U.S. FLIGHT COMMANDER IS MISSING AGAIN

SOUTHWESTERN STATES SET ABOUT TO RELIEVE STORM STRICKEN AREA

Major Martin Took off from Chignik at 11:10 Yesterday: Lost Since

Every Effort Being Bent Today to Ascertain Fate of Misfortune-dogged American Aviator

CORDOVA, May 1.—Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the United States army round the world flight, is missing again in the North Pacific. Yesterday morning at 11:10 he left Chignik for Dutch Harbor, where he was to have joined his three companion aviators. Up to 5 o'clock this morning no further trace had been obtained of him. All wireless communication is now being brought into play and every available vessel has been despatched to search for him. Major Martin was flying the flag ship of the aerial cruiser squadron, the Seattle, and his mechanic was Staff Sergeant A. L. Harvey.

At 2:25 this morning, after constant wireless communication with the whole of the north Pacific regions concerning his fate, there had been no word received of Major Martin.

SEATTLE, May 1.—Radio advices received here at 5 o'clock this morning from Alaska peninsula stated that no trace had been found of Major Martin. Fishing boats along the route are searching for the missing plane. A wireless message received at Bremerton naval station today from the cutter Algonquin is understood to mean that Major Martin, of whom no word has been received since he left Chignik yesterday morning, was somewhere between Chignik and the Shumagin Islands, 150 miles southwest of Chignik. The wireless station at Kodiak Island has been asked to broadcast a message to all vessels requesting them to search for Major Martin between Chignik and Shumagin.

Premier Ramsay Macdonald said the political situation in Europe must be smoothed out somewhat before the limitation of armaments could be discussed again.

Answering a question as to whether the five cruisers to be constructed by the British were outside the limitations of the Washington convention, the premier said "they were only partly in."

THE MONARCH OF THE ROCKIES

FEW camera enthusiasts approach Mount Robson, the monarch of the Canadian Rockies, without resolving to secure at least half a dozen good photographs of this towering peak for inclusion in their albums when they return home. And to assist the camera enthusiast in his or her laudable endeavor, the Canadian National Railways management has arranged that all trains passing the foot of Mount Robson and other towering peaks along the main line of the Canadian National will stop for five minutes at the foot of this mountain.

Mount Robson and Mount Robson Park is the mecca each year of thousands of tourists who have adopted the slogan "See Canada First" and in the fall big game hunting enthusiasts find that the territory surrounding Mount Robson is the finest big-game territory to be found on the American continent. There mountain sheep and goats, grizzly, black and cinnamon bear and a wide variety of large and small game are plentiful and within easy reach of the hunter who may be outfitted at the park headquarters.

The national parks are, of course, game sanctuaries, but game in the territory surrounding their borders is lawful prey for the hunter, and usually, in the vicinity of a park, game is plentiful.

Photograph shows Mount Robson, 13,008 feet in height, as it is seen from the north side, where the mighty peak towers 10,000 feet above the level of the valley. Each year intrepid climbers attempt to scale its heights, and find thrills aplenty in the attempt. The smaller picture inset shows Berg Lake, at the foot of Mount Robson near where the Alpine Club of Canada will this year hold its annual camp, in the heart of Canada's finest mountain scenery.

CHIEF JUSTICE DAVIES IS DEAD

Was Prominent Lawyer and Politician and Occupied Bench for Half Century

OTTAWA, May 1.—Chief Justice Sir Louis Davies died here early this morning. He was 79 years of age.

Hon. Sir Louis Davies, K.C., K.C.M.G., chief justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, occupied a prominent position in the legal profession, in the field of politics and finally on the bench for half a century. The late Chief Justice was a native of Canada's smallest province. He was born in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island.

Sir Louis Davies entered the field of politics as a Liberal at an early age. His early political activities were confined to his native province, where he gained the appointment of Solicitor-General in the year 1889. Three years later he was elected to the House of Assembly and in 1876 became Premier and Attorney-General of the Province. He remained in the office for three years, when he was defeated.

