

Rains Come—Halt Forest Fires

Burns Lake Blaze Under Control

As much as two inches of rain falling last night on certain sections of the 40,000-acre Burns Lake fire has brought B.C.'s largest woods blaze in 10 years "almost completely" under control.

Prime Minister Leaves Thursday For West Coast

OTTAWA (CP)—Invigorated by a long holiday, Prime Minister St. Laurent goes back to work next week and heads into his biggest meet-the-people tour since the 1949 general elections.

The 70-year-old prime minister is due to head west Thursday, Aug. 28, on a trip designed primarily as an extensive visit to British Columbia but with various stops in Ontario and Manitoba.

He will be gone 16 days. He is due here Monday from his summer home at St. Patrick, Que., where he has spent his longest vacation in the four years since he became prime minister. Between then and Thursday he is expected to meet with the cabinet, catch up with work in his office and prepare for a journey which is considerably more elaborate than when it was originally planned.

The original motive was attendance at the annual convention of the Canadian Bar Association of which Mr. St. Laurent is a past president and honorary life president. He will be in Vancouver Sept. 4 and 5 to attend that meeting and to take part in ceremonies at the University of British Columbia which will bestow on him another honorary degree.

In B.C. he will visit Cranbrook, Kimberley, Trail, Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon and various other spots on Vancouver Island, Powell River, Prince Rupert, Smithers and Prince George.

He will visit Ontario centres on his way and coming back—Orillia, Midland and Peterborough on Aug. 28 and Hamilton on Sept. 12. He speaks in Portage la Prairie and Winnipeg in a two-day Manitoba visit on his way home.

Forestry officials said today that "quite a little" rain fell in almost every fire area overnight bringing relief to many weary forest fighters.

In most sections it was the first real rainfall in 29 days. "It helped a lot," said forestry men. "If heavy rain continues for another day we may be able to lift the closure order."

The main forest district of the province—the Vancouver area—has been closed down for more than two months with a few days exception.

The woodsmen's 45-day strike had just been settled when forestry officials drew the curtain on logging activities due to long continued spell of hot weather and consequent fire hazard.

For the last two weeks, as many as 150 fires including the huge Burns Lake blaze have been burning at once with as many as 2,000 men fighting the devastating raze of B.C. woodlands.

Two firefighters are known to have lost their lives, one at Beaton, B.C., and another in the Burns Lake area. A third man, who disappeared in the Burns Lake tragedy, is still being sought but is also feared to have burned to death.

Charge Laid In Stabbing

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—PCMP said last night that 24-year-old Stephen George Joseph will be charged with attempted murder in connection with a stabbing affray at Vanderhoof Sunday. Joseph is lodged in Prince George jail.

Twenty-year-old Sam Williams was seriously wounded in the brawl. Both men are members of the Stoney Creek Indian reserve.

Second Baby Quint Dies

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP)—Second of Mrs. Maria Albano's girl quintuplets died at Sao Paulo Maternity last night.

Five babies were born to Mrs. Albano, 38, on Tuesday night and placed in incubators. One died yesterday.

Jet Crash Lands, Pilot Safe

CARLETON PLACE, Ont.—PO R. J. Childerhose, St. Boniface, ran out of fuel today and crash-landed his F-86 Sabre jet with an 800-yard long skid in a farmer's field. He walked away from the wreckage with only a cut over one eye. The 21-year-old pilot said he ran out of fuel at 20,000 feet.

National Health Scheme Demanded

WINNIPEG — A national health insurance scheme, a contributory plan subsidized by government, was demanded today by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in convention here. It would cover medical, surgical, optical, dental and psychopathic treatment.

400,000 Miners May Strike

WASHINGTON (CP) — Government officials said today John L. Lewis has given formal notice his contracts with the coal industry will expire at the end of September. This sets up the possibility of a country-wide strike of 400,000 miners.

UN Planes Smash Communists

SEOUL (CP)—United Nations fighter-bombers today smashed Communist targets all across the Korean peninsula. United States Sabre-jets damaged two Russian-built MIG-15 jets. Allied planes bombed warehouses and Communist supply areas.

