British Budget is Popular but Conservatives Object to Dropping of Imperial Preference Policy

LONDON, April 30.—This morning's newspapers of all shades of political opinion generally concede that the budget introduced by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, is a very clever one, and one which on the whole is bound to be distinctly popular throughout the country.

The Conservative press gives expression to the fears that the dropping by the government of imperial preference will be resented by the Dominions. The Morning Post says it is a staggering shock to the Empire and the Daily Telegraph declares that the ensuing disappointment, embitterment and dissension within the Empire must be borne by the combination of parties which fathers this reversal of policy.

Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, lauded Mr. Snowden with the readiness on the part of the government to have a trading agreement with Russia but not with Canada or Australia.

Politician Is Important Factor.
"For the work of free democracy the politician is essential," says David Lloyd George, one of the greatest politicians of the age, in an article published some time ago.

Politics is the science of government, and it needs training just as does any other science. In his article Mr. Lloyd George says that to make a success of political life a person needs "at least every quality of capacity and character which is necessary to command success in any other walk of life. Like any other career, politics demands intelligence, insight, imagination, concentration, industry, uprightness in life and conduct. Every lapse is a handicap which weighs you down in the race and slackness of every kind is in the end fatal. The rotten branch soon breaks under the strain of political life. You may win popularity with meretricious gifts but you can never retain it without real quality."

Courage Needed In Order To Succeed.
Britain's former premier sets courage as the first attribute leading to success. Politicians work in an atmosphere of criticism and censure. "There are men engaged and organizations maintained for the purpose of disparaging, finding fault and condemning politicians—their principles, their words, their actions. Every deed and phrase is scrutinized by trained eyes with microscopic minuteness and blemishes and if not exaggerated, are at least presented in the dimensions in which they appear through the microscope."

The writer of the article refers to the criticism which the politician has to undergo and he suggests that if other professional men were to be criticized similarly, an eminent surgeon might read after an operation: "We are loth to dwell on the horrible scenes that were enacted yesterday at the operating theatre of St. Blank's when Sir Ruthless Gutter performed what ought to have been a perfectly simple operation in a manner which would have disgraced a mere novice. We hate using the word 'butchery' but the English language in all its opulence can furnish us with no other equally appropriate."

Discount Both Praise and Blame.
The British statesman says he doubts if such methods of carrying on the business of the country are the best possible. They are not encouraging, nerveing, agreeable or helpful. Intensity of hostility on the part of opponents rouses intensity of interest on the part of supporters and the politician has to discount both praise and blame. Thus only can a politician preserve his sanity. There are not many who survive but those who do are a hardy tribe.

Reward Of Best Is Opportunity For Service.
The reward of the politician is that he is given an opportunity to serve his country. It is the test of success. Getting into office is simply an opportunity for service. Some of the greatest politicians held office very little. Often the renown of the politician is won when he is not in office. Summing up Lloyd George says there is no other career except one in which a man who is fitted for it and devotes his energies to its tasks can do more for mankind.

INDIANS HERE 20,000 YEARS

So Says John P. Harrington of the Smithsonian Institute

That the Indians of this continent had an ancestry common with the Mongolian tribes of Siberia and crossed to Alaska over the Bering sea are conclusions of John P. Harrington of the Smithsonian institution. He fixes the discovery of the American continent by the Indian at more than 20,000 years ago. Explaining his belief that the Indians went directly to Alaska across the Bering sea, instead of over the chain of Aleutian islands at a time when the islands may have been an isthmus connecting the two continents, he says: "From a long strip of Siberian coast the Alaskan shore is in plain sight across Bering strait, which at one point is only 50 miles in width. The two small Diomedé islands also help to break the passage. This strip of water at times is frozen over, and could have been crossed either on the ice or in boats which were made by the Indians even at the earliest times.

"From my studies of the Indian races of the Pacific coast, I believe that the Indians, after crossing from Siberia, gradually spread from Alaska down the Pacific coast and thence over all North and South America. This is based on the singularity of physical characteristics, the widespread occurrence of customs and myths, and an exhaustive study of the languages."