Was Minister

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier became Premier in 1896, he selected Sir Louis Davies as his Minister of Marine and Fisheries. While a member of the Laurier Cabinet, Sir Louis participated in a number of important international conferences.

Sir Louis Davies resigned his portfolio in the Cabinet on September 25, 1901, and was appointed to the Supreme Court Bench. On October 23, 1918, he was appointed Chief Justice of Canada, in succession to Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, and in December of the same year, he received the honor of appointment to the Imperial Privy Council.

DEAL DIRECT WITH GERMANY

Premier Macdonald Would Take Matter Out of Hands of Reparations Commission

LONDON, May 1.—When Premier Macdonald meets Premier Theunis and Paul Hymens of Belgium here tomorrow, the Belgian emissaries will be told that Great Britain desires to put the experts' reparations plan into effect by taking the matter out of the hands of the reparations commission and dealing directly with Germany in a new international conference.

In introducing the speakers Mr. Mackay referred to the monument of the Bowser Government, which was the railway that connected the G.T.P. with Vancouver and sidetracked Prince Rupert. He also ridiculed the efforts of Premier Oliver in regard to the freight rates equalization. He said the real issue was that while taxes in Quebec were only ten cents a head per day, here they were 64 cents per

MORE STOCK FOR WOODCOCK DAIRY

Robert Mackay Arrived There From Fraser Valley With Nineteen Head on Sunday

Robert Mackay, manager of the Woodcock Dairies Ltd., arrived at Woodcock on Sunday last bringing with him 19 head of cattle from the Fraser Valley, which brings the total stock at the ranch now up to some 50 or 60 head. The company is now shipping about 400 gallons of milk a day to the city for local consumption.

Visitors to the Woodcock Dairy Farm say that very modern and cleanly methods are insisted upon by R. L. Brown, the farm manager. The cows and milkers are thoroughly washed and the milk is put in coolers and iced in buildings nearby until a few minutes before the arrival of trains on which it is shipped.

A small power plant is to be installed at the farm and electric milkers will soon be used, it is planned.

"I was Greatly Distressed With Pains in the Back"

Mr. Alfred McNeill, Chapel Rock, Alta., writes:

"During the winter of 1920-21, I was greatly distressed with pains in my back and felt tired and depressed most of the time. Particularly during the night I was troubled with frequent urination, some nights having to rise almost every hour. I tried several different treatments without success, until finally I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they relieved my condition before I had finished the first box. I am feeling better this summer than I have for years, and although in my 67th year, can work all day without any undue fatigue."

FIGHT AGAINST DOPE PROBLEM

Picture Shows Insidious Nature of Mastery Over Man Obtained by Drugs

The gripping story of lawyer MacFarland's fight against himself and the forces of dope, portrayed by the powerful actor, James Kirkwood, unroll upon the screen so that the spectators attain a full realization of the bigness of theme and mastery of detail given to Mrs. Wallace Reid's conception of the gigantic problem. Delicately handled, free from all that is gruesome,ounding home truth after truth, "Human Wreckage" is undoubtedly a picture that will live for years to come. It is the week end offering at the Westholme.

Mrs. Reid's sincerity is the outstanding feature of the entire production, and the superb heights of pathos and deep understanding which she achieves are such as only a person who feels the seriousness of it all could have revealed. Among all her successes upon the stage and screen, Dorothy Davenport Reid never lived a part so genuinely as that of the wife of the prominent lawyer addict.

James Kirkwood, in the role of which repression and mental anguish are the significant characteristics, is an old artist whose force reaches out from the screen to grip even the most indifferent. He has easily equalled, if not outdone, in "Human Wreckage," his brilliant work in the sensational New York stage success of the age, "The Fool."

Bessie Love

No account of this play would be complete without special mention of what critics say is one of the most splendid pieces of acting it has ever been their pleasure to witness. The death scene of Bessie Love, as the pathetic little addict mother, near whose sick room happy children play in the sun, while her own baby lies stricken with a fearful malady inherited from her, is handled by that talented actress with the greatest finesse. There is nothing distasteful, nothing maudlin about it. It is a great truthful representation of one of life's tragedies, the supreme artistry of which justifies entirely its conclusion.