No Fines For Non-Payment Of Premiums

VANCOUVER (CP)—Health Minister Eric Martin announced Thursday the end to prosecutions for non-payment of hospital insurance premiums.

He said the government plans to replace prosecutions with salesmanship.

Mr. Martin said the Social Credit government "is not carrying a big stick" to make people join the scheme.

The Hospital Insurance Service, established by the coalition government in 1949, has operated on a compulsory basis.

The Social Credit government plans to make it a voluntary scheme, but removal of compulsory features can only be done with the assent of the Legislature.

Mr. Martin explained the government aims to make hospital services so acceptable to the public that more people will enroll under the voluntary plan than were brought into the scheme on the compulsory basis.

Last Rites Take Place At Villages

More than 20 fishing vessels yesterday set out to return to Greenville on the Naas River to accompany the body of Peter McKay, 33-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKay, who drowned in the Skeena River Saturday.

Other victims in the same accident was Stephen Moore, 19, of Canyon City.

Peter McKay is survived by his wife, who is a sister of young Moore.

Memorial services were held here for both. Service for McKay were conducted in St. Andrew's Cathedral, while Moore's services were held at Greenville Funeral Chapel. The Greenville and Aiyansh bands were in attendance.

Mr. McKay was one of Greenville's most popular citizens, highly esteemed for his public service. He was also a highly rated musician of the Greenville band and of the church choir, and one of the area's best athletes.

His father, Fred McKay, assistant manager of the Arrandale cannery on the Naas, is leader of the Greenville band. Deceased's uncle, Harry McKay, was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Reports Hint New Move By Egypt's Army

CAIRO (CP)—Gen. Mohammed Naguib paid a flying visit to the Egyptian garrison at Gaza, southern Palestine, amid unconfirmed press reports that some British troops at the Suez Canal may be moved there.

Since seizing control of Egypt last month, Naguib has been touring every unit of the Egyptian army.

Press reports suggested Gaza may be established as an alternative base for British troops in the Suez area to meet Egypt's wishes.

There has been no official British comment on this.

Princess 22, Birthday Spent Quietly

BALMORAL, Scotland—Princess Margaret was 22 yesterday—and like many another British little sister, she spent her birthday quietly with her family.

A small family birthday party was held last night in draughty Balmoral Castle but no official celebrations were planned.

Royal birthdays are regarded as strictly private affairs and little fuss is made about them in British newspapers.

LOUD, MISTER—During a rehearsal of the RCAF Band in Toronto, little Mike McVeigh used his services as a bass drummer but abandoned the idea in favor of his ear drums. He found the volume of the recorder bass horn, played by Flight Sergeant W. Boyce, of Hill, Ont., too much for his musician's temperament. The only one of its kind in the recorder bass horn is capable of great volume as can be seen by its effect on the drummer. (Fathers, please note). The RCAF Band, comprising 75 musicians selected from the Command and Tactical Air Group Bands, has been engaged as the feature concert of this year's Canadian National Exhibition and will give a series of 28 concerts, commencing August 22nd and marking the first time a Canadian band has held the CNE spotlight.

Port in Rupert Would Give City Modern Service; Now Best Possible

If Prince Rupert should get more out of their plane base large and modern would operate out of that city, but the airplane base it is the best service possible. Mayor of Vancouver, James H. Douglas, said today that the city is planning to build a new airport and advertising Pacific Air Lines, B.C. Boards of Trade delegates here that they hope to have its new Convair planes in Prince George before the end of the year. He hoped also that the city would get a land grant so that the comprehensive large and modern airport at the present site is getting the best service we can give under the circumstances.

In answer to a question from Mr. Shelford who lives in the area, Mr. Vincent said his company had no official figure on the amount of merchantable timber in the area to be flooded.

TLC Continues to Fight Against Reds in Unions

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada's biggest union body, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, will go on battling "Reds in union" ranks but balks at calling for outlawing of the Communist party in this country.