YOU CAN EAT ANYTHING YOU LIKE AND NOT HAVE HEARTBURN
In all cases of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by a disturbed appetite, as when too much food is taken into the stomach it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour, vomiting occurs, and what is thrown up is generally sour and bitter. CONGREGATION IS DISTURBED

One of Elders and Lady of Congregation Take Exception to Remarks of Pastor

EXPRESSED VIEWS

Preacher Told That What he Was Saying Was Not According to Fact

(Mail Correspondence)
KINGSTON, April 30.—It is not often that members of a church congregation talk back at the preacher, but that is what happened here on Easter Sunday. Two of the members of Cooke's Presbyterian Church took exception to some remarks made by their pastor, Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson, in regard to Church Union. They rose from their seats and expressed themselves in no uncertain terms, causing quite a scene. Feeling runs high here in regard to Church Union and the opposition are very pronounced in their views.

Easter Message

Mr. Ferguson had commenced his Easter message, and during the course of his remarks he switched on to the question of Church Union, in which he is very much interested. He made reference to the fact that the members of the Presbyterian Church who are opposed to Church Union had circulated cards and asked the signatures of those who were in accord with the wording to be placed on the cards and returned to the anti-union committee. The remarks which Mr. Ferguson made in connection with this question did not appeal to one of the elders of the church, and he stood to his feet and told the pastor something to the effect, "The statements which he had just uttered were not according to facts, and that he did not think that Easter morning was the time to discuss Church Union."

Expressed Disapproval

After this elder had spoken, a lady who has been a member of the church for many years, expressed her disapproval of the pastor taking on the question of Church Union in the church in view of the fact that all the members of the congregation were not in accord with his views on the question. She suggested that if Mr. Ferguson thought that the Church Union question should be considered, it would be advisable for him to call a meeting for the purpose of discussing this question, and only those who were interested in the topic would be present. For a few minutes there was quite an interesting time, but Cooke's pastor continued his sermon. It is a well-known fact that Rev. Mr. Ferguson is a strong advocate of Church Union and on several occasions since coming to Kingston has expressed his views from the pulpit of the church.

Motorship Bellingham came into port this morning and discharged 32 tonnes of mild cured salmon for shipment east.

Sport Chat

Now that the bathing season has opened it seems high time that something should be done to improve and repair the facilities at the Salt Lake which are in a dilapidated if not unsafe condition at the present time. The diving tower is very shaky and the floats are waterlogged and lippy. The dressing rooms also are in rather bad shape. The whole equipment at the Salt Lake is in need of a general overhaul before swimming can again be enjoyed with comfort and safety.

Preparations are being rapidly completed for the annual spring meeting of the Telkwa Jockey Club at Telkwa on May 24. For the last two years the club has put on fine racing bills on Victoria Day and a card is being drawn up for this year that will equal if not exceed anything of the past. The races will be numerous and the purses good. There is keen competition in the

THE CROW OF CROUP A WARNING TO ALL MOTHERS

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croupy crow gives warning of the disease. The child, after coughing restlessly about, with start up with a flushed face, protruding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath and the expectation of the anxious mother is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy crow" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permanent relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this preparation.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."

Bulkley Valley among some of the owners and a good day's sport is assured. The day will be closed with a big dance in the evening. Visitors from all over the district are expected.

The Interior News comments as follows on bouts which took place at Smithers recently when two Prince Rupert boys participated in the program:

"W. Stewart of Prince Rupert and Ted Cochrane brought into their bout three rounds of snappy interchanges in which science was in evidence to a degree that justifies the prediction of a good future for both of the contenders. They manifested a love and willingness for mixing that made them one of great popularity with the fans."

"Speculation held the crowd in suspense for the main bout between Tommy Fraser of Prince Rupert and T. G. Martin of Smithers. Their mid-heavy interpretation of the game soon worked the crowd into a howling mob of excited fans who, in appreciation of the splendid exhibition, were liberal and impartial in their bestowings of appreciation and encouragement. It was one item of the twenty on the program that was alone worth the price of admission. There was little to choose between the two men."

GYROS TO BURY OLD MAN PESSIMISM AT MAY 24 CELEBRATION

VICTORIA, April 30.—Plans are to be perfected by the Gyro Club for the proper dispatch on May 24 of "Old Man Pessimism" who has been cutting something of a dash in certain quarters of this city for some time past.

At their regular monthly meeting the Gyros discussed the possibilities of developing a little more optimism in the city. The matter was broached by Earl Duke, who had just returned from a trip to the East, where he found conditions not to his liking. He was sorry to find in some stores in this city a feeling that business was bad.