HAD A WEAK HEART WAS VERY NERVOUS FOR THREE YEARS

Miss Jessie Peterson, Zealandia, Sask., writes: "I wish to let you know how much good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

For nearly three years I was very badly run down, had a weak heart, and was so nervous that sometimes I would almost faint away.

I heard of many people who had recommended your Heart and Nerve Pills, so I decided to give them a trial. After I had used two boxes I found they had done me good, and after having taken five boxes I was completely relieved.

During the past year 402,000 immigrants arrived in Canada according to Ottawa returns. This was an increase of 50,000 over the preceding year. Of the total 150,000 came from the British Isles. There has been a material increase in British and continental immigration but a falling off in arrivals from the United States.

WOOD PLANT HERE

New Westminster, April 26, 1924.

Editor Daily News, Prince Rupert, B.C.

I notice that stock in the Skeena Laminated Wood Company is being sold in Vancouver and here and I find that the plant is not being built at Prince Rupert but some thirty miles away. Now Mr. Editor what I would like to know is: What efforts have been made to bring this industry to Prince Rupert.

As a taxpayer I think I can voice the sentiments of many others when I say Prince Rupert needs industries to relieve taxpayers of their burden, and when a chance like this comes some steps should be taken to get such an industry employing 100 men, many of them with families, which means new houses, business for grocers and other business men, etc.

Two plants of this nature are running all the time in this city leaving a large amount for wages and supplies.

Will you kindly print this in your paper and see if other taxpayers have similar views.

INDIGESTION GAS ON STOMACH PAINS AFTER MEALS

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Buckock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat these square meals a day, helping them to eat anything they will, without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred Nelson, House Jew, San Francisco—all last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without doing out. I had tried everything, doctors, medicines and pills, until I read about Buckock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles and it has nearly if not completely, restored me to health.

REINDEER HERD PROTECTS BOYS

Keep Off Bears and Lads Receive No Harm From Ferocious Animals

ANCHORAGE, April 30.—Evidence of reciprocal protection between men and animals came to light recently at Cantwell, where big reindeer herds are ranging under the supervision of the United States Biological Survey and Eskimo herders.

Several Eskimo boys had been standing guard over a herd to ward off wolves and other predatory animals. The boys were sitting idly while the herd grazed when a monster brown bear, followed closely by her yearling cub, rushed out of the woods. The boys saw no refuge and to outrun the bear was impossible. Sensing the only means of escape, they headed straight for the herd, with the mother bear in close pursuit.

Did Not Move

The reindeer, which ordinarily would have taken the running approach of the Eskimos as a signal to move forward, scented the danger. Instead of fleeing, they turned, as if by some primitive command, and the big bucks rushed forward to meet the boys and the bears. At the same instant the does called their fawns to their sides and huddled together. The Eskimos shouldered their way into the middle of the herd, watching the elemental maneuvers of bear and reindeer.

The monarchs of the herd stood with antlers pointed forward and the bear swerved, milling up and down as if looking for an opening. The bucks turned with the motions of the bear, their sharp antlers forming a barrier of bayonets.

Resumed Vigil

Finally, realizing it was impossible to snatch a fawn or an Eskimo, the great bear and her cub retreated. The herd relaxed, and the Eskimo boys emerged to resume their vigil.

MAKE REPAIRS AT SALT LAKE

Provincial Government Ready to Contribute $750 Providing City Puts up Like Amount

Jack Eddie, president of the Prince Rupert Swimming Club, has been advised by Hon. T. D. Patalano, member for Prince Rupert, that the provincial government is willing to contribute $750 towards the improvement of the Salt Lakes, providing the city puts up a like amount.

As a result of this modification, the club is to take immediate steps toward raising the funds and the city council will be approached at an early date.