The 502,000-member TLC, at its annual convention yesterday, tranped on an attempt to have it ease up on its own tough internal policy on Reds, but drew a line between that and government action against the Labor-Progressive party, the legislative arm of the Reds in this country.

The anti-Red TLC took the stand that asking the federal government to outlaw Communist parties—or other subversive parties—might open the way to suppressions which could threaten the freedom of expression in Canada.

Winnipeg (CP)—Percy Benough, 68-year-old machinist, Thursday was elected by acclamation to his 11th term as president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Other national officers re-elected included: Prairie Vice-President Carl Berg of Edmonton; British Columbia Vice-President Birt Showler of Vancouver; and Secretary-Treasurer Gordon Cushing of Calgary and Ottawa.

Health Department Sends Aid to Polio-Stricken Kimberly

PRINCE GEORGE—Health department experts were flown to Kimberly to help fight a polio outbreak which has taken the lives of seven children. A doctor and three nurses to the mountain town in southeastern B.C. at the request of the provincial health department. The plane was Dr. A. J. Nelson of Victoria, epidemic control officer who will advise Kimberly authorities on measures to control the outbreak. Kimberly outbreak is the worst in the province. There have been 12 cases in the district, seven have died, five have been hospitalized. Two are in hospital. Four of those in hospital are under 20.

BUT WON'T OUTLAW LPP

An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and Northern and Central British Columbia.

Two Birds With One Stone ONE of the most ticklish problems to face the new government is shaping up in the Vancouver-Burrard riding where the election of a Social Credit member has run into recount complications.

To be big about it, the government could order the recount which the CCF party is doing its utmost to secure. A government with a one-seat margin in the House, however, is hardly in a position to make grand gestures, particularly when they are made in the direction of its most serious competitor.

Probably the wisest course would be to sit tight and accept whatever caustic remarks are thereby inspired. On the other hand, the government could merge this problem with another it has on its hands and, if lucky, dispose of both at once.

Its other problem is the presence in its cabinet of two un-elected members. Both will eventually have to acquire legislative seats if they are to remain, and here may be the chance to place one of them, Premier Bennett already has stated he will call a by-election.

While the government might merely reduce its representation and increase its difficulties if it allows a new election in Vancouver-Burrard with one of its unseated cabinet members as a candidate, that risk must be run sooner or later in any case. A government without a finance minister or an attorney-general in the Legislature would have problems horrible to contemplate.

In normal circumstances, the doings in Vancouver-Burrard might be classed as a tempest in a teacup. If the recount is allowed, maybe it will turn out to be just that. But right now the cup looks big and the tea looks hot.

MUST IMPROVE SERVICE THE Arrow Bus Lines in its application for an increase in fares appears to be justified in the light of the steep incline in operating costs over the past 10 years.

City Council, however, is equally justified in calling for a complete examination of books of account and a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission. Performing a public service, the bus lines must stand ready to account to the public.

Operators of the buses have had no easy task in trying to keep up a schedule within city limits, it is true, due mostly to the deplorable condition of roads in the past. But even with the improvement of roads, the public criticism of bus service has not eased. There must be a reason.

If the bus lines hopes to get its increase in fares, we believe that the company must guarantee to bring up its standard of service. If this is done, there is little doubt that it will receive a lot of public support.

Without it, increasing criticism by the public will likely be sustained from which no one gains anything.

As I See It

Elmore Philpott

Hollywood Bound PORTLAND, Oregon. — Last week, deep in the Canadian Rockies, I saw tourists stop beside the big sign which marks the spot where the mighty Columbia River rises.

Tonight my wife and I are in the great American city which marks the spot where the mighty river meets the sea; or more precisely, meets the ships which come from the ends of the earth, by sea.

We are Hollywood bound—but believe it or not—not because we want to see anybody connected with the movies. I hope to ask one real life authority what he knows on the mystery of the so-called Flying Saucers.

AS SOON as you cross the American border these days you see signs of the coming election. In a one day motor trip from Vancouver, Canada, to Vancouver, Washington, I saw more outdoor advertising for the November 4 election than I did in all Britain in the entire election of last October.

