Strong Earthquake Off-Shore Recorded by West Coast Cities

A strong earthquake, apparently in the ocean off southern Oregon or the northern Californian coast, was recorded Wednesday on seismographs across the west coast of North America. Reports from seismologists from Los Angeles to Sitka, Alaska, pinpointed the probability of the Oregon-California latitude. It was recorded first at 8:26 a.m. PDT. A University of Washington seismologist said it was so strong that it would have caused severe damage if it had struck a populous area ashore. He said the fact there was only a few seconds between the recording at the University of California at 8:26 a.m. and the Seattle seismograph indicated it was offshore, about 100 miles from the coast.

VANCOUVER (CP)—County Court Judge J. A. McGeer ruled Wednesday against the recount of the Burrard riding in the Vancouver-Burrard riding in the British Columbia general election.

B.C. Premier To Call By-Election

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday night that he intends to hold by-elections before the next session of the British Columbia Legislature in hopes of gaining seats for his two non-member cabinet ministers. The Social Credit premier, here for opening of the Pacific National Exhibition, did not indicate what seats would be opened for Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson. Neither of the men was among the 19 Social Credit members elected in B.C.'s June 12 election. They did not contest seats and were chosen because none of the elected members had suitable qualifications for the posts. Premier Bennett did not comment on County Court Judge J. A. McGeer's ruling Wednesday against the recount of ballots cast in the Vancouver-Burrard riding.

Ordered Trial In Gun Death

VICERS, B.C. (CP)—Kosak, 56-year-old Japanese-Canadian, charged with slaying his 17-year-old daughter, Mrs. John Kosak, Wednesday was committed to trial in higher court.

Neighbors Help Victims Of Fire With New Home

FRANCOIS LAKE.—More than 40 neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gatacre helped move a deserted schoolhouse on the Gatacre ranch to replace the home recently destroyed by fire. Four "cat-type" tractors were pressed into service for the job. Volunteering their equipment were Earl Hanke, Clarence Snyder, Arnold Peebles and Leo Nobles. A path for the building had to be cleared. Most of the volunteers worked steadily all day. Wives of the neighbors assisted Mrs. Gatacre serving lunch and afternoon tea. The former Gatacre home—a large log house—was completely destroyed by fire two weeks ago. All belongings also were lost.

Parents are Mrs. Maria Albano, 38, Negro laborer, and his wife, Maria. To simplify naming them, Mrs. Albano has called the girls Maria, numbers 1-5.

Third Life Claimed By Forest Fire

BEATON, B.C.—A tree felled by flames Wednesday struck and killed logging operator John Ribalkin of Beaton as he fought a 100-acre forest fire in southeastern British Columbia.

Ribalkin, 49-year-old father of two children, was one of 90 men battling the fire in the Incomappleux River district, 23 miles northeast of this lakeshore community. He is believed to be the third person to meet death in B.C. this year while fighting forest fires. One man died in the 40,000-acre Burns Lake blaze in north-central B.C. and another firefighter is presumed to have lost his life in the same outbreak.

"There was no noise as the flaming tree fell," said RCMP Constable Jim King of the Revelstoke detachment. "Several others jumped aside, yelling as they did, but it struck Ribalkin on the head, killing him instantly."

The fire is believed to have started from a lightning stroke. Ribalkin had been firefighting for five days. He was a member of the Ribalkin Logging Operators firm at Beaton.

Constable King, describing his investigation of the death, said: "We took a plane from Revelstoke and landed at Beaton shortly after noon. Then we were carried 10 miles into the area by truck, and then had to walk another 13 miles through a roughly hewn path to get to the scene."

"It took 16 men working in relays to carry the body out."

Citizens To Meet Premier In Person

When Prime Minister of Canada, Louis St. Laurent arrives here September 7 he wants to personally meet as many city residents as is possible in a short time.

To make individual presentation possible, a tea and open house will be held in the Navy Drill Hall in the afternoon, Cdr. T. A. Johnstone, RCN (R), acting commanding officer of HMCS Chatham, announced today.

Mr. St. Laurent will attend the tea in company with Minister of Fisheries R. W. Mayhew, J. W. Pickersgill, secretary of the Privy Council, and Ross Martin, secretary to the Prime Minister.

A guard of honor of Capt. Cook Sea Cadets commanded by Lt. A. H. Ogilvie, will attend the reception, which will be arranged by the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion and the Navy Wrens.