The club has a program of permanent improvement mapped out which includes the putting in of a pile approach at the lake replacing the present floats and the establishment of a safety zone for children. Repairs to the bathhouses and sidewalks, which are now in a dilapidated condition, are also planned. It is proposed to put the equipment in such shape that it will not need any further attention for a number of years.

The club has considered the proposal of establishing a swimming pool from the overflow of the Acropolis Hill reservoir but deems that it is out of the question on account of the coldness of the water.

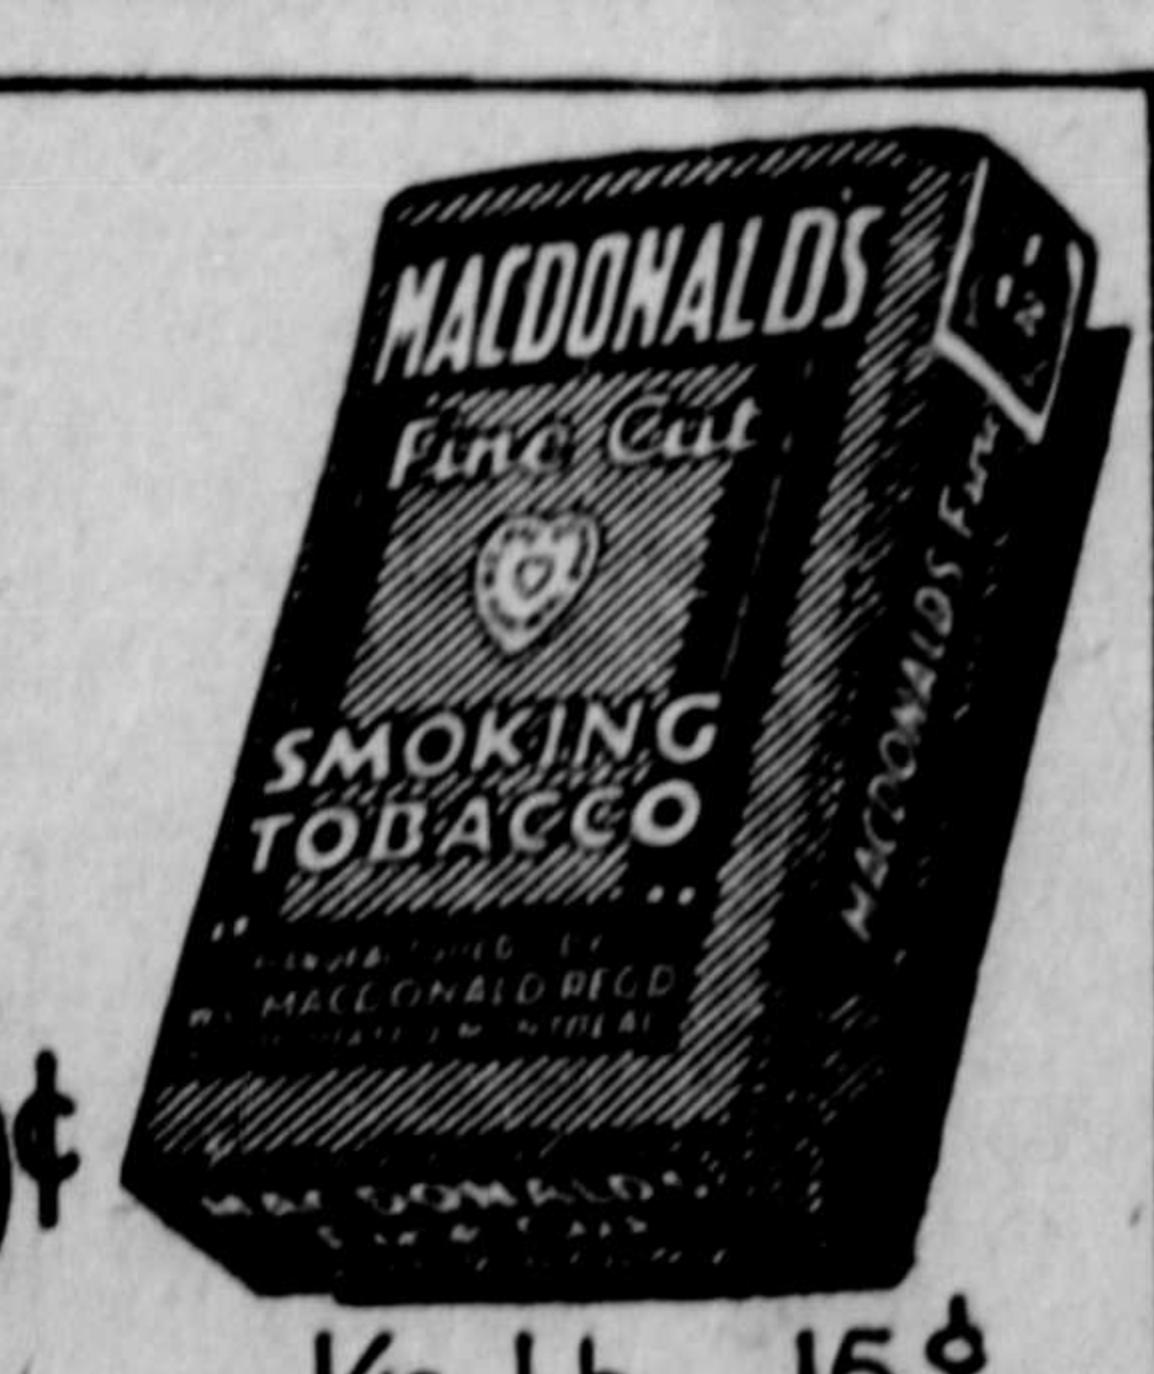

Sport Chat

There has already been considerable activity on the Prince Rupert Tennis Club's courts at Acropolis Hill and this weekend will see the season well started. The lines on the courts have been repainted and such general repairs as necessary have been executed. Tomorrow night the club is staging its annual dance at the Elks' Home and on Sunday the season will be formally opened with a series of American tournaments. Mr. Hamilton of the Bank of Commerce is receiving entries. Refreshments will be served on the courts in the course of the afternoon.

An active tennis season is expected at Alice Arm this year. This sport has been carried on successfully at the northern mining and logging town for several years and there are some rather promising players—many of whom learned the game there. The club boasts a splendid dirt court located in a convenient position. Officers for 1924 have been elected as follows: President, S. F. D. Roe; vice-president, Mrs. H. F. Kergin; secretary, G. Young. The season will be opened with a dance to be held in the near future.