Our election advertising in Canada is crude as compared with the really high-class stuff they turn out here. From the point of view of craftsmanship it really is tops. Most of the big billboards are in two, three, or even four color jobs. The wording is terse and clear.

There is a strange aversion to reds or pinks, though, in this election. The Democrats, who are bound to be called Reds, or at least Pinks, by the Republicans, seem to be concentrating on green and yellow—or just about anything except the color that flows in the arteries of men who are still alive.

I AM certainly in no position to chide the Americans for being a nation of gababouts. But at least I can plead that I never take trips just for the sake of travelling.

After talking with quite a few Americans, and unwittingly eavesdropping on the conversations of many more, I swear by all the gods that this nation on wheels is just going for the sake of the motion.

I overheard one bedraggled and beaten looking gray haired woman complain to a total stranger that she had been dragged over three thousand miles by car, given 48 hours to enjoy their supposed destination, then hurried off again.

HERE AND NOW

By LARRY STANWOOD A Prince Rupert born son of a pioneer fisherman who turned out to be so good a basketball player that he was signed up by the Pittsburgh Pirates stood on the bridge of the 4,000-ton freighter Lucidor to say farewell to the port of his birth through a misty rain.

Dewey Soriano, 32-year-old officer, remembered another day when he waved good-bye to Prince Rupert. He was five years old then and was sailing for the south on his father's halibut schooner, the Summer. Yesterday, when the Lucidor tied up at the CNR wharf, was the first time since then that Dewey set foot on Prince Rupert ground.

Many here remember well the Soriano family. Dewey is one of four brothers. The family settled in Neah Bay on the Washington Coast. Years later, Dewey landed in Seattle. That's where his baseball career started. In 1938, however, he happened to be in Ketchikan and at the July 4 Ketchikan-Rupert baseball tournament pitched for the Alaskan team and was defeated 3-2 by the then top-performing Bill Lambie.

In 1939 Soriano was signed up by Seattle and pitched in the Pacific Coast League until 1942 when he joined the U.S. Merchant Navy.

TO THE MAJORS On his return after the war, in 1946, the Pirates bought up Soriano but after spring training an exchange deal sent him to Indianapolis where he began a good season, but hurt his arm in the middle of it and had to lay off until the next spring.

"I was pretty scared then, because I sure liked ball playing and hated the thought to have to quit.

"I saw one of the best baseball trainers in the field and he worked on me for six months until that arm came back as good as ever," says Dewey.

After two years with San Francisco, again in the PCL, Dewey got a break and in partnership with another bought up Western International League Yakima ball club and named it the Yakima Bears. Soriano half owned, managed the club and played with it for two seasons until he sold his share to the San Francisco club.

How come he's putting time in at sea? That is a story which begins in the war days, when Dewey obtained his deep-sea ticket. In order to hold his licence he must put in some sea time within each five year period.

A highlight feature of Dewey's war service occurred when by coincidence three brothers found themselves on the same ship, then requested that the fourth—Dewey—be assigned to them to fulfill the complement.

Students from Displaced Persons Camps Rank Tops in Classes Here; Learn English Quickly

TORONTO (CP)—Three students in Toronto, all from displaced persons camps in Europe and all unable to speak English three years ago, compiled fine records in upper-school examinations here.

The teen-agers, two girls and a boy, achieved marks that were all the more impressive because English is the only compulsory subject in the Ontario grade 13 curriculum.

Taisa Turkevich, 17, was born in Poland and left there four years ago, living in a displaced persons camp in Austria before coming to Canada. She could speak French, Polish, Ukrainian, Russian and German, but had to start learning English in an Edmonton public school, later studying higher grades.

NINE "FIRSTS"

After moving to Toronto, Taisa went straight into grade 13 and she gained nine firsts in the nine departmental subjects she took in June. She plans to enter a chemistry course in the University of Toronto.

Maija Svanks, 18, was born in Latvia and with her family went to Germany when the Russians moved in. After five years in Germany she came to Toronto from a displaced persons camp in Oldenburg. By learning 100 words every day for a week, Maija taught herself basic English and went on from there. "English grammar is easy," says Maija, "but you have too many words. I am buried in vocabulary." Her aim is to be a statistician and she aims at a mathematics course at University of Toronto.