A formal invitation will be issued to the public by the Commanding Officer, HMCS Chatham which will be published in the Daily News.

All citizens attending will be presented to the Prime Minister in person.

The Prime Minister will be on tour of B.C., making his first stop at Kamloops on Sept. 1, and log splitting demonstration will take place in the big Victoria Lumber Co. mill at Chemainus on Vancouver Island.

During his tour he will also visit the Consolidated Milling & Smelting Co. plant at Trail, inspect the big paper mill at Powell River and fly over the aluminum developments at Kitimat on his way to Prince Rupert.

Body Found In Nets Of Seine Boat

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY NEWS
QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY.—A body which was picked up in a seine net here Monday has been identified as that of Melburn Reginald Germyn and a coroner's jury verdict is death by drowning, February 27.

Evidence at the inquest held here yesterday showed Germyn, a yarding engineer at Juskatla camp, fell overboard from a large camp tender near the wharf at Port Clements.

He had just returned from a holiday. His brother Claude, superintendent of the camp, was on board, he testified.

A strong wind and tide was held responsible for failure of dragging operations by police and local residents, which was continued for 10 days.

Seine boat fishing deep in the area Monday brought up the body in its nets.

BCAA May Write Car Insurance; Low Cost Power Main Topics at Trades Convention

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY NEWS
SMITHERS.—The British Columbia Automobile Association has devised a plan to write car insurance for members which will save them from 10 to 20 per cent.

Everett J. Irwin, vice-president of the association, told the 21st annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central B.C. here Wednesday that the BCAA plans to "write our own insurance very shortly."

One of several visitors invited to address delegates, he said the BCAA is "very interested in the development of the road system in northern B.C. and has taken the matter up with the provincial government."

Another visiting delegate, Bert Leboe, president of the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association, told delegates that lumbermen in the interior have come to the point "where we have no money to plough back into the industry because of high costs of production."

He said many small operators "may be forced out of business by the demands for higher wages." He said he was speaking for himself in stating that employers and employees should get together in an educational program to enlighten each other on their problems.

He also criticized the B.C. Forestry Department for its "failure to take precautions in areas where streams could be dammed to accumulate water to fight fires if they broke out."

development program" and urged that "additional expansion take place in this part of the province."

The resolutions from Prince George Board of Trade called for road improvement work out of that city and both were endorsed unanimously by delegates.

A resolution submitted by the Chamber of Commerce from Juneau, and endorsed by the convention, urged that Canadian and U.S. authorities reach agreement on a survey of a road from Atlin to the Alaskan city.

Another resolution from the Petersburg and Wrangell chamber urging survey of a road from Telegraph Creek to the Alaska Territory was sent back to committee after several delegates questioned the advisability of the B.C. association "weakening its stand" on demands for action.

Frank Dockrill of Smithers said "we have been demanding action on a Prince George-Jasper road for some years and we are belittling ourselves if we sponsor a resolution of such magnitude."

The resolution was sent back to committee after J. H. Harvey of Prince Rupert suggested more consideration be given to it. His motion was seconded by T. Norton Youngs, president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Colony Shisheky also said the western-sponsored Middle East defence proposal is "useless as long as Arabs are dissatisfied."

The Cairo newspaper Al Misri reported today that a military coup is expected in Lebanon following the successful army moves in Egypt and Syria.

"The police situation in this north country is desperate," he said, "and requires immediate action."

He said Terrace at the present time is policed by junior men. One constable "is so young he can't get into the beer parlor, nor drive a car without a special licence."

The convention attacked the telephone and telegraph service north of Prince George and delegates endorsed a resolution to be sent to the CNR and Northern Telephone System asking that action be taken to remedy the situation.

According to delegate Harry Kennedy, there are times in Prince George and neighboring towns when it is impossible to get out by telephone or telegraph "even in an emergency."

One delegate said that last week when a fire occurred at Giscombe, the mill operator was forced to drive to Prince George to give the alarm because "he could not raise the telephone operator."

He blamed the wire setup, not the operator, for the failure. He said the mill man had tried for three hours without success to get a telephone connection to Prince George.

B.C. Liberal Convention Coming Soon

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia Liberal party convention is expected to be called soon after the party's advisory council meets in Vancouver during the second week in September.

It was learned Wednesday that top Liberal strategists are anxious to gather and plot the party's future course of action. Announcement of the convention date could come from the advisory council meeting.