Helen Wills, national women's tennis champion of the United States, is sailing from New York on May 14 for England where she will engage in big championships matches to be held in June. As she will be in England for a month before these games, she will have an excellent opportunity to recondition and become fully acclimated. Provision is being made for Miss Wills to keep in practice while crossing the Atlantic on the steamer Berengaria. A back-wall, 12 feet square, as well as 25 foot space for stroking is being specially arranged on the sun deck directly in the center of the ship. The necessary nets will be provided to keep the ball within bounds. The arrangement will allow fullest opportunity for exercise and excellent tennis practice.

PROVINCIALS' TALE OF WOE

Newspapers Unfair

J. F. Tener of the Okanagan extolled the leaders of the Provincial party, told of the inception of the movement and criticized the P.G.E. He charged the Vancouver newspapers with unfairness in reporting the Provincial Convention.

Speaking of the inauguration of the party, Mr. Tener said it happened at a convention of the United Farmers. A committee of fifteen was appointed to formulate a plan and they sat well into the night conferring before reporting. Then a convention of farmers, distinct from the United Farmers, was called and they accepted the recommendation unanimously. Now they were going through the country and expected to make a clean sweep. They had 30,000 adherents and a number of candidates in the field.

Character and Wealth

The opposition, Mr. Tener said, were trying to spread the impression that this was General McRae's party but it was not. General McRae had been picked to lead the movement because of wealth and since being chosen had been doing his best.

