidden City. There a ceremony was enacted before it with incense and kowtowing exactly as was done in the imperial days. Officials of the Boy Emperor's court and of the republic participated side by side.

Gandhi Wonderful Figure in Life of Hindoo People

In accordance with the custom of his people Gandhi was married at the early age of twelve, says Romain Holland, the French author, who has written a book about his life. When he was 19 his parents sent him to London to study at the London University—his mother not consenting to let him go till she had bound him by a threefold vow, of abstinence from meat and from wine, and of complete chastity. Here for three years he gave himself up to a life of strict discipline and severe work.

It is interesting to know that Gandhi is a lover of Plato, that he has translated Ruskin, that he admires Mazzini, and that Thoreau, speaking from the green fastnesses of Walden Pond, found a ready listener in him. Strangely enough it was while in London that he first came upon the Bhagavad Gita, and it was to him the fountain of living waters for which his thirsty soul had been crying out.

Gandhi's faith is the keynote of his whole being, he is a man on fire with God, on fire with love. A Hindoo of the Hindoos, the truth has come to him through the channels of his own religion, but he knows nothing of exclusivism.

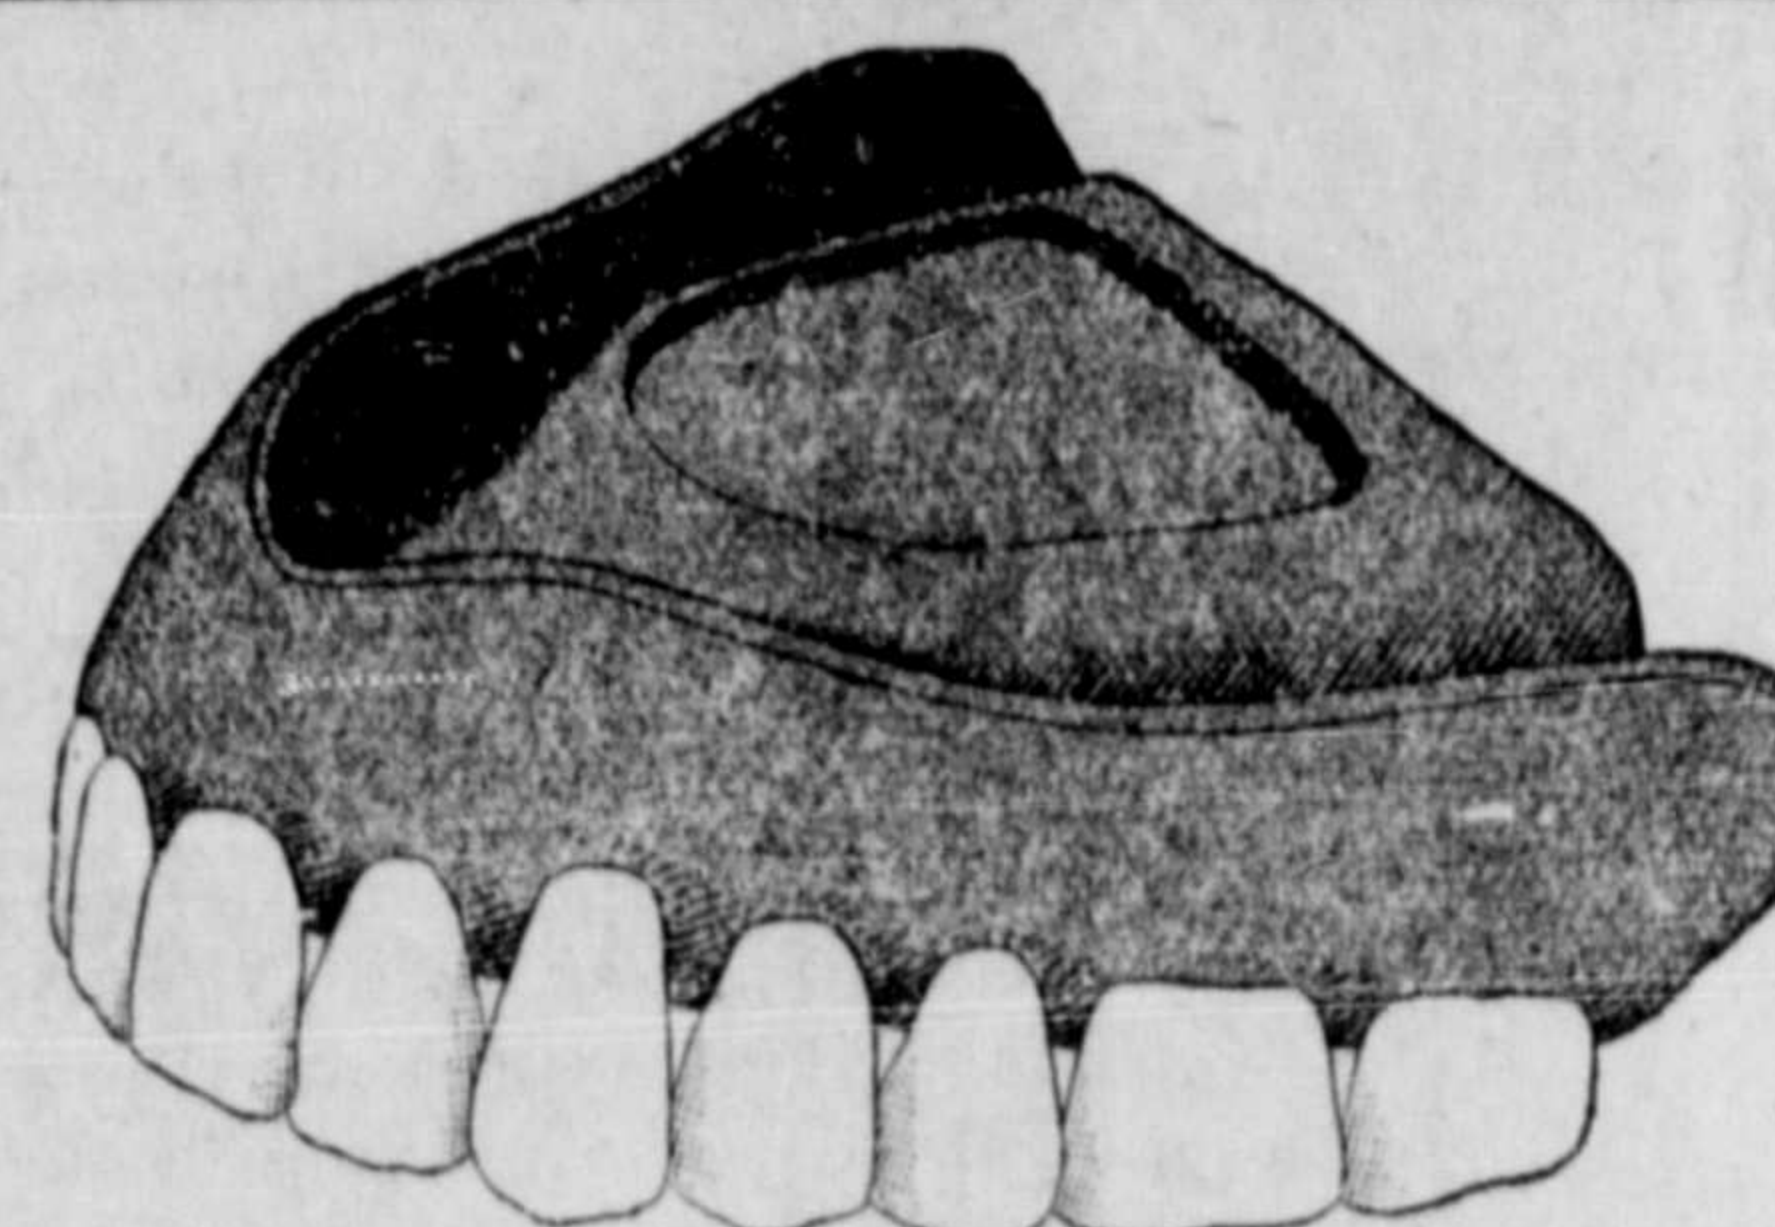

All Divine Books.