"People out here don't know what they've got to be thankful for," commented Earl. "I think sometimes that we are spoiled. It's worth something to live in a town like this and instead of telling a person that things are bad when they enter our stores why not put on the sunshine smile and let them think the world's alright."

The formal burying of "Old Man Pessimism" will be the Gyro contribution to the annual festival.

PREMIER OLIVER'S VISIT TO OTTAWA

Effort to Create Mystery in Special Story Sent to Financial Post

The Financial Post special correspondent at Victoria sends the following despatch to his paper:

VICTORIA, April 30.—Mystery surrounds the visit of Premier John Oliver, of British Columbia, to Ottawa. He reached the Federal capital a few days ago for a series of conferences with Federal authorities and there are not a few politicians in the coast province who would eagerly seek an opportunity of learning the subject and trend of those conversations.

For this to be an election year in British Columbia. The last doubts that the Oliver administration would continue in office until the expiration of its term more than a year hence, were dispelled a few weeks ago when the government decided to consult the voters on the question of beer distribution and followed a few days later with an announcement that on the same day the beer plebiscite was taken a general provincial election would be held.

Time Uncertain

Just when the election will be held is still uncertain, in spite of many indications that the contest will be some time during the summer, probably in July. The government has given the order that all the voters' lists must be revised and ready for use by July 1, which is taken as a fairly safe bet that the Oliver administration will go to the country within the next month or so.

After making a series of more or less indefinite announcements regarding the government's election program and intimating that he would be ready to give out the date in a few days, Premier Oliver cancelled several speaking engagements and started for the east. He stated on the eve of his departure that he intended to discuss a number of matters concerning both the federal and provincial governments while in Ottawa, including the Peace River railroad project and the old stand-by, freight and express rates, but there are members of all political parties on the coast who wonder if there is not some deeper cause for the suddenly arranged tour. Some are wondering whether Mr. Oliver

THORNTON TO RY. EMPLOYEES

Sir Henry Gives Interesting Address Over Radiophone and Makes Request

WINNIPEG, April 30.—"Resolve to make a friend a day for your company. Believe in the future of Canada and in the early success of the company, and above all exert every effort to secure more business for the company and keep smiling." These were the admonitions placed before Western Canada employees of the Canadian National Railways in a speech broadcast through radio station CKY at Winnipeg last night by Sir Henry Thornton, K.B., chairman and president of the Canadian National system.

Sir Henry expressed his pleasure at being again in Western Canada and having the opportunity of speaking to his fellow workers. He reminded them that so far as the west was concerned, the business of the company was dependent upon a good crop. Last year the company had had a very satisfactory increase in gross earnings, so that it was only by the greatest efforts that this year's gross earnings could reach the $30,000,000 objective which had been set. That everyone was making that effort was evident from the returns to date, but there was a possibility of a falling off in business in the United States lines due to unsettled business conditions generally found in a presidential election year. Also the manufacturing districts of Canada might not have so much activity this year as last.

Increase Receipts
 The Canadian National Railways had only one problem Sir Henry stated, and that was to increase gross receipts. In one autumn month last year gross earnings had reached $25,000,000 and net earnings were over $5,000,000. If this could be continued throughout the year the National system would be meeting all its fixed charges and capital obligations. Individual and collective effort by every employee of the system would bring about the wanted increase, however, and only by this means could the objective be reached.

In January and February said the National president, the system had shown net earnings of $262,000 as compared with a deficit of approximately $3,270,000 in the same months of last year. With the approaching tourist season, it was necessary that every employee of the system use his utmost endeavors to maintain the good reputation for courtesy and service which the National Railways had gained, and in this regard, the making of a friend for the company each day was of great importance.

Few Requests
 In conclusion Sir Henry placed a few requests before his fellow workers—"Let every one of us resolve to make a friend a day for the company," he asked. Second, "Let us all exert every effort in procuring more business for the company." Third, "Let us hold our heads high and not only be proud of the reputation of the company and those who are in the service, but be prepared to defend both." Fourth, "Let us go about our work with courage, faith in the ultimate destiny of our dominion and confidence in the early success of our railway, and finally, what is more important, keep smiling."