Mr. Tener then delved into a lot of figures which have been often repeated before in regard to provincial finances and stated that the province was practically bankrupt. Still the credit of the province was good, he said. It was time for people to forget party shibboleths. The "gang of professional politicians" were not Liberals and not Conservatives. Mr. Bowser's position was that of Bryan in the United States. He had been nominated and rejected several times. The men at Victoria could not call themselves Liberals because they refused to open the seal in Vancouver. King Charles lost his head for a less offense than that. He claimed that no liberal minded person would refuse representation to a district.

Right for Capital

Mr. Tener urged that the same economy he exercised in Government affairs as in their own business. They could get more than 30 per cent efficiency. The millions which had been squandered could yet be saved if the people wanted to do it. He would reduce taxation by developing the province. If things had been run on decent lines this should have been big city. This was a wonderful province but he asked why it did not help the people. What they needed was foreign money. Given that, immigration would follow. They had not got any for several years and would not get any as long as conditions were not made right for capital. What was the use of returning a man who was a Liberal or a Conservative? By bringing in a tide of money, immigrants would follow and taxes would be cut in two. A sensible administration would spend less and do more work.

The Provincial Party, if it got into power, would refuse to give work that was not needed. It would not buy a seal with a $250,000 bridge that was not

Bert Showler introduced by Mr. Mackay as a labor leader spoke of the Oliver-Bowser party but said the Provincial party did not deal in personalities. He claimed that he had been victimized already by a scandal in regard to his war record but he assured the audience in language more forcible than polite that he had never been here before. He said he had been told the reason they did not organize here was because there were so many people who had government jobs and others who feared their business would be injured. He hoped they would form a local here. He spoke of the tax on gasoline and fuel oil and said the Government was ahead of the game. He also took exception to company towns and said if they wished to continue that sort of thing to vote for the Oliver-Bowser Company. He criticized the minimum wage bill for girls and told of what he considered a bad condition at the Essondale asylum. The eight hour day also came within range of his fire. Labor was in the provincial party because they had a better chance there of getting what they wanted. There would be enough in this party to see that they got fair legislation. He advocated health insurance and lower taxes and objected to immigration. He said he saw that Mr. Pattullo was coming north and he knew that he had a lot of friends here. In Atlin, however, they would elect a Provincial party man and he believed the same could be done in Prince Rupert. They must make up their mind to throw off the blood suckers and make this a better place to live in.

needed.

Mr. Tener then reviewed some of the planks of their platform and spoke against the evils of political patronage. Creed, color or religion, he said would count for nothing under the Provincial Party. He objected to the method of holding political caucuses. He asked that every person whose mind was not closed to get a copy of the platform and study it. If they could find a better platform he, Tener, would leave the Provincial Party and join them.

Was Framed

The speaker then dwelt at some length with the Royal Commission on the P.G.E. claiming that it was framed against them. He objected to the manner in which the inquiry was carried out. He claimed it was arranged so as to prevent the facts being exposed. He pictured the commission with the McRae lawyers ranged on one side and the Oliver and Bowser lawyers on the other.

He criticised the cancellation of the contract with Foley, Welch & Stewart and claimed that huge sums of money amounting to $850,000 had been paid to Liberals and Conservatives. He claimed that considering the difficulties they did a marvellous piece of work. The Provincial Party was trying to raise the standard of public life to a higher plane. It was a matter of personal honor and pride to act in an upright honorable manner.

Bert Showler introduced by Mr. Mackay as a labor leader spoke of the Oliver-Bowser party but said the Provincial party did not deal in personalities. He claimed that he had been victimized already by a scandal in regard to his war record but he assured the audience in language more forcible than polite that he had never been here before. Labor was in the provincial party because they had a better chance there of getting what they wanted. There would be enough in this party to see that they got fair legislation. He advocated health insurance and lower taxes and objected to immigration. He said he saw that Mr. Pattullo was coming north and he knew that he had a lot of friends here. In Atlin, however, they would elect a Provincial party man and he believed the same could be done in Prince Rupert. They must make up their mind to throw off the blood suckers and make this a better place to live in.