The third student is George Anyas, 18, who also came from a displaced persons camp in Germany and started studying English three years ago. Like Taisa, he gained nine firsts. He would like to become an engineer.

Royal Miniatures Painted by Woman

LONDON (CP)—Princess Anne, who has just celebrated her second birthday anniversary, has been meeting a new friend this summer. She is Mrs. Stella Marks, Australian-born artist who painted a miniature of the infant Princess which entailed regular visits to Buckingham Palace to study her subject.

Princess Anne, being like any other little girl of her age, did not actually sit for her portrait. She chatted and played while Mrs. Marks watched to capture her expression on the ivory which she paints in watercolors.

Mrs. Marks painted Prince Charles in the same fashion last year, making eight visits to Clarence House before she was finished. She has also painted miniatures of Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh. An alert artist in her early 50s, Mrs. Marks began painting at the age of 10 and spent 20 years in the United States before coming to Britain.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mr. Fusty's Not Such a Rusty Player

Mr. Fusty's play is good but he steadfastly holds to bidding methods which go back to auction days. With no five card suit and strength in at least three suits, he insists on opening the bidding with one no trump. Even a singleton does not deter him.

True, many pairs would reach three no trump, probably on the following bidding:

South dealer
Neither side vulnerable

South (Mr. Dale)	North (Mr. Fusty)
S-10 8	S-A 9 5 4
H-9 5	H-A Q 7 4
D-K J 10 8 7 6	D-Q
C-A 7 4	C-K 8 6 2

The bidding:

West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 D
3 NT	All pass

Fortunately for him, Mr. Fusty's play makes a lot more sense than his bidding. He got a club opening which he won in his own hand with the king. He then led the queen of diamonds and overtook with the dummy's king when Mr. Champion played low.

How would you play from here on? Obviously, the diamond suit must be brought in if there is to be any chance for the contract. The nine spot is of major importance. If the ace of diamonds is doubleton, then the right play at trick three is a low diamond. The ace will fall and the jack and 10 will pick up the nine spot.

Mr. Fusty knew this play was against the percentages. In other words, if he led the jack of diamonds next, he could set the suit if the nine were doubleton or if the nine were held three long. Two to one, then, in favor of leading the jack.

Mr. Champion won the second diamond and fired another

Mr. Champion's last three cards were the high club and the king and one heart. He was thrown in with the club and had to lead into the ace-queen of hearts.

Yanks Stay One Up On Cleveland

NEW YORK (CP)—A rookie pitcher and a "spot" pitcher failed to deliver the goods Thursday and as a result the New York Yankees remained one game ahead of the Cleveland Indians in the American League pennant race.

Yank's Tom Gorman faced Chicago but the White Sox slugger the rookie righthander for a 6-1 victory to sweep the three-game series.

Cleveland sent Steve Gromek, its spot pitcher and number five starter against Boston but the Red Sox defeated the veteran righthander 4-1.

Yanks and Indians held back their aces for the vital two-game series that opens in the Yankee Stadium Friday. Mike Garcia is expected to pitch the opener for Cleveland against Allie Reynolds. Early Wynn is counted on to hurl the series final for Cleveland against Vic Raschi.

Eagles Kill Deer In Rocky Mountain Area

DEER LODGE, Mont., — Golden eagles have been haunting a herd of antelope in Deer Lodge Valley in the Rockies.

"One entire herd of 135 antelope is spooked," Deputy game warden Les Barton. "The animals are afraid of their own shadows."

One was seen steering her horns out of a grassy field and up a mountainside. The trees hide them from the eagle's "king of the air." Now and then man helps harassed antelope.

Warden Pearce of Deer Lodge has been in the valley with his gun recently when he saw an eagle circling in the sky.

Only the bird folded its wings and plunged to earth in a swoop. A few feet from the antelope the eagle threw gut and braked the dive, and its sharp talons into the antelope's back.