High Liberal sources say the convention would be called immediately if there were some good candidates for leadership. Mentioned prominently as possible leaders have been Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan, University of B.C. President Norman Mackenzie, James Sinclair, MP, and Arthur Laing, MP, but none has signified willingness to seek leadership.

Leading German Socialist Dies Fighting Ill Health

BONN, German (CP)—Dr. Kurt Schumacher, leader of the powerful Socialist party of West Germany, died here Wednesday. He was 56.

The crippled survivor of Nazi concentration camps died of an "acute circulatory illness," the Socialist party headquarters announced.

The one-armed, one-legged socialist leader had been ailing for months. Schumacher was a fighter all his life. His enemies were the Nazis, Communists and chronic ill-health.

He battled them all with equal passion. He did not give up even after years in the dreaded Dachau concentration camp which crippled him for life.

Not Enough Room For Arabs, Jews

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters)—Col. Adib Shisheky, commander-in-chief of the Syrian army, said today in an interview with the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram that "the Middle East is not large enough to have both Arabs and Jews."

"Either the Arabs will be thrown into the sea or the Jews will leave Palestine and return to their homes," he said. "I have faith in the ultimate victory of the Arabs."

Gov't To Probe Expansion Of Steel Industry

VICTORIA (CP)—Ladns Minister R. E. Sommers Wednesday announced the government is going to launch a thorough study to find out if B.C.'s steel manufacturing capacity can be enlarged to include the smelting of domestic ores.

The minister said the government also is going to look into the matter of iron ore export, and the reserve placed on ores of iron and manganese by the previous government.

An Airport Must Come

A GAIN Central British Columbia has endorsed a Prince Rupert resolution calling for a land airfield here. This is the third time such a resolution has been presented by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce at the annual convention of Central B.C. Boards of Trade.

There can be no definite form of progress in Prince Rupert and the whole of central B.C. without modern means of communication. While air traffic will open up the country all around us, we remain chained to a pace of the horse-and-buggy days.

Prince Rupert merits a definite answer as to whether or not a land airfield is normally possible within its territory; whether possible with difficulty, or whether not at all possible.

Perhaps this sounds like a scary figure but it is a small enough investment in the future of a part of Canada which is proving to be the new horizon of development.

Prince Rupert has the makings of a big centre—a major city in this province—but it will never get there unless it can keep up with the times. We lie in the direct path of vast new developments in air travel expansion, but without an airport we are unnoticed.

It Was The People's Wish

VOTERS of B.C. at the June 12 election may not have cast a very marked decision on what kind of government they wanted, but they were very definite about one question: that of wanting the privilege of buying liquor by the glass.

Now we read that a committee is to be formed of people from various walks of life to decide how, when or where this liquor shall be dispensed. If such a probe takes place, it is likely, too, that recommendations of the committee will be voted upon by the government.

We know that B.C. is long overdue in its liquor reform, the main evil in the present set-up being that there is little opportunity for sensible drinking.

We may be considered as forerunners in the New World, many, many steps ahead of European standard of living, but the Old Country has always been ahead of us in its liquor laws. In most European countries, liquor and wines are regarded as everyday commodities, along with food and non-alcoholic beverages.

Such an attitude towards liquor is the only one which can promote sensible drinking. We urge any investigation which will recommend future liquor reform in this province to take this strongly into consideration.

Clay Houses Made Cheaply In Bolivia

MONTREAL (CP)—How they solve the housing problem in Bolivia by using clay is told by Prof. John Bland, head of McGill University's school of agriculture.

An expert on housing and town planning, Prof. Bland has just returned from a trip to Bolivia with two other United Nations experts who were asked to study the housing problems of that South American State.

They found housing scarce and large-scale financing for construction difficult to obtain. But the ordinary Bolivian has a ready supply of material. It's the clay that can be dug out of the ground, shaped into blocks and sun-baked.

Prof. Bland warns that this method requires a hot, dry climate. With plaster on the inside and stucco on the exterior, the clay houses stand for generations.

Crown Colony of Hong Kong Faces Dubious Future

HONG KONG — (Reuters) — This British crown colony on the doorstep of an unfriendly Communist China, is facing a grim future.

There is a widely accepted belief that the Communists will eventually demand the "return" of Hong Kong.

They obviously regard the colony as "a running sore in the side of China," as one observer put it.

According to a private source of information from behind the "bamboo curtain," Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-Tung has said privately that one of his greatest wishes is to see Hong Kong "restored" to China in his lifetime.

But only Peiping knows at present what, if any, intentions the Communists have.