Bert Showler introduced by Mr. Mackay as a labor leader spoke of the Oliver-Bowser party but said the Provincial party did not deal in personalities. He claimed that he had been victimized already by a scandal in regard to his war record but he assured the audience in language more forcible than polite that he had never been here before. He said he had been told the reason they did not organize here was because there were so many people who had government jobs and others who feared their business would be injured. He hoped they would form a local here. He spoke of the tax on gasoline and fuel oil and said the Government was ahead of the game. He also took exception to company towns and said if they wished to continue that sort of thing to vote for the Oliver-Bowser Company. He criticized the minimum wage bill for girls and told of what he considered a bad condition at the Essondale asylum. The eight hour day also came within range of his fire. Twice as Rich as Ordinary Milk

For economy in tinning, more than half of the natural water is removed from the rich, fresh milk that becomes Carnation. This leaves it twice as rich as ordinary milk. Nothing else is removed; nothing at all is added.

Thus, Carnation is rich enough for every milk need, for coffee or cocoa, on cereals, fruits, etc., and in all cooking. Carnation is always rich, clean, pure, safe, convenient and economical. Your grocer has it.

FOR HOME COOKS
REMEMBER Cook with Carnation and your food will be famous for flavor and richness. In any recipe calling for milk use only a cup of Carnation to 4 cups water. It's economical.

WILD TALK AT ELECTION TIME

British Newspaper Comments on What it Calls "Wild and Whirling Words."

Under the heading "Wild and Whirling Words" the Manchester Guardian comments on the modern methods of conducting election campaigns as follows:

The political libel case from Ashton-under-Lyne came to the proper end on Tuesday. An apology was inevitable. The Conservative member for the division had during the general election implied that the Labor candidate aimed at bringing about in England "the bloody revolution of Lenin and Trotsky," and made reference to the alleged nationalisation of women in Russia. The statements have been completely withdrawn. It would be an idle comment on the case to suggest that in respect of rash speaking any party is afflicted with a much larger dose of original sin than others. In this very case the plaintiff had to admit in the witness box some little excesses of his own. The real trouble is that the generally received standard of accuracy in election speeches should be so low. By the received standard we mean the degree of accuracy below which it is felt to be disadvantageous to the offender to go.

Accusation of Murder

At one recent election it was thought by some ardent electioneer to be prudent to suggest that one or more of the three brothers of a candidate, all of whom had been killed in the war, had fought not on the British but on the German side. It is almost common form to accuse of murder or theft opponents who question the efficacy of some suggested change in industrial arrangements or whose source of income is legitimised by laws which the accusing person would like to see altered. In the general election held during the Boer War it was hailed as a brilliant feat of "crystallisation" for electioneering use throughout the country when some ingenious person invented the slogan "A vote for the Liberals is a vote for the Beers."

An odd thing is that nobody seems to throw himself into these carnivals of inexactness more heartily than the first-rate lawyer, historian, or man of science, whose ordinary life is spent in the most fastidious and dispassionate weighing of minutiae of evidence. No doubt it may make a good holiday for him, but really it is rather tragic that the choice of managers for the nation's most vital affairs should be a common occasion for the use of methods that anyone would recognise as vicious and barren if applied to his own serious business or studies.

Evil Effect

As the "election egg" is to the breakfast one, so is the standard of truthfulness and fairness in frequent use at election to that of upright and intelligent people transacting ordinary affairs. Apart from moral objections, an evil effect of these orgies is to give politics a repulsive air of sloppiness amateurishness. It makes them look like a sphere where any rubbish is good enough, and as everyone knows that rubbish is not good enough in his own trade or profession, there grows an impression that political life and action are inherently second-rate affairs, and that their products in the way of laws and administration may be assumed to be unworthy of respect. The one sure remedy is the raising, by the electors themselves, of that standard line below which it does not pay election speakers to go. If voters insist, at meetings and at the polls that their business must be discussed seriously and not made the occasion for wild splutterings of inaccurate detraction, the electioneering devishes will soon calm down.