It is said he was 450 yards from the eagle when the bird struck. Despite the extreme height he took sight and fired.

Former Bush Pilot Mechanical Wizard

MONTREAL (CP)—Merlin William MacLeod, former Scotsman who once carved an aircraft propeller out of a fence post, chalked up his latest triumph when someone shouted, "Quiet, please."

MacLeod's head man at the department shop of Trans-Canadian Airlines, where he designs and builds improvements to aircraft.

The latest device took several years of work, an engine marvel known as a "super exhaust" which is supposed to cut engine noise in half.

The development which is being used on the big North Star and used on trans-Atlantic routes across-Canada routes is a high spot in Mac's career.

MacLeod started in the early days of aviation, developed in the field of bush flying and in the highly-specialized field of passenger transport.

MacLeod's racing car he built himself during his amazing surges of interest in his wife was not enough. He switched to bush flying where the fence-post propeller was carved after a faulty landing.

In one crash in the Manitoba wilds both his legs were broken and the pilot was severely injured. Despite his own injuries, MacLeod doctored and bandaged the pilot while both awaited rescue.

Things aren't quite so rugged for Mac these days, but he's busy as ever.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK.—A fellow we know says he attended a kid baseball game the other day and left in disgust after a few innings because the little beggars were spending more time beefing at the umpires and generally making themselves obnoxious than they were in playing ball.

"It's a pain," he said. "They've seen the big leaguers jawing with the ump's so much that they think it's part of the game. The managers were getting in on the act too, and the crowd was egging the kids on. I don't see how they get anybody to umpire any more."

"Why don't you," he urged, "do what you can toward telling these silly saps that the big league umpires you know are just people like anybody else; that they are sensitive, intelligent men who have a real love for the game, and that they are out there doing their best on a mighty hard job?"

The man's remarks are, of course, well taken. The umpire-baiting phase of the game is becoming extremely irksome, and though we had intended all along to stay away from kid-dad games, he supplies us with added incentive to do so. It is bad enough to watch the grown-ups.

As he says, big league umpires are as solid a group of citizens as you would want to know. They are good companions off the ball field, and when one of them decides you are on the level he is a far more interesting conversationalist than the average player. If they were not bound by the nature of their jobs to keep quiet in company, they would be better understood by the fans.

MOST UMPIRES WERE GOOD PLAYERS

Most of them are former players of some standing, and they know all the tricks employed by the managers and their athletes to make an umpire look bad and stir up the customers. They know that about nine-tenths of it is as phony as a four-dollar bill, but they are powerless to do anything about it so long as the boys keep within certain limits.

"You'll notice," one of them told us once, "that the place umpire has a snap when there is a good pitcher out there, a real big leaguer with control.

"But you get a busher out there who can't get the ball over and needs some help, he'll begin crying on every pitch to try to convince his manager and the fans he's getting a dirty deal. Next time you see a pitcher giving one of us a hard time, look up his record."

As they are only human, umpires come to detest certain players who make a practice of riding them. When they talk of these players and of managers who employ spectacularly filthy language, they sometimes become bitter. But they invariably wind up saying they love the game and couldn't quit it.

When we asked Larry Goetz of the National League staff when he found himself getting anxious for the next season to begin, he said, "On the last day of the season."

The Great Wall of China built in the 2nd century B.C. stretched more than 1,400 miles.

Mawhinney Enters Semis In U.S. Golf

SEATTLE ©—Vancouver's Bill Mawhinney shouldered his way Thursday into the semi-finals of the U.S. Amateur Golf championship.

Bull-shouldered Mawhinney, who won the Canadian amateur title in 1950, will clash today with Jack Westland of Everett, Wash., in one of the 36-hole semi-final matches.

The Canadian earned his semi-final match the hard way by defeating big Jim McHale of Manareck, N.Y., one up, in one of the closest quarter-final matches. McHale was the last surviving U.S. Walker Cup player in the tournament.

While Mawhinney was making his match, Walt McElroy, who also advanced into the semi-finals, was defeated 5 and 4 by Mengert after surviving the first five rounds of the tournament.