There is no immediate fear of Communist attack, unless a world war breaks out. For one thing, the colony is of far more value to the Communists in its present status.

Since trade embargoes were imposed last year to prevent strategic war materials going to China, it is no longer a convenient storehouse from which the Communists can purchase their needs.

Also, since it would be an act of aggression to attack Hong Kong, the prize would hardly be worth the consequences, particularly since the Communists are fully occupied in keeping their own house in order.

In the event of attack, the colony's defences, geared to action, would present an aggressor with a considerable task.

As I See It BY Elmore Philpott • IT'S OUR MARKET

I HAVE a deep respect for the present cabinet at Ottawa. The men who head the government are, on the whole, a credit to Canada; indeed, they probably average higher in capacity than did any previous government of this young nation.

But they seem to me to have one blind spot. Even C. D. Howe has it, and he is by all odds the greatest organizing genius that Canada has ever had operating on the government level.

They do not seem to get the vital point about Canada's trade with Britain. When voices are raised, pointing out that we are losing our British markets for lumber, fruit, fish and so forth they either reply with an array of imposing statistics (which are quite beside the point) or they show how much Canada "has done" for Britain.

LET US ignore for the moment the question of whether Canada "has done" for Britain more than Britain "has done" for Canada. As a Canadian I am proud (and I think, not foolishly proud) of the way this country stood, beside the Old Land, when Britain stood alone in all Europe against the whole might of Germany, Italy and all their allies, willing and unwilling.

But I would be the last in the world to argue that we had a credit balance on our side for what each country put into the common pool in those years. It would seem to me as indecent as is the argument of the American business men who now argue that, because they sent the Russians great quantities of munitions to help them fight at Stalingrad, the munitions were as valuable as the lives of the men and women who died, with their backs to the wall, while using them.

THERE are certain points about Canada's trade with Britain which are beyond all argument. They are: 1. Britain has been one of our best customers, over a period of many generations. She has been our best, surest export market for wheat, apples, salmon, lumber and certain metals. If we lose this British market we will have great difficulty in finding another to replace it. 2. We are clearly losing the British market on some items mentioned above chiefly because of restrictions imposed by the British or Canadian governments.

TO GET the true picture let us suppose that Canada and Britain decided to amalgamate and become one country. Let us suppose that England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland became four extra provinces of Canada—and that the central parliament for the combined countries set alternately at London and Ottawa.

The first result would be that the long time food shortage in Britain would be ended, almost overnight. The 60,000 cases of unsold salmon would automatically move to store shelves in Britain—from where they would quickly move to tummies of British humans. Likewise with the huge wheat crop now coming in from the Canadian prairies—and the pork, which our government is now selling at a heavy loss, and the butter, which is also piling up, because of government floor price buying.

British cars, textiles, and a thousand and one items would move the other way. THE POINT is that the British people NEED our Canadian lumber, fish, fruit, wheat, pork and butter. We need and want what they make. But in both countries buyers are kept from sellers because both governments have set up tariff walls, and above all money exchange restrictions.

Our two countries cannot amalgamate. But Canada can, and should, say to Britain: "We will buy from you, each year, as much as you buy from us."

Harmless Looking Doughnut Packed With Calories

By KAY REX

Some women may roll on the floor to rid themselves of surplus weight. Others count their calories.

The latter group will be interested in the booklet "Your Food and Your Figure" issued by the Ontario Agriculture Department. But they may get a shock from the calory chart of fancy foods.

A chocolate malted milk shake runs 500 calories; one piece of pie 300-400 calories; one serving of strawberry shortcake 400; one piece of chocolate layer cake 350; one chocolate bar 275 and one doughnut—just one—125 calories.

For a special treat later in the year, home economists of the consumer section, Federal Agriculture Department, offer a recipe for "Peach Conserve."

Ingredients: Three medium oranges; three cups water; one six-ounce bottle Maraschino cherries; nine cups sugar; eight cups peaches cut into small cubes.

Slice orange thinly then cut into cubes. Place in kettle, add water and simmer until cooked but not soft (about 20 minutes). Meanwhile drain cherries, reserving the juice, and cut cherries into quarters.

To the cooked oranges, add peaches, sugar and the juice from cherries. Cook until thickened (about 20 minutes). Add cherries and boil five minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jars leaving at least one-quarter of an inch headspace. Cool slightly then pour a thin layer of melted paraffin over the jam. Leave until hardened and then add a second layer of paraffin.