FEARS HIGH RENTS

Editor Daily News,
 Now that we have the contract for the new steamer for the C. N.R. Alaska run, I think a little reflection would be timely, also an analysis of the results of the last shipbuilding that was done in our city. We all know that our population was between six and seven thousand before the last ships were built here, and we also know that after they were completed it dropped to 5,000.

Now, Mr. Editor, what was the reason for this? On analyzing the various causes we find that one of the main things that contributed to the depletion of our population at that time was the high rents, which, as everyone knows, increased 100 to 150 per cent and remained high even after the ships were built. Let us say that 70% of the people of our town did not receive one dollar benefit from the building of those ships, but, on the contrary, were compelled to pay double rents while those boats were under construction and for months afterwards, and they found our city too expensive a place to live in and were forced to leave, while those who were the means of driving these people out of town hold up their hands and say "What is the matter with our town?"

Make City Expensive

Are we going to go through the same experience again regarding high rents? Are men from the outside to come here to build this ship and then go away, taking the money they have earned with them, leaving us old-timers to foot the bills and pay the high rents and other profits that the few demand from us for allowing us the doubtful privilege of seeing a boat built in our city? Are we going to make our city so expensive a place to live in that we will look around after the boat is finished and the smoke cleared away and find that we have driven another thousand people from our city?

Mr. Editor, is the immediate dollar so all-important to our real estate and rental agents that they would rather have that immediate dollar and forego the many dollars that a sane and sensible policy of building up our city would bring to all concerned.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the valuable space allowed me,
 AN OLD TIMER.

INTO THE ATTIC

Few youngsters today ever saw a horse-hair sofa. They wouldn't know what to do with a fire taper, carpet stretcher, or coal oil lamp. They couldn't braid rags into a rug, or wind yarn without tangling. But they know the how and why of typewriters, phonographs, telephones, automobiles; what happens when a push of the button gives light, or a kodak's flash fixes their image on paper.

Their education is as modern as the advertisements they see. They have no more use for the lamp and chimney of yesterday than you for the wick and tallow of the day before.

Advertisements induce such progress. They urge wide use that means improvement. They help you lift the out-of-date into the attic—rid you of the water buckets and soap kettles of slavery. They bring late improvements within your reach.

Read the advertisements regularly. Keep alert to the new.

Without advertising, you would never know a product's worth until you had bought it.

PIONEER WOMAN OF NORTH COUNTRY

Nellie Cashman in Stewart After Visiting States and Calling on President

Nellie Cashman, Alaska's most famous woman, sourdough of sourdoughs and pioneer of the Cassiar district of British Columbia, arrived in Stewart yesterday on the Prince George says the Portland Canal News.

Miss Cashman left her mining operations in the Koyukuk district, away up near the Arctic Circle, last fall and has put in the winter travelling, incidentally selling stock in a company which she organized to enable her to prosecute her placer mining on a larger scale and with more modern methods. To look over the stubs of her stock books is to read the names of many prominent men and women of the north, as well as notables of the offete States.

Contrasts
 And there are contrasts. For instance one notices the names of Judge Elmer E. Ritchie of Valdez and Judge James Wickersham of Juneau in the same book. That is as close to being a friendly relation between these two worthies as can be conceived.

While in Washington City Miss Cashman called on President Coolidge, but his name does not appear in her stock books. Perhaps Teapot Dome Oil was ranking in his bosom at the time of her visit.

At Dease Lake
 Miss Cashman went into the Dease lake country at the time of the Cassiar excitement in 1875 and has since been identified with the north, though spending most of her time in Alaska.

She was found last night at the home of Kate Ryan, and needless to say there was no chance for a formal interview.

The Table Supply and Universal Trading Co. together are sure to turn $400,000.00 this year at the present pace. With very little additional expense we can add $100,000.00 to this mark. If we can get our turnover up to the half million mark we know we can reduce our overhead percentage of doing business, and pass this along to the public in reduced prices. MAHOMET AND MOUNTAIN

An old Irishman was told by his wife to paint the washhouse mangle while she was out shopping. On returning she could not find her husband in the washhouse, so she called on him, to be answered faintly from upstairs:

"What are you doing up there, Pat?"

"Painting the mangle," was the reply.

"Why did you take the mangle up there?"

"Sure, Bibby, because the paint was up here."—Yorkshire Post.