Remember When

John Cobb of England covered a measured mile at 368.85 MPH in his 2,000-horsepower aluminum automobile, faster than man had ever travelled on wheels before, at Bonneville, Utah, 15 years ago today. He failed to set an official world's speed record, motor trouble preventing the return run demanded by racing rules. But he established an official record of 394 MPH a few weeks later.

Divorces Increase This Year; Marriages Down Slightly

VICTORIA ©—Divorces in British Columbia have increased 17.5 per cent in the first six months this year compared with the same period last year.

A slight decline occurred in marriages, 4,591 in the first half of this year, compared with 4,658 last year.

Other statistics reported by the Department showed the birth rate in the province up, keeping well ahead of the death rate.

Canadian Television Seeks Popularity

By OHN PATERSON Canadian Press Staff Writer
Canada's $8,000,000 television youngster will make its first official bow Sept. 6 in Montreal and two days later in Toronto.

CBC network. Besides Ottawa, other stations are planned for Vancouver, Winnipeg, Windsor, Hamilton, London, Ont., and Quebec City. Halifax has also been mentioned as a possible station site.

Television Manufacturers Association of Canada. Of these 96,414 or 93 per cent are in southern Ontario. Including 41,325 or 40 per cent in the Toronto and Hamilton district. Windsor had 38,955 sets and the Niagara peninsula 17,934. In the same survey Montreal had about 1,400 sets. The others are spread across Canada.

PRIVATE RADIO CLAMORS

Private television interests are clamoring for a chance at what has been called "the most powerful engine of persuasion ever conceived."

D. Malcolm Neill of Fredericton, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said the private broadcasting industry has been prepared for a long time to provide a Canadian television service from coast to coast.

He said the government policy is "a slap in the face" to Canadians who have been forced to wait for Ottawa to give the green light necessary to enable this country to try to catch up with "other civilized countries."

Mr. Neill was commenting on a report made to parliament in July by Revenue Minister McCann. This report included a recommendation made by the Massey Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences:

"That no private television broadcasting stations be licensed until the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has available national television programs and that all private stations be required to serve as outlets for national programs."

The government has loaned $8,000,000 to the CBC for capital and initial program expenditures. The loan is at five per cent and the CBC hopes to repay it from license fees—price not yet set, but $15 has been mentioned—and from commercial sponsorship of programs.

"DISTINCTIVELY CANADIAN"

Regarding the type of programs planned, Stuart Griffiths, CBLT's program director, said in an interview:

"Under the terms of the Massey report we are in business to bring television to Canada and Canadian. U.S. networks will be sure to ensure it will be distinctly provide only a minority of our programs."

CBC shows will be available to advertisers at $1,600 an hour in Toronto and $500 in Montreal, plus talent fees in both cases. An eight-second "spot" costs respectively $120 and $37.50. Montreal will charge less because of its fewer sets.

Among private applications for one of the 12 television channels made available under a company allotment system worked out for the whole continent are: Famous Players Canadian Corporation and CKEY, both Toronto; CFCF and CKAC, Montreal; CKNW, New Westminster, B.C., and CHML, Hamilton.

Program schedules so far announced by the CBC include parts of national hockey league games; football, wrestling, boxing and other sports; variety programs; panel shows, full-length dramas, children's programs and dramas, and educational programs in association with schools, universities and social service agencies.

Adventurous Trio Meet No Spectres in Nahanni

EDMONTON (CP)—Legends of death stalking those who brave the wilderness of the far-northern Nahanni Valley may have had some foundation, but the dangers are not from supernatural forces.

That's the firm belief of R. M. (Dick) Shamp, young chemical engineer from Washington, D.C. He and two companions—writer-photographer Norman Thomas of Albuquerque, N.M., and botanist Howie Martin of Yale University—won out against the elements in a gruelling exploration of the famed valley this summer.

"If trappers and prospectors have failed to return from the valley it's because they were not as fortunate as we were," says Shamp. "There is good reason for their failure to return. It's the kind of country where one mistake can mean your life."