Don't throw away the water in which your vegetables have been cooked. The Department of National Health and Welfare says such water is rich in minerals and vitamins. It should be used to enrich gravies, soups or vegetable drinks.

The Department also says that homegrown vegetables should form a part of the daily diet. Those grown in the garden or on nearby farms will be fresher and more flavorful than those which travel from distant areas. Furthermore, the outside dark leaves are richer in vitamins than the paler ones inside.

Canadian Scientists Seek New Way For Disease Detection

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (CP)—Two Canadians are training at Rutgers University to become biological detectives in tracking down diseases which strike at both men and animals.

The Canadians, Fergus J. O'Rourke of Canada's Department of Agriculture, and Dr. Allen S. West of the department of biology at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., are studying a Rutgers-developed method of identifying sources of disease.

Diseases which are transmitted to men and livestock are often carried by animals but often the identification of the disease-carrying animal has been the missing clue.

Through the Rutgers method, the blood sucked from animals by mosquitoes and other insects is examined in a laboratory. If disease germs are present, then scientists can trace them back to the animal which originally carried them through identification of the blood.

For instance, a certain type of malaria in parts of central Africa was originally believed to have been carried by rodents. Blood identification methods enabled biologists to place the blame on a tiny antelope.

O'Rourke, who came to Canada from Dublin, is learning the Rutgers method to help the Canadian department in its fight against equine encephalitis in western Canada. Dr. West plans to lecture on the new method at Queen's.

Canadian Court Becomes 'Supreme' in Fall

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—By late this year or early next year, the Supreme Court of Canada will become "supreme" in fact as well as in name.
By that time, the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London will probably have disposed of all the remaining appeals from Canada. The court at Ottawa, whose members are little known to the general public, in its quiet work will be Canada's court of last resort.
Appeals to the judicial committee in criminal cases were dropped some years ago, and other appeals were abolished by act of Parliament proclaimed a Ottawa Dec. 22, 1949. That act however provided that any cases in Canadian courts prior to the date of proclamation could still be appealed to the Privy Council.

CLEAN UP BACKLOG
The Privy Council now is dealing with the backlog of Canadian appeals, and should complete this work possibly by December, or by next March at the latest. The schedule might be interrupted if some cases pending in provincial courts here should be appealed to the Supreme Court and thence to the judicial committee.
When the Privy Council concludes its work, the nine-member Supreme Court will be Canada's final court, working in its ornate, high-ceilinged, oak-paneled room in the new Supreme Court building near the Parliament buildings.

Decisions of Chief Justice Thibault, Rinfret and his eight puisne justices will be final. The justices are Patrick Kerwin, Robert Taschereau, Roy G. Kellock, Ivan Rand, James V. Estey, Charles H. Locke, John T. Cartwright and Gerald Fauteux.
Members of the court, appointed by the government to serve during "good behavior," are compulsorily retired at 75. Chief Justice Rinfret now is 73. He receives a salary of $25,000 as chief justice, and other members of the court receive $20,000.
and constitutional cases, many of them appeals from lower tribunals.

CONDITIONS OF APPEAL
It hears civil cases if they have first gone through the highest appeal court in the province and one of the parties is still dissatisfied. Unless special circumstances warrant an exception being made, amount involved in civil cases heard by the court must be not less than $2000.
In criminal cases, the court hears appeals based only on questions of law. The appeals are heard if there are indications that the trial judge erred in his charge to the jury or in the admission of evidence.
In constitutional cases, the court hears matters referred to it directly by the federal government or cases appealed from provincial courts. The court has the power to decide whether laws passed are within the power of Parliament or provincial legislatures.

All nine justices hear important cases. Membership may be reduced to seven or even five for other cases. This enables judges not sitting to write judgments on earlier cases or to hear in chambers applications for leave to appeal to the court.

INFORMAL ATMOSPHERE
The hearings are conducted with an informality surprising to the casual visitor to the court. Lawyers address the bench in conversational tone, never bursting into the oratory employed to sway juries. A lawyer's carefully prepared written argument may become useless as a result of a brief comment from one of the justices that it has no bearing on the case.
The justices do not hesitate to interrupt the lawyers to ask questions or to give advice. No effort is made to rush proceedings.

When the argument is concluded, the court usually reserves its decision. The justices confer later and argue the merits of the case and express their own points of view.
These conferences disclose whether there will be a unanimous judgment or whether there will be majority and minority decisions. An uneven number of justices hear cases to eliminate the possibility of ties.