"I believe," he writes in the Hind Swaraj "that the Bible, the Koran and the Zend-Avesta are as divinely inspired as the Vedas."

And again, "All religions are different parts leading to the same goal." It was in the New Testament, he says, that first he found that ideal of long-suffering and of meek endurance to which has been given his lifelong allegiance, the ideal which leads, though maybe through death, most surely at last to Victory. "Christianity is part of my theology. Christ was a resplendent revelation of God" is his testimony.

He dreams, as have dreamt before him so many saints, of the great day of unity, the day when East and West and North and South will stand side by side, and with faces unveiled, in the Kingdom of God. He would fain hasten with a sweetness and gentleness which no harsh treatment has ever been known to shake or ruffle. His heart has learnt its pity from the depths of the unfathomable pity of God, and his ears are ever open to the cries of the oppressed.

FIREMAN'S HOUSE ESCAPED FROM BLAZE

Attempt To Set Fire To Place Did Not Materialize Yesterday Morning.

Youthful depredations at the home of J. W. Moorehouse, 1216 Eighth Avenue East, yesterday morning were nearly attended with serious consequences.

City Police Sergeant A. H. Bailey was notified by phone that someone was attempting to fire the house while Mr. Moorehouse was away at work at the Fire Hall and Mrs. Moorehouse was at a picnic. The officer investigated and found that the house had been entered through a window being broken into. Curtains, blinds, the floor and woodwork in a bedroom were found to be burned and there were also burns on matting in the kitchen. The water was running in a tap and outside a gasoline torch was lying on the ground. It is believed that boys had entered the house with the torch and set the place afire, later becoming frightened and putting the fire out themselves. When the officer arrived there was no one around, but the prints of shoes, about size six, were plainly discernible.

Even in the blouses of two-piece frocks the belt is as silent as it is in other styles that follow the present narrow tube lines.

THE two-piece frock with a straight skirt scarcely widened by its groups of plaits makes an extremely useful Summer costume for the young girl. The skirt is mounted on a long body lining so that it can also be worn with other slip-on blouses or sweaters. The blouse is frequently in contrast anyway in the models one sees in the smart Fifth Avenue shops—a skirt of white flannel, for instance, will be shown with the blouse in scarlet, powder-blue or almond-green flannel; or the skirt will be of tan wool jersey and the sleeveless blouse of brown jersey with a tan collar.

CORK LEG SAVED MAN FROM SUICIDE

NEW YORK, July 28.—Russell B. Hayward, 39, is alive today because he has a cork leg. Homeless and despondent, he attempted to drown himself in New York Bay at Battery Park, recently, but his cork leg kept him afloat long enough to interfere with his plan. The leg also interfered with his rescue, when James Weiber dived after Hayward, who was floating with his leg in the air.

After a struggle in which Weiber, fully clothed, had the worst of it, he overpowered Hayward and then caught a line from an excursion boat.

GIRL DROWNS WHEN ROWBOAT UPSETS

EDMONTON, July 25.—While boating with another girl on Shoal Lake, about sixty miles northwest of Edmonton, Miss Inglik Nelson, sixteen years of age, was drowned, when the rowboat filled with water and sank. Her friend, Miss Alaburd, was rescued by people on the shore.

The two girls were only about thirty yards from the shore when their boat collapsed, and every effort was made to save them. Miss Nelson's body was recovered by a search party later in the evening.