PICKED WILD PART

They financed the trip by a commission from the U.S. Defense Department to test a new food ration pack, and an assignment to write scientific reports on some of their findings. The trio motored from Washington to Watson Lake in the Yukon, where northern aviator C. C. F. Daiziel picked them up for the 150-mile flight to their base camp at Glacier Lake, some 180 miles upstream from the mouth of the Nahanni River. The river is in the Northwest Territories and about 700 miles northwest of Edmonton.

They started from Glacier Lake because much of the Nahanni Valley had been covered by prospectors and trappers, and they wanted to go through a region less likely to have been seen previously.

When they got going on foot, each carried a 75-pound pack with a rifle and other equipment. Champ cracked a kneecap and fractured a shoulder-blade soon after the start, but continued with the others.

A few days later one rifle was damaged on rocks beyond repair, and the two others were put out of commission by continual dampness. They saw the sun only three days.

In 25 days they walked 150 miles through tortuous country, but were only 50 miles from their starting point. With rations getting short, they decided to return to camp as fast as possible. On the way back they went out on three occasions, suffered a spill in glacier-fed waters and once were trapped for two hours in a whirlpool. They got back to base with three meat bars, one pair of shoes among the three, one sleeping bag, a camera and film. The rest of their equipment had been ruined by rain or lost in raft upsets. All had lost a lot of weight—Shamp about 40 pounds, and the others about 20 pounds each.

From the base camp they flew to Watson Lake. Shamp went to Anchorage, Alaska, for hospital treatment before coming here to tell the story.

He doesn't believe the legend about a tropical valley in the Nahanni, but says there are some hot springs around which summer growth is luxuriant. They also found some mineral deposits, but not enough to bother about.

AS I SEE IT

shame. But it too has a complete plan to end the bottlenecks such as still disgrace almost every great city north of the border. Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver are still hopelessly snarled up in their traffic systems. Even these cities down here have already shown how to end the worst of those snarls—and without going bankrupt, either.

Canada has never had any Lease Lend (or other types of handouts) from Uncle Sam. Maybe Vancouver could borrow Portland's lady Mayor to show how to end traffic road jams.

ARCTIC PIONEER
First of the great Arctic explorers was John Davis of Britain who reached West Greenland in 1587.

At the outset Montreal and Toronto will have television programs running about three hours daily, mostly in the evenings, seven days a week. Both are expected to originate one or two hours of this daily time in their own studios, the remainder being made up of films and exchange shows on kinescope recordings.

MICRO-WAVE LINKS
Toronto expects to be linked soon with Buffalo by means of micro-wave, a new form of transmitting static-free electrical signals by radio, to permit broadcast of some U.S. network shows.

Montreal's 300-foot tower on Mount Royal is expected to have a coverage radius of 80 miles from Three Rivers on the east to Cornwall, Ont., on the west. The studios are in a downtown hotel, acquired and remodelled by the CBC.

Toronto, with a 500-foot tower, will cover a radius of around 65 miles, reaching Cobourg, Kitchener, Orillia and Buffalo in the various directions. Television studios are in a new five-storey building adjoining the CBC radio centre on downtown Jarvis Street.

U.S. network programs will not be available in Montreal until a micro-wave link is built next year between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

There were 103,454 television sets in Canada in May, according to a survey by the Radio and

Montreal, with French and English-language programs, and Toronto in English only will be television production centres for what is planned eventually as a nine-station

Pigs Are Pets, Says Professor

WINNIPEG (CP)—Professor R. A. Wardie of the University of Manitoba says a hog in the house would make a useful pet.

The Zoology department chairman told a veterinary association meeting that the hog, for one thing, would dispose of "those lawn grass clippings you dump secretly at night on someone else's lot."

Prof. Wardie said that he had read that one pound of lawn clippings is equal to three pounds of meat.

"Those clippings if sensibly invested, would pay dividends in the form of chitterlings and rather," he said.

"The hog is undoubtedly intelligent and I imagine he could easily be house-trained. I see no reason why, in time, we should not have some quite desirable varieties of pigs sitting on our doorsteps."