FROM ALL PARTS
All parts of Canada are represented in the court's membership. Chief Justice Rinfret is a native of Montreal. Mr. Justice Taschereau, 56, is a native of Quebec, and Mr. Justice Fauteux, 52, comes from St. Hyacinthe, Que.
Mr. Justice Kerwin, 63, was born in Sarnia, Ont. Mr. Justice Kellock, 59, in Perth, Ont., and Mr. Justice Cartwright, 57, in Toronto.
Mr. Justice Rand, 53, is a native of Moncton, N.B., and is a former attorney-general of New Brunswick. Mr. Justice Estey, 63, was born at Kenwick, N.B., but moved to western Canada and once served as attorney-general for Saskatchewan. Mr. Justice Locke, 65, is a native of Morden, Man.

Coronation Guides Trained Carefully

LONDON (CP)—The problem of suitable guides during coronation year is one of many to be tackled by the British Travel and Holidays Association. The need of this service will be jealously considered both from a standpoint of protection for the tourist and the prestige of the association, according to a report just published.
From November of this year until next January applicants for the roles of guides will be given a course of 16 evening lectures. They will then be given practical tests to see if they know their stuff.
Students taking the course will be expected to have a good working knowledge of English history, geography, topography, national and local government, art, architecture, current exhibitions and special events. Only a limited number of applicants will be accepted. Those who pass written and practical tests will be given a certificate and a badge.
The association is not concerned with guiding from a commercial standpoint. Its main function is to provide someone who can do the job properly and so reduce the chance of tourists being duped by opportunists.

COMING HERE—Jimmy MacLachlan, known better by his nickname, Little Bambi, who plays accordion and guitar, sings and is considered one of the finest square dance callers in the Fraser Valley, is among those who will entertain with Evan Kemp and The Five Trail Riders at the Civic Centre, September 29, and in the Leaven Auditorium on September 30.

ANCIENT RIVERS
The oldest irrigation system in the world was founded on the rivers of Western Pakistan, which flow parallel to each other.

Government To Tackle School Costs Problem

VICTORIA (CP)—A distribution of school costs in British Columbia—a problem for years—will be tackled by the Social Credit government.
Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston said today no time will be wasted in getting at the job but she said it is "very difficult" and may take some time to

TIMBER WEALTH

Rich in fine timber, the Andaman Islands are in the Bay of Bengal 800 miles east of Madras.

CREPE DRESSES are in the news and seem to be popping up everywhere. From the sports-minded cottons of summer we go into the softly feminine lines that prove the shape's the thing for fall. Some are very smart in navy and black for daytime wear, and the after-five dresses are elegant in their draped simplicity. These are treasures, too, as they can be worn all winter.

EARLY JERSEYS are also coming into their own—and they're such a pleasant way to slip into the cooler days of on-coming fall. Softly tailored, they are a wonderful asset for a career girl in that, with a few accessory changes, you have several costumes in one.

ACCESSORIES PLAY a tremendous part in any wardrobe, so do keep yours in good order. Switch them about with different dresses and see how much they can do in keeping down the cost of your clothing budget.

BADMINTON ADDICTS are bound to welcome the new plastic shuttlecocks dreamed up in England. No flying feathers—no wailing in damp weather.

IS YOUR SKIN DRY from all that summer sun? Get it back to velvety smoothness for fall with a few drops of baby oil in your bath water. But remember to keep it up!

EVER WANT POTATOES to boil in a hurry? After draining off cold rinse water, pour on hot water and let stand for a minute or two, then drain. Now pour on boiling water and cook in usual manner. You'll find your cooking time will be shortened considerably.

DID YOU KNOW that fresh flower arrangements will last longer if all leaves are removed below the water line? Submerged leaves decay and cause flowers to wilt sooner.

CHICKEN LIVERS make a meal interesting at any time and here's a recipe that is quite a favorite with us: Combine 1 1/2 cups rice, 1 1/2 cups water, 1/2 cup catsup, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1/4 teaspoon sugar. Bring to a boil, cover, let stand 10 minutes. Add 1 tablespoon butter. Place bacon squares, chicken livers and mushroom caps on skewers. Brush with oil; season. Broil 6 to 7 minutes. You'll have a quick and delicious dinner for four.

PARSNIP SALAD is delicious! If you've never tried it, we strongly suggest you do... it's a delightful surprise. Pare and shred 3 cups raw parsnips. To keep them from discoloring, cover immediately with 3 tablespoons of lemon juice and marinate with French dressing. To this add 1 1/2 cups diced celery, 2/3 cup chopped onion, and 1/2 cup of sliced ripe olives, if desired. Salt to taste and serve on lettuce.

WITH FALL coming on and blustery winter nights ahead, why not give consideration to a playroom if you are fortunate enough to have a basement—or even a spare room? Look through any home decorating book and you'll get a million ideas, many surprisingly inexpensive, too... but lots of fun.

Blitz Preserved In Scale Model

LONDON (CP)—The Imperial War Museum at Lambeth is constructing a scale model of a typical street scene after bombing. It will be a permanent reminder to those who lived through London's blitz days.

The model will show the junction of two streets where bombs have fallen. In the far background, the beams of searchlights will light up the roof skyline.

The model building will glow red with fire bombs and miniature lamps will illuminate details of other buildings and a bomb crater.

W. Y. Carman, in charge of the museum's exhibits, said: "The model will show 50 people and 15 vehicles of the kind that were called to the incident. There will be figures of police and different kinds of civil defence workers."

Consider Picture Window in Planning Home Color Scheme

Large, light-admitting picture windows give homeowners an opportunity for bold color planning often not practical with dim, artificially lighted rooms.

With sunshine flooding the room, walls may be painted with deeper colors—particularly cool colors like blue and greens. Colorizer paint experts advise caution in the amount of warm reds and yellow-oranges used in such rooms. White, because of its high light reflection, should also be employed judiciously.

Prairie River Watersheds in Rockies Protected by Keeping Forests Green

EDMONTON (CP)—A conservation program of importance to all Canada is being carried out in the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains.

The program, under the management of the Dominion-Provincial Eastern Rockies Forest Conservation Board, is aimed at protecting the watersheds of the great rivers that flow eastward across the prairies.

The conservation board, set up four years ago, has made long strides toward assuring the 9000-square-mile area under its jurisdiction will stay "green."

A network of 16 lookout towers equipped with short-wave radio equipment has been built for protection against forest fires. This has been augmented by an ambitious road program to make heavily-wooded regions readily accessible.

The board also maintains a close supervision of lumbering and cattle grazing in the area. To combat erosion there must be sufficient ground cover left to guarantee a continuous yield of trees.

Experts made continuing surveys of insect infestation and implement control measures to combat serious outbreaks. At present the forests on the eastern slopes are considered much healthier than those in other parts of the country.

H. G. Jensen, Alberta deputy minister of lands and forests and a member of the conservation board, said the objective of the program is to restore the watershed to its condition of 100 years ago, at the same time utilizing its resources to the best possible advantage.

Mr. Jensen said the eastern slopes also represent a valuable potential tourist attraction. Many tourists prefer more rugged country than the conventional resort affords, he said, and the eastern Rockies is an ideal area for an outdoor holiday.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

No Super-Scientific Stuff for Mr. Fusty

If you play a lot outside of your own circle, you run into quite a few players like Mr. Fusty. None of the "super scientific" stuff for him. He prides himself on using old-fashioned bidding methods. Why, it is hard to say.

Give him enough (barely enough, sometimes) for an opening bid, strength in as many as three suits and no suit of five cards or more and he makes what looks to him like the natural opening—one no trump.

If you don't know how to handle Mr. Fusty as a partner, it will pay you to learn. Mr. Dale says, "Look at the players first, then look at the cards." When playing with Mr. Fusty, he plays the Fusty system.

For that reason, he raised to two no trump, not three no trump, in today's deal. He knew that if Mr. Fusty had a really good hand he would bid again, and if he didn't, he would pass.

Against the two no trump contract, Mrs. Keen led the eight of hearts, dummy played small and Mr. Champion won with the 10 and cashed the ace. He returned a club which was taken on the board with the queen.

Next came the king of spades and Mr. Champion won with the ace and led back a second club. Mr. Fusty won with the ace. He had eight tricks in sight and this point and the only chance for more seemed to lie in the diamond suit.

He led a small diamond hoping to duck it into Mr. Champion's hand but Mrs. Keen put up the ten. Dummy's king won and here Mr. Champion made a nice play, dropping the queen. If he had retained that card, he would have had to play it on the next diamond lead and would have been permitted to win with it.

Mr. Fusty could then have won any return and cashed two more diamond tricks. As it was, Mrs. Keen won the third round of diamonds and made her king.

Betty Won't Take Any Time Off

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Betty Grable says she won't be taking any more studio suspensions.

The famous blonde is finishing up "The Farmer Takes a Wife" after a year off studio salary. Asked if she'd ever take a suspension again, she said:

"Never. I wanted a rest and I got it. . . Now I'm ready for anything. . . I've been in the business too long to worry about parts."

NEW BLONDE
The new blonde at 20th-Fox — Marilyn Monroe — has been cast in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

"A lot of people said I should be in (the role), but there was only one reason—the title."

Betty said. "As far as the role is concerned, I wasn't enthused. I think Marilyn fits it perfectly."

"The only reason I would have wanted to do the picture was that the studio had put out a lot of money for it. They've never paid eight dollars for a story for me. (Now, Betty, you know that's not quite correct.)"

They've all been remakes or something."

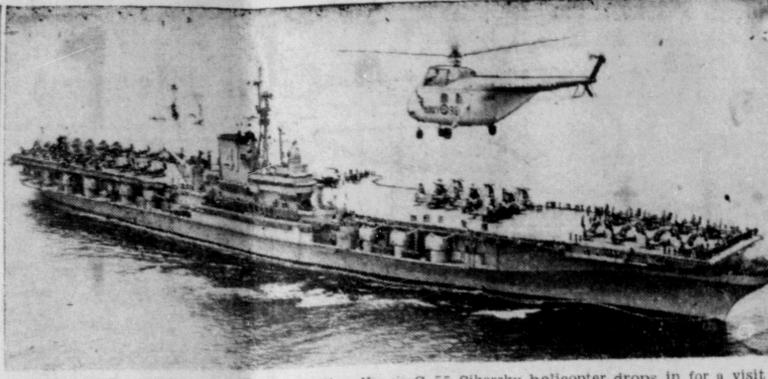

No picture has been announced for Betty, but she doesn't expect much time with her children and horses.

"I can't believe they'll keep paying me that big salary and not keep me working," she remarked.

LATEST "ROAD"

You can't say that movies aren't out of this world. Currently on the stages is "Abbott and Costello Go To Mars." Now "Road to the Moon" has been announced for Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dotty Lamour.

Strip-Tease Makes Comeback in Japan

By FRED SAITO

TOKYO (AP) — "They're as fickle as feathers in a high wind," the strip-show director sighed.

He wasn't talking about his lovely ladies, but about the unpredictable Japanese who made the strip-tease a national fad after the United States occupation, deserted it for a thing called "Swordswoman Dramas" and now are swinging back to a modified strip show.

Ken Murai, 28-year-old director of the "France Za" (za is Japanese for theatre), says the old form of strip-tease hit its peak in 1948. It was something new in kimono-clad Japan.

Japanese flocked to the huge burlesque houses throughout Japan to watch in deadpan fascination as the gals "took them off." But, Murai said, the show lost its popularity after reaching a logical conclusion and losing its power to shock.

Then came the rise of the swordswoman drama. This was a Japanese development that flattered the Japanese martial spirit.

A beautiful feudal maiden, beset by thugs and bullies, would bear incredible misfortunes with the patience of Gautama Buddha. Finally, when pushed too far, she would snatch a razor-sharp samurai sword and cut down her tormentors like a field of ripe rice.

In the later years of the occupation, this probably flattered Japanese pride, Murai said. When Japan became independent April 28, audiences lost interest.

Four months ago five theatres in Tokyo were showing swordswomen. Now they've all gone back to the strip show—the new form, that is.

Instead of acres of sun-tanned Japanese skin, the shows now are more like farces played by girls wearing the least the law allows. The law here, while liberal, does insist the girls wear SOMETHING.

"Now a strip director has to use every ounce of resource to keep the audience," Murai declared.

He said one of his competitors tried to appeal to what he called "the Peeping Tom" instinct. He ripped out clusters of seats here and there in the theatre and installed tiled Japanese bathtubs—each tub complete with a pretty, G-stringed Japanese girl already in hot water.

The customers were urged to volunteer to scrub the lady's back.

Reports Show Less Tea Imported Here

LONDON (CP)—The annual report of the International Tea Commission says that while tea imports into the United Kingdom in 1951 increased from 89,000,000 pounds to 448,000,000 pounds, imports into Canada and the United States dropped 41,000,000 pounds to a total of 127,000,000. Trade sources in London explain the explanation may be Canada, Australia and the States stockpiled tea at the break of the Korean war. In 1951, they have been stocks on hand, hence the in imports.
